FOUR BOYS KILLED BY LEHIGH VALLEY TRAIN

Run Down by Express as They Were Trying to Board a Freight at South Plainfield.

ALL FROM NEWARK

One Body Unidentified and Another Boy in the Party is Reported Missing—Youngest Victim 12, Oldest 19.

Death ended a New Year's day lark of four Newark boys at South Plainfield last night. While trying to board an eastbound freight train near the Lehigh Valley station, to start the homeward half of a stolen ride, they were struck by a westbound express. Two of them, Elmer Dunn, 14 years old, and an unidentified boy, 12 years old, were killed outright; William Casey, 13 years old, and William Tell, 19 years old, died two hours later in Muhlenburg Hospital. A fifth boy is missing.

The accident happened at 6.40 o'clock, about 150 yards east of the South Plainfield station. The only eye witness located after the occurrence was fifteen-year-old John Casey, brother of William, who was with the party. His is the only story of the trip and its grewsome ending that authorities have.

The express train makes a regular stop at South Plainfield. The engineer shouted word of the accident to Station Agent Thomas Linaberry as soon as he drew abreast of the platform. Linaberry, with his son, John, Night Yardmaster Thomas Bohls and Robert Winthers, ran up the track with lanterns. It was well after nightfall.

At the side of the tracks they found John Casey bending over his brother's unconscious form. His story, told in frightened gasps, gave them a hint of the horror that had taken place, and they hurried along the tracks. Between the rails of the outside track they found Dunn and the unidentified boy stone dead, with heads crushed in. Further on they found Tell, unconscious.

The bodies were taken to the station, and a call for the ambulance was telephoned. The ambulance, with Dr. Pittis in charge, reached the scene about half-hour later. The injured boys, with John Casey, were hurried to the hospital. John was not hurt. William Casey died at 8.30 o'clock, without having regained consciousness. He had a compound fracture of the skull. Tell, who suffered mostly from shock, died fifteen minutes later. He became conscious after reaching the hospital, but lapsed again.

Station Agent Lindaberry wired news of the accident to the Lehigh offices in Newark, from there W. J. Casey, agent of the Lehigh at the Alpine street station, Newark, learned why his sons had not come home to supper. He hurried to this city, and reached the hospital just before William died. He took his other son home with him.

The story told by John Casey is to the effect that seven or eight boys left Newark on a freight train in the afternoon. The older boys, he said, induced the younger ones to go along. They rode as far as South Plainfield. They lined up alongside the main track to catch the first freight train going eastward. One pulled up abreast of them as the westbound express was sweeping toward the station. They knew nothing of the westbound express, and all their attention was fixed on getting places aboard the freight. Running along the track, intent on the freight, they remained unaware of the express until it was upon them. The train swept into the group composed of Dunn, William Casey and Tell and the 12-year-old. John Casey was clear of the track, and the other boys, it is supposed, caught the freight safely and went on.

The unidentified body was at first thought to be that of Clarence Bennett, another of the party, but late last night it was learned that the Bennett boy had returned home safe. The body awaiting identification is that of a youth 16 or 17 years old, 5 feet 2 inches in height, with a rather light complexion, freckled. He wore a Norfolk jacket, with Bamberger's trade mark, and a gray sweater.

No signs of the boy who is reported missing could be found on the scene of the accident, or anywhere in the neighborhood. The railroad had the rails and the adjacent ground searched for a considerable distance, but nothing was seen of a body, nor any sign that an injured boy had

CITY'S SEAL CHANGES HANDS AT HIGH NOON

MAYOR-ELECT FISK'S INTRODUCTION INTO OFFICE CLIMAXES RECEPTION.

At high noon yesterday Mayor Buckle went out of office and Mayor-elect Charles J. Fisk stepped in. The change was marked by a simple ceremony.

It came as a climax to the reception held jointly by the retiring and oncoming executives at the Mayor's offices. The reception began at eleven o'clock, and was attended by over 100. Several women were among the visitors. City officers and political workers, and North Plainfielders who do business on this side of the brook were liberally represented. The visitors were welcomed by handshakes from the hosts, and a rapidfire exchange of "happy New Year's" marked the passing of the hour. The men who smoked found a box of fat black cigars within easy reach.

It was at noon exactly that Mayor Buckle, taking Mr. Fisk by the hand, placed in the other the seal of the city. He made a brief speech of felicitious character and Mr. Fisk responded as briefly and felicitiously. There were about 100 guests in the room at the time, and they hastened to pour renewed congratulations on Mr. Fisk.

That was the actual close of the reception. The visitors drifted away rapidly after that, and by 12.30 the office was deserted except for the Mayor, Chief Kiely and the newspaper men. The reception was attended by all classes of citizens. The kid-glove district was represented as well as Pondville. Among the city officers there were Councilmen Daniel, Tolles and Buxton, Chief of Police Kiely and Overseer of the Poor Aleck Ayers.

CHILDREN'S HOME GETS $1,000 CHECK

MOTHER MAKES GIFT IN MEMORY OF SON; OTHER PRESENTS.

There were several special memorial gifts to the Children's Home at Christmas time which makes the work there a source of great encouragement to those in charge. A mother contributed to the endowment fund a check for $1,000 which was to have been her Christmas gift to a son who died during the year. A woman in London, England, whose mother was for many years a faithful member of the Board of Managers at the Home, sent $10 making her baby girl a sustaining member.

In memory of a sister, there was placed in the girls' dormitory a bed with its dainty furnishings. In addition to these memorial gifts, was one for $5 from a young orphan girl who, with a brother, was for many years in the Home and who wrote: "I appreciate your love and kindness to me a great deal. I think now as you have taken care of me so long I ought to do something for the Home."

The Board of Managers want to thank most cordially all the friends whose generous gifts made the Christmas tree the finest ever held. Mrs. H. C. Irons gave the beautiful tree. To Messrs. Eugene and Allen Laing thanks are due for the dainty electric lights; churches and Sunday-schools, King's Daughters and other associations, and to merchants for generous gifts of varied nature and to friends beyond count, thanks are due. To Miss Mary Hubbell and Mrs. E. J. Lee for the music. The music box given by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman was enjoyed by the visitors and the children while awaiting the lighting of the tree. Mrs. DeWitt Hubbell, Mrs. W. D. Murray, Miss Kate F. Kimball and James Everett Kimball gave valued aid to Mrs. A. N. Selter, Mrs. John Valiant and Mrs. M. E. Kimball of the Home Board in arranging the tree.

In addition to the Christmas festivities at the Home, the children enjoyed greatly a Christmas entertainment given by the Elks on Monday afternoon before Christmas at Reform Hall. Mrs. Kimball, speaking for the Board, says: "For all these kind friends we can only offer the sweet prayer of Tiny Tim "God Bless Us All."

Lecture for Benefit of Hospital.

J. Dunbar Wright, brother of Mrs. J. E. Corlies and Mrs. John B. Dumont, of this city, will give an illustrated lecture at the Casino, Saturday, January 12, for the benefit of the hospital. The affair will be under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary.

COUNCIL'S COMMITTEES

President Daniel Makes W. S. Tyler Chairman of Public Affairs Committee.

TOLLES FOR FINANCE

Gloak Goes from Street to Alms Committee, Ginna Succeeding Him—Hibbard Fire Chairman.

The Common Council for 1907 convened last night and organized by electing Leslie M. Daniel President. The retiring president, R. I. Tolles, nominating Mr. Daniel, after City Clerk J. T. MacMurray called the meeting to order, and the motion was seconded by Councilman Tyler and Montgomery. Councilmen Ginna and Tolles escorted the new president to the chair, after which he thanked the members for the honor conferred.

At the suggestion of Mr. Tyler a short recess was taken to confer about the adoption of rules and committees, and upon returning to the regular order of business, Jacob C. Dunham was re-elected janitor at a salary of $35 a month, it being understood that this amount covers work done for the district court. His salary heretofore has been $25 a month, but he has been doing work in the district court for several months for nothing.

Mr. Tyler's motion that the rules of order for 1906 be the rules for 1907 and he declared his intention of presenting at the next meeting of the Common Council a motion that the rules be adopted as the by-laws.

President Daniel in announcing his committees for the year said that he had given the matter a great deal of careful attention and had made the best arrangement possible according to his opinion. He had not attempted to favor any one member or set of members, but had tried to select the members for each committee with a view to securing the best work for the city. He referred especially to the finance committee, stating that he had selected the chairmen of the most important committees for its membership. He added that it had been customary to give the older members preference, not always on the merits, but because of their experience. This year there are no new members and Mr. Daniel said that some of the older members would be obliged to take positions on some of the light committees. The committees follow:

Finance—R. I. Tolles, chairman; H. D. Hibbard, D. F. Ginna, F. DeW. Randolph, Herbert Buxton.

Fire and Buildings—Mr. Hibbard, Tolles, C. C. Randolph, Herbert Buxton.

Streets—D. F. Ginna, chairman; F. L. Montgomery, W. L. Gloak, W. S. Tyler and Herbert Buxton.

Lights and Trees—F. L. Montgomery, chairman; H. D. Hibbard, W. S. Tyler.

Alms—W. L. Gloak, chairman; C. C. Randolph, F. L. Montgomery.

Public Affairs—W. S. Tyler, chairman; G. P. Mellick, R. I. Tolles, D. F. Ginna, F. DeW. Randolph.

License—Herbert Buxton, chairman; W. L. Goak, D. F. Ginna.

Auditing—C. C. Randolph, chairman; W. S. Tyler, H. D. Hibbard.

Police—F. DeW. Randolph, chairman; W. L. Gloak, G. P. Mellick.

Mr. Tolles then offered a resolution appointing George B. Wean, stenographer and copist for the coming year at a salary of $500, an increase of $100 over that of last year. While Mr. Tyler did not object to the increase, he thought the matter should be considered first by the finance committee. He made a motion accordingly, but it was lost, Councilmen Buxton, Ginna, Gloak, Montgomery, F. Randolph and Tolles voting against the motion and Councilmen Daniel, Hibbard and Tyler for it. The resolution offered by Mr. Tolles was then carried by a unanimous vote.

SPELL OF POET-SCOUT.

Cast by Capt. Jack Crawford Over Y. M. C. A. Audience.

Capt. Jack Crawford, the poet-scout, entertained a large audience at the Y. M. C. A. last night. He lectured for an hour and a half, and the speeding of the time made it seem like ten minutes.

Capt. Crawford appeared in his hunting suit, and he made an impression to begin with. He told stories and read his own poems; and stories and poems were good. He turned the tears and the laugh valves on and off at will.

Before leaving town this morning Capt. Crawford gave General Secretary Robbie a number of autograph copies of his poem "A Yuletide Bouquet."

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough, was out for a walk yesterday, for the first time since his recent severe illness.

CHARITY BALL NETS $2,000 FOR HOSPITAL

The Theatre and the Casino Both Thronged by Record-Breaking Crowds on New Year's Eve.

MISS IRWIN CAPITAL

In "Mrs. Wilson-Andrews" Her Humor is Immense—Brilliant Scene at the Ball Following the Show.

Aside from the fact that it proved to be one of the most brilliant functions of the kind ever conducted in the city, the annual Charity Ball Monday night was a financial success in the fullest sense of the term. The net proceeds will be $2,000, an amount almost double the profits last season. Even Mayor Fisk was surprised at the splendid result and he was so elated that he could not resist informing the patrons at the theatre performance of the fact in the early part of the evening. The amount will be placed at the disposal of Muhlenberg Hospital's Board of Governors.

The plan of giving purchasers of tickets an entertainment in the form of a seat to witness May Irwin and her company in "Mrs. Wilson-Andrews" was a new feature of the ball and it had much to do with the subsequent success. The New Plainfield theatre held the most select audience that has yet assembled there and every member was well pleased with the jolly comedienne and her production. Her humor was contagious and the handsomely gowned women and their escorts left for the Casino in a happy frame of mind after the performance, ready to round out the old year and welcome the new amid terpischorean delights.

The general committee had been exhaustive in its efforts to make the ball itself eclipse all previous efforts and there was something new at every turn. The Casino was a marvel of decorative effect and when the dance was in full swing the sight was a never-to-be-forgotten one. Austin's full orchestra, of New York, was on the stage, almost hid from sight by a mass of palms, plants, and flowers; colored electric lights gleamed from the girders, streamers with the hospital emblem were plentiful and evergreen and holly lent a holiday atmosphere. The gowns worn were beautiful and the conventional evening dress of the men served but to form a background for their showiness. The floor was supervised by Hartley Mellick, Roy Cox, Lawrence Tweedy, Harvey Fisk, J. Whitney Baker and Morris Dumont and their efforts greatly aided the dancers.

The fun reached a climax as the old year died out and the new one came. It was greeted with cheers by the merrymakers that were redoubled when several surprises arranged by the decorating committee were brought into play. Above the stage were the figures 1906 in red electric globes and these suddenly faded away to be succeeded by 1907. At the same time strings attached to bags of confetti placed high above the heads of the throng were released and everything below was deluged with it. As the tiny "flakes" whirled down, vari-colored lights were thrown about and the effect closely resembled a snow storm.

Supper was served by a large corps of waiters shortly after midnight and as the diners were gathered about the tables a quartette of colored instrumentalists sang and played for the delectation. The decorations in the supper room were almost as elaborate as those in the Casino proper and evoked exclamations of pleasure. Evergreen was plentiful and it was relieved by holly and strings of California peppers that were alike novel and effective. It was until 3 o'clock before the majority of the dancers thought of leaving for home and it was an hour later when the ball was officially declared over.

The women who acted as patronesses during the evening were as follows:

Mrs. L. E. Waring, Mrs. George H. Goddard, Mrs. William T. Kaufman, Mrs. William H. Murray, Mrs. H. W. Beebe, Mrs. William E. Lowe, Mrs. F. deL. Hyde, Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Mrs. A. D. Shepard, Mrs. William Palmer Smith, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Mrs. J. B. Dumont, Mrs. C. J. Fisk, Mrs. William C. Kinney, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mrs. F. W.

FATHER SHOOTS HIS SON

Accidental Discharge of Revolver Sends Bullet Into Body of Harvey Benner.

CONDITION PRECARIOUS

Missile Passed Through a Door Panel Before Striking the Boy in the Back.

Pierced through the body by a bullet from a .38 calibre revolver in the hands of his father, Harvey Benner, the fourteen-years-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Benner, of Walnut street, the borough, is at his home today in a precarious condition. The leaden missile entered his back after crashing through a door panel, passed through the right lung and came out at the breast. Medical attention was secured in a short time and every precaution has been taken to prevent after-results but the outcome is yet in doubt. It will be fully two weeks before it is known positively how he will fare.

The Benner house is located in the Prideville section of the borough and a circumstance that occurred a few days ago, induced the husband and father to secure a revolver for the protection of his wife while he was away. A stranger called at the door and insisted that Benner owed him some money. When Mrs. Benner informed her husband of the fact, he did not recognize the man from the description and for fear that the fellow might return with some evil intent he bought the weapon.

He undertook to show Mrs. Benner how to use it, yesterday afternoon, and after loading the chambers, started to place it in a closet. As he turned, the revolver was discharged in some way and the bullet sped in a straight line toward the kitchen door. The boy was sitting on the top step of the porch and with speed apparently undiminished by the wooden obstruction, the missile entered his body. The first the father knew that his son had been shot was when the little boy gave a sharp cry and rushing out, they found him lying on the ground.

Harry Kesselring, a neighbor living on Harrison street, was just starting on a drive when the accident occurred and being informed of the fact he drove at top speed for Dr. Buchanan. They physician was secured and within a very short time he had done everything possible to prevent blood poisoning and effects that generally follow a wound of this nature. The boy was resting easily this morning.

WHERE IS MUHLENBERG'S HOUSE PHYSICIAN?

Interne Left Suddenly Two Weeks Ago—No One on Duty Now.

Dr. Hempstead, who succeeded Dr. Anthony, as house physician at Muhlenberg Hospital, is not at the institution and there is considerable mystery as to his departure. Inquiry at the hospital and among the several physicians fails to disclose the reason. All that can be learned is that Dr. Hempstead left the hospital suddenly and without giving any notice. This occurred a couple of weeks ago. Since that time no one has been acting as house physician.

The matter will probably be considered at the next meeting of the Board of Governors, when steps may be taken to appoint a physician to the vacant position. Dr. Hempstead was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and came here well recommended. His home was in Paterson.

KICK AT P. S. C.

Mr. Weed Files a Protest With Council Over Trolley Service.

Frank W. Weed, of West Sixth street, presented a strong protest to the Common Council last night against what he called the abominable service given by the Public Service Corporation on the Fourth street trolley line. He described the cars used on that line as being small, accommodating twenty-two passengers, and said that when he complained to Col. Hine about the matter, was informed that the cars had been freshly painted and were in good condition.

Mr. Weed added that at the Jersey City headquarters of the Public Service Corporation Plainfield was considered an easy mark, that the city would stand for anything, and he was of the opinion that this is true. Mr. Weed asked the Common Council to take the matter up and endeavor to secure better service. The petition was referred to the proper committee.

FISK'S MESSAGE FORECASTS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Wants Action on Municipal Water Supply Question and on Consolidation Idea.

FOR PERMANENT PAVE

Increase Police Force, City Hall, New School Houses, Another Fire House Among the Many Recommendations.

The first annual message of Mayor Charles J. Fisk, as read before the Common Council last night, follows:

To the Honorable Common Council, City of Plainfield.

Gentlemen:—The present administration has within its power to make the city of Plainfield known as the most progressive, enterprising, best governed city in the State of New Jersey.

The charter provides that the government shall be vested in a Mayor and Common Council, consisting of eleven members, and all that is required is that this body should conduct the affairs in a common sense, honest, thorough business like manner, wholly in the interests of the entire inhabitants, permitting no personal, political, individual or corporate influence to swerve them from their purpose of acting on all matters that are brought before them, solely in the interests and for the benefit of the community in which they live and have been elected by the people to represent.

The City of Plainfield has no Board of Police Commissioners, Board of Fire Commissioners, Board of Public Works, Board of Water Commissioners, Excise Board, Board of Finance, Estimate and Appropriation, as some of the larger cites, but the whole government is vested in the Common Council. For convenience in conducting the business of the city it is the regular custom for the Common Council under rules adopted by the members, to be divided into various committees appointed by the president, the duties of which are to conduct and direct the business and working of the respective departments, subject, however, to the Council as a whole. These committees and the heads of the various deparements have all submitted their annual reports of what has been done under their direction during the past year, the present condition of affairs in their respective departments, and recommendations for such improvements and work that should be taken up and carried out by your present body. These reports all speak for themselves and should be carefully read and considered by the proper committees.

The city of Plainfield is now entering upon the thirty-ninth year of its existence as an incorporated city. It has a population of nearly 20,000 inhabitants. An assessed valuation for the purpose of taxation of $20,900,000. The city has built and owns for school purposes seven school buildings, which, including furnishing, are valued at over $400,000; fire houses and equipments, $54,000; police alarm systems, $8,000; expenditure on permanent improvement of streets during last ten years, $300,000; cost of installing sewers and sewerage, disposal plant, $310,000; various properties bought for taxes, $7,200; total, $1,083,200. Against which we have a bonded indebtedness: Sewer bonds, $125,000; sewer notes to be replaced by bonds, $78,000; High School bonds, $135,000; other school bonds, $22,000; Lincoln School mortgage, $17,000; crematory bonds, $700; total, $378,700.

I call your attention to these figures a s I shall refer to them more particularly later on. In order to familiarize myself with the present condition and needs of each separate department of the city, I am making a personal inspection and investigation, and as soon as your new committees are organized and ready, I shall take up with them in detail the requirements of their respective departments. At this time I shall confine myself to the more important questions of public interest. Taking them up under proper heads.

Police.

The Police Department of the city is in good condition. From a careful investigation made by me within the past few weeks, I am of the opinion that for so small a force the officers and men of the department are doing all that can be expected of them.

I would urge that your Honorable Body, by resolution, provide for a greater number of regular patrolmen than the rules of the department now allow. Under present conditions, the services of a number of special policemen are required, and while these specials are practically all probationers, who, in case of proven efficiency, are designed to become regular members of the force, the fact still remains that they are but specials, and that there is no place for them among the regulars until the rules of the department are so amended as to provide for their admission. This condition is fraught with more serious possibilities than at first sight may appear. Special policemen are generally expected to do occasional duty only, and at the rate of twenty-five cents an hour during the time of actual service. Our special policemen, so far as hours of service and recompense are concerned, and in fact, in everything but appointment and confirmation, are regular policemen, and in case of any possible dispute between the city and

OLDEST ASSESSOR RESIGNS POSITION

JOSEPH A. HUBBARD NOTIFIES MAYOR THAT HE DESIRES TO QUIT.

Joseph A. Hubbard, the oldest assessor in the city, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Charles J. Fisk, but as yet no action has been taken regarding it. The resignation was presented to Mr. Fisk a few days before he took office, succeeding former Mayor J. F. Buckle, but until he has an opportunity to fully consider it and confer with Mr. Hubbard he prefers to withhold the resignation.

A few days ago it was rumored that Assessor Hubbard had resigned, but the report was denied at the time. Just what Mr. Hubbard's reasons for retiring are cannot be ascertained at present. His work has always given general satisfaction and because of his long service he was especially especially valuable to the Board of Assessors in determining values.

Mr. Hubbard served the city for several years as its only assessor, but a few years ago a Board of Assessors was created and Mr. Hubbard continued on this board representing the Third Ward.

SUSPENDED SENTENCES IN THE POLICE COURT.

Day After New Year's and Judge Runyon is Lenient With Offenders.

There was a quiet session of the city court this morning, considering that it followed a holiday.

Charles Williams, who has been successful in keeping out of the hands of the police since last April, had too much New Year's according to his testimony and Patrolman Charles Flynn was obliged to take him in. After Judge Runyon counseled Williams to try and be decent and stay sober as long as possible, he said that he would suspend sentence.

Roundsman John Flynn appeared against Lewis Coriell and Conrad Schroppe, two young lads, who were accused of being generally bad. According to the roundsman's statement the boys stay up all night and are leaders of a gang that molest fruit stand venders. Last night, when a drunken man was thrown out of a saloon near Park and North avenues, the boys shouted "police," "murder" and "here comes the patrol wagon." They were arrested late. Judge Runyon gave the lads a severe lecture and lots of good advice, after which he released them.

John Duffy, employed by George O. Stevens, the coal dealer, also started the New Year by getting full and using profane language about the Watchung avenue trolley stand. Doorman O'Gorman arrested Duffy at the request of Chief Kiely. He, too, was given a lecture, adding that if his offense had been committed on any other day but New Year's he would have soaked him. He made a New Year's present by suspending sentence.

TROLLEY CAR BLAZE.

Unable to Cope With It, Crew Summoned the Fire Department.

Part of the wood work in one of the main line trolley cars caught fire from the stove pipe as it was standing at the Watchung avenue terminus at 6.30 this morning. The crew were unable to put it out and an alarm was turned in from box 21, bringing apparatus to take care of all the S. P. C.'s local rolling stock. It only needed one extinguisher, however, to place the car out of danger.

Box 42 was pulled at 6 o'clock New Year's eve for a supposed fire in the home of Alfred P. Drew, located on the top of the Manning building on West Front street. It turned out to be "no cause for action" as the supposed fire was only the illumination and smoke caused by taking a flashlight photograph. It was seen by people in the street who thought it was a sure enough big blaze.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards Entertain.

Among the pleasant New Year Day gatherings was the family dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place. There were eight members of the family present, Mrs. Rowland Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Aubery Weightman, of Philadelphia; Dr. Rowland Cox, Jr., Archibald Cox, Roy Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Edwards.

MAYOR FISK'S MESSAGE

such officers. I have grave doubt as to whether the courts would allow the city to oust these men aside for any cause except inefficiency or dereliction of duty, proven after due trial. My idea is to make a probationeer's term of service as short as is compatible with the maintenance of a high standard, and at the end of such term to appoint and confirm such special policeman as a regular. And at the beginning of his probationary term, it would seem to me desirable that he should enter into a contract, releasing the city from all liability in case his eventual appointment as a regular should not be deemed advisable or expedient.

The more familiar a policeman becomes with the geography, the buildings and the residents of his beat, the more efficient services can he do, and I would therefore ask your Honorable Body to take under advisement the feasibility of establishing rules which will result in assigning patrolmen permanently to the various beats, instead of shifting them frequently from one district to another as is now the practice.

That our city has been comparatively free from crime and disorder is cause for much congratulation, but this happy condition of affairs should by no means lull us into the false sense of security or render us unmindful of the duty imposed on us to make our police department as able and efficient as our ingenuity and means will allow.

I recommend that a resolution be passed authorizing the increase of regular officers by the appointment of nine additional patrolmen. As we have for sometime been employing five special officers this will be an increase of four men which are very much needed. I recommend that the rules be amended creating three classes of special men.

Class A. Janitors of schools, banks and other public buildings, Sextons of churches, etc.

Class B. Men who are assigned from time to time for temporary or special duty at twenty-five cents per hour.

Class C. Men employed under contract for regular duty, as suggested previously, at a salary of $2.00 per day during the probationary period.

I also recommend a mounted policeman for the business section of the city during the day. One mounted man can do more efficient work in regulating traffic, preventing reckless driving, overspeeding of automobiles, etc., than several men on foot or with bicycles.

I recommend that the Police Board do all they can to encourage the installing of the Gamewell Auxiliary police boxes in residences, particularly in the outlying districts. With one of these call boxes in the house communicating directly with the police station, no better protection could be provided.

Fire and Buildings.

As soon as practical, a fire house should be erected and apparatus installed in the eastern end of our city. This section is rapidly growing, is entitled and should have better protection.

The West Second street fire house is in bad condition, and should be remodelled as recommended by the Chief of the Fire Deparement in his report.

The Building Ordinance needs some amendment, but this matter should be handled with great care and given serious consideration. Before adopting any regulations in regard to cement blocks and reinforced concrete the city should have the very best expert advice that can be obtained on the subject.

Streets.

Several important matters in regard to streets should be taken up and have your early consideration.

First—Providing a more lasting and permanent pavement for the business section. The following streets should be so paved:

The cost of this improvement should be about $40,000 and could be provided for by an issue of street improvement bonds running over a term of years. On all improved streets sidewalks should be ordered laid and curb set. West Fourth street should be graded and macadamized from Monroe avenue to city line. Darrow avenue should be macadamized from Fourth street to Seventh street. This is particularly important as the fire house is located at the head of this street. Sidewalks should also be laid on this avenue and Essex street as soon as the new school building at the corner of Essex street and Darrow avenue is completed.

Sewers.

The sewer system should be extended so as to cover all of the built up section.

These matters and all matters in regard to improvement of streets and sewer extentions should be taken up and decided upon at once, and no ordinance for this character of work should be introduced later than your March meeting, as the work should be begun early in the year and completed not later than the month of October.

Lights and Trees.

I would recommend that the committee having charge of the lights and trees take up the matter of street lamps with the Public Service Corporation and see what can be done to improve the quality of the lights, also if there is any better or more modern system of lighting our streets; and report fully on the subject. One thing I would suggest would be to repaint or enamel the reflectors and to replace all partly burnt out lamps with new lamps.

Trees.

One of the principal attractions in the city are the trees, and more care and attention should be given to looking after them. I am very much inclined to the opinion that it would be for the best interests to appoint a tree commission as provided by the law of the State, and which plan has been adopted in several cities with very good results. However, as this is an important matter before making a definite recommendation I should like to have a consultation with your committee.

Public Affairs.

There is a committee of your Honorable Body known as the Public Affairs Committee. The province of this committee, I presume, is to take up and consider all matters of public interest brought to the attention of the Common Council that do not properly come under the supervision of any of the various departments.

While the Mayor and Common Council are not elected to look after anyone's personal grievences, while they are not in the business of supplying public utilities, I feel it is our duty to look up, investigate and correct any public matter that effects the citizens of this city as a whole. The city has granted in the past valuable franchises to the various public utility corporations: gas, electric light, electric railroads, telephones, etc. It is our duty to see that all these various corporations live up to their contracts and the citizens and tax payers receive from them what they have agreed to deliver both in quality and in services at fair and equitable rates. While we are not in the business of supplying ice, coal, lumber or any other necessity of this kind, while we have no right to interfere with any one's legitimate business, if we find that combinations are being made against the interests of our people, it is our business to investigate the matter and if these combinations are contrary to law to bring the matter to the attention of the proper authorities and have it corrected.

Let the people know the men they have elected to conduct the affairs of this city, stand ready to protect their interest and secure for them their just rights in all public matters as far as the powers conferred upon them will allow, and we will have no need for any protective associations.

City Hall.

The time has now arrived when the city of Plainfield should have a Public Building of its own. A proper lot should be secured and a City Hall built that will accommodate all city officers, court rooms, city jail, police station and Council room. This matter grows more and more important each and every year. Your Public Affairs Committee could not undertake any matter that in the end would prove to be a more lasting benefit to our city.

Licenses.

The ordinance in regard to saloon and hotel licenses should be carefully examined to see that it agrees in all important parts with the State law, 1906.

I would recommend you make public that it is not the policy of this administration to increase the number of saloons, or amend in any way the present districting ordinance.

In regard to hack and peddler licenses I recommend Section 1 of the ordinance be amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. That the Mayor of the said city is hereby authorized to grant licenses under his hand and the seal of the city to so many and to such persons as he shall think proper, of good moral character, and otherwise qualified according to the provisions of this ardinance; and to incorporated companies, to carry on," &c., concluding as in the original ordinance.

My reason for this is that as the ardinance now reads all these licenses must be granted by the Common Council, and in many cases this holds up an applicant for several weeks, or as has been the practice during the last few years he is allowed to work without a license contrary to the ordinance until the Council meets.

Another amendment should be made in regard to theatre licenses. The present ordinance only provides for a fee of $50.00 a year and after once issued gives the city no authority as to the class of plays to be given.

Consolidation.

One of the problems before us, and perhaps one of the most important ones, is the proposed consolidation of the city of Plainfield with the Borough of North Plainfield. This subject is one which has not been deeply studied by our citizens, yet we are all conscious of the fact that it is before us and that from time to time movements are made in the direction of consolidation. Furthermore we cannot lose sight of the fact that in considering many public questions the problem of consolidation presents itself as one which if solved might enable us to put into operation important policies concerning the welfare of this community.

In view of geographical conditions it seems plain that it is only a question of time when these two places must be joined. The growth of the borough follows the natural growth of the city. Nothing but a small brook, which is the dividing county line, intervenes between the two, and this brook runs on a line approximately parallel with Front street and the railroad. The lots on the westerly side of Front street about in the dividing line, and as the borough is limited in its growth in a westerly direction by the Watchung mountains it naturally follows the line of Front street, which means that instead of growing apart we are constantly growing closer together.

No movement should be made to unite these two municipalities except with the consent of the majority of the people in both places. During the past ten years various efforts have been made to change the county line or to effect consolidation. A society has taken the matter up. About four years ago the question of annexation or change of the county line was submitted to the people of the borough and defeated. Since then the movement seems to have taken the form of consolidation; that is, the union of the two local governments without disturbing the county line. During the past year, the City Council and the Borough Council have appointed committees which have recommended to the governing bodies the appointment of a commission to consider this subject and to formulate a plan of consolidation. It is my purpose, provided the Mayor of the Borough is in accord, to suggest a conference on this subject, to be held at the call of the two Mayors, at which conference various citizens might be asked to be present and discuss the question in all its bearings. Such a discussion could not result otherwise than in adding to our knowledge of this subject and it is quite likely to result in a co-operative effort on the part of the city and borough to put before the people in a special election a reasonable plan of consolidation.

If it is to the interests of the people of Plainfield to have municipal ownership of the water supply it is plain that the people of the Borough would derive equal benefits and should be equally interested. Furthermore, as there are about one-third as many people in the borough as in the city a union of the two might make it possible to install a system of water works on lines more favorable to the tax payers and easier of accomplishment than were the city to take up the question alone.

A sewerage system for the borough is now under consideration and some negotiations have passed between the city and borough on this subject. Obviously it would not do for us to grant to any other town or people the right to use our sewer property except with a qualifying clause that would warrant us in annulling the contract provided it should at any time be found necessary or advantageous to do so in order to provide for the disposal of our own sewage matter. The disposal property, so far as we can see at present, is large enough for both city and borough, but we cannot foresee the future. Were the city and borough joined it would be an easy matter to provide at an early date for the disposal of the borough sewage, and if later on its might be found desirable or necessary to get more room in the sewer beds the co-operation of the Greater City might warrant the abandonment of the present site and the construction of a main leading to a more distant locality.

With consolidation the excise question would be simplified because all saloon licenses would be subject to the control of one local governing body and conditions on both sides of the brook would then be the same. Equally beneficial to the welfare of the community would be a single public school system, especially in the High School grades. Police regulations would be improved and the important subject of public health would obviously be in better hands if there were one health board subject to one code of rules and with authority to act for the entire community.

Taxes and Assessments.

The interests of the property owners and tax payers of our city demand that this matter should be fully investigated. A great step in advance has been made in the State of New Jersey by the enactment of the tax laws of 1906, and, as times goes on, the benefits to be derived will become more and more apparent to the tax payer.

The County Board of Taxes in Union county has already made a name as one of the best in the State. This board, however, is not an initiative body. They act after the assessments are made and the assessors turn over their books, and then do their best to rectify errors, and equalize the assessments in all cases called to their attention. Each municipality elects or appoints its own assessors. In Plainfield the members of the Board of Assessors are appointed by the Mayor with the consent and approval of the Common Council, once in three years. The term of office of the members of the present board in Plainfield will expire January 1, 1908.

There has been a great deal of criticism in regard to the inequality of the assessment in certain parts of our city. This may be just or unjust. A number of appeals were made to the county board. In some cases the assessments were lowered, and in some cases raised. As the Mayor and Common Council are responsible for the appointment of the assessors, I consider it our duty to the tax payers to know for a certainty that they are performing their duties fairly and justly to all, and assist the authorities as far as possible in determining this fact. Property must be assessed not only at its true value, but equally.

I recommend and request your Honorable Body to appoint a committee from your members to assist me in making a full investigation into this very important matter, and determine for ourselves that our appointees are doing their full duty in the interest of the tax payers in our city.

Water.

The most important question to be considered and fully investigated is the municipal ownership of the city water supply.

Plainfield is now furnished with water for fire and domestic purposes by the Plainfield Water Supply Co. under a contract which has several years yet to run. It is thought by many of our citizens that a city with the population of Plainfield (nearly 20,000 and growing), should own and control its own and control its own water supply.

I have agreed with the voters and all the inhabitants that this matter will be fully and thoroughly investigated and the report of the results of such investigated made public so that every one will have full and complete information on the subject; then that the proper action will be taken to have the matter brought before the voters at an election held for that purpose and let the people decide the question for themselves.

An exhaustive and thorough investigation of such an important question as this will take several months, and will call for a great deal of hard work by the committee undertaking it. There will be financial questions, legal questions, engineering problems and questions of policy to be worked out and decided and put into a concise and definite shape.

I propose with your approval and consent to form a special committee for this purpose to be known as the Water Investigation Committee. The committee to consist of three members of the Common Council, eight citizens of Plainfield to be selected by the Mayor, also that the Mayor of the Borough of North Plainfield and two other citizens from the Borough be invited to act with us. The above with the Mayor of Plainfield ex-officio will make a committee of fifteen. The expenses of the investigation cannot be fully estimated up at present, but I request and recommend you pass a resolution, setting aside out of any unappropriated funds an amount not to exceed $2,500, to be used to defray the expenses, also to authorize this committee to secure such expert advisors as in their judgment may be required. I also request your honorable body to appoint by resolution three members from the Common Council to act on the committee.

My reason for inviting a representation from the Borough of North Plainfield, is that I feel on all important matters, and especially the question of water supply, we should act together as one community and protect each other's interest.

Health.

I recommend the members of Common Council and all citizens interested in the welfare of the city to carefully examine the annual report of the Health Office. This report goes fully into details in regard to the work of the Board of Health for the year.

We are to be congratulated that in this department the city has the services of a Health Officer and Inspector whose sole interest is to work for the benefit and welfare of the city. The report shows that the city is now and has been during the past year remarkably free from all communicable disease. Our

$250,000 Worth of Dependable Furniture—Every Piece of it at Lowered Prices

The Furniture Sale which we conduct in January differs in, at least, two important essentials from almost any Furniture Sale we know of.

FIRST—It embraces only the regular standard stocks of the store, not being founded on a sale of furniture manufactured for special selling purposes, and because of that fact made of improperly seasoned woods and hurriedly thrown together and covered with varnishes that will not stand any sort of usage.

SECOND—Not only are some pieces sold at 25 to 40 per cent. under usual cost, but every piece of furniture on the floor, excepting the very few things restricted by the makers, is reduced in price materially for this January Sale.

THE PRICE TICKETS, bearing the regular prices, remain on every piece with the special price ticket along side of it, so that you can accurately figure the ACTUAL SAVINGS which this January Sale brings you.

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure, I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of nefarious disease-breeding germs must be correct, judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids.' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered, for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Plainfield, N. J., January 2, 1907.

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE.

If Mayor Fisk's administration accomplishes one-half what he has planned according to the able message delivered to the Common Council last night, the aim of the newly-installed executive will be reached for then will Plainfield truly be "the most progressive, enterprising and best governed city in the State." Not that we doubt that it is not now one of the best managed and most up-to-date municipalities to be found do we say this, but there is always room for improvement.

Every letter of his admirable message spells business; such is the keynote of the whole document. There is no waste of words; no resort to generalities and high-sounding phrases. Taking up one important subject after another, he speaks plainly and thoroughly in a most concise, interesting and business-like way. He explains present conditions and show exactly what is needed in the line of improvement. Furthermore he tells what such improvement would cost approximately and how it could best be brought about. While general approval, we believe, will be given the entire message, particular satisfaction will come for his attitude on such important questions as consolidation, municipal ownership of the water supply, sewerage disposal extension, garbage collection, better school accomodations, permanent pavements and increase in school teachers' salaries.

For the convenience of many citizens who will not find time to carefully peruse the message, as published in these columns today, we present it in a nutshell.

Here are the striking features and principal recommendations:

Proper issue of bonds to carry out all needed improvements.

That the Common Council make no purchases nor award any contracts where the amount is over $25 except where three bids are made.

For the police department, the appointment of nine patrolmen, this number to include five now doing duty as specials, a mounted policeman for the business section of the city and private police alarms in residences in the outlying districts, as well as the division of special policemen into three classes.

A fire house for the Netherwood section and repairs are urged for the West Second street house.

Some amendments to the building ordinance suggested.

Permanent pavements for the business section within a defined territory at a cost of approximately $40,000, by issuing bonds. Sidewalks and curbs for all improved streets.

The extension of the sewer system to cover all built up sections.

An improvement in the quality of street lights as now furnished by the P. S. C.

Suggestion of desirability of a tree commission.

A city hall to be built and the purchase of a proper site for it.

Not to increase the number of liquor licenses and not to tamper with the saloon zone ordinance. The right to the mayor to grant peddlers' licenses.

Increase in theatre license fee and power in the mayor to act in regard to class of productions there.

Purpose to call a conference, acting with the Mayor of North Plainfield for a discussion of the subject of consolidation of the two municipalities at which all citizens are to be heard. No action on merger without consent of the people of the two places.

Suggestion that North Plainfield and Plainfield might be able to bring about municipal ownership of the water supply to more advantage than by city acting independently.

If city and borough should be merged, present sewage disposal plant might be abandoned and a more distant location selected.

Request for a committee of Councilmen to co-operate with mayor in an investigation of tax assessments to the end that they be made uniform and equitable.

Intention for a committee of fifteen to investigate the feasibility of joint public ownership of the water supply. The committee to consist of Mayor, three Councilmen and eight other citizens of Plainfield and the Mayor and two other citizens of North Plainfield. Asks city for an appropriation of $2,500 for purpose and also asks Counsel's spresident to appoint his three members. Referendum on both sides of "the brook" on question after investigation is completed.

An investigation by Common Council and Health Board as to solution of the garbage collection nuisance.

That the Board of Education dispose of the Washington School and that a more modern structure be erected on Darrow avenue. Another school building near Clinton avenue.

That $10,000 to be received from the State for school purposes be used to increase the teachers' salaries. The sum will permit a fifteen per cent raise.

That all bills against the city be certified to the Mayor for approval before being paid.

Notice given that appointments will be made solely on merits, and no political "pulls" to cut any figure.

At any early date, some of the more important subjects discussed by Mr. Fisk will be taken up, but we now invite our readers to express their opinions on any part of the message. Communications of any reasonable length signed by the author will be published as soon as received.

death rate is comparatively very low.

If any citizen has a complaint or knows of any nuisance or anything that he or she considers a detriment to health, I suggest that they communicate with the Health Officer and I assure you that the matter will receive prompt and full investigation. The most important matter in this connection and one that must receive prompt attention from your Honorable Body is the collection and disposal of garbage and ashes. I particularly request and urge the Common Council to take up this matter in serious earnestness and through your proper committee in connection with the Board of Health devise some system that will at once remedy and correct this not only great and disagreeable nuisance, but the greatest menace to the health of our inhabitants in the city at this time.

Schools.

Our system of public schools is a great credit to our city and one we may well be proud of. There is no one institution that does more to build up a city and attract new residents than a good system of education.

Plainfield is known as School District No. 1, being the first to take up this very important matter in the State. The superintendent's report shows:

Enrollments	3,025
Average membership	2,438
Average attendance	2,283
Number of teachers	80

The pupils range from four years of age to nineteen years, and are distributed in eight school buildings:

High School—Ninth street, Arlington avenue.

Stillman School—Fifth street, Arlington avenue.

Whittier School—Fifth avenue, Madison avenue.

Franklin School—Fourth street, Arlington avenue.

Washington School—Fifth street and Liberty.

Irving School—Fourth street, Monroe avenue.

Bryant School—Sixth street, near Richmond.

Lincoln School—Secand and Berckman streets.

Supt. Maxson in his report to the Board of Education says, "While we have been directing our efforts toward putting the High School in a good working basis, the lower schools have gone on increasing until they have outgrown even the new accommodations provided by the transfer of the High School. I feel it necessary, therefore, to urge an early consideration of the question of new accommodations to relieve this crowding and to provide for future growth." He also states that, that every school room in the city is now occupied except one in the Lincoln school and that there is still crowding in the Washington and Irving schools, where there are four rooms that are each occupied by two classes.

In order to relieve this situation and provide for the growth in the immediate future, the Board of Education decided to dispose of the Washington school which for a long time they have known was undesirable and unfitted for school use, and to replace it by a new modern school building of ten or twelve rooms, located at the corner of Darrow avenue and Essex street, about midway between the Irving and Franklin schools.

I have looked carefully into this matter and consider that the Board have acted wisely and used excellent judgment. The matter will be brought before the Council in the regular way through the Board of Estimate at an early date for your consideration and approval, and I recommend that you give it prompt and favorable consideration.

With the rapid growth of our city in the west end north of the railroad, the time is practically at hand when another building will be required in this section near Clinton avenue, and I feel strongly it is wise to secure a site and build this building at the same time that the building, corner of Essex street and Darrow avenue, is being erected.

I also urge and seriously recommend that even at an additional cost that this proposed new building and all future school buildings be of fireproof construction.

While it is important that our schools should be amply equipped with buildings and apparatus it is still more important that we should have teachers of the highest quality in character and ability. As a business man I know that character and ability cannot be obtained for nothing, and I have been interested to find out whether we are paying our teachers adequate salaries. From my inquiries I am convinced that the Board of Education ought to increase the salaries very substantially. The cost of living has largely increased within a few years, and the business world is giving general recognition to this fact by raising salaries as is shown by the action of the directors of one corporation after another. The teacher ought to receive similar recognition and share in the general prosperity.

I have also taken pains to find out what kind of men and women are now in our school rooms, and I have no hesitation in saying that with their character, education and ability practically every one of them would now be making much more money if they had fitted themselves as nurses or typewriters or gone into other business pursuits.

If further testimony is needed I may say that other cites like East Orange, Montclair, Passaic and Bayonne, to say nothing of the larger cities, Newark, Paterson, Jersey City, are paying from $150 to $300 more than we are.

In connection with my suggestion that a liberal increase should be made this year, I would call attention to the fact that the new State taxation law will add nearly $2,000,000 to the State school fund. Plainfield's share of this increase ought to be $10,000. If a good portion of this should be used by the Board of Education for salaries probably every teacher could receive an increase of 15 per cent. without affecting our taxation rate. I strongly recommend the Board to take such action.

Hospital.

The Muhlenberg Hospital, although a private corporation supported in part by charitable contributions, is an institution that is of the greatest benefit in our community. Outside of Elizabeth this is the only hospital in the county. Under the provisions of the constitutions the Mayor, ex-officio, is a member of the Board of Governors and represents the city and tax payers. While all patients that are able to pay either in the wards or private rooms are charged in accordance with accommodations given and services rendered, all that cannot pay are treated and cared for free. No public institution or city hospital could do more.

By a statute of the State of New Jersey, a city is authorized to levy a small tax for the maintenance of a hospital supported in whole or in part by voluntary contributions, after first submitting the question to the legal voters of the city.

I strongly recommend and urgently request your Honorable Body to take the necessary action as requested under the statute to bring this matter before the people for their decision.

Finances.

A careful examination of the Treasurer's report shows that the finances of the city the in excellent condition:

Cash on hand.

General fund		$45,373.92
Fire fund		739.93
		$46,113.85
Against which there is one outstanding not		$ 5,000.00
Balance		$41,112.85
1906 Taxes Uncollected.
General fund		$37,683.46
Fire fund		5,562.24
		$43,245.70

The bonded debt of the city is as shown above, $378,000, less than 2 per cent. of the assessed valuation, and this is being reduced each year by the provision which requires the retirement of a certain amount of bonds.

I feel that certain important improvements referred to under various heads should be taken up at once, and that it would be better judgment, more economical, more benefit to the city and less strain on the tax payers to issue a reasonable amount of bonds running over a term of years, a certain amount redeemable each year, and complete and carry out important improvements than to do a little now and then and never really secure any permanent result.

In the purchasing of supplies, I recommend that the Council by resolution direct that for all purchases or contracts made in any department in excess of $25.00, the committee secure at least three bids. Also that all orders must be written and countersigned by a member of committee. These orders to be attached to and returned with the bills or invoice.

All city officials, heads of departments, clerks and other employees as far as I am able to determine are faithful and efficient, but it should be emphatically understood that only strict attention to duty—efficiency—and loyalty to the interests and welfare of tax payers and citizens wil help to retain a position or secure advancement, also that every new appointment, police officer, fireman, clerk or other employee will be made absolutely on the merits and qualifications of the applicant to fill the position without any regard to political or other outside influence.

Payment of Bills and Claims Against the City.

The statute requires that all bills or other claims against the city must be approved by the Mayor for payment before presentation to the Common Council. I request that you direct the City Clerk to furnish me with a certified copy of all salaries and payrolls. Also have it distinctly understood with your respective committees that all other claims must be certified to by the proper committees as correct and come to the Mayor's office with proper vouchers attached before they will receive attention or approval.

Assuring the members of your Honorable Body of my hearty co-operation and assistance as far as it lies within my power.

CHARLES J. FISK.

PARK CLUB'S NEW YEAR

The Reception Yesterday and Junior Dance Monday Night Both Delightful Affairs.

SOCIETY TURNS OUT

"Sarah's Young Man" Presented by Park Comedy Club—Tea Served in the Afternoon.

The departure of the old year and the arrival of the new year were most happily celebrated at the Park Club by a large number of members and friends. The festivities began Monday night with a Junior dance. At that time the children had the privileges of the floor from 7.30 until 9 o'clock for dancing and members over twenty-one were not allowed in the company. After the children had thoroughly enjoyed the programme provided for them, then the older members took possession and from nine o'clock until 1 o'clock New Year's morning there was genuine fun for everyone. Music for dancing was provided by von Der-Heid's orchestra, of Newark.

At midnight there was general jollification in which the large assemblage joined heartily. There was a profusion of good wishes, while the tooting of horns minging with appropriate music made the event one never to be forgotten. The patronesses for the affair were the following:

Mrs. George D. Hallock, Miss Margaret McCutchen, Mrs. Rovert H. McCutchen, Mrs. J. Laurence Watson, Mrs. B. VanD. Hedges, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Charles A. Reed and Mrs. Edward T. Wilson.

New Year's day was a happy one at the clubhouse when the annual reception was held in the afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. This affair was largely attended by society people from the city and borough and afforded an excellent opportunity for an exchange of greetings. During the early part of the afternoon tea was served. Those presiding at the tables were Mrs. Robert Rushmore, Mrs. J. H. Howell, Mrs. Henry A. McGee and Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, assisted by a number of young women.

The clubhouse was thronged throughout the entire afternoon and many found such enjoyment in bowling, billards and pool, before and after the reception. The patronesses were Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, Mrs. Francis DeLacy Hyde, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, Mrs. James R. Joy and Mrs. Edward H. Ladd, Jr. The reception was under the entertainment committee of the club, of which Mrs. Charles A. Reed is the chairman.

A delightful feature of the afternoon was a one-act play, "Sarah's Young Man," which was given at 5 o'clock by the Park Club Comedy Club. The play is exceedingly funny and the various parts were exceptionally well taken by the following cast:

"Sam Strawleaf," Walter M. McGee; "Sarah Tibbs," Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver, "Araminta," Miss Norma Winthrop; "Harry Fielding," William F. Hobbie, Jr.; "Mrs. Moggridge," Miss Mabel VanDeventer; "Mr. Moggridge," Clifford W. McGee.

Each one taking part in the play won deserving praise and abundant applause. There was not a bit of poor acting in the whole act, showing that much care was taken in the preparation of the play. After the performance social features were resumed and continued until the early part of the evening.

—The Plainfield Loan Company, of which Harry A. Norton is manager, will begin business tomorrow on East Front street in one of the stores owned by Dr. Albert Pittis. The company will do a general loan business on diamonds, watches, jewelry, etc., and will operate under a license granted by the city. A firm from Newark has leased one half of the store and will carry on a general sporting goods' business.

Inquiry today concerning Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck's condition, indicates that he still continues to show improvement daily.

FOUR BOYS KILLED

escaped the first searchers. Bennett, Dunn, William Casey and Tell. John Casey was clear of the track, and the other boys, it is supposed, caught the freight safely and went on.

Coroner Bishop, of Perth Amboy, was notified of the accident, and hurried to South Plainfield. He had the bodies at the station shipped to Perth Amboy. The bodies of Casey and Tell were taken from the hospital to George Cole's undertaking rooms. All the families have been notified.

The bodies of the boys killed instantly are being held at the rooms of Undertaker Garretson, Perth Amboy. Coroner's Physician Westcott signed an order releasing the bodies at Cole's undertaking rooms on an order from Coroner Bishop. The body of William Casey will be sent to Newark this afternoon. No orders regarding the body of Tell have been received.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Good resolutions, family gatherings and a general day of rest for everybody (but the cook) marked the opening of the New Year yesterday. As usual the waning of the old and the coming in of the new year was marked with the same old noise and clatter at the midnight hour, but no one minded it as only the older and more sedate residents attempted to go to bed until after the birth of the new year.

Of course you have started the new year right, by having the Daily Press left at your home every night. It is only going to cost you ten cents a week to keep in touch with local happenings during 1907. That is cheaper than having your neighbor tell you, they read it in the Press a week ago.

The auction sale of farming utensels and household goods of F. W. Eagers, who has resided on the Kissam farm for several years, was held this afternoon. Mr. Eagers and family are arranging to go west within a few weeks.

Borough Tax Collector Charles Sheelen will as usual show a clear slate for all taxes on personal property, the only delinquents, and they are few, will be taxes on real estate.

School re-opened this morning after the usual holiday vacation of nearly two weeks, much to the regret of the younger element.

Miss Evelyn Buckley, who has been visiting her aunt, Miss Susie Parse, has returned to her home on South avenue.

Miss Agnes Hogan returned Tuesday from her home at Cortland, N. Y., where she has been enjoying her holidays.

D. T. Hendrickson, who has been spending his vacation at his home at Port Monmouth, returned yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The coal storage plant is now filled to its utmost capacity. Daily, long trains convey the "Black Diamond" to Perth Amboy where steamers are loaded direct from the train.

The local school re-opened this morning and the children looked bright and happy ofter their Christmas holiday.

County Court Open.

The January term of the Union County Court opened at Elizabeth, this morning with Judge Atwater on the bench. The Court made a brief charge to the Grand Jury. The Plainfield members on the Grand Jury are Charles W. Runyon, H. C. VanEmburgh, Amos Andrews and Armstrong Mulford.

Sale Muslin Underwear.

White Sale store news in which every woman will roundly enthuse. To properly grasp the significance of this great event, one should bear in mind the fact that cotton today, figuratively speaking, is pure gold—wheat in the mill. In spite of the advance in raw cotton—the excess cost of yarn, the finished product and labor itself, we are ready with a bigger White Sale and a better White Sale than any that you have before had the good fortune to attend.

Every Article of Muslinw'r Reduced.

If we had been less exacting in regard to the manner in which our muslin underwear is made—if we had skimped and curtailed—the difficulties attending the gathering of these remarkable lots would have been minimized to an amazing degree—as it is, we are certainly proud of our achievements—gratified at our success in securing for you, in the face of the most discouraging market conditions, the same clean, generously cut and exquisitely finished muslin pieces that you have always been used to buying at Bamberger White Sales. A trade conquest, we claim, and a mighty one.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Four Huntings in the riot of fun, written by Harry Dell and Lew Hunting, called "The Fool House," a three act acrobatic musical comedy and supported by their clever company of character comedians and pretty girls, will be at the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

What is pronounced one of the most colorful and spectacular melodramatic offerings put forth in several years is Edw. M. Simmonds' big scenic production, "The Man of Her Choice," which promises to eclipse all former presentations of its kind at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. From other cities where this pretentious sceno-melodrama has been seen this season, come the most glowing reports of its unprecedented hit with melodramatic patrons. It is said that the striking stage pictures it presents in its varied scenes are mounted with the strictest attention to every detail, and the big cast is accredited with possessing almost attractive array of melodramatic favorites.

In these days of lavish expenditure in theatrical productions it is somewhat difficult to provide scenery and costumes which will attract attention, as the public has become very critical in this regard because of the many handsome stage pictures which have been placed before them. The managers of "Princess Beggar," in which Miss Paula Edwardes appears at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, feel confident that in staging the opera they have done so in a manner which will not only appeal to theatre-goers because of the richness, but also because of the artistic results aimed at and achieved. Every city which has seen "Princess Beggar" has been captured by the two beautiful scenes provided for the opera.

The present revival of "The Blackthorn" is meeting with the greatest success this season. The play, one of the best of the Irish comedies, has been brought up to date and a number of new situations and sensations introduced. Joseph J. Sullivan, who appears in his old role of "Denny Dolan," introduces a number of new songs he has specially composed for this production. "The Blackthorn" comes to the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

The attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night will be Fay Templeton in Klaw & Erlanger's production of George M. Cohan's new comic play, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway." The entertainment is a novelty and quite original from the fact that it is not a performance of a distinctive character, except in its own field, as the author has very cleverly interwoven into it comedy, drama, melodrama, musical comedy and farce. Fay Templeton plays the role of "Plain Mary," a housemaid. The opposite character to that acted by Miss Templeton is "Kid Burns," a young man who has become very worldly wise through long experience on Broadway, and who expresses a most practical philosophy in piquant slang. This character is acted by Victor Moore. Te proves a splendid foil for Miss Templeton's clever acting.

THE BRINK IS NEAR.

Few Plainfield People Know How Near It Is.

Every time you neglect backache,

Allow the kidneys to become clogger,

You get nearer the brink of Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills will save you from danger.

Proof of it in Plainfield testimony.

James Harding, employed at the gas works, and living at 139 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Hard backaches, pains in the head, and, at times, dizzy spells, bothered me for several months. The aches became so sharp and painful that I was in no condition to work. Reading of the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills I went to Randolph's pharmacy and got a box and began using them. I am vrey glad to state that they relieved me from all symptoms of kidney complaint and I am of the belief that it was the treatment with Doan's Kidney Pills alone that cured me."

Bowling and General Sports

Y. M. C. A. WINS ONE OF THREE GAMES

RAHWAY, SUMMIT AND NAVAL RESERVES AS THEIR OPPONENTS.

Of the three basketball games played by them yesterday, the Y. M. C. A. teams won one. But that one was the main contest, and there was no disgrace in the other two defeats.

The first game, played in the morning by the Boys' five against the Rahway Y. M. C. A. Juniors, was won by Rahway, 30 to 18. The Rahway team was loaded with seniors and outweighed and outclassed the lical five hopelessly. The visitors were not a sporting set. The line-up:

Plainfield—Robins, Vail, Bohan, Conroy, Miller, Lindzey, Miller.

Rahway—Hoblitzell, Borden, Opel, Tandley, Meschon.

The first team played the Hoboken Naval Reserves and the second team met Summit in the afternoon. The first team won 29 to 11; the seconds lost 28 to 23. The first team had an easy time. The Reserves promised welle in the first half but fell down in the second, and the locals walked away from them. Line-up:

Y. M. C. A.—Collier, Thompson, Scull, Jacot, Schoonmaker.

Naval Reserves—Voght, Chapman, Voss, Brechenbelt, Hymen.

The prettiest game of the lot was the second teams. The fives fought nip and tuck all through the contest, exchanging leads with almost every throw. It was not until the last three minutes of play that the visitors, taking advantage of three openings, clinched the game.

The line-up:

Y. M. C. A.—Gilmore, Loizeaux, Aolholm, Hoagland, Gavett.

Summit—Mooney, Dennis, Long, Baird, Bachey.

BOWLING.

The bowling will be resumed tomrorrow night in the Central Journal Bowling League tournament, when Newark Bay will roll Cranford at the latter place. Elizabeth will roll at Roselle, and Friday night Westfield will be the guests of the Park Club.

Gans Whips Herman.

Tonopah, Nev., Jan. 2.—Before thirty-five hundred persons, including many women, "Joe" Gans, of Baltimore, fought true yesterday and earned $12,000 in short order. After playing with "Kid" Herman for eight rounds the lightweight champion landed a full swing on the point of Herman's jaw and Chicago's favorite fighter went down and out. It was apparent from the start that Herman had little chance of winning. Gans blocked his blows with ease and at no time was he worried in the least. The loser's end of the purse was $8,000.

CLOSED PORTALS.

The newly-elected officers of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will be installed next Tuesday night. The installation will be in charge of the New Brunswick team.

Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., elected these officers Monday night, for the ensuing year: Councilor, D. R. D. Tomlinson; vice-councilor, E. Gibson Smith; assistant recording secretary, William H. Giles; conductor, Ernest Peck; warden, S. H. Cratsley; inside sentinel, A. J. Dayton; outside sentinel, William R. Sweeney; trustee for eighteen months, Isaac Huff; representative to State Council, two years, P. H. Bennett. The installation of officers will take place Monday night, January 7.

APPROVE WATER SCHEME

City Fathers Pass Resolution to Name Three Investigators For Mayor's Commission.

APPOINTMENTS MADE

A. J. Gavett Renamed Street Commissioner—Health Board Asks for $5,000.

With a view to incorporating in a resolution Mayor Fisk's ideas regarding an investigation into the advisability of a municipal water works, as mentioned in his message, Mr. Tolles offered a resolution at the meeting of the Common Council last night, providing that three members of that body be appointed by the president to represent the city on the general committee of fifteen. As to the appropriation required to conduct the investigation, his resolution provided that that it be left until after the committee organizes. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Alexander Gilbert acknowledged the receipt of a communication from the Common Council allowing more freedom in the matter of investigating the question of consolidation with the borough, and said that as soon as the Borough Council appoints a member of the commission, the work will be undertaken.

Through Mayor Fisk, the Board of Health informed the Common Council that $5,000 would be needed this year for the work of that body and $1,000 additional to be given to the hospital for the care of the indigent poor. This matter was referred to the finance committee, as was also Constable Peter V. Weaver's bond. A number of petitions from last year's Common Council were referred to the street, light and public affairs' committees. After the reading of Mayor Fisk's message, Mr. Tyler moved that it be filed and Mr. Tolles moved that copies be furnished to each member of the Common Council. Both motions were carried.

Mr. Tolles also offered another motion, which was adopted, requesting the city clerk to furnish Mayor Fisk with such data as to the salary list, as he desires, as asked for in his message.

Mayor Fisk re-appointed Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett for three years, as the appointment was confirmed, as was also the appointment of Theodore Martin, John Payne, Frank Stillwell, Daniel I. McDonald, John Dobson and Thomas O'Gorman, as special policeman.

The annual report of City Physician Dr. C. B. Lufburrow was read and filed. It showed that 423 cases were treated during the past year. The eighteenth annual report of the Board of Health was presented and on motion of Mr. Tolles the reading of it was postponed one week.

Other resolutions by Mr. Tolles, which were adopted, provided that the city clerk secures the necessary supplies for the year, that the Daily Press and another paper named as the official papers and that $3,000 be appropriated for the use of the street committee until the regular appropriations are made.

Before the meeting adjourned President Daniel announced that the reason Councilman Mellick had not been given the chairmanship of a committee was that he particularly requested to be relieved. He had been ill and owing to a pressure of business felt unable to take a chairmanship.

A motion by Mr. Buxton that when the Common Council adjourn it be to meet Monday night, January 7, was carried, after which the meeting adjourned.

VAN ARSDALE PRESIDENT OF THE BOROUGH COUNCIL.

Organization for 1907 Perfected at Meeting Held Yesterday at Noon.

At a special meeting held at noon, yesterday, the Borough Council perfected organization for the coming year. Morris C. VanArsdale was made president to succeed Charles A. Lee and the committees were appointed by Mayor Smalley. They will be practically the same with the exception that Mr. VanArsdale will be the head of the street committee and Barzilla R. Waldron, the new member, was placed on the fire committee and stationery and supplies.

Of the regular appointments, Chas. M. Dolliver was named by the Mayor for borough recorder and his choice was ratified. He will assume office at once. The regular and call men in the fire department, the police marshals and other offices remain the same. An increase of $25 in the salary of Borough Electrician Searing was also made.

An Artistic Programme.

The combined theatre programme and dancing order for the Charity Ball has been declared to be one of the neatest and most artistic bits of printing yet produced in the city. It was arranged and executed by David J. Carney, of the Monarch Printing Company, and contained every bit of needed information for the night's affair. It numbered twenty-four pages exclusive of a cover in light green bearing the familiar red cross.

POLITICIANS AT URSINO

Guests Enjoy Its Famous Buffet Luncheon and Incidently Discuss Politics.

"BIG GUNS THERE"

Davy Baird and Tony Kuser Among the Lights—Bunch of Plainfielders on hand.

Politicians from all parts of the State were present yesterday at the annual New Year's reception given by United States Senator John Kean at his Ursino residence. The reception was more of a social political reunion than anything else. Republican factional lines were for the time being severed, and the bosses wished their lieutenants a Happy New Year, and vice versa, and Senator Kean shook all present by the hand and wished everyone many happy returns of the day.

The buffet luncheon prepared by the Senator's chef was one that was truly deserving of the New Year appetites of the Jersey G. O. P. representatives, who came from the north, south, east and west in "gas hoppers," "benzine buggies," steam and trolley cars and carriages.

Colonel Anthony Kuser, from Essex, was there and chatted and feasted with the rest of the delegation from Essex. The colonel was asked by one of the Plainfield delegation what the outlook was for Essex in 1907, but what the colonel said in reply was that he hoped things would be brighter. "Davy" Baird, from the Southern part of the State, and who is said to know all about the Dryden Senatorial issue, was busy shaking the hands of his colleagues and telling about the prospects in South Jersey.

Among the Plainfielders on hand were:

Count Register of Deeds, F. H. Smith, Councilmen R. I. Tolles, Herbert Buxton, Frank DeWitt Randolph, Postmaster E. H. Bird, Health Commissioner Charles H. Dunham, Freeholders S. P. T. Wilbur, J. Hervey Doane, Former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, A. D. Edgar, C. C. Burnet, George J. Tobin, Morris Owens, William O'Keefe, Joseph O'Keefe, Former Mayor James F. Buckle, City Stenographer George B. Wean, Amos Andrews, Edward T. VanWinkle, William Clifton, Mansfield Smith, City Clerk James T. MacMurray, John Bowman, James Stewart, John Traynor, Tax Clerk William R. Townsend, Joseph D. Moon, Joseph Noonan, Fred Dixon, T. C. Smith, Henry Woodland, District Court Judge William Newcorn and W. L. Hetfield, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Weightman, of Philadelphia, have returned home after spending New Year's Day with Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place.

Charles E. Arnold, vice-president of the Wisconsin National Bank at Milwaukee, who was called to Plainfield by the death of his sister, Mrs. Varian, returned home Monday.

Mrs. W. W. St. John, who has been detained to her room at the Hotel Iroquois, is convalescing. Mr. St. John is also much improved and is able to be around again. They hope to leave for Bath, N. Y., soon.

A Reckless Shooter.

The borough police are searching for a reckless shooter, evidently a New Year's celebrant, who fired a bullet through the front door of Adolph Bohren's home on Greenbrook road, Monday night. The missile passed through the door, smashed a mirror in the hall and then went clear through a partition. Members of the family hurried out but the shooter had disappeared.

FOURTH BOY IDENTIFIED

Emil Reils, 14, Killed With Casey, Till and Dunn.

MISSING BOY LOCATED

He Was Albert Smith, Who Lived Opposite Reils—Kept Silence on Accident Until Yesterday Afternoon.

The two mysteries left by the New Year's Day horror at South Plainfield, in which four Newark boys were killed by a Lehigh Valley Railroad express while trying to board a freight train, were cleared up yesterday afternoon. The unidentified dead boy at Perth Amboy was Emil Reils, 14 years old, of 45 Quitman street, Newark. The boy reported missing, for whose body the railroad made search along the tracks, is Albert Smith, of 44 Quitman street. He was not even scratched.

Smith was the only survivor who could tell a coherent story. When seen last night, said: "We were walking along the track, close together. I was almost in the middle of the track when I felt a train coming behind me. I heard no noise, but just felt the jar and the wind and threw myself to one side as the cars flashed past. None of them touched me, and I ran right around to the other side in time to see one of the boys reeling around with his hand to his head. I caught him and held him up for a moment, but he fell down and I had to pick him up again.

"Then I left him and went down the track to where I saw another boy lying. He was Emil Reils, who lived across the street, and when I spoke to him he wouldn't answer, so I went on to the others, but they all seemed to be dead, and Johnny Casey had run back to the station. When I got back to Emil again, I was going to pick him up, but just then a man came along and said, 'Don't touch him, he's dead.' I said that I wished he was alive again. I didn't hear the whistle blow, or know the train was coming, until I felt the wind."

Thomas Smith, father of Albert, said that the boy got in the house about 9 o'clock Tuesday night, and went to bed, saying nothing about the accident. It was not until noon, yesterday, that he knew his son had been with the boys who had been killed. Albert's brothers say that all night he was saying, in his sleep, "Keep off the track, boys; keep off the track!"

Reils was identified by his clothes, which had been bought for him to wear at his sister's wedding the night before. His death strikes his parents doubly hard, as they are just recovering from the shock received last Saturday, when their younger son, Fred, fell from a third-story window of the Jewish Hospital to the court below. It was only on Monday that the doctors told them that he would live.

Reils' parents knew that he had gone out with the others, and, when he had not returned at a late hour Tuesday night, they were much worried. But once before the boys had gone off on a freight train, and had not come in until the next morning, and they thought he had done the same thing again. Shortly before noon a friend of Emil's father told him that a boy answering his son's description had been killed the night before in South Plainfield.

The boy's aunt went over to see the Smith boy. At first he would not even admit that he was with the party at the time of the accident, but later told them how he had seen Emil lying dead beside the tracks. George Anschuetz, Mr. Reil's son-in-law, hurried to Plainfield, but it was not until 8 o'clock last night that he reached Perth Amboy, where the body was held and identified it. He had it sent to Newark.

Lawrence Bennett, of 81 Vanderpool street, for whose body frightened Johnny Casey, mistook that of Reils on Tuesday night, was slightly bruised about the head and legs. He said he did not know what had happened until a man picked him up, and after washing the blood from his face, told him to go home. "I could not get a car," he said, "so I had to come back on another freight."

John Casey, who was with his brother William at the time of the latter's death in Muhlenberg's Hospital, is still in a very nervous condition and under the doctor's care.

A dispatch received last night from New Brunswick said: "Coroner Harry Bishop, of Perth Amboy, who investigated the death of the four Newark boys at South Plainfield, said tonight that no inquest would be held, as his official investigation led him to believe that the boys were trespassing on railroad property; that they had been stealing rides on freight trains and were attempting to board another freight train to go to their home when they were plowed

RECORDER DOLLIVER SITS IN BOROUGH COURT

HIS FIRST ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE TEMPERED WITH MERCY.

Recorder Charles M. Dolliver held his first session of the borough court, last night, and incidentally started off with a full house. He had nine prisoners before him, eight of whom were giddy Prideville sports who had been caught throwing the bones for a sixty-five cent kitty. The octette was made up of Edwin Gaub, Howard Perry, Fred Perry, George Perry, Charles Bimble, Joseph Neal, Lewis Hansen and Charles Benner.

The magistrate sized up the situation carefully and then gave the culprits a lecture that made them wish they had never learned the game. It was a sort of Runyonization mixed with the Smalley atmosphere that prevailed in the court all last year. At its close, the recorder bade the eight hike back to Prideville with the understanding that if they returned while he had the power to do so, a large gash would be cut in their surplus bank roll.

The other prisoner who lined up was not so fortunate. He was Ernest Birdsall, arrested by Special Marshal Kernan for trespassing on W. J. Buttfield's property and giving a lot of back talk when told to vacate. He handed up $3 in preference to going to jail for a few days.

A lot of Recorder Dolliver's friends were on hand during the session and they took the opportunity to greet him at the close. His method of dispensing justice is the careful, considerate variety, meant to give a man a fair show instead of trying to make the court a source of income. He has several plans in view to put in effect during his term and one of them may be the holding of morning sessions, as is done on the city side of the brook.

During the hours about 150 friends called to extend New Year greetings.

PAINTED HIS BODY; PROSECUTOR TO ACT

VICTIM SAID TO BE A RUSSIAN EXILE SOCIALIST.

N. C. J. English, prosecutor of the pleas, will be urged to investigate the charge made by Louis Bounkin, a Russian Jew, 14 years old, who accused seven young men, all prominent in Cranford society, of rubbing his body with red, white and blue paint and causing him much suffering. The alleged attack took place at the Cranford opera house, in which young Bounkin had a room.

The young men concerned say that the boy's tale is exaggerated and that his injuries are not at all serious. They further assert that his open expressions of hatred for Christianity and Christians won their displeasure as well as that of the rest of the people of Cranford.

Louis is said to have been exiled from Russia for these sentiments and for distributing socialistic literature. Despite his years, he is unusually keen and seems to be well informed on the Russian political situation. He has a small body and large head and wears glasses. Since coming to Cranford his chief desire, according to his own declarations, is to make money to extend the socialistic doctrine in Russia and this country.

It is now two months since Rudolph Weinhroff, a local newsdealer, was stopped one day in New York by a little stranger. The lad wanted to know if New York had any trade schools. Weindhroff didn't know, but he offered the bright little foreigner a position. The lad was Louis Bounkin. He said he had been living in this country six months and wanted to learn the American ways and English language.

Some weeks ago he brought suit against his former benefactor, Weindhroff, claiming that he was not paid his wages in full. The suit was tried before Justice Mendel and the chap won. He then obtained positions with local druggists, with one of whom he is now employed.

It is about a week since the alleged assault took place. He has consulted Lawyer Irving Brady and others as to what steps he should take to prosecute his assailants.

TOO ILL FOR TRIAL.

Alleged Forger of Lanehart Will Gets Second Postponement.

The trial of William H. Skillman, of Belle Mead, a former president of the New Jersey State Horticultural Association, on a charge of forging the will of the late William Lanehart, which was scheduled to come up in the Somerset County Courts in Somerville next Monday, January 7, has been postponed indefinitely, because of the serious illness of the defendant. This is the second time a postponement has been necessary in this case because of Mr. Skillman's poor health. The will in dispute leaves half of the estate to Skillman, who is not mentioned in a previous testament. The Orphan's Court has already declared the "Skillman" will a forgery, and the present case is on a criminal charge.

Yesterday the petit jurors, because of the postponement of the Skillman case, were notified not to appear in court at Somerville until Monday, Jan. 14.

Ladies' Choral Society Formed.

The Ladies' Choral Society was organized yesterday afternoon in J. Edmund Skiff's studio, Babcock building, thirty women enrolling as members. No plans for a public presentation have been made yet, but rehearsals of the cantata, "The Song of the Norns," by Hoffman, were begun and will be continued at the studio every Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The membership list will be kept open this week for women desirous of joining the chorus.

Accepts Call to Wooster, N. Y.

Y., and will assume his new charge in two weeks when he will remove with his family. Wooster is a thriving village sixty miles north of Albany.

Typos Nominate.

The Typographical Union (local No. 399) met in its new meeting place, Trades Council hall, last night. Nominations of officers were made. L. W. Niles and Roy Woolley were named without opposition for president and vice-president respectively. James Kermode and G. Emerson Mowen were nominated for secretary.

A Brooklyn Girl's Debut.

Miss Nell Valiant and Miss Virginia Hegeman, of the borough, were among the receiving party at the debut of Miss Elizabeth Spence Weeden, of Brooklyn, at a reception given in the sun parlor of the Hotel Margaret, Columbia Heights.

PERKINS FAVORS PITNEY

Mr. Ackerman However Will Make No Comment on Senatorial Candidate.

HILLERY BOOMS HIM

"He Will Satisfy," Says Perkins—"A Very Fine Man," Adds Ackerman—May Be a Winner.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Union County, who last year was the floor leader in the House of Assembly for the Republican majority, today has given the boom of supreme Court Justice Mahlon Pitney, son of Vice-Chancellor Henry C. Pitney, for United States Senator, a decided boost by coming out for Judge Pitney as against United States Senator John F. Dryden, president of the Prudential Life Insurance Company, of Newark.

"Any man," he said, "who is satisfactory to the people of my county will be satisfactory to me. I think Judge Pitney will satisfy my people."

This is said to be the beginning of a movement to beat John F. Dryden in the Republican caucus. Justice Pitney lives in Morristown, and it is understood, will have the support of the entire Morris delegation, which otherwise would have gone to Dryden in the caucus.

When Senator Ackerman was asked for an expression regarding Justice Pitney's candidacy, he declined to make any comment. "Justice Pitney is a very fine man," was all he would say. It is generally understood that Union's Senator will cast his vote for Governor Stokes for the honor provided the latter becomes a candidate. In any event it is declared that he will vote for Mr. Dryden under no circumstances, mindful of the pronounced public opinion in his county.

Senator Hillery originally came out for Justice Pitney a month or so ago and has been booming him ever since. Close friends of Hillery say that his eyes have been opened and that in the future he will not be known as the aggressive and fearless champion of the machine but will devote himself to the people's interests.

New Members Sworn In—Resolution Prods Court House Purchaser.

Smith; Bridgewater, Joseph Fitzga; Franklin, Thomas E. Gibson; Hillsborough, Richard W. Hoagland; North Plainfield, William M. Demler; North Plainfield (borough) John Emmons; Warren, Joel Codington. The organization remains the same.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that Counsel John A. Frech at once take legal steps to have Hyman Kline, who purchased the old court house and jail, remove at once. Mr. Kline declared he lost the sale of the material in the buildings because they were not turned over to him in the specified time, and now will not touch them until he has been awarded damages. Some of the new white marble, to be used in the construction of the new court house, has arrived.

SUES BECAUSE BOROUGH TOOK HER PROPERTY

MRS. BOREN SEEKS TO RECOVER LAND FROM MRS. MESSERSMITH.

Mrs. Fannie G. Boren is the plaintiff in a suit being tried today in the Supreme Court, Elizabeth, against Mrs. Mary E. Messersmith, of East Fifth street, in which she seeks to recover property purchased by her from the defendant. Charles M. Dolliver and S. S. Swackhamer represent the plaintiff and G. W. V. Moy the defendant.

According to the testimony of the plaintiff she believed, when she purchased the property in question, which is located adjacent to Fairview avenue, that it was free from all incumbrances. In fact she claims that the defendant gave her a warranty deed.

After the borough extended Fairview avenue so that it opened up a street through the property bought by Mrs. Boren. She was then compelled to vacate. Investigation proved that the borough map called for a street through the property and the improvement was made in connection with others made by the Hyde Estate. The case will probably occupy the attention of the court most of the day.

ROCK AVENUE RESIDENTS RENEW THEIR AGITATION.

Say the Grade Crossing Is as Dangerous as the One at Stelton.

Residents in the vicinity are still actively agitating for the safeguarding of the grade crossing at Park avenue. Architect F. L. Lancaster, who recently built two houses on South Second street at that point, and lives in one of them, said this morning that the crossing was every bit as dangerous, if not more perilous, than the Pennsylvania crossing at Stelton, over which the Middlesex county authorities have become aroused.

Mr. Lancaster cited the narrow escape of an automobile party which he witnessed last week, as a sample of what happens almost constantly at that point. The chauffeur drove almost directly in the path of a fast train, and brought his cac to a stop with the wheels on the rail of the track next to the one in which the train rolled. There is a bell at the crossing, but, according to Mr. Lancaster, its tones are very apt to be drowned by other noises. In the case of the automobile, the chugging of his engine probably prevented the chauffeur from hearing the warning jangle.

It is contended by the residents that the roadbed could be depressed very easily. The subject will be brought to the attention of the Council again with renewed insistence.

Quite a number of the prisoner's friends gathered to say good-bye. Miss Illario was unmoved, as she had been all the time during her strenuous trial. She wore a large picture hat and a long cloak covered a garment of black.

MR. BETTMAN COMPLAINS

Man Served with "White-cap" Notice Asks Scotch Plains Council For Protection.

THE POLICE MAY ACT

His Letter Referred to Chairman of Police Committee—Alleges That People Annoy Him.

Though several papers have asserted that the posting of the warning notices to C. A. Bettman at Fanwood was the joke of college boys home for the holidays, the man directly concerned evidently does not look at it in that light. At last night's meeting of the Fanwood council, he submitted a communication in which he declared that he and his property had not been afforded proper protection and asked that it be given him. He asserted that he has been annoyed frequently by young men and that if the police did their duty he would not have to resort to the criticism that made him an object of attack.

Whether or not the "vigilance committee" which put up the notices stating that he would be vivisected unless he left Fanwood, were in earnest, he stated that he was entitled to more consideration and asked that it be given him in the future. The council discussed his allegations and arrived at the conclusion that he was given all the protection possible and that his property and person received the same consideration as any other resident of the borough. The communication, however, was referred to the chairman of the police committee and he was instructed to consider it at length. The council afterward repudiated any suspicion that it believed its night policeman was not attending to duty by advancing his salary $5 a month.

A New York paper gave prominence to a story this morning that Miss Anna Bettman, a daughter of Mr. Bettman, had come home from Perth Amboy to help her father locate and punish the members of the committee that had put up the placards. It stated that she had met one of them and had given him a severe pummeling. Mr. Bettman has no daughter named Anna and no one in Fanwood could be located today who had heard of any such occurrence. There is a belief, however, that Mr. Bettman is not laughing at the posters and that he is adopting every measure to prevent any irresponsible youths from bothering him.

The incoming City Council met for organization Tuesday. Every member was present. All appointments were made by a party vote, six Republicans, five Democrats. Bouquets were on the desks of President A. J. Westlake, W. J. Drumpelman, G. Helmstadter and J. Rowland. A. J. Westlake was re-elected president for 1907. The Mayor, J. B. Farber, presented no message to the Council, but said that he would send one later, in which he would give his reasons for sending none now. Chas. H. Angleman was appointed city treasuerer. T. H. The Water Board assures the consumers of water in Rahway, that in the process of filtering there is but one or one and a half grains of alum used to each gallon of water, there being 7,000 grains in a pound of that chemical. In other words, one pound of alum filtrates 6,000 gallons of water.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The first meeting of the 1907 Borough Council was held Tuesday night in the Fire House, the newly elected borough officials were sworn in at the meeting. There is little or no change in the management of the borough affairs over last year and the tax-payers can rest assured of another year of borough prosperity. 1906 was one of, if not the best years the borough has ever enjoyed, as will be shown by the annual report which will soon be issued. Those who will be at the helm during '07 are Mayor Wright Babcock; Councilmen, H. E. Knight, C. B. Vincent, T. S. Young, Charles Steinheim, and B. P. Hall; Collector, Charles Sheelen; Assessor, Horace G. Young.

The local sportsmen are in favor of the taked of amendment to the game laws, putting a three years' ban upon hunting rabbits. The cottontails were scarcer the past season than in a number of years and the local hunters believe that the only way to increase the main is to hold the season closed 3 years.

The eight inches of ice which covered the pond, has been reduced to about four inches by the mild weather of the past few days. The local ice men had been looking forward to laying in the annual supply next week, but it will have to be deferred now until another cold snap arrives.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The closing of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Station at South Cranford has created quite a little dissatisfaction as the place expected a boom in the spring and for that reason no expense was spared in paving Centennial avenue, and making improvements in all directions. Now the residents claim the place has had a back set, and will not improve unless the station is re-opened.

HUGHES INAUGURATED.

Man Not a Politician Head of Empire State.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 2.—For the first time in many years a man who is not a politician is at the head of the State government. Charles E. Hughes, of New York city, was inaugurated as Governor of the Empire State shortly after noon yesterday. The ceremony was held in the big Assembly chamber. On the same platform with him sat the six Democrats who will be at the head of the other elective State departments for the next two years.

Frank W. Higgins, of Olean, the retiring Governor, handed over the reins of government to Mr. Hughes in a brief speech of generalities. Mr. Hughes paid a graceful tribute to the retiring Governor, and then made a speech that sounded much like those he made during the campaign. He did not disclose any of the reforms that are looked for in his message to the Legislature tomorrow, but his speech impressed his hearers with the belief that things are going to be done by the new Governor.

Plainfield, N. J., January 3, 1907.

STINGY TREATMENT.

It was a wise recommendation on the part of Mayor Fisk that the Board of Education raise the salaries of Plainfield's school teachers. It is an actual fact that hod-carriers and other laborers are better paid today than are these self-sacrificing, painstaking and energetic men and women. As the Mayor says in his message: "The cost of living has largely increased within a few years, and the business world is giving general recognition to this fact by raising salaries as is shown by the action of the directors of one corporation after another. The teacher ought to receive similar recognition and share in the general prosperity."

In response to our invitation for citizens generally to express their opinions regarding the various features of the message, a communication has been received bearing on this very point. The correspondent takes exception to the shabby treatment given the teachers, and argues that the net earnings of many servants are more than those of the average pedagogue.

"Some people divide the teacher's salary by the number of school days," says the writer, "and think the payment is large, but the teacher has to pay board and other living expenses the whole year and the salary should be divided by the number of working days in the year to get its real value. The maximum salary for grade teachers in Plainfield is $650 or about $2 a day and only a part of the teachers that get as much as this, some getting as low as $1.60.

"The teacher must have a boarding place with a comfortable room where she can study and do her work, and such places charge a high price in Plainfield; then the teacher is required to dress well and to meet many expenses that are not required of workers in other occupations. It is not an uncommon thing for a new teacher to find at the end of the year that she has no balance left after paying her expenses.

"The servant in many a household has more to show for her work at the end of the year than the teacher upon whose faithfulness and efficiency the future of our children depends. Plainfield has an unusually high grade of teachers; they ought to be paid accordingly and it is to be hoped that the Board of Education will follow the Mayor's recommendation. The time is especially opportune, as the Mayor's message shows, because the equal taxation bill passed by the Legislature last winter has brought into the State school fund about two million dollars from the railroad taxes which make it possible to raise the teachers' salaries without affecting the tax rate."

SITE FOR CITY HALL.

When properly directed economy means wealth, but false economy never did and never will. So long as anyone, whether it be an individual or a corporation, remains a tenant there is false economy sure and simple. Certainly is this true of a municipality. A city is losing money every day it pays rent for rentals increase as times advance and in the end the municipality has nothing substantial to show for its expenditures.

For that reason, the sooner Plainfield becomes its own landlord the better it will be off. Possibly it is not in a position to build a town hall just at the present time, but surely it is able to secure the necessary ground. There are several desirable properties in the heart of the business section, anyone of which would make an ideal site. The tendency of the real estate market in the last few years has been decidedly bullish. There is every prospect that this upward movement in prices will be permanent for a strong boom has set in and Plainfield is enjoying an era of prosperity unparalleled in all its history.

Considering the existing conditions the best interests of the city would be served by the purchase of a desirable site. Get the lot now and build on it just as soon as the finances of the city will permit.

BEWARE, SENATOR!

Senator Ackerman should not be misled by the letters he is sure to receive asking him to vote for Mr. Dryden. Some of them will be in a stereotyped form; all will emanate from the same source. No stone is being left unturned by those who are engineering the Newarker's fight to retain the exalted office.

ICE!

According to a dispatch in a Newark paper those who called at Charles N. Fowler's marble house on New Year's Day, were "received by the Congressman in a cordial manner."

LITERARY.

The January American Boy is, in the language of the boys, "a hummer." Its most conspicuous features are its serials by Stratemeyer, Shute, Tomlinson, Alger, and Sprague, and its four new departments, namely, "Chats with Big Americans for Young Americans," "How to Become Strong," "Pdactical Furniture Making for Boys," and "Keeping Tab on the World for Wide-Awake American Boys." There are six short stories, about a dozen leading articles, any number of humorous skits, and the usual departments relating to boy life, including photography, mechanics, electricity, stamps, coins and curios, puzzles, etc. In the biographical department, Henry Clay is given the place of honor this month. It has a striking two-color cover—a skating scene—and, in addition, seventy-five illustrations. Altogether, it is one of the best numbers of The American Boy ever issued. $1.00 a year. ROCKEFELLER BAITED.

Financier Attacked as "Arch Oppressor" in His Own Church.

Cleveland, Jan. 3.—In a dicussion before the five hundred members of the Men's Club of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, known as Rockefeller's church, Howard Dennis, a labor speaker, savagely denounced John D. Rockefeller's as "the arch oppressor of labor." Dennis said:

If I were a member of the same church as were John D. Rockefeller and J. Pierpont Morgan, either they would get out next Sunday or I would.

Dennis's denunciation of the chief financial supporter of the church was received with laughter.

Knead Dough With Feet.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 3.—In the report tht P. Tecumseh Sherman, Commissioner of Labor of the State, makes in winding up the year he says that kneading dough with the feet is still in vogue in some of the Italian bakeries in New York city and that the sweatshops are "veritable hotbeds of disease."

The report says in part:

"Our inspectors have essayed to stop the kneading of dough with the feet, but have not been sustained; there is nothing positively illegal or necessarily unsanitary in the practice."

Mr. Harrigan's New Venture.

Joseph Harrigan, the East Fourth street coal and wood dealer, has leased a part of the old oilcloth factory on North avenue for the purpose of embarking in the baled hay business on a wholesale scale. He will use part of the building as a storage house and will ship from here to New York and other places in car load lots. As soon as he becomes fully established, Mr. Harrigan will also invade the local field in the same way. The business is one that is carried on extensively in other cities, and frequently reaches large proportions.

Subway Sneezers in Flight.

New York, Jan. 3.—Some one dropped "sneezing powders' in each of the four cars of an uptown subway express train last night as it was pulling into the Brooklyn bridge station. Before Fourteenth street was reached every one in the cars was sneezing and snorting like a badly adjusteted automobile. Then passengers tried to escape by crowding into the last car, but this did not help matters. The guards sniffed out of their half open doors. When Seventy-second street was reached all but a few brave persons left the train.

Mrs. Parker Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wolcott Parker, wife of Cortland Parker, Sr., dean of the New Jersey bar, died yesterday at her home, Broad and Fulton streets, Newark, after four days' illness, with pneumonia. She was in her eightieth year. Mrs. Parker was an accomplished linguist and was noted for her works of charity. She for many years was a manager of the Protestant Foster Home. The funeral will take place Friday.

Mrs. John Walton, of East Third street, has returned home after several weeks' visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Crocker, of Perth Amboy.

Combine Made Fuel Famine.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 3.—"Throughout this inquiry the thought has repeatedly suggested itself that many of the problems presented must rest in the character and intelligence of the railroad managers—their foresight, initiative adaptibility and public spirit."

This paragraph, written by Commissioner Lane, epitomizes the report which the Interstate Commerce Commission has rendered to the President on the subject of the car shortage in the Northwest.

The fuel famine in North Dakota is attributed to a conspiracy of wholesale and retail dealers to "maintain prices and boycott all who do not agree." The indisputable proof which the commission says it has of this will be handed to the Department of Justice, which, it is expected, will be at once directed to bring proceedings under the Sherman law forbidding combination in restraint of trade. This combination operates in North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Pneumonia Scourge.

New York, Jan. 3.—That the pneumonia scourge still has New York firmly in its grip and that it is thriving more than ever in the wake of the influenza epidemic which recently struck the city are the grim deductions to be made from a table of vital statistics for the year 1906, just prepared for Health Commissioner Darlington.

There was an increase of 1,084 in the number of deaths from the disease over the year of 1905, and experts say that there is every indication that a new record will be rolled up in the next three months unless the epidemic of influenza which is just getting under way subsides. The record of 1904, when the physicians of the city practically threw up their hands, was not quite equalled, but all other records were topped.

McClellan Quits Tammany.

New York, Jan. 3.—After a year of bitter warfare between Mayor McClellan and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, the fight spread yesterday through the entire Tammany organization, when the Mayor decided to withdraw from it so long as Mr. Murphy remains in control. No sooner was the statement of the Mayor issued than many leaders who had remained silent and who have regarded the contests as a personal matter spoke in defence of Mr. Murphy.

THEY SEEK SOME NEW GAME LAWS.

Fish and Game Commission Reports to Governor a Number of Important Recommendations.

Trenton, Jan. 3.—Governor Stokes has received the annual report of Benjamin P. Morris, of Long Branch, president and secretary of the State Game and Fish Commission, which contains a number of recommendations, the most important of which is the enactment of laws prohibiting the taking of menhaden or any other kind of fish from the Atlantic ocean or bays by purse nets along the New Jersey coast and the regulation of pound net to insure the protection of small fish.

The report shows the following distributions: 45,000 trout, 9,800 black bass, 14,000 perch, 2,075 pickerel, 7,200 catfish, 100 crappie, 46,100 bait fish. In conjunction with the department of fisheries of Pennsylvania and the forest and fish and game commission of New York the commission of New York the commission collected from the Delaware river and hatched at the Torresdale hatchery and distributed 3,013,000 shad.

Only eight deer were liberated during the year. They were sent to Burlington, Cumberland, Salem and Gloucester counties, where deer had been liberated the previous year. The commission distributed 50 Canadian hare. The commission, during the year, purchased 7,440 quail. These were liberated in the spring, with a loss of but 232 birds, or about 3 per cent. There were 321 prosecutions, in spite of the warnings given, in which there were 312 convictions and nine acquittals. The fines amounted to $7,824.93.

The recommendations in the report include the following:

Tax placed upon all guns or upon all persons before hunting, whether resident or non-resident, and that all licenses cover the hunting of all kinds of game.

The abolishing of spring shooting of all kinds of game.

The abolishing of the sale of game.

The enactment of a law preventing fishing through ice.

The abolishing of July woodcock shooting.

The enactment of a law placing a penalty upon owners of dogs permitting the same to chase and hunt deer.

The repealing of the law permitting seine fishing in June at Barnegat.

The enactment of a law prohibiting the taking of menhaden or any other kind of fish from the Atlantic ocean or bays by purse nets along the New Jersey coast.

The regulation of pound nets to insure the protection of small fish.

These recommendations are in line with demands which the representative sportsmen of the State have been making for some time. Preparations have already been made to seek legislative help this winter in procuring the passage of a law or laws which will cover all of them.

Striker's Poisoned Bread.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 3.—A startling conspiracy to poison bread has been discovered in connection with the strike of local No. 247 of the Bakers' Union and four men alleged to be members of the union have been arrested, charged with putting acid on hundreds of loaves of bread distributed among Jewish residents of the Maxwell street police district.

The acid and quantities of iodoform were thrown on wagen loads of bread and rolls after they had left the bakeries where the strike is on. Captain Mahoney has a detail of twenty men searching the districts for the poisoned bread.

WHY HIS WIFE ACTED LIKE AN ANGEL.

A bachelor was recently traveling in a tram car with a newly-married couple of his acquaintance. It was a rainy morning.

The young wife had her umbrella well out of the way of those who passed down the car, but an awkward boy on his way to the door, managed to fall over it, and break it.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" stammered the unfortunate, with a scarlet face.

"Never mind. I'm sure it wasn't your fault," the lady smiled up at him without a trace of anger or even irritation on her face.

"Well, I must say your wife is an angel!" exclaimed the bachelor, warmly. "Most women would have withered that clumsy fellow with a look, if they hadn't scorched him with words."

"She is an angel," said the married man, as he picked up the pieces of the umbrella and smiled quizzically at his wife, "but—she's wanted a new umbrella for a month, and now she knows I'll have to get it for her."

Her Word of Honor.

"Don't you love me?"

"Yes, dear, but I'm already engaged."

down by the express train bound toward Easton." Coroner Bishop gave permits for the burial of all the bodies.

The date of Emil Reils' funeral has not yet been set. Elmer Dunn's will take place on Friday afternoon from St. Columbia's church.

The body of William Casey, one of the victims who died in Muhlenberg hospital, was forwarded by Undertaker George Cole to Newark, yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow and interment will be at Haycock, Bucks county, Pa. John Till, the father of young Till, came to the city yesterday afternoon for the first time since the accident and made arrangements to have his son's body held at Cole's until tomorrow. It will then be sent to Jersey City, where the funeral will be held Saturday, and interment made in New York Bay cemetery. The father is a laboring man and lives at 92 Clinton place, Newark. He told a Daily Press reporter that the boy's mother had been dead for a number of years and that he had made it a practice of going about as he pleased. He knew nothing of the accident until yesterday morning and he was so overcome that it was with difficulty that he essayed the trip to this city.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 6.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Beginning with God and continuing with Him.—Gen. i. 1; John i. 1-14; xv. 4-7. (Consecration meeting.)

In the first verse of the first chapter of the first book in the Bible Moses declares that God was the beginning of all material things. "In the beginning, God!" A more majestic sentence could not have been selected to open the history of God's relation to the universe and to man. It presents at once the idea that God is back of all things. The story of the creation is not first told and the relation of God to it revealed, but the first in importance is put first in the record of the fact. And this is the proper method of beginning this record. The creator is in all respects superior to the creation, and this fact should be recognized at once. God is the beginning of the material universe. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth," and therefore His superior position should at once be announced. It is a singular fact that when the apostle John desires to relate the history of Christ as the Son of God he also opens his story with the same expression—"In the beginning." "In the beginning was the Word (Christ), and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God." John desires to tell the story of Christ from the standpoint of His deity, and he also very properly begins with His existence with God in the beginning of eternity. Moses began the history of the creation of the material universe with God, and John begins the story of man's spiritual redemption in the same manner. In so doing they followed the true historical method, for God is the source and support of all things, both material and spiritual.

But in beginning their histories with God these writers not only followed the true historical method, but at the same time suggested an important practical lesson for us. They began with God, and so should we. God should have the first and supreme place in our hearts and lives. We should begin the day with God. Every day should be begun with the reading of God's word and with prayer to God. No man who wants the blessing of God upon his day's work should neglect to begin it with God. We may think that we have no time for morning devotions, but we should take time. It can be found in some way. "Where there's a will there's a way." We may think that we cannot afford to take the time, but the real truth is that we cannot afford not to take the time. Time spent with man, however important the business, will never repay us if it be time that should be spent with God. No man can rob God and expect to profit by the transaction. We should also begin life with God. Nothing is more important in early life than the consecration of the heart and life to God. The commands of Scripture in this respect are very explicit—"Son, daughter, give Me thine heart." "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth." "Seek ye first the kingdom of God." No language could be more definite. In the great crises of life we should begin with God. This was the method of Christ Himself. No great duty faced Him without His going to God with it. We should follow the example of Christ in this respect. In a word, let us begin with God in everything. If so, we need have no fear of the results.

Beginning with God, however, is not all the story. We must continue with God. A good start does not always insure final success. It only does so when the contestant continues good work. The Galatians began well, but soon grew weary, and the apostle Paul needed to exhort them to renewed zeal and fervor. We must take God with us on all occasions, and where we cannot take Him we ourselves should not go. But it is most encouraging just here that the taking of God is absolutely possible for the reason that God is willing to abide with us. What great condescension on His part! In His Son Jesus Christ He is willing to come into our hearts and abide with us, and except He abide with us we cannot lead Christian lives and bring forth fruit to His honor and glory. May He therefore abide with us and we with Him, that our lives may be fruitful in His service and that we may have the promise fulfilled in us, "If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what you will, and it shall be done unto you."

What Christian Endeavor Is Building

Christian Endeavor is building patriots who will stand in the forefront against iniquities which threaten to tarnish the flag. It is building Christian men who will help to make the precepts of Christ current in the commercial world. It is building leaders for the great enterprises of the church. It is building men who will be willing to fill humble places amid the strain and stress of things with confidence and joy.—Edwin Forrest Hallenbeck, D. D., in Christian Endeavor World.

Dr. Sheldon's Personal Indorsement.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, D. D., says in a recent letter to Professor Ames R. Wells, the noted Christian Endeavor editor: "I enjoy more than ever the work of my own Christian Endeavor society this year. It is large and enthusiastic. I am to begin the reading of some stories in about two weeks and shall have the pleasure of facing about 170 young people each Sunday night. This is as good an audience as any man could wish."

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Jan. 6: Morning Watch.

By REV. WALTER J. [illegible], D. D.

Secret communion with God.—Matt. vi, 6. Passages for reference.—Gen. xxxii, 24-29; II Kings iv, 33-37; Matt. xiv, 23; Luke xxii, 41-43; John i, 48.

"I have much to do today, therefore I must be much in prayer," is said to have been the frequent remark of Martin Luther. To some it seems a contradiction or at least a difficulty to be in prayer when busy about other things, but to the one who is accustomed to pray it is all clear. One who merely says prayers and needs to get his body into certain postures to say them devoutly, who makes much of the outward form and has not come to know the nature of true prayer as the inward attitude of the soul toward God, such a one will find it hard to pray and work at the same time.

But he who knows God close at hand and has learned to speak to Him as a man speaks to a faithful and near friend, such a one at once knows how the very stress of work will give greater urgency to the inner craving for communion and counsel with the Father.

This morning watch, do you observe it? Do you belong to the company who every morning before beginning the work of the day spend a little time in the reading of the book of God and in secret prayer to Him for guidance and protection during the day? If you have never done this, why not begin to do it now? We need constant guidance in all our affairs by God. This can come only to those whose minds are fixed to do God's will. That must be all settled first. But after that is done, how shall we know what His will is concerning us in any particular case? He has promised to reveal Himself to us, as He does not to the world. Whoever comes into the devotional frame of mind and has God much in his thought and is earnestly desiring special direction that he may please and glorify God never fails to sooner or later come into consciousness that he knows what is pleasing to God and to find himself possessed of a different experience of divine things from any he has had. This comes by no outward voice of visible sign, but is an inwrought consciousness which has the highest degree of certainty for him who possesses it and needs no outward attestation to make it more convincing to him.

This talking with God not only brings clear knowledge of duty, but it also is effective in settling the will with less struggle and conflict than is ordinary. By communion with God and meditation on His will and way we come to see that it is best, and our determination goes out to put ourselves in accord with the right and good, and not to be contrary to what we see is most desirable and altogether admirable.

Then, again, this talking with God puts us in the same frame of heart that He has. Knowing the right and true and determining to do it, we come to love it and find our pleasure in that way alone. This brings peace and contentment. We are in harmony with ourselves and with God, and the petty contradictions of life in the world do not so greatly disturb us. All things come to work together for good for us, and life takes on new coloring and is altogether different.

Have you tried this and failed in a measure because of lack of time or forgetfulness? Has it after a little become dull and irksome routine, with no zest and little profit in it? Well, that is but the natural course with all new things. Begin all over again. Do not expect too much of yourself at first. You must not expect all the deep things of God's presence to be revealed to you at once. Consider how it is with earthly friends and acquaintances. When first introduced to a person you often find it difficult to make much conversation, because you do not know each other or have much in common, but let a friend of many years' intimacy come in and how the wheels of talk spin round! Get acquainted with God and hold all you have in common with Him and you will find no moments in communion with Him dull.

Whatever else you neglect this year, do not neglect to cultivate intimacy with God.

Kingdom of Heaven Is Within You.

If you do not wish for His kingdom, don't pray for it, but if you do you must do more than pray for it; you must work for it. And to work for it you must know what it is; we have all prayed for it many a day without thinking. Observe, it is a kingdom that is to come to us; we are not to go to it. Also, it is not to come outside of us; but in the hearts of us. "The kingdom of God is within you." And, being within us, it is not a thing to be seen, but to be felt; and though it brings all substance of good with it, it does not consist in that. "The kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost;" joy, that is to say, in the holy, healthful and helpful Spirit.—John Ruskin.

Human Life.

It is the salvation of a noble nature to have some task of self denial, some motive for self sacrifice left, when all that made the daily burden of life endurable has passed away. Happy he who has habituated himself to look upon his whole earthly career but as a task of which the reward, though not given here, is as priceless as it is certain. I have remarked that a true delineation of the smallest man and his sense of pilgrimage through life is capable of interesting the greatest man; that all men are to an unspeakable degree brothers, each man's life a strange emblem of every man's, and that human portraits faithfully drawn are of all pictures the welcomest on human walls.—Thomas Carlyle.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1903 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

ut on the open road again he thought it out. Marriage had not been in his mind when he spoke to the woman. He had meant only to give her a home. But to her the idea had come naturally from his words, and he began to see that it was, indeed, not an unnatural thing to do. He dwelt long on this new idea, picturing at intervals the woman's lack of any charm or beauty, her painful emaciation, her weakness.

As he entered Brigham's office in Salt Lake City some days later, there passed out by the same door a woman whom he seemed dimly to remember. The left half of her face was disfigured by a huge flaming scar, and he saw that she had but one hand.

"Who was that woman?" he asked Brigham, after they had chatted a little of other matters.

"That's poor Christina Lund. You ought to remember her. She was in your hand-cart party. She's having a pretty hard time of it. You see, she froze off one hand, so now she can't work much, and then she froze her face, so she ain't much for looks any longer—in fact, I wouldn't say Christina was much to start with, judging from the half of her face that's still good—and so, of course, she hasn't been able to marry. The Church helps her a little now and then, but what troubles her most is that she'll lose her glory if she ain't married. You see, she ain't a worker and she ain't handsome, so who's going to have her sealed to him?"

"I remember her now. She pushed the cart with her father in it from the Platte crossing, at Fort Laramie, clear over to Echo canyon, when all the fingers of one hand came off on the bar of the cart one afternoon; and then her hand had to be amputated. Brother Brigham, she shouldn't be cheated of her place in the Kingdom."

"Well, she ain't capable, and she ain't a pretty person, so what can she do?"

"I believe if the Lord is willing I will have her sealed to me."

"It will be your own doings, Brother Rae. I wouldn't take it on myself to counsel that woman to anybody."

"I feel I must do it, Brother Brigham."

"Well, so be it if you say. She can be sealed to you and be a star in your crown forever. But I hope, now that you've begun to build up your kingdom, you'll do a little better, next time. There's a lot of pretty good looking young women came in with a party yesterday—"

"All in good time, Brother Brigham! If you're willing, I'll pick up my second on the way south."

"Well, well, now that's good!" and the broad face of Brigham glowed with friendly enthusiasm. "You know I'd suspicioned more than once that you wasn't overly strong on the doctrinal point of celestial marriage. I hope your second, Brother Joel, is a little fancier than this one."

"She'll be a better worker," he replied.

"Well, they're the most satisfactory in the long run. I've found that out myself. At any rate, it's best to lay the foundations of your kingdom with workers, the plainer the better. After that, a man can afford something in the ornamental line now and then. Now, I'll send for Christina and tell her what luck she's in. She hasn't had her endowments yet, so you might as well go through those with her. Be at the endowment-house at five in the morning."

And so it befell that Joel Rae, Elder after the Order of Melchisedek, and Christina Lund, spinster, native of Denmark, were on the following day, after the endowment-rites had been administered, married for time and eternity.

From the altar they went to the wagons and began their journey south. Christina came out of the endowment-house, glowing, as to one side of her face. She was, also, in a state of daze that left her able to say but little. Proud and happy and silent, her sole remark, the first day of the trip, was: "Brigham—now—he make such a lovely, bee-yoo-tiful God in heaven!"

But his work of service had only begun. As they went farther south he began to make inquiries for the wandering wife of Elder Tench. He came upon her at length as she was starting north from Beaver at dusk. He prevailed upon her to stop with his party.

"I don't mind to-night, sir, but I must be off betimes in the morning."

But in the morning he persuaded her to stay with them.

"Your husband is out of the country now, but he's coming back soon, and he will stop first at my house when he does come. So stay with me there and wait for him."

She was troubled by this at first, but at last agreed.

"If you're sure he will come there first—"

She refused to ride in the wagon, however, preferring to walk, and strode briskly all day in the wake of the cattle.

When they reached Cedar City a halt was made while he went for the other woman—not without some misall suffered; and the two wives tactfully humored the whims of the insane woman. On the day they reached home, the husband took them to the door of his own little room.

"All that out there is yours," he said. "Make the best arrangements you can. This is my place; neither of you must ever come in here."

CHAPTER XXII.

The Coming of the Woman-Child.

The next day he sent across the settlement for the child, waiting for her with mixed emotions,—a trembling merge of love and fear, with something, indeed, of awe for this woman-child of her mother, who had come to him so deviously and with a secret significance so mighty of portent to his own soul. When they brought her in at last, he had to brace himself to meet her.

She came and stood before him, one foot a little advanced, several dolls clutched tightly under one arm, and her bonnet swinging in the other hand. She looked up at him fearlessly, questioningly, but with no sign of friendliness. He saw and felt her mother in all her being, in her eyes and hair, in the lines of her soft little face, and indefinably in her way of standing or moving. He was seized with a sudden fear that the mother watched him secretly out of the child's eyes, and with the child's lips might call to him accusingly, with what wild cries of anguish and reproach he dared not guess. He strove to say something to her, but his lips were dry, and he made only some half-articulate sound, trying to force a smile of assurance.

Then the child spoke, her serious, questioning eyes upon him unwaveringly.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A new play by a new author, new and original ideas, worked out in an entertaining manner are a few characteristics which will help to make "The Man of Her Choice" one of the season's pleasant engagements. "The Man of Her Choice" comes to the New Plainfield Theatre tonight.

Petite Paula Edwardes will appear at the New Plainfield Theatre tomorrow night prior to her engagement in New York at the Casino. Her latest vehicle is "Princess Beggar," a whimsical comedy opera, by Edward Paulton, librettist of the famous "Erminie," and Alfred G. Robyn, a composer of the first rank, whose music was heard, whistled and sung by the nation in "A Yankee Consul." She is supported this season by a company notable both in comedians and as to singing strength. "Princess Beggar" is genuinely comedy opera, not "musical comedy," so-called, which strings together a promiscuous collection of vaudeville specialties upon a flimsey strand of plot, disguised in showy costumes.

Mr. Jos. J. Sullivan brings a well tested favorite to the New Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and night in "The Blackthorn," one of the best of the Irish musical comedies. He has surrounded himself with a company of well-known players and resumes the role of Denny Dolan with which he has been identified for several seasons.

Nothing has struck the popular chord with fuller force in years in New York and Chicago than George M. Cohan's play, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway." Its music is being hummed and whistled everywhere, and its bright lines and jokes repeated. Nothing has been more successful from the theatre standpoint or from fulfillment of the playwright's mission to entertain and satisfy a discriminating public. The original cast and production will be seen at the New Plainfield Theatre next Monday night. Fay Templeton is doing some of the best work in her successful career in the enjoyable role of "Just Plain Mary," and nothing better or more effective has been seen in years than the "Kid Burns" character of Victor Moore, whose interpretation is receiving the commendation of all who have seen this clever play.

The appearance of "Piff Paff Pouf," a musical cocktail, under H. C. Whitney's management at the New Plainfield Theatre next Wednesday afternoon and night, is a matter of more than ordinary interest to theatre-goers. After two seasons of the most successful engagements in all the larger cities, H. C. Whitney will give our patrons the opportunity of enjoying an evening that will be profitable to all lovers of catchy music. "Piff Paff Pouf" wil be given with the same splendid stage settings that characterized its production at the Casino Theatre, New York City, for over eight months with a cast of metropolitan favorites, and a chorus of rare beauty and vocal ability.

Theatre Arrangements Commended.

The Charity Ball committee was greatly aided by Manager Counihan in the theatre arrangements Monday night. The entrance was guarded by a rain-proof canopy and every possible precaution was taken by him to protect the handsome gowns of the women as they entered and left. Electric lights were plentiful on the sidewalk directly in front of the playhouse and the house staff assisted Frank Hedden in getting the people to their carriages. Manager Counihan was warmly commended by the executive committee for his foresight.

Hedden's Record Broken.

Frank Hedden broke all previous records for handling carriages following the close of the charity ball theatre performance Monday night. Within a short space of time he had brought 186 vehicles to the entrance and started them off to the Casino. This number does not include the automobiles which swelled the list to over 200. He was ably assisted by Manager Counihan's staff and James Savard. The line of carriages was so long on West Second street that it extended beyond Central avenue and the numbers had to be called in megaphone relays.

DILKS AND GADDIS MAKE A RECORD TEAM SCORE

BOTH DO SOME GREAT BOWLING IN TOURNEY SERIES.

"Steady Bill" Dilks up and did it again, last night, and with gilt-edged support from his partner, P. L. Gaddis, took three straight games from Vail and Meyers in the tourney at McLaughlin's. Incidentally, Dilks and Gaddis made the record high team score, a 422, and "Bill" kept his average up to 204 by rolling 228, 216 and 168. Gaddis led off with 204, but ran into a bunch of hard luck in the second game by getting five villainous splits that precluded any attempt at a mark. He rallied in the third, however, and came up with 196. Dilks and Gaddis now have a good lead in the tourney and also hold high team score, team average and Dilks has individual average by a healthy margin.

An exciting game took place in the series between VanEmburgh and Blatz and the Schaub brothers, last night. The teams ended the first game with a tie score of 368. In the roll off Blatz and VanEmburgh got 15 and the Schaubs 18, giving the game to the latter. It was all they did land as their opponents took the other two. The Schaubs also rolled a series with Vail and Meyers and took two of the three. A fourth series between McLaughlin and Causebrook and Alberts and Sheelen gave the Fanwoodites two games. In one of them, Alberts hit the timber for 235.

The scores:

J. McLaughlin	148	147	157
Causebrook	213	220	150

EDWARD ROSS BURIED.

Cave-in of the Grave Delays Burial Ten Minutes.

The funeral of Edward Ross was held from his late home on Bank place yesterday afternoon. The service was in charge of Rev. George Shaw, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church. It was largely attended. Among the floral pieces were two from the Criterion Club, of which he was a member, and from the insurance office where he had worked.

The burial was at Hillside. The service there was delayed ten minutes by a sudden cave-in of the grave. The bearers, all members of the Criterion Club, were Harry G. DeMeza, Thomas DeMeza, William Emmons, Walter Emmons, Harry Blimm and John Duckworth.

Rat Fought Man.

With a crowd looking on, Frank Haurand killed a huge gray sewer rat at Front street, opposite Park avenue, at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The rat came out of the sewer in front of the City National Bank building. It loafed across the street, as if in no hurry and hadn't a care in the world. It passed right in front of Haurand, who stood on the crossing. Haurand kicked at it, and kicked true. The rat turned after the blow and fought back. It squealed and bit as Haurand kicked and stamped on it, and showed a surprising tenacity on life. Time and again it fought back after a seemingly crushing blow, and the contest attracted a lot of people.

Benner Boy's Condition.

Harvey Benner, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Benner, who was shot through the body by the accidental discharge of a revolver held by his father, rested easily last night, but today was somewhat restless. Dr. Buchanan is in attendance and is doing everything to prevent blood poisoning (the after-effect of the wound to be most feared. His age is very much in favor of his recovery but there are other conditions that place the odds against him.

Funeral of John M. Schorb, Jr.

The funeral of John Martin Schorb, Jr., was held at his late home on East Front street, yesterday, with a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance. It was conducted by Pastor Schneegas, of the German Reformed church, assisted by Rev. John Justin, of Union Hill, a former pastor. Interment was at Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being John M. and William Schorb, Clifford Schorb and the Messrs. Ptinschsky.

Broke Into a Woman's Room.

Forcing his way into the bedroom of Mrs. Mable Powleson, wife of Dr. Harry D. Powelson, a prominent dentist of Bound Brook, Sheriff Cooper served a paper on her early yesterday morning in the suit for divorce brought against her by her husband.

Charles Cochran, of New York, is the guest of his brother-in-law, M. F. Elderton, East Front street.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

We sometimes think the greatest of all the virtues is politeness.

We have always thought we would have to sleep in a bed that had to be undressed before we could get into it.

Looking for business is like looking for four-leaf clovers, which somebody else always finds easily enough.

If Luther Burbank is so smart, why doesn't he grow watermelons that have handles on them to carry them by?

After a girl reaches 15 and puts on long dresses what happens to her legs? They are covered up, and so far as people know they become crooked.

It has happened many times when Miss Princess returns to her father's palace and is happy in the thought of the imposing appearance she made when on the streets, that she finds the torn hem of her petticoat was dragging all the time she was down town, and she is so humiliated that her haughtiness falls from her like a garment.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

LOVE AND MARRIAGE.

Long engagements keep a fellow short.

Matches are made in heaven—misfits in the other place.

All men are capable liars—but married men have the greater opportunities.

Warm love is sometimes less successful in melting a girl than cold cash.

A man may be called old when his ideal wife is one who will make a good nurse.

Many a woman trusts a man with her affections who won't trust him with his own wages.

In courtship it is unwise to dig up the past, but it is absolutely necessary to dig up the present.—Boston Transcript.

CITY AND BOROUGH CO-OPERATE ON WATER QUESTION

Membership of a Bi-Municipal Public Ownership Commission to be Announced Monday.

TO INVESTIGATE PLAN

Expert Engineers and Special Counsel to be Engaged—How Commission Is to Be Made Up.

The first active steps towards an investigation of the municipal water supply scheme will likely be taken before the end of next week, for by Monday the completion of the commission will be announced by Mayor Fisk, of this city, and Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, both of whom are ardently interested in the plans. The commission will be made up of fifteen members. This number will include the mayors of the two municipalities, two citizens of the borough to be appointed by Mr. Smalley, three members of the Plainfield Common Council to be named by President Daniel and eight other residents of this city to be selected by the mayor. The eight private citizens will be picked from the four wards of the city.

It is not improbable that the Common Council will be asked at its adjourned meeting on Monday night to make the appropriation of $2,500, requested by Mayor Fisk in his message, for expenses in pursuing the investigation. Engineering experts and special counsel will be engaged to assist the interborough commission in its work. The plan is for the city and borough to unite in controlling the water supply either by erecting an independent plant or by obtaining the Plainfield Water Supply's plant through condemnation proceedings. The private concern, which now supplies not only Plainfield and North Plainfield but a good part of Union county from its wells in this city, is largely owned by United States Senator John Kean, Frank Bergen, general counsel of the P. S. C., and several other representative men. It is a stock company, and a few Plainfielders are among the shareholders. According to report the concern places a value of $2,000,000 on its plant, but of course this takes into consideration the business it does outside of the city and borough limits.

There appears to be a prevailing opinion that it would be far cheaper for the two municipalities to erect their own plant, and this phase of the subject will be fully considered by the fifteen.

What the make-up of the fifteen will be cannot be learned. Mayor Fisk declines to give out any names whatever. He says that things will be in proper shape on Monday and at that time, the complete list will be announced. Mayor Smalley expresses himself as enthusiastic over the idea of solving this question at once. He argues that it means as much to the borough as it does to Plainfield and for that reason he will lend any possible assistance to the new commission.

Relief Association Appeal.

The Plainfield Relief Association is in urgent and immediate need of second-hand clothing, shoes, furniture, bedding, anything you have in your houses for which you have no further use. These should be sent to the treasurer, Miss Lilin C. Moore, 717 Watchung avenue.

"INFERNAL MACHINE" FOR UNION'S SHERIFF

AFTER THE EXPLOSION DR. LAWRENCE FINDS IT IS A JOKE.

When Sheriff William H. Lawrence came from Summit on Wednesday and entered his office in the county courthouse at Elizabeth he found a package awaiting him on his desk. He loosened the knot of the pink string, and disclosed within the wrapper a pasteboard box. Inside the box he found a rich-looking blue plush-covered case, about six inches long and four inches wide. His eyes bulged, and the attaches of the office gathered about him while he tried to guess the name of the sender, and whether the case contained a gold watch, diamond-studded medal or a set of New Year resolutions. Then he pushed gently on the catch to open the case, but the catch wouldn't work. Becoming impatient, he squeezed the sides of the case. An explosion, with a great amount of smoke, followed. All hands were stunned for a moment, but the sheriff hung on until the smoke cleared away. Then he saw that the case contained the regulation clock machinery for infernal machines. There were indications of chilly pedal extremities among the attaches, but the sheriff—he stood fast, "nor turned he a single hair," while he held the thing infernal, or otherwise, at arm's length. A reporter standing by butted in recklessly to get at the true inwardness of the machine, on the ground that if the thing was intended to hurt anybody it wasn't likely that the explosion was intended for a warning of worse things to come. He held that the real danger had passed. The sheriff concluded the reporter was right, and they examined the plush-covered surprise. They found that the clock-works had been arranged so that when the cover of the case was raised it would release a small hammer arranged on a mouse-trap plan, so that the head of the hammer would strike a number of paper caps such as are used by children on Independence Day. In the bottom of the case a full box of the caps had been placed. When the explosives had been removed everybody enjoyed a prolonged, merry ha-ha, and to the uttermost parts of the town. But woe unto the man who sent it if he be discovered.

DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL ENJOYED BY AUDIENCE.

First of Three Sonata Recitals Given at Home of Mrs. J. B. Dumont Yesterday.

The first of a series of three Sonata recitals was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Beebe and Mons. Edouard Dethier, of New York, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Dumont, of Stelle avenue. About eighty people were present. The programme comprised selections from the early composers, covering the period from 1600 to 1800. The sonatas were compositions of Biver, Locatelli, Handel and Partini, and the renditions were a perfect revelation to alll, it not being generally known that the works of the early composers contained such harmony and beauty. Both Miss Beebe and Mr. Dethier received an ovation for their perfect interpretation of the programme.

The series of sonata recitals were arranged by Miss Maude VanBoskerck. The second one will be held at the home of Miss Hubbell on Central avenue, Wednesday morning, January 16. Plans for this recital had to be changed as Mrs. George P. Mellick, who had offered her home, is in the south with Mr. Mellick.

BOARD OF TRADE SIGHS

Over Muddy Pavements and Business Men's Lack of Support.

A PAVEMENT PETITION

Charles W. Runyon Suggests One Signed by the Merchants—Secretary Smith Dubious Over the Prospect.

Because of the small attendance the Board of Trade postponed the election and the receipts of reports at its annual meeting last night. Only eleven members were present when the session began, and latecomers did not swell the attendance to more than fifteen.

While pensively waiting for symptoms of something new and active, President Woolston wondered out loudly why some action had not been taken by the city on the permanent pavement question.

"There is no sense in having all this mud in the center of town," he said. Brick could be put down as well as not, or anything else that is satisfactory for that matter."

"Did the petition to the Common Council for permanent pavement have any weight?" asked M. C. Van Arsdale.

"Apparently not," said Secretary F. H. Smith, with feeling.

"Several petitions have gone to the Council without any apparent weight," said Charles W. Runyon. "How about a petition from the business section?"

"That might be better," said Mr. Woolston.

"Very few business men would be likely to refuse to sign such petition," said Mr. Runyon.

"You might think so," said Secretary Smith, "but a good many business men don't care enough about the Board of Trade to pay $2 a year to support it and its works. Of the 132 members, not one-half are business men here with any vital interest in the commercial advancement of the city, and the dues are paid more readily by the commuters than by the merchants. Business men should give their weight to the Board of Trade."

"In Trenton," continued Mr. Smith, "they have decided that a Board of Trade is a detriment. They say the real estate men get jealous when an improvement scheme is afoot, and block things by boosting prices and bickerings."

"Maybe that's what's the matter here," suggested Mr. Runyon.

A discussion of members who had quit paying dues grew out of the jeremiad chorus, and it was voted to drop all delinquents after one more effort by Collector Thorn to get some cash out of them.

Then the Board heard a speech of explanation from one of the publishers of a local almanac, who had asked the body to endorse the book and buy some copies for distribution. The Board passed a resolution of endorsement and authorized the president to purchase not more than 500 copies and as many less as he saw fit. It was understood that the state of the treasury would permit the purchase of 250 copies. They cost 10 cents apiece. The Board said it would buy more if it could.

Letters were received from Congressman Charles N. Fowler and Ira Wood in response the the Board's request that they support the bill to increase the salaries of postal clerks and carriers in cities of the first and second classes. Mr. Wood said he would do all he could to further the message. Mr. Fowler said the matter would receive his "careful consideration and attention."

Jacob Weinberger and Charles Conover were elected to membership. The officers will be elected at the next meeting.

Perkins Not for Pitney.

Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, who has been picked again to be Republican leader of the House, denies that the report that he has come out in favor of Justice Mahlon Pitney for United States Senator. Like Senator Ackerman, the Westfielder favors Governor Stokes for the honor provided the latter becomes a candidate. Both say that they consider Justice Pitney, however, a very good man.

Fisk to Quit Chairmanship.

The Plainfield Republican City Committee will meet at the Casino on Thursday night for the purpose of reorganization. A new chairman will be chosen on that occasion, Mayor Fisk having decided, it is said, to give up the office. Who will be chosen in his place is not known. Several names have been named in connection with the job, but it is said to be difficult matter to pick the right man.

Among the newly married couples stopping at the Royal Palm Hotel, Miami, Florida, are Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Rowland, of this city.

SAYING SHE'S CRAZY, HAS SERVANT ARRESTED

RUSHMORE 'PHONES POLICE; EXCITED WOMAN IS TAKEN TO HEADQUARTERS.

S. W. Rushmore, 913 Putnam avenue, head of the Rushmore Dynamo Works, telephoned to police headquarters at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon that he wanted a policeman to come to the house after Mary Connor, a servant. He said she was crazy, according to the police.

Patrolman Higgins, sent out in response to the message, found Mary Connor on the street in front of the house. She seemed to be excited, and a crowd surrounded her. Higgins placed her under arrest at Mr. Rushmore's request, but insisted on the complainant accompanying him. At the station house, the police say, the woman made allegations of disorderly conduct against Mr. Rushmore. That was the charge made against her. She fixed no complaint against the complainant. Chief Kiely told them both to appear in court this morning.

When the case was called, Counsellor W. S. Angleman, for the servant, secured an adjournment until Monday morning, to obtain time for the preparation of his case. It is expected that the hearing will be highly interesting.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT AT Y. M. C. A. DINNER

DR. A. V. V. RAYMOND, OF UNION, TO SPEAK HERE HERE ON JANUARY 29.

Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union College, will be the speaker at the annual dinner of the Y. M. C. A. January 29. His coming and the date of the dinner were announced by the dinner committee, of which James E. Kimball is chairman, at the meeting of the association directors last night.

The plans for the dinner are more elaborate than in past years. The menu will be longer and richer, and the postpandial features will be more impressive. Dr. Raymond is about the biggest lion ever bagged for a Y. M. C. A. dinner. The affair will be held in the large hall at the association building.

At last night's meeting, G. M. Rittenhouse presented the association with an Edison Home phonograph, and fifty records. The instrument will be used not only about the building, but at the shop prayer meetings.

DOCTORS OPPOSE ORDER.

The Lunacy Reforms Introduced by Judge Booraem Raise Protest.

New Brunswick, Jan. 4.—County Physician James L. Suydam appeared before the County Board of Freeholders yesterday and protested against a new order made by Judge Booraem relative to lunacy cases. The court recently held that when physicians commit patients to the insane asylum they must appear later before the court and testify that the patients were proper subjects for the asylum. The court considers that the old method of permitting physicians to commit patients and asking no question about it was too lax.

The county physician raised the question of expense. Under the old rule physicians charged $5 in lunacy cases. Now, he pointed out, they want from $10 to $25 to repay them for the time they spend in court.

Mrs. Miller's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Miller, who died Tuesday at her home in Coontown, was held yesterday in the Coontown church. It was conducted by Rev. Peter Gibb, of Millington, and was attended by a large gathering, many being from this city. During the service three selections, "Nearer My God," "Saved By Grace" and "Looking This Way," were sung by Miss Jennie DeMott and Miss Florence Conroy, of the borough. Interment was made at Coontown, the following acting as pall-bearers: John C. Cooper, John C. Cooper, John Miller, Henry Kline, William Miller, Frank Winn and Israel V. Adams.

New Concern Locates in the Stirling.

The Plainfield Motor Car Company, of which Frank W. Runyon is the president, and J. F. Gillette the manager, has leased the store at 214 Park avenue, the Stirling buildin, and will take possession soon. The store is to be used exclusively as a show room for the various motor cars to be handled by the company.

—W. J. Allen, of Grandview avenue, has resigned his position with the Metropolitan Insurance Company to accept one with the local branch of the Hallett & Davis piano concern.

DIES BY HIS OWN HAND

When Placed Under Arrest at Mountainside Charles Smith Commits Suicide.

A RAZOR HIS WEAPON

Almost Severed His Head from Body While Constable Was Telephoning Westfield Police.

Made desperate by the thought of having to submit to arrest because of alleged stealing, Charles Smith, fifty years old, supposedly of Newark, committed suicide at Martin Klopf's Mountainside Hotel, last night. While the special officer who had taken him into custody was telephoning to the Westfield police, Smith pulled a razor from his pocket and drew the blade across his throat. He applied all his strength to the effort and as a result his head was almost severed from the body.

The act was committed while the officer was but a few feet away in the bar room and a group of men were standing about. It all occured so quickly that no one could stop him and when he lunged forward and then sank to the floor, several of them fled from the place. A couple of others more nervy and his captor tried to staunch the flow of blood but it was an impossibility. He died within five minutes after applying the blade. County Physician Westcott was notified and he had the body removed to Cole's undertaking rooms in this city where it is being held.

Smith has been working off and on in Westfield but the people there knew little about him. He has been suspected of stealing articles from a stable and also mixing up in some other shady transactions and was under surveillance by the Westfield police. A special officer was detailed to watch him and last night found him at Klopf's place with some pieces of harness that he believed to have been stolen. He informed Smith that he was under arrest and then started to tell the Westfield police by 'phone of what he had done. The had no more than placed the receiver to his car than the prisoner applied the weapon.

Men who were acquainted with Smith in a casual way, informed the authorities that his home was in Newark and that they thought he had a wife in that city. The Newark police have been furnished with the meagre facts and are trying to locate her.

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS AT RAILROAD STATION.

Rules Governing the South Side Put Into Effect Successfully This Morning.

Mayor Fisk's traffic regulations for the North avenue station went partly into effect this morning. The rules governing the south side were put into operation and worked well.

The regulations, enforced by two policemen, required carriages coming to the station to drive up by the Park avenue roadway, and to leave by way of Fourth street. There have been a number of narrow escapes from collisions, because of the tangle of incoming and outgoing vehicles in the morning rush hour. Two policemen are stationed there between seven and nine in the morning.

Chief of Police Kiely will probably put the rules for governing the traffice on the North avenue side of the station into effect tonight. Two officers will be used to keep the lines moving properly.

FRANKLIN INSTALLS OFFICERS.

Ceremony Followed by Speeches and Serving of Refreshments.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., installed its offices-elect last night, and after the business of the evening refreshments were served. It was expected that there would be initiation and that some of the State Council officers would attend. The inclement weather interfered with the plans. These officers were installed:

Past Councilor, Frank Platts; councilor, Arthur Stryker; vice-councilor, Harry Knight; conductor, Frank Whitely; inside sentinel, Steven Millwater; outside sentinel, John Naylor; assistant secretary, Forester Hartpence; trustee, eighteen months, W. J. Hartpence; representatives to State Council, Thos. E. Currin, Jr., and Russell Hazard. Speeches were made by the new officers.

Dr. Schenck Much Better.

The improvement in the condition of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, has been such that the family physician, Dr. J. B. Probasco, was not obliged to make his regular visit today.

CONSOLIDATION COMMISSIONERS WILL ORGANIZE

Mayors of City and Borough Issue Call For Meeting on Monday Afternoon.

PUBLIC HEARINGS

After Fifth Member is Chosen and Commission is Organized, Meetings in Both Places Will Be Planned.

No time has been lost by Mayor Charles J. Fisk and Mayor Newton B. Smalley in taking up the consolidation question, as outlined in Mr. Fisk's message, and the four commissioners already appointed by the governing bodies of the city and borough will meet on Monday afternoon for the purpose of organization. On that occasion, the fifth member will be selected by the four appointed as provided by the joint committee's report adopted by the city and borough council's. This fifth member must be a member of Plainfield and as far as is known no one has been mentioned for the place.

When the commission has completed its membership, a chairman will be chosen. In all probability one of the city's delegates will be given this honor. The commission will also pick a secretary, who will be a stenographer. It may be that the investigators will informally discuss plans for public meetings to be held in the city and borough in order to have the whole subject thoroughly threshed out. The purpose of the meetings is to allow all citizens of both places every opportunity of voicing their opinion regarding the proposed consolidation.

Acting on the recommendation of former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, one of the city's commissioners, both governing bodies have enlarged the powers of the commission. The scope of their work will include the investigation of consolidation as a feasible and desirable scheme provided the annexation of North Plainfield to Union county is to follow. It will also delve into the merits of the subject of merger of the two municipalities separate and distinct from any separation of North Plainfield from Somerset county. The consensus of opinion seems to be that annexation will surely follow, if consolidation is first brought about.

In speaking of the subject last night, Mayor Newton B. Smalley voiced his opinion freely, declaring that he purposes giving his hearty co-operation in Mayor Fisk's effort to have the much mooted question settled without delay.

"I can say now that I have always been in favor of annexation. Consolidation has not been so much to me. I cannot say that I would favor merging the two municipalities unless it is distinctly understood that annexation of North Plainfield to Union county will follow within a very short time. In my humble opinion, the majority of the people of our borough realize now that it is against our interests to be a part of Somerset. We pay lots out in taxes to the county; what do we get in return? We are more naturally allied with the interests of Union county and we should be a part of it.

"At any rate," continued Mayor Smalley, "I am going to do all I can to have this subject settled. Its continued agitation is hurting our borough. We are getting unfavorable advertisement because of it. What we want to do is to bring about many needed improvements. There is great need for a sewerage system among other things and the sooner we learn whether we are going to join with Plainfield the better. If we are not, then we want to go ahead on our own hook."

Notices were sent out last night by Mayors Fisk and Smalley asking the commissioners already selected to meet at Mayor Fisk's office on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Charles W. McCutchen, the largest property owner in the borough, and Elston M. French, another conspicuous citizen, are North Plainfield's commissioners having been appointed by Mayor Smalley and confirmed by Council. Plainfield's commissioners are Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, president of the New York Clearing House Association, and School Trustee P. T. Woodhull.

Counsel for Fanwood Borough.

George W. V. May, Esq., of this city, has been appointed counsel for Fanwood Borough for the coming year.

MUHLENBERG RECEIVES $4,800 FROM COUNTY

FREEHOLDERS VOTE THAT SUM TO LOCAL HOSPITAL; $10,200 FOR ELIZABETH

The Union County Board of Freeholders held its first regular meeting yesterday to consider several matters needing attention at that time. Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur offered a resolution, which was adopted, apportioning the various amounts to the hospitals in the county. Muhlenberg Hospital received $4,800; the Elizabeth General Hospital, $7,500 and the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, Elizabeth, $2,700.

Freeholder Cladek, of Rahway, disputed a claim of $113 for lumber and $94 for help presented by the contractor for repairs on a bridge in Rahway. County Engineer Bauer explained that additional work was necessary under the bridge, however, Mr. Cladex did not want to stand for the bill and on his motion the matter was referred to a committee of five, of which J. Hervey Doane is one, for further investigation.

Collector Nathan R. Leavitt's bond was approved by the committee and Director Benjamin King appointed Freeholders Krause, Smith and Pierson as a legislative committee. Freeholders Smith, Meisel and Swain were also appointed as the committee on stationery and printing.

It was voted to raise the price for removing snow from county roads on Sundays to twenty-five cents an hour. The price for such work on other days will remain at 20 cents an hour. The Sunday raise was voted because it is hard to get men to work on Sundays.

HARWOOD FROST WILL EDIT NEW MAGAZINE.

"Technical Literature" the Name of Monthly Publication to Appear on January 15.

"Technical Literature," is the name of a new magazine which will make its appearance in New York on January 15. For the present it will be under the editorship and management of Harwood Frost, of Woodland avenue, son of George H. Frost, editor of the Engineering News, of New York.

The magazine will be devoted to the review of all current technical articles in all branches of such knowledge. There are now about 400 English, French and American magazines devoting space to information about twenty-four branches of technical work, and it is the purpose of the new magazine to review the most important under each division, including the work of engineers, machine tool operators, plumbers, masons, builders, contractors, surveyors and railroad work in general.

Harwood Frost, who will assume the management of the magazine, has for the past two years been in charge of the circulation and book department of the Engineering News Company, of New York, at which place the offices of the new magazine will be located. He was graduated from Lehigh University, Class '03, in the mechanical engineering department. Two years later he received the bachelor science degree at McGill University, Montreal, and during the previous eight years resided in London, Eng., where he continued his studies and was interested in the iron business.

COUNTY COMMITTEE ANNUAL.

Frank Smith Will Remain at the Head; New Plainfield Members.

The annual meeting of the Republican County Committee will be held on January 14, at Elizabeth. County Chairman Frank H. Smith and all the other officers will almost certainly be re-elected. Mr. Smith says he is willing to assume the burden another year.

At that meeting the Colbyites elected last fall will take their places. They are Arthur Murphy and Robert Hall, of the Second ward, and Duncan Taylor, of the Third ward. Mayor Fisk is the fourth new member. He was nominated by both regulars and Colbyites. The other members of the committee from here are former Mayor James F. Buckle, Amos Andrews, of the First ward; Chairman Smith, Herbert Buxton and Andrew McCarden.

Wanted Dummy's Coat.

Michael Szlwezik, a Pole, got as drunk as his name yesterday afternoon. He wandered along West Front street, and mistook one of the lay figures in front of a clothing store for a friend and asked it to lend him its overcoat. He was unbuttoning the coat when Patrolman Overbaugh nabbed him. He was sober and sane this morning, and Judge Runyon suspended sentence.

LITERARY.

Just now the genius of our people is for the development of the resources of the country. Ten years from now it may be statesmanlike to try to persuade our young men to go to sea as sailors and our capitalists to invest, like the Germans of today, in merchant shipping. But at present our young men have more than they can do on land, at better pay than a seafaring life will ever afford; and the land pursuits give them opportunities for mental as well as material progress that are denied the sailor boy. We are simply too prosperous, at present, to be obliged to take to ocean freighting for a livelihood. The disappearance of our former merchant marine was due chiefly to the fact that there was so much money to be made in railroading, agriculture, and manufacturing here at home in the period following the Civil War, that our capital and labor with one accord refused the meager harvests of the sea for the rich and certain returns afforded by the development of the Mississippi Valley and the farther West.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for January.

A representative of the Woman's Home Companion, who spent the greater part of ten days with John D. Rockefeller at his Cleveland home, says of Mr. Rockefeller. "It is an exaggeration to say he (Rockefeller) is the most hated, least understood, and most interesting man in America." In estimating the multi-millionaire's wealth, the article, which is graphically illustrated with photographs loaned by Mr. Rockefeller, contains an interesting statement. Mr. Rockefeller's wealth would be more correctly represented by about one quarter of the billion which he has so often been charged with possessing, and more than half of this has come to the advance in many judicious investments long years ago.

The January issue of The Red Book Magazine, most popular of all the distinctly short-fiction publications, has appeared and sustains the earlier announcement that the issues for 1907 would surpass in interest all that have gone before. The number opens with twenty-eight art portraits of American actresses whose beauty and talent have won them their places on the American stage; and closes with a timely dramatic article by Louis V. De Foe in which that well known critic tells the stories of the newest plays. Between these two admirable features are grouped a number of the best asd most diversified short tales The Red Book Magazine has ever published.

Will Erect Modern Dwelling.

The Misses Harriet and Sarah Manning, of South Plainfield, have purchased Nelson Runyon's property on West Front street, opposite Elmwood place, and they intend to erect a modern dwelling on a portion of it. 140,000 Pieces of Double Coated
Snowflake Enamel Ware
Biggest Purchase on Record to be Sold at a Remarkable Price

When we purchased, last summer, a lot of 50,000 of Snowflake Enameled Ware we understood that no more could be had at the price we had paid, and we had little hope of repeating the great sales made possible by that purchase. But, when, after being told by the makers that our order had been the largest they had ever received for one shipment, we offered to treble that order at the same price, we secured such a concession that we had to pay an advance of only 10 per cent. Since that the price has advanced 50 per cent. So it is seen once again, that, by anticipating these advances, we have saver our patrons hundreds of dollars, and this sale, in which you are given your choice of any of the pieces in the lot at 40c, brings Enameled Ware to the people at an average of about half its worth.

We begin a sale tomorrow morning of this tremendous lot Snowflake Double Coated Enamel Ware, and we anticipate one of the biggest rushes the basement has ever seen.

MORE GAMES ROLLED IN TWO-MAN TOURNEY

NASH AND SKELLY TAKE THREE STRAIGHT FROM DAY AND GAHAGAN.

Owing to the absence of Judge Runyon, the series of games between him and his partner, Chief Kiely, and Willett and Britton, in the tourney, were not bowled last night. They will take place at a date to be arranged. Their dropping out left four teams to compete and the matches gave the gallery a chance to do some rooting. Nash and Skelly took three straight from Day and Gahagan, one of them by one pin, and Mullen and Conklin lost two to Koons and Skinner.

The "ponies" dropped their last game by three pins, the scores being 318 and 315. It looked like a sure thing for them at the start but a couple of breaks put the lead over to Koons and Skinner. They held it by a narrow margin until the final ball. Low score for the night fell to the lot of "Billy" Skinner who got 128 and the high mark went to Nash with a 229. Koons was the only other man to pass over the double century.

The scores:

Nash	229	144	168
Skelly	159	194	156
	388	338	324

Day	156	190	150

Skinner	128	187	158

FOOTBALL.

Everard Thompson, who had charge of the distribution of Yale football tickets last fall for both the Harvard and Princeton games, announced that of the 21,000 tickets for the Harvard game allotted to Yale graduates and under-graduates less than twenty were found in the hands of speculators.

One New York speculator was relieved of seven tickets at $2 each for which he had asserted that he had paid $50. He told the association officials that he had had enough of the football speculation and that he was glad to get out of town. One man, a New York professional speculator, refused to give up his tickets and fought with the deputy sheriff. The result was that he was locked up for assault, fined heavily for carrying concealed weapons and is still in jail.

The association had nearly a score of men employed in the work of checking. Twelve arrests were made and about thirty tickets were taken. The seats represented by these tickets were resold to Yale men, but the tickets themselves were held as evidence against the men to whom they were allotted and who will be asked to explain how their tickets were found for sale on the streets. The Yale office distributed more than 27,000 tickets to Yale people. Graduates and under-graduates took 6,020 tickets for the Princeton game, which was an advance of several hundred on any year of the past in which Yale has played at Princeton. For the Harvard game in New Haven graduates and under-graduates took about 21,000 tickets and Harvard the remaining 11,000. This was the highest mark for Harvard attendance at a New Haven game.

DIAMOND DUST.

Claude Ritchey is pleased that he is going to Boston to play. Why not? He is leaving Pittsburg.

Lajoie says he's willing to bat .122 if he can win a pennant for his Clevelands. He ought to ask Comiskey for the prescription.

Baseball has had its Anson, its Browning, its Waddell, its Lajoie and its Wagner, but as time rolls on it becomes more and more apparent that there never was but one Latham. He was the most original character in diamond history.

It is rumored in baseball circles that Kid Gleason, the veteran second baseman of the Philadelphia Nationals, will finally drop out of major league ball this year to play with Hugh Duffy's Providence Eastern League team. Gleason came into prominence as a pitcher with the Philadelphians in 1889. He stuck to the National League during the brotherhood war in 1890 and was a highclass boxman. As a pitcher he helped the Baltimore to win the pennant in 1894 and soon after that he became one of the best second-basemen in the country.

LIMITED FRANCHISE LAW DENOUNCED.

Chief of State Horticultural Board Says it Hinders Building of Trolley Lines.

Trenton, Jan. 4.—Most unexpectedly came yesterday the opposition of President Horace Roberts, of the New Jersey State Board of Horticulture, to the present Limited Franchise laws passed last winter after Senator Everett Colby, of Essex, had fought and successfully won a campaign on the issue.

President Roberts addressed the State Board today at its annual session and denounced the present twenty-year limited franchise law on the ground that, applied to trolleys, the act was a deterrent on capital going into such lines, to the disadvantage of the rural communities.

He urged the Legislature Committee of the Jersey farmers, to whom the address was referred, to work this year for the abolition of the Limited Franchise act as applied to trolleys.

The New Jersey State Board of Horticulture is a powerful political factor in the State, and the politicians seem to be astonished here over the stand taken by the farmers.

The board today also authorized a memorial to Congress to oppose the imposition by the German Government of a new tariff on apples, raising the import from 50 cents a barrel to $1.65 per barrel.

The board says this new tariff will ruin the Jersey apple growers, whose products go to New York for export to Germany.

Brick With Love Note.

New York, Jan. 4.—Henry Boden wrote a love letter and tossed it in at the casement. Some men give way to soft phrases, but not so he. His letter was solid enough to break a window and it made a dint in the floor where it landed. If Miss Adele Rigney, to whom it was consigned, had been looking wistfully into the rain like little Mabel with her face against the pane, an additional charge would have been made against Mr. Boden, who was yesterday arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police Court. To give the letter weight and dramatic effect he had enclosed a brick. It caused havoc and unrest when it was tossed into the house at No. 2 West Thirteenth street, where Miss Rigney resides. To defray any glazier's bill incurred, Boden had also inclosed $2. The man is a widower, who has for the last year been contemplating matrimony. He fixed his affections upon Miss Rigney, who is pretty and twenty, but as he is twenty-five years her senior, she failed to be interested in him. He was bonded to keep the peace.

Sent Infernal Machine.

New York, Jan. 4.—Charged with sending an infernal machine to his wealthy father-in-law, who had refused to help him financially, Dr. Julius Adelphi Gottlieb, thirty-seven years old, of No. 225 West 106th street, was locked up last night in the East Sixty-seventh street police station.

Morris Gluckman, a retired broker, living at No 211 East Sixtieth street, is the complainant. Gottlieb married Miss Annie Gluckman five years ago.

According to Acting Inspector Wolf, who is in charge of the Bureau of Combustibles, the infernal machine was one of the most ingenious that has ever been brought to the attention of the police. It did not explode, however, because the electric batteries calculated to set it off were too weak to do their work. The package or bomb was about six inches long, five inches wide and five inches deep, and, according to the police, was sent to the home of Mr. Gluckman on New Year's Day.

74,000 VOLUMES IN STATE LIBRARY

GOVERNOR RECEIVES ANNUAL REPORT OF LIBRARIAN BUCHANAN.

State Librarian Henry C. Buchanan has presented to Governor Stokes his annual report as to the business during the past year and the present condition of the State Library. It is shown that on October 31, 1905, there were 71,057 books and pamphlets in the library. During the past year additional books and pamphlets to the total of 3,211 have been added, as follows:

From the United States Government, 1,003; from other States and Territories, in exchange, 787; through donations, 238; from custodian of State house, 190; by purchase for law library, 339; by purchase for reference library, 599; daily and weekly newspapers donated, 55. There were returned to the superintendent of documents at Washington 710 duplicates, making a net gain for the year of 2,501 and showing the contents of the library at this time to be 73,558 volumes.

Of the condition of the library State Librarian Buchanan says: "The library is in good condition. In the law department the sets of reports and statutes of other States have been kept up through a system of exchange, and purchases have been made of the new textbooks as they have appeared. In the miscellaneous department many reference books have been added, special attention have been given to the securing of copies of books relating to the history of New Jersey."

The report details that the most valuable addition made to the library during the past year was a gift of thirty-three volumes of works, procured for use in the settlement of the New Jersey-Delaware boundary dispute, by Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter.

Librarian Buchanan gives a detailed report of the expenditures made by the State during the year for the repair, preservation and purchase of books. This appropriation for this purpose was $3,500, and the amount spent was $3,485.05, as follows: $1,526.79 for books and periodicals to the law library, $1,644.06 for additions to the reference library, $314.20 for the building and repairing of books.

Mr. Buchanan makes this comment, which is deemed important because of its bearing upon the preservation of historical data concerning New Jersey:

"In April last distribution was made of volume 25 of the first series of the New Jersey Archives. Copies of the archives are sent to 856 persons whose names are upon the State library list. Under the act of 1881, 1,000 copies of each volume are received by the commissioners of the State library, and are to be distributed by them among the various State and public libraries of the United States and they may designate and to the various offices and departments of the State and to the officers in charge. This method of distribution proved unsatisfactory in some respects, and the earlier volumes are soon out of print. Finally the disposition of the books was by general consent left with the commissioners of the library, and distribution is made by a committee, upon written application or the recommendation of the members of the Legislature or State officers. Under this system there is an avoidance of duplication, many complete sets have been made up in private libraries and public ones in all parts of the State and the United States, and the object of the law—the preservation of the early history of New Jersey—is being accomplished."

BATTLE DAY OBSERVED.

Princeton Monument Committee to Erect a Shaft.

Princeton, Jan. 4.—Princeton Monument Association celebrated the anniversary of the Battle of Princeton last night. It was planned to have the exercises out of doors, but owing to the inclement weather it was conducted in the council chamber. The purpose of the association is to erect a monument commemorating the Battle of Princeton. Congress appropriated $30,000 for this, the State $15,000 and the association will try to raise the remaining $15,000 necessary. Former President Grover Cleveland, Dr. Henry Van-Dyke Woodrow Wilson and other prominent people are members.

Several addresses were made, after which plans were discussed as to the best method of raising the additional money. It is thought that the monument will be erected at the corner of Mercer and Stockton streets.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 4.—For the third time within a month James Wilson, Jr., has been stricken deaf and dumb. About a month ago he lost the use of his faculties, but recovered in a few days. Later he again suffered a temporary lapse and last week he was stricken with loss of speech and hearing for the third time.

Wilson believes his malady is the result of an injury to one of his hands several months ago.

Shirley & Johnston, BABCOCK BUILDING.

A Valuable Industrial Investment. Money to be Made by Buying Now.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway, and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

MRS. F. G. BOHREN AWARDED DAMAGES

JURY ALLOWS HER $400 IN HER ACTION AGAINST MR. MESSERSMITH.

Mrs. Fanny G. Bohren, of the borough, who brough suit against Mrs. Mary E. Messersmith, of East Fifth street, in the Supreme Court, Elizabeth, yesterday, was awarded $400 by the jury.

The suit was upon a covenant of warranty in a deed made by Mary E. Messerschmidt to Fannie G. Bohren, on April 1, 1903. In the fall of 1905 the borough of North Plainfield extended Fairview avenue, taking a strip of the premises conveyed by said deed three feet in front and 11 feet in the rear, running the full length of the lot. This street had been laid out thirty years ago by the township authorities when the territory embraced in the borough was a part of the township of Warren, but the street had not been opened. After the opening of the street the plaintiff, Mrs. Bohren called upon the defendant to make good her loss. But the defendant refused to do so and an action was brought to enforce the right under the covenant in the deed, in the Supreme Court. The case was one of great difficulty, owing to the fact that many legal questions arose, on which there appeared to be a disagreement of the legal authorities. It was necessary to prove the making of the covenant, the change of municipal government from the township of Warren to the township of North Plainfield and from the township of North Plainfield to the Borough of North Plainfield. The laying out of the road in 1870, by the township authorities, the resolution of the borough Council, and the proceedings taken under it. The correspondence of the description in the road return with the map made by the borough engineer, in opening up the street. The encroachment of the street upon the premises in question and the resulting damages.

The measure of damages was a question of difficulty, but the court held that it was the difference between the market value of the property just prior to the eviction and immediately thereafter. The defendant produced the following real estate men: J. Fred MacDonald, Henry Liefke, John P. Emmons, John Vanderhoef, and L. B. Woolston to show that there were not appreciable damages.

The plaintiff produced Charles H. Hand and William A. Woodruff, who swore that the premises had been seriously damaged as the sidewalks came within a few inches of the plaintiff's porch and prevented the erection of a dwelling house in the rear of the lot to face on the new street, and as it gave the whole premises a bad appearance. The jury found the plaintiff and assessed her damages at $400. The defendant was represented by G. W. V. Moy, and the plaintiff by C. M. Dolliver and S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer.

Scranton's Epidemic.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 4.—Typhoid fever, which was discovered in Scranton on December 7, has already a death list of 50, out of 930 cases, in a population of 120,000. Knowledge that the water supply was responsible for the epidemic came as a shock to the city. Scranton had long prided itself on the purity of its water, but the prevalence of typhoid in sections supplied from the Elmhurst dam soon attracted suspicion, and this suspicion became a certainty yesterday, when Dr. Dixon, Pennsylvania's Health Commissioner, announced that an analysis of water taken from Roaring Brook gave evidence of typhoid bacilli.

Boy Ride-Stealers Arrested.

Thos. Steffens, Augustus Schultz, Lewis Smith, Joseph Cimiskey and Raymond Martin, all boys, and all of Jersey City, were arrested by Patrolman Higgins at the Netherwood station early last evening, as suspicious characters. They told Judge Runyon this morning that they got on a freight train at Jersey City to ride to Bayonne and were carried through to this city. Sentence was suspended.

Elizabeth People Complain of Delay in Getting Appropriation.

Elizabeth, Jan. 4.—Postmaster Palmer H. Charlock, his office force, local business men, and, in fact, the entire community are in hopes that Senator Kean and Congressman Fowler will exert sufficient endeavors to secure, before many months, the remainder of the required and oft-promised appropriation for a public building in this city. The local representatives at Washington are being severely criticised for their failure to influence further legislation in behalf of Elizabeth in this respect, and it is pointed out that scores of much smaller municipalities throughout the country boast of government buildings of their own, while the people of Elizabeth are compelled to make the most of the facilities, utterly inadequate, furnished on one floor of a rented building.

Assistant Postmaster White said today that this year's Christmas mail businenss was all out of proportion to the accummodation supplied by the government for this city, and that if new quarters were not supplied in the near future, the department here would be seriously handicapped.

Of this Andrew Carnegie has given $50,000 for a mechanical engineering course, and will give an additional $50,000 provided the entire endowment is subscribed.

Alien Flood of 1906.

New York, Jan. 4.—Breaking records, the total of passengers landed here during last year by the ocean steamship lines from foreign ports reached the huge number of 1,198,434, which is 208,369 more than for the previous year and a greater gain than ever before recorded. While the gain was largest in steerage passengers, there was a substantial increase in the first and second cabin passengers. Of the enormous number carried only 142,603 were citizens of the United States, and of the 1,055,831 aliens landed only 134,988 came in the cabin, the largest part of these being second cabin travellers.

Suicide After Wedding.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 4.—Twelve hours after his wedding, Hugh Clark, of Brookline, coachman for many years of a prominent family of that town, committed suicide yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor. Clark was married last night in the home which he had built for himself and bride. Today he asked Mrs. Clark to go to a drug store for medicine, saying that he was ill. When she returned the wife found her husband unconscious in the dining room with his throat cut. He died during the afternoon at the Massachusets General Hospital.

Thoughtful Hubby.

A former resident of Plainfield, now of Newark, adopted an original plan to make his wife a Christmas present. Every night during the past year, on his return home he placed in a box the pennies he had in his pockets and on New Year's Day he opened the box and found it contained $43.28, which he took to the bank and after changing the pennies into bank bills made them a present to his wife.

Freeholders Entertained at Dinner.

The members of the Union County Board of Freeholders were guests yesterday at a dinner given at the Burkeley Hotel, Elizabeth, by County Attorney W. R. Codington, Collector Nathan R. Leavitt and Clerk S. Rusling Ryno. An elaboraate menu was prepared and served to the county officials, and good speech-making followed. The only absentees were Freeholders Robinson, Swain and Cady.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

The matinee business at the New Plainfield theatre, Tuesday, was the largest in the history of the house. The S. R. O. signed was displayed a half hour before the curtain arose but the people insisted on coming and they were accommodated, the best way possible under the circumstances.

Fred Bennett, stage manager of the local playhouse, left with May Irwin's company Monday night, to remain with it as stage carpenter for one week or until a new crew becomes fully acquainted with a new set in the third act. Since leaving New York it has been taking the men from fifteen to twenty minutes to get it in place but the force at the New Plainfield did it in nine. Curt Eisfeldt, Miss Irwin's manager, was so well pleased he secured Manager Counihan's consent to allow Mr. Bennett to take the "flyer" out. The company went by special car from Plainfield to Pittston, Pa., and after playing several of the larger cities in that vicinity, will return to Brooklyn for an engagement.

The testimonial performance given in New York recently for the benefit of Henry Clay Barnabee and Mrs. William H. MacDonald, widow of the baritone who was so long associated with Mr. Barnabee in "The Bostonians," will net the beneficiaries about $22,000.

Manager Charles Dillingham has signed a five years' contract with Arnold Daly and after starring the actor for a season will try to establish for him a sort of Theatre Antoine in New York. The first play in which Mr. Daly will be seen under Mr. Dillingham's management will be "The Boys of Company B," by Mrs. Rida Johnson Young. The play will be produced in New York city in February at one of Charles Frohman's theatres. During the run of this play Mr. Daly will give special matinees each week of three one-act plays. The plays chosen for this season in New York will be "The Flag Station," "The Monkey's Paw" and "The Lemonade Boy."

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

Philip Mindil, general publicity promoter of the Knickerbocker Theatre building, New York, has added another assistant to his staff. Francis A. Havey, formerly associated with Thos. Cook & Son, (Cook's Tours) is the new man. He takes charge of the departments of railroads, steamships, hotels and commerce, while George W. Engles, Mr. Mindil's first assistant, has charge of the departments of dramatic and vaudeville houses and attractions.

BARGFREDE-DOESCHER.

Pearl River, Dec. 28.—The engagement of Miss Emma Doescher to J. Frederick Bargfrede was announced at a Christmastide dinner here last night. Miss Doerscher, one of the season's debutantes, is the daughter of E. C. Doescher, of Doescher & Co., dealers in dairy produce, New York city. Bargfrede, a sophomore at Williams College, is the son of Chris. Bargfrede, Doescher's partner.

Miss Gladys Burt, formerly of the borough, but now of Boston, is visiting Miss Marguerite Serrell, of Myrtle avenue.

Harold C. Fenno, of Watchung avenue, has returned to Williams College, after enjoying the holiday vacation at home.

SCIENCE AND THE OCCULT

Possibility That Twentieth Century Knowledge Will Admit Progress from the Unknown.

Will twentieth century knowledge remove the prejudice against the occult? Astronomy and geology and chemistry are permitted to be in the hands of the man of science, but life and mind phenomena are declared to be outside the province of physical science, yet the same was said about astronomy and geology and chemistry not many generations ago. Was not war made upon those who undertook to show that the earth was not more than 6,000 years old, and were not the chemists who showed how organic compounds could be formed believed to be enemies of the truth and bent on misleading mankind? Is it not curious to contemplate that those who know least about a given science should be the ones to set its limits, who know what cannot be done or hoped for so much better than those who devote their lives and their best endeavors to discover what is true and what seems probable? All the progress of science is a progress from the unknown, that is the hidden or the occult, to the known, which is not hidden but patent. Perhaps the present century will be able effectually to warn everybody, of the danger of setting any limits to knowledge.

HORSE'S LOVE OF HOME.

Heart Hunger One of the Strongest Characteristics of the Animal—Longs for Familiar Stall.

The strongest instinct in the horse is that of home—all his thoughts and interests lie there—and the most wearing pain he suffers is that of nostalgia—the longing for the familiar stall and the well-loved surroundings, says Outing. What wonder that our pets almost invariably return to us from such unhappy experiences mere shadows of their former selves and in such wretched bodily condition that it is months before they regain their usual health and spirits. We blame the man in charge, poor feed, bad stabling, insufficient pasturage, etc., and overlook entirely the fact that it is our own fault, and the direct result of heart-hunger which no grass, grain or roof-tree could entirely assuage. Of course the little-used muscles have, from lack of exercise, shrunk and lost their firmness and plumpness; the crest has fallen from the same cause; "poverty lines" appear in the quarters and shoulders; the tail and mane are all out of shape, or all worn away; the feet stubbed off; the coat dingy and sunburnt; the skin full of all manner of scars, cuts and abrasions; all these are the effect, not the cause, of the lack of bodily condition which is two-thirds due sheerly and solely, in the high-bred, nervous, sensitive horse, to simple homesickness.

Sunday Dyspepsia.

"Sunday dyspepsia—that is what you have," said the doctor, smiling.

"Sunday dyspepsia?"

"Yes, and it is not a rare complaint, either. It is due to this habit of eating foolishly and gluttonously on Sunday.

"Through the week you eat like a sensible man—a moderate breakfast early, a light luncheon and a good, substantial dinner at the end of the day.

"But on Sunday you eat a heavy breakfast at 10 or 11. At 1 you sit down to an enormous dinner, stuffing yourself without appetite, and at 6:30, when you are really hungry, you eat light, unsatisfactory food, like Saratoga chips and lettuce sandwiches—in a word, a Sunday supper.

"The result of this change for the worse, made once a week by millions of men, is Sunday dyspepsia, an ailment for which I always prescribe a 6 o'clock Sunday dinner."

Fieschi's Deadly Weapon.

When Morales tried to blow King Alfonso and Queen Victoria to pieces in Madrid, he was acting much as did Fieschi, who tried to assassinate King Louis Philippe of France, in July, 1835. The king was riding along the lines of the national guard in the Boulevard du Temple. There came a crash and a rush of bullets. Louis Philippe's arm was grazed, his horse was shot in the neck, Marshal Mortier fell dead and about thirteen other people were killed and thirty wounded. Fieschi had taken the upper floors of a house several weeks before and there rigged up an oaken frame four feet by three feet six inches, supported on four posts of oak and itself supported twenty-five gun barrels fixed in grooves at various angles so as to command an area of twenty-five feet in length and ten feet in height. When he fired the train of powder that let off this battery, the king would have been killed if four barrels had not burst and two missed fire.

The Prick of Conscience.

Possibly Mr. Roosevelt and some of his friends can discover the moral of the following anecdote which Rev. R. W. Alexander tells, suggests the Tarboro Southerner:

An old colored man stole a pig and after getting home with the animal knelt to pray before retiring. His wife heard him praying to the Lord to forgive him for stealing the pig. She went to sleep, with Uncle Eph still praying. Later in the night she woke up and saw her husband still kneeling in prayer. At daybreak his supplications had not ceased.

"Eph, why don't you come to bed?" asked his wife.

"Let me 'lone, 'Riah; de mo' I tries to 'splain to de Lord how I come to steal dat pig de wusser I gits mixed."

THE SILENCED GRUMBLE.

There was a humble bumble-bee
Who grumbled while he bummed;
But his grumble soon was humbled
By the tune he humbly hummed.

After rumble and much mumble
Was his humble grumble dumbed,
For "I Want You, Mah Honey,"
Was the tune he humbly hummed.

Leading Authority.

"Mister," said the sad-faced individual who had sneaked in the big skyscraper, "can I sell you the great Encyclopedia of Sporting Events?"

"Nope," replied the busy man. "We have one encyclopedia of sporting events already."

"That so? Where do you keep it?"

"Why, we try to keep him on that stool over there addressing envelopes. I mean the office boy, and he is an encyclopedia on everything, from a game of skidoo to the Olympian games."—Chicago Daily News.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Paula Edwardes and her big supporting company in "The Princess Beggar," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The production is one of the most pretentious on the road and made a favorable impression when seen at the local playhouse earlier in the season.

The present revival of "The Blackthorn" is meeting with the greatest success this season. The play, one of the best of the Irish comedies, has been brought up to date and a number of new situations and sensations introduced. Mr. Jos. J. Sullivan who appears in his new role of "Denny Dolan" introduces a number of new songs he has specially composed for this production. "The Blackthorn" comes to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

At the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger will present Fay Templeton and the original company and production in George M. Cohan's most popular musical play, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway." Exceedingly bright comedy, some deft touches of pathos, lively music and pretty girls will be found in "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway." "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" is a departure from the field occupied by both Mr. Cohan and Miss Templeton. Mr. Cohan has given more strictly dramatic work to this play with music than anything he has ever written, and Miss Templeton has found new and rich opportunities for her versatile and abundantly expressive art in the part of the New Rochelle domestic, Mary Jane Jenkins, known as "Plain Mary." Another great success in the piece is made by Victor Moore in the original character part of "Kid Burns," a retired prize-fighter with a vocabulary of uncommonly rich slang.

"David Harum" will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. This is the shrewd, sharp and witty old countryman made famous by Edward Noyes Wescott's widely read book. The presentation of the play has been awaited with great interest. The comedy comes with the glitter and eclat of its New York and Boston runs. Upon its first production in New York it ran for sixteen weeks and its success there, which it later repeated in Chicago and Boston, was terrific. Those who witness the play will find in it three scenes that are likely to be remembered for many days. One of these is the horse trade with Deacon Perkins.

The production of "No Mother to Guide Her" which comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night with Lillian Mortimer and a strong supporting company, is exceedingly pretentious. Besides the full equipment of scenery for the four massive acts, the furniture and properties to properly dress the scenes and give it the correct local coloring are carried. The second act, disclosing a camp of the Gypsies with its attendant appurtenances, is of great interest, the entire paraphenalia being the actual articles used by the strange race of nomads.

Bowling and General Sports

BOWLING.

The following tourney games will be rolled at McLaughlin's tonight: Meyer and Mack against Maltby and Theirs, Radin and Ackor against Leland and Dodge, Reville and Felver against Woolston and Cunningham.

Though he hasn't been making any holler about it, "Silent Warrie" is doing a heap sight of pin smashing these days. While the other pin knights are arguing about their respective prowess he has a habit of stepping in and putting the kibosh on all of them. He is now looked upon as a dangerous man in any kind of a game. He has been coaching Joe Farlee on the side and the latter is also finding it hard to meet a worthy foe.

The games put up by "Bill" Dilks in the tourney are the talk of the alley frequenters. He has proven as steady as the proverbial gray mare and scores below 200 are the exception rather than the rule. His average for the twelve games so far rolled off is 204, a nice lead over all others. His partner, P. L. Gaddis, has proven a big help to him and the two are well ahead of the procession.

Chauncey Stout dropped into McLaughlin's the other afternoon and sprang a sensation on the habitues by smashing out 244. And he hasn't been in the game lately, either. The cracks are wondering what he will do after he gets his arm in shape.

FOOTBALL.

There will be a game of association football on the Clinton avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon between the Plainfield Athletic Club and the Critchley F. C., of Brooklyn. The local team is playing a very fast game at present and a good game is promised.

GREAT WARRIOR TEMPLIN.

He Slaughtered the Cherokees in Local Basketball League.

The Sioux scalped the Cherokees in the Y. M. C. A. local basketball league last night, 19 to 14. The playing was good, and the game close. Templin was the gumdrop pappoose of his band. He scored all the nineteen points. Douglass and Slocum made the prize showing in the other camp.

Line-up and summary:

Y. M. C. A. COMPETITION.

Burgess Hung Up New Mark for Hop-Step and Jump.

Another new mark was hung up in the running hop-step-and-jump event in the all-around athletic championship competition at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Burgess, the winner, covered 35 feet 3 inches. The mark it displaces is lost in oblivion. It wasn't worth remembering.

Banks jumped in second place with 33 feet 5 inches. Viebrock was third with 33 feet 5 inches. There were nineteen entrants.

The standing of the leaders is as follows: Banks, 224; Burgess, 221; Viebrock, 185; Rumsey, 181; Douglass, 183.

The next event will be fence vault.

Sin's Consequences.

"Punishment for Sin; Its Certainty; Its Character; How to Escape It," will be the subject of Rev. E. E. Roberson's address at the Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon.

PERSONAL.

Miss May Carney, formerly with W. G. DeMeza, Esq., has taken a position as bookkeeper at Ivamy's seafood market on West Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanford, of East Front street, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cooley, of Watchung avenue, will leave tomorrow for Virginia, where they will remain for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sandford and daughter, Miss Sandford, of East Front street, are planning to accompany the Honeyman tourists on their trip to Egypt. The party will leave within a short time.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Commencing Saturday night and continuing every Saturday evening the Plainfield Band will hold a dance in Central Hall, corner North and Park avenues.

—The police here have been asked to look for a sorrel horse and a buggy stolen last night from Dr. Raymond, of Rahway, in Carteret. It is thought the thief might have headed this way.

—The boys' team of the Twenty-sixth ward branch of the Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn, will play the local Y. M. C. A. juniors tomorrow morning here. The Brooklyn boys are the swiftest of the lot in the basketball game in New York.

OBITUARY.

Samuel A. Richardson.

Samuel A. Richardson, a former resident of Dunellen, died yesterday, at Scranton, Pa. He was at one time engaged in business in this city. He was in his fifty-ninth year. The funeral will be held at the Dunellen Methodist church Monday afternoon at 1.30.

MUST HOLD INQUEST.

Prosecutor Berdine So Informs Coroner in Case of Four Boys.

County Prosecutor Berdine, of New Brunswick, has instructed County Physician Suydam to view the remains of the four boys killed by a Lehigh Valley Railroad train at South Plainfield Tuesday evening. He has directed Coroner Bishop that an inquest must be held. The coroner decided that an inquest would not be necessary, but the prosecutor is of a different opinion.

Mr. Bishop will instruct that the funeral be delayed until the county physician has a chance to view the remains. A date will be fixed later for the inquest.

Story of Pacific Islands.

The study of the Island World of the Pacific by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church has proved most interesting, and the paper in the series presented at the meeting yesterday afternoon in the church lecture room by Mrs. James D. McNabb was an admirable one. Her subject, "Fiji, New Hebrides and Melenesia," was treated in a comprehensive manner and the paper was full of valuable information, charmingly told. The paper was preceded by the devotional service led by Mrs. Reuben Knox, the theme being "Manoah's Wife or Sanctified Common Sense." The current events, full of exceptional interest, were given by Mrs. Robert Lowry.

"Princess Beggar" Returns Tonigh.

With dainty Paula Edwardes at the head, "The Princess Beggar," the tuneful light opera, returns to Plainfield tonight. The production has been playing all the large cities and winning golden opinions every where. The cast has been materially strengthened in the addition of Stanley H. Forde as the "Baron Lombardo," Harry Macdonough as "Doctor Hans von Sprudel," Cecilia Rhoda as "Rowena" and Adele Barker as "Antiekia." The balance of the cast consisting of Bertram Wallis, Eddie Garvie, J. G. Reaney, Ernest Graham, remain the same as seen here before.

Township Committee Organizes.

The Fanwood Township Committee met on Wednesday night and organized for the coming year by electing Ira Gage Walker, who succeeded T. J. Nichol, chairman, and Scott Terry treasurer, in place of Theodore Bruchman. The changes were made owing to the fact that the political complexion of the committee is changed. Mr. Nichol, who was retired, was a Democrat, as was also Mr. Bruchman. Both Mr. Walker and Mr. Terry are Republicans. The board consists of three members. Edward L. Hand continues as township clerk.

Slang Shocked Court.

Former Judge P. Hamilton Gilhooly, who represented the plaintiffs in a case in Elizabeth yesterday, caused quite a sensation in the court room through his resort to modern slang. In replying to Lawyer Alan Strong's summing up of the case for the defendant, Mr. Gilhooly declared that it was evidently Mr. Strong's object to induce the jury to "hand a lemon" to the plaintiffs.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

BY HARRY LEON WILSON AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1905 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

"Are you a damned Mormon?" It broke the spell of awe that had been upon him, so that he felt for the moment only a pious horror of her speech. He called Christina to take charge of her, and Martha, the second wife, to put away her little bundle of clothing. He himself went to be alone where he could think what must be done for her. From an entry in the little Bible, written in letters that seemed to shout to him the accusation of his crime, he had found that she must now be five years old. It was plainly time that he should begin to supply her very apparent need of religious instruction.

"Are You a Damned Mormon?"

When she had become a little used to her surroundings later in the day, he sought to beguile her to this end, beginning diplomatically with other matters.

"Come, tell me your name, dear."

She allowed her attention to be diverted from her largest doll.

"My name is Prudence—" She hesitated.

"Prudence—what?"

"I—I lost my mind of it." She looked at him hopefully to be prompted.

"Prudence Rae."

She repeated the name, doubtingly, "Prudence Rae?"

"Yes—remember now—Prudence Rae. You are my little girl—Prudence Rae."

"But you're not my really papa—he's went far off—oh, ten ninety miles far!"

"No, Prudence—God is your Father in heaven, and I am your father on earth—"

"But not my papa!"

"Listen, Prudence—do you know what you are?"

The puzzled look she had worn fled instantly from her face.

"I'm a generation of vipers."

She made the announcement with a palpable ring of elation in her tones, looking at him proudly, and as if waiting to hear expressions of astonishment and delight.

"Child, child, who has told you such things? You are not that!"

She retorted, indignantly now, the lines drawing about her eyes in signal of near-by tears:

"I am a generation of vipers—the Bishop said I was—he told that other mamma, and I am it!"

"Well, well, don't cry—all right—you shall be it—but I can tell you something much nicer." He assumed a knowing air, as one who withheld knowledge of overwhelming fascinations.

"Tell me'—what?"

And so, little by little, hardly knowing where to begin, but feeling that any light whatsoever must profit a soul so benighted, he began to teach her.

In the days that followed he wooed her patiently, seeking constantly to find some favor with her, and grateful beyond words when he succeeded ever so little. At first, he could win but slight notice of any sort from her, and that only at rare and uncertain intervals. But gradually his unobtrusive efforts told, and, little by little, she began to take him into her confidence. The first day she invited him to play with her in one of her games was a day of rejoicing for him.

And that night, before her bedtime, when he sat in front of the fire, she came with a most matter-of-fact unconsciousness to climb into his lap. He held her a long time, trying to breathe gently and not daring to move lest he make her uncomfortable. Her head pillowed on his arm, she was soon asleep, and he refused to give her up when Martha came to put her to bed.

Though their intimacy grew during the winter, so that she called him her father and came confidingly to him at all times, in tears or in laughter, yet he never ceased to feel in aloofness from her, an awkwardnes in her presence, a fear that the mother who looked from her eyes might at any moment call to him.

CHAPTER XXIII.

How the Red Came Back to the Blood to Be a Snare.

The red was coming back to the blood of Martha, the fair flesh to her meager frame, the spring of youth to her step and living fire to her voice and the glance of her eyes. Her husband was pleased. He had made a new creature of the poor, worn wreck found by the wayside, weak, emaciated, reeling under her burden. He rejoiced to know he had done a true service. He was glad, moreover, to know that she made an admirable mother to the little woman-child. Prudence, indeed, had brought them closer to each other, slowly, subtly, in little ways to disarm the most timid caution.

And this mothering and fathering of little Prudence was a work by no means colorless or uneventful. The child had displayed a grievous capacity for remaining unimpressed by even the best-weighed opinions of her protector. She was also appallingly fluent in and partial to the idioms and metaphors of revealed religion,—a circumstance that would not infrequently cause the sensitive to shudder.

Thus, when she chose to call her largest and least sightly doll the Holy Ghost, the ingenuity of those about her was taxed to rebuke her in ways that would be effective without being harsh. It was felt, too, that her offense had been but slightly mitigated when she called the same doll, thereafter, "Thou son of perdition and shedder of innocent blood." Not until this disfigured effigy became Bishop Wright, and the remaining dolls his more or less disobedient wives, was it felt that she had approached even remotely the plausible and the decorous.

Yet her days were by no means all of reproof nor was her reproof ever harsher than the more or less pointed selections from the moral verses could inflict. Under the watchful care of Martha she flourished and was happy, her mother in little, a laughing whirlwind of tender flesh, tireless feet, dancing eyes, hair of sunlight that was darkening as she grew older, and a mind that seemed to him she called father a miracle of unfoldment. It was a mind not so quickly receptive as he could have wished to the learning he tried patiently to impart; he wondered, indeed, if she were not unduly frivolous even for a child of six; for she would refuse to study, unless she could have the doll she called Bishop Wright with her and pretend that she taught the lesson to him, finding him always stupid and loth to learn. He hoped for better things from her mind as she aged, watching anxiously for the buddings of reason and religion, praying daily that she should be increased in wisdom as in stature. He had become so used to the look of her mother in her face that it now and then gave him an instant of unspeakable joy. But the sound of his own voice calling her "Prudence" would shock him from this as with an icy blast of truth.

As he observed her day by day in her joyous growth, it was inevitable that he came more and more to observe the woman who was caring for her, and it was thus on one night in late summer that he awoke to an awful truth,—a truth that brought back the words of the woman's former husband with a new meaning.

He had heard Prudence say to her, "You are a pretty mamma," and suddenly there came rushing upon him the sum of all the impressions his eyes had taken of her since that day when the Bishop had spoken. He trembled and became weak under the assault, feeling that in some insidious way his strength had been undermined. He went out into the early evening to be alone, but she, presently, having put the child to bed, came and stood near, silently in the doorway.

He looked and saw she was indeed made new, restored to the luster and fullness of her young womanhood. He remembered then that she had long been silent when he came near her, plainly conscious of his presence but with an apparent constraint, with something almost tentative in her manner. With her return to health and comeliness there had come back to her a thousand little graces of dress and manner and speech. She drew him, with his starved love of beauty and his need of companionship; drew him with a mighty power, and he knew it at last. He remembered how he had felt and faintly thrilled under a certain soft suppression in her tones when she had spoken to him of late; this had drawn him, and the new light in her eyes and her whole freshened womanhood, even before he knew it. Now that he did know it he felt himself shaken and all but lost; clutching weakly at some support that threatened every moment to give way.

And she was his wife, his who had starved year after year for the light touch of a woman's hand and the tones of her voice that should be for him alone. He knew now that he had ached and sickened in his yearning for this, and she stood there for him in the soft night. He knew she was waiting, and he knew he desired above all things else to go to her; that the comfort of her, his to take, would give him new life, new desires, new powers; that with her he would revive as she had done. He waited long, indulging freely in hesitation, bathing his wearied soul in her nearness—yielding in fancy.

Then he walked off into the night, down through the village, past the light of open doors, and through the voices that sounded from them, out on to the bare bench of the mountain—his old refuge in temptation—where he could be safe from submitting to what his soul had forbidden. He had meant to take up a cross, but before his very eyes it had changed to be a snare set for him by the Devil.

He stayed late on the ground in the darkness, winning the battle for himself over and over, decisively, he thought, at the last. But when he went home she was there in the doorway to meet him, still silent, but with eyes that told more than he dared to hear. He thought she had in some way divined his struggle, and was waiting to strengthen the odds against him, with her face in the light of a candle she held above her head.

He went by her without speaking, afraid of his weakness, and rushed to his little cell-like room to fight the battle over. As a last source of strength he took from its hiding place the little Bible. And as it fell open naturally at the blood-washed page a new thing came, a new torture. No sooner had his eyes fallen on the stain that it seemed to him to cry out of itself, so that he started back from it. He shut the book and the cries were stilled; he opened it and again he heard them—far, loud cries and low groans close to his ear; then long piercing scream stifled suddenly to low, horrible gurglings. And before him came the inscrutable face with the deep gray eyes and the shining lips, lifting, with love in the eyes, above a gashed throat.

He closed the book and fell weakly to his knees to pray brokenly, and almost despairingly: "Help me to keep down this self within me; let it ask for nothing; fan the fires until they consume it! Bow me, bend me, break me, burn me out—burn me out!"

In the morning, when he said, "Martha, the harvest is over now, and I want you to go north with me," she prepared to obey without question.

He talked freely to her on the way, though it is probable that he left in her mind little more than dark confusion, beyond the one clear fact of his wish. As to this, she knew she must have no desire but to comply. Reaching Salt Lake City, they went at once to Brigham's office. When they came out they came possessed of a document in duplicate, reciting that they both did "covenant, promise, and agree to dissolve all the relations which have hitherto existed between us as husband and wife, and to keep ourselves separate and apart from each other from this time forth."

This was the simple divorce which Brigham was good enough to grant to such of the Saints as found themselves unhappily married, and wished it. As Joel Rae handed the Prophet the fee of ten dollars, which it was his custom to charge for the service, Brigham made some timely remarks. He said he feared that Martha had been perverse and rebellious; that her first husband had found her so; and that it was doubtless for the good of all that her second had taken the resolution to divorce her. He was afraid that Brother Joel was an inferior judge of women; but he had surely shown himself to be generous in the provision he was making for the support of this contumacious wife.

They parted outside the door of the little office, and he kissed her for the first time since they had been married—on the forehead.

Christina would now be left alone with the cares of the house, and he knew he ought to have some one to help her. The fever of sacrifice was also upon him. And so he found another derelict, to whom he was sealed forever.

At a time of more calmness he might have balked at this one. She was a cross, to be sure, and it was now his part in life to bear crosses. But there were plenty of these, and even one vowed to a life of sacrifice, he suspected, need not grossly abuse the powers of discrimination with which Heaven had seen fit to endow him. But he had lately been on the verge of a seething maelstrom, balancing there with unholy desire and wickedly looking far down, and the need to atone for this sin excited him to indiscretions.

It was not that this star in his crown was in her late thirties and less than lovely. He had learned, indeed, that in the game which, for the chastening of his soul, he now played with the Devil, it were best to choose stars whose charms could excite to little but conduct of a saintlike seemliness. The fat, dumpy figure of this woman, therefore, and her round, flat, moon-like face, her mouse-colored wisps of hair cut squarely off at the back of her neck, were points of a merit that was in its whole effect nothing less than distinguished.

LOST YOUTH LIVES ON SPOILED FISH

WANDERS FOUR DAYS IN WOODS BEFORE HE IS FOUND.

HIS TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Nearly Dead from Hunger and Exhaustion—Tainted Food Found in Deserted Cabin Helps to Sustain Life.

Chisholm, Minn.—After having been lost in the big woods for four days, John Nihalifsky, a ten-year-old boy, has been restored to his parents. He was found by a woman living near the Kinney mines, three and a half miles northeast of Buhl and nine miles from Chisholm. A posse of 50 men scoured the country, but they had discovered no trace of the missing lad, and all hope of finding him alive had been abandoned.

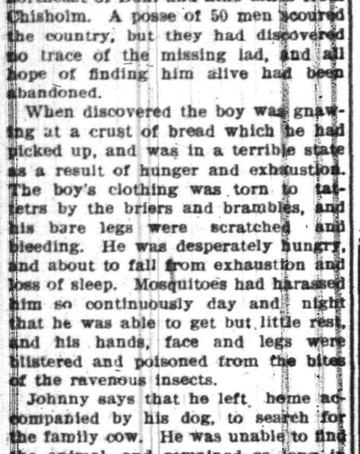
When discovered the boy was gnawing at a crust of bread which he had picked up, and was in a terrible state as a result of hunger and exhaustion. The boy's clothing was torn to tatters by the briers and brambles, and his bare legs were scratched and bleeding. He was desperately hungry, and about to fall from exhaustion and loss of sleep. Mosquitoes had harassed him so continuously day and night that he was able to get but little rest, and his hands, face and legs were blistered and poisoned from the bites of the ravenous insects.

Johnny says that he left home accompanied by his dog, to search for the family cow. He was unable to find the animal, and remained so long in the woods that darkness overtook him and he lost his bearings. He wandered about all night, and when day broke he found himself in a part of the woods with which he was unfamiliar and was unable to determine directions.

About noon, as nearly as he could judge, he lay down to sleep, and when he again awoke it was nearly dark. The dog had curled up by his side, and when he awoke the two again started on their weary march.

On the second day of his aimless wanderings the boy came upon a little shack which apparently had been occupied by fishermen. On the ground were several small, partly cooked fish, and despite the fact that the food was partly spoiled, the boy and dog ate ravenously. They remained in the shack the next day and again set forth. This was the only food the boy had until he found the crust of bread near the Kinney location.

The dog left the boy on the third day and has not yet returned home. The boy says that two or three times he became utterly discouraged and determined to lie down and die, but two or three hours' rest would bring a revival of courage and again he would set out.



HALF STARVED, THEY FEASTED ON SPOILED FISH.

The searching party was more than five miles from where the boy was found. They did not suppose that a boy of such tender years could have gone so far in a trackless forest. The boy says that he did not see any wild animals during the time he was lost, but that at night he often heard the howling of timber wolves.

Bath Costs Him Six Months.

Ithaca.—Prevented by the members of his family from taking a bath at home, Michael Flannigan started out to find a swimming pool near the city. His full dress habit, consisting of a light undershirt and no more, attracted attention, and the police were summoned. When they arrived the man was well on his way to Six Mile creek. After a long chase they found him and brought him back in a horse blanket. He was sent up for six months.

Boys Kill Big Black Bear.

Lake Placid, N. Y.—Hubert Stevens, 16, and Paul Stevens, 18, sons of George A. Stevens, of the Stevens house in this place, killed one of the largest black bears that has been taken in the Adirondacks this season. He was caught in a trap they had set. Though held by one foot, the bear was full of fight, and his desire to fight was increased by pain from the self-inflicted wound where he had bitten his foot in an attempt to get away.

CREEK COUNCIL HOUSE

HISTORIC STRUCTURE MAY BECOME COURT BUILDING.

Citizens Likely to Buy Hall of Justice at Okmulgee, I. T., Where Indian Crimes Were Judged and Criminals Executed.

Okmulgee, Ind. T.—In the event that Okmulgee becomes a county seat under statehood the citizens of the county are more than likely to buy the old Creek council house for a court building.

The council house is one of the historic buildings in the Indian territory. It is made of a very fine grade of sandstone called cotton rock and is situated in a yard shaded by maple trees three-quarters of a century old. The building itself is two stories high, square in form, with the conventional bell tower on its top. A small marble tablet near the north front door bears the inscription: "Muskogee National Capitol. Erected A. D. 1878. Building Committee—James McHenry, W. F. Brown and John McIntosh."

The council house was not only the seat of the Creek legislature, but it served the Indians as a hall of justice for the trial of their prisoners. Beneath the cluster of trees on the shady side of the walk many a prisoner has been executed within the past 28 years. These executions were always solemn affairs. The prisoner, after a dignified farewell to his family and friends, took his stand with his back to the tree and calmly awaited the shot from the lighthorseman's pistol, which was to put out his life.

Sometimes, however, the executions took place in the small cemetery on the hill beyond the present Frisco tracks. The last Creek execution occurred there in July, 1898. The victim was a young Uitche who had committed his third horsetheft. There was a large crowd in Okmulgee that day. The young Indian was taken to the cemetery on horseback. When the prisoner with his escort arrived the men had just finished digging the grave. A few songs were sung, a prayer was offered up in which the victim joined and the Indian sheriff, Berryhill, stepped from the crowd. Colts revolver in hand, to do his duty. When the fatal shot was fired the young Uitche's eyes were sweeping the lovely Creek hills and uplands. He fell with a smile on his face. His grave is well kept in the cemetery, a monument to the stern laws and incorruptible justice of his people.

OLD CREEK COUNCIL HOUSE AT OKMULGEE, I. T.

The legal authority of the Creek Indians expired in 1898, and on March 7, 1907, the Indian governors will step down and out and the Indians will become actual citizens of the United States instead of remaining wards of the government. The last of the Indian governors are William C. Rogers, of Skiatook, chief of the Cherokees; J. F. Brown, of Wewoka, chief of the Seminoles; D. B. Johnston, of Tishomingo, chief of the Choctaws; Green B. McCurtain, of South McAlester, chief of the Chickasaws, and Pleasant Porter, of Muskogee, chief of the Creeks.

Gov. Porter, all in all, is the best known and perhaps the most extraordinary Indian now alive. Few men have received so much newspaper notice as Gov. Porter, for he has been the subject of many fables. He has been written about as an Indian millionaire, when the fact is that, though comfortably fixed, he ranks lowest of the Indian governors in point of wealth. He would have been a wealthy man if he had been less honest and less charitable. He has given away a large fortune in the course of his lifetime. Gov. Porter was born in Indian territory near Clarksville, September 26, 1840. He entered the confederate army as a private and left the service as a second lieutenant, after an honorable career in many battles from Wilson Creek until the last shot was fired in Texas.

Gov. Porter is profoundly versed in Indian history and lore and will write a history of his people. He believes that the southern Indians are of Aztec and Toltec origin and was even in advance of ethnologists in maintaining his views.

UNION'S LEGISLATORS ASK DRYDEN TO WITHDRAW

In Open Letter Senator and Three Assemblymen Pave Way For Harmony.

THEY MAKE AN OFFER

Will Be Bound By Caucus, If He Gets Out—Colby Comes Out For Pitney Today.

Union county's legislators today issued an open letter inviting John F. Dryden, the only avowed candidate for the United States Senate, to withdraw from the race in the interests of harmony. They promise that if he is eliminated that they will go into the party caucus and be bound by its action. What they will do, in the event of his refusal, the legislators do not say. Neither will any one of them say whether he will support Justice Pitney, of Morris county, for the place.

Senator Ackerman and Assemblymen Perkins, Tillman and Moxon, whose names are attached to the open letter, met at Elizabeth today for a conference on the situation in Union county. Their letter was the result of this meeting and in it they repeat the well known fact that the great majority of the representatives of Union county are strongly opposed to the re-election of Mr. Dryden.

This is the letter:

"We believe that in order to conserve the best interests of the people the Legislature of our State at the coming session should elect a Republican to the United States Senate. As regular Republicans we believe in the party organization. Under the conditions that confront the party at this time we think that all Republican members of the Legislature should be placed in a position so that they may enter the caucus and thus insure the election of a Republican United States Senator.

"Representing the people of Union county, it is our duty to respect their wishes. As expressed to us, the sentiment in our county is so strong and overwhelming against the re-election of Mr. Dryden that we believe that a Republican other than he should be elected to that office. There is no doubt that there are many able men in our party who could fill the position with satisfaction.

"In order to clear the way to united party action, we suggest the withdrawal of the name of Mr. Dryden as a candidate and if his name be withdrawn we will enter the caucus and be bound by its action.

"RANDOLPH PERKINS,
PETER TILLMAN,
JOHN R. MOXON,
ERNEST R. ACKERMAN."

It is interesting to note in this connection that Senator Everett Colby, of Essex county, came out this morning in favor of Justice Mahlon Pitney. Heretofore the leader of the "New Idea" in the party has refused to commit himself, declaring he had no candidate but would vote for the one he considered the best man. The noteworthy thing about Mr. Colby's action is that he has endorsed the candidate originally brought out by Senator Hillery, of Morris, who has fought for him tooth and nail during the last few weeks. Hillery and Colby were the opposing parties in the celebrated joint debate during the last campaign, the Morris county man defending the party organization and the Essex county man assailing its record. To see them joined hand in hand, shows what strange things occur in politics. Pitney has announced his intention of withdrawing from the bench in April and this makes the situation all the more significant.

TO HELP IN MAKING DESERTS FRUITFUL

HERBERT J. DUBOIS EXPLORING NEW DITCH DIGGER.

Herbert J. Dubois, who went west with his parents a little over a year ago, has gone into business in Riverside, Cal. He is the junior member of the Kerr-Dubois Company, general contractors.

The company will manufacture a newly invented ditch digger, designed by John Thomas Kerr, the senior member of the firm. Mr. Dubois has purchased a half-interest in the invention.

The machine is eulogized by the Riverside papers. Its commercial success has been demonstrated, and a big field seems to be open to it. It will move 13,000 yards of dirt in ten hours, and can be operated at different angles. Provision is made for operating it by means of a gas engine, for work across desert country where water for steam purposes could not be obtained. The cutting of irrigation ditches will be one of the principal lines in which it will be used.

In a letter to a friend here, Mr. Dubois says the machines will be supplied to contractors on a royalty basis. He says his firm cannot handle even a small part of the work awaiting the machine.

BOROUGH COUNCIL FAVORS WATCHUNG AVE. EXTENSION.

The Matter Will Be One of the First Improvements to Be Taken Up in 1907.

In the regular order of business at last night's Borough Council meeting, Councilman VanArsdale, who is now president of the body, spoke in favor of the extension of Watchung avenue from Codington avenue to Johnson's drive. The other members and Mayor Smalley agreed with him that it should be done and it will probably be one of the first of the big improvements to be taken up in 1907. It will not only take off a lot of the traffic now borne by Somerset street but will give a new entrance to the North Plainfield township roads and open up property now inaccessible.

John McCullough was appointed a member of the fire department as a call man to fill a vacancy and on a resolution from Mr. McGee it was voted to borrow $6,000 for current expenses. It was reported that $1,500 of Somerset street certificates would be due on February 1, with interest, and they were ordered paid.

CAST OF OPERA.

"The Chimes of Normandy" to Be Given February 7.

Todd; Registrar, Warren French; Assessor, J. B. Calder. The chorus will be of the usual excellence.

The performance will be given under the patronage of a large number of people in the city and borough, it being arranged to make all future productions subscription affairs.

Mutual Life Man Rewarded.

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of D. E. Dudley as manager of the Boston City agency of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, one of the largest and most important brances of the company in the country. Mr. Dudley has been manager of the Baltimore agency and his appointment comes as a reward for the work of organizing the agents campaigner throughout the South during the recent election. Mr. Dudley a few years ago married Miss Lulu French, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. French, of West Seventh street.

Mrs. Kelley Will Speak.

Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary National Consumers' League, will speak on "Work of the Consumers' League," before the Monday Afternoon Club, at the Casino, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. No admission fee will be charged and the public is invited.

ECONOMY'S THE SLOGAN

Mayor Smalley So Informs the Borough Council in His Annual Message.

TALKS ON TAX MATTERS

Declares Improvements Asked For Cannot Be Granted Unless Municipality Is Bonded.

Meeting for the first time since reorganization, the borough Council spent the greater part of its session, last night, in listening to a heart-to-heart talk from Mayor Smalley, regarding North Plainfield's affairs and plans for the coming year. It is the executive's custom to address his fellow-officials direct instead of handing in a written message and then to ask for suggestions from his hearers.

Economy was the key-note of his remarks last night and he took pains to impress upon the Council the fact that the borough is not rolling in wealth and that many needed improvements cannot be granted in a rush. After stating that general affairs in the municipality sometimes caused him a great deal of worry, the mayor continued:

"Our town is not made up like other towns of 6,000 inhabitants. Somerville, for instance, with the same population, has a mile of business streets, all taxed on good valuations and the residential sections do not have to pay so heavily in proportion. We are located in a distant part of Somerset county, almost purely a place of residences, but we are called upon to pay a big tax on our valuation for county purposes, almost as much as is required for all the borough itself. For this county tax we get slight returns.

"For borough purposes last year we appropriated $21,800 and of the amount $3,000 went to the police department. We haven't any too many policemen and we can't add to the force any more than is absolutely necessary. We had $3,000 for the fire department, last year, and the cost exceeded that amount. For street work we appropriated $6,000 and spent almost all of it. In the borough the past year through private individuals more macadam was put down than in any previous year. This is especially true of the East End where a lot of good work has been done with little or no expense to the taxpayers. Mr. Hyde, for instance, deserves a lot of credit for what he has done and I hope the money he has expended will be returned to him through increased valuations. For the water supply in 1906 we paid $1,275. It doesn't seem to me that we used anywhere near that amount of water but I think we need the protection afforded by the hydrant service. For street lighting we expended $4,958 out of an appropriation of $5,000 and the poor account amounted to $1,200.

"I am telling you this," continued the Mayor, "to assert that we cannot make any improvements without issuing notes or bonds. That's why many things believed necessary are not done. Somerset street should be widened, it needs a storm sewer and new macadam and there are other things continually being asked for but I want to impose upon the council that it means an increased tax rate or a loan to grant them. The borough needs many things but they will have to be secured by degrees and not in a lump.

"Out of the borough taxes, we have to pay at once to the county, the amount it specifies for its share. We are compelled by law, also, to pay immediately the State school tax, leaving the borough to depend on the taxes of delinquents for what it needs. As a result, we are often compelled to borrow money in anticipation of receipts, so of the money appropriated we don't get it all. Its to be regretted, but that's a true statement of existing conditions.

"During the coming year I would like to see Watchung avenue opened up from Codington avenue to Johnson's drive. It is an improvement that is needed and one that will save wear and tear on Somerset street and other thoroughfares. The matter of sewers is in the hands of a competent committee and I think the question will be answered in the near future—in fact I believe we will know what we are to have inside of the year. The water question is now being discussed by Plainfield and North Plainfield has been asked to join in, so in a very short time everyone will have an opportunity to say what he thinks about the subject.

"In the conduct of its affairs, North Plainfield cannot be compared with Plainfield or in fact any town of its size in New Jersey. It is not a town but a residential borough and must remain on these lines. I hope the Council will bear this in mind and watch every expenditure so that in a year or more we can be in better financial condition than we are now I am glad to state, however, that in

SELECTS INVESTIGATORS

Mayor Fisk Makes the Appointments on Water Committee Public.

ABLE MEN TO SERVE

Committee Will Meet at the Mayor's Office Next Thursday For First Survey of the Problem.

Mayor Fisk announced the make-up of the bi-municipal water investigation committee this morning. The body is made up as follows, with Mayor Fisk as the fifteenth member: From the Common Council, Messrs. George P. Mellick, William S. Tyler, Ralph I. Tolles; appointed by the Mayor, Messrs. Harry G. Runkle, John B. Dumont, George H. Frost, Henry L. Hall, William A. Coddington, Walter Scott, William R. Craig, William Newcorn; from North Plainfield, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, William L. Saunders, Justin H. Cooley.

The appointments are regarded as ideal. The membership includes representative bankers, brokers, business men, lawyers and an inventor. The Councilmanic appointees are the members most prominent in the civic body.

They will meet at Mayor Fisk's office next Thursday. The Council will probably be asked for $2500 to equip the committee in its researches. Mayor Fisk suggested that amount in his message. The investigators want money enough to hire engineering experts and special counsel.

DEFACED DUKE ESTATE.

Two Prisoners Sentenced For Malicious Mischief by Judge Schenck.

In the Somerset County Court at Somerville, yesterday, Judge Schenck sentenced some of the offenders who had pleaded guilty.

John Littlejohn and Arthur Jones, charged with assault and battery on George Coombs at Harlingen, were given three months in the county jail.

Barney Black and Tony Pasquale, charged with malicious mischief on the Duke estate, were fined $10 each and placed in charge of the probation officer for one year.

Seven boys, also charged with malicious mischief on the Duke estate and for shooting craps there, were fined from $25 to $10 each. An eighth boy was let off with a severe reprimand.

Joint Installation of Officers.

There was a joint installation of the officers-elect of Antietan Command, Union Veteran Union, and the Women's Relief Corps at the headquarters on East Front street, last night. The officers of the command were installed by John Naylor, and those of the auxiliary by Mrs. Sarah Davis, of Jersey City, department president. The installation was public and was largely attended. After the business there were addresses by the officers and refreshments were served. There was also an informal programme of music.

Anniversary Service.

"New Year Recommendations," will be the subject of the sermon at the Park Avenue Baptist church, tomorrow, celebrating the third anniversary of the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn. There will also be communion and reception of new members. In the evening Mr. Finn will preach the last of the special series of sermons on the subject, "The Voice of God in the Way of Life," "What God Says to Me About Heaven." From now on the Sunday evening services at the church will be of an evangelistic nature.

Wedded at St. Mary's.

Edward Richards, of Manson place, and Mrs. Rose McLean, of Netherwood, were quietly married in St. Mary's church at 2 o'clock New Year's afternoon. Father Bogan performed the ceremony and only the necessary witnesses were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Richards are now at Northampton, Mass., on their honeymoon and on their return will reside on Manson place for the winter.

Suicide's Relatives Not Located.

Though the Newark and Westfield police have both been making a determined search, the home or relatives of Charles Smith, who killed himself when placed under arrest Klop's Mountainside hotel Thursday night, have not been located. It was stated by friends that he came from Newark and that he left a wife living there. The body is still being held at Cole's establishment in this city.

Charles Adair.

Charles Adair, a former resident of Scotch Plains, died this morning at his home, 157 Frelinghuysen avenue, Newark. The body will be brought to Scotch Plains today and the funeral will be held at the home of his nephew, George Clark, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

PLAN UNIVERSITY CLUB

Scheme Will Be Discussed at College Smoker to be Held at Casino.

OVER 300 ACCEPTANCES

There Will Be Plenty to Eat, Drink and Smoke—Fine Entertainment and Good Speakers.

Plans are rapidly being completed for the college smoker to be held at the Casino on the evening of January 24. There is every indication that the attendance will be large, about 300 men being expected, and the affair promises to outshine last year's successful gathering.

Although the committee has made a thorough canvass of college men in Plainfield no doubt a few names have escaped it and it is urged upon every college man who has not yet received an invitation to co-operate with the committee by sending in his name immediately in order that provision may be made for him the night of the smoker.

The committee has just sent second notices to those men who have not yet answered the first postals sent them, urging them to please answer immediately whether or not they expect to be present on January 24, as it is imperative that all replies be in the hands of Owen H. Fleming, 1012 Park avenue, not later than January 15. It is already practically assured that there will be a quartette from both Yale and Princeton. There has also been secured one of the best singing and playing colored quartettes in New York.

The men will sit about round tables, each one holding a jolly crowd of ten to a dozen men. There will be plenty to eat, drink and smoke, plenty of good music and college songs. The ultimate idea of the smoker, of course, is the formation of a University Club in Plainfield. There are more than enough university men here to start a club and keep it going so that a college man might have a place where he could sit, eat and smoke a pipe in peace with others of his kind.

Hence, it is necessary for every man to reply at once saying he expects to be present at the smoker and help whoop it up for his old alma mater and express his opinion as to whether or not Plainfield with its 460 college men should or should not have a university club.

COMPANY K FAIR.

Preparing For the Fourth Annual Event.

Details are rapidly being perfected for the fourth annual fair of Co. K to be held in the armory on West Front street from January 26 to February 2. These fairs have always been successful and the patronage has been liberal. It is planned to have many new features this year to attract the friends of the company. The floor is being generally repaired and put in fine condition for dancing and nothing will be left undone in making the event one of the best in the history of the company.

The general committee in charge consists of Sergeants Charles Peterson, Albert Tranchand; Corporals J. Niles, DeCamp, Sampson; Privates Rothberg, Bembrook, Ford, Hartpence, Morton, Seaman, Weigman, Dayton and Dow.

Boom in the East End.

The J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company has acquired ten acres of land located between Leland and Berkely avenue, in the East End of the city, and are planning to build a number of dwellings there in the spring. There is room in the tract for eighty houses, but the company proposes to build as the demand appears. Judging from the present outlook there is considerable activity in real estate and the demand for homes will be large during the year. For the purpose of meeting it, the company is making arrangements to erect a number of houses.

Dr. C. L. Rhodes Will Preach.

Rev. Dr. Charles L. Rhodes, of New York, will preach at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning for the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, who has been suffering from an attack of laryngitis. There will be no evening service. Dr. Rhodes has preached at this church on several occasions and has always been listened to with great interest. Dr. Chambliss expects to attend the morning service, but his throat is hardly strong enough to preach.

Saloon Fighter to Speak.

Rev. Ferdinand C. Iglehart, of New York, a representative of the Anti-Saloon League, will speak at Hope chapel tomorrow afternoon and at the First Presbyterian church in the evening. While in town Mr. Iglehart will be the guest of his son, Ferdinand C. Iglehart, Jr., of 423 East Seventh street.

ARMING HIMSELF, BETTMAN DEFIES THE WHITECAPS

Man Ordered to Leave Fanwood to Post Notices That He Will Defend His Life.

WILL NOT QUIT PLACE

Printed Notice to His Alleged Enemies, States That Mayor Would Refuse Permit, But He Has Authority to Carry Gun.

By the printing of notices in a Perth Amboy establishment, it became known today that C. A. Bettman, of Fanwood, bids open defiance to the "Vigilant Committee of the State of New Jersey," which placarded the borough with warnings for him to leave town under threats of vivisection if he remained. Though many of the residents regarded the action of the "Whitecaps" in the light of a joke, Mr. Bettman has been subjected to such annoyances that he regards it differently and in the answer which he has had prepared he announces that he has taken every means to protect himself and that the members of the committee can go ahead with its plans as soon as it pleases. His letter of defiance, which is evidently to be posted about the borough as was the one to him, reads as follows:

"NOTICE!

"To the Vigilant Committee of the State of New Jersey: I will not absent myself from the borough of Fanwood as ordered by you, except as circumstances may require. Doubtless some of you being closely associated with the borough officials or government are aware that the Mayor would refuse me a permit to carry a weapon and as His Honor is not the supreme authority to do so I have obtained such permit and am amply prepared and would gladly welcome you to execute your threats at the earliest possible moment (if you can) and trust that the exigences of the case will permit you to attempt it soon. I will be in Fanwood as freely and frequently as I may.

"C. A. BETTMAN."

RECOGNIZE KINSMAN'S DEVICE.

Interstate Commerce Commission Will Investigate It.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, being credibly informed that automatic devices for preventing railroad collisions have been so far perfected as to justify thorough experimental tests of their practical usefulness, is destined to bring the F. E. Kinsman Company device prominently before the railroad world. Mr. Kinsman, who resides here, has had his device in successful operation on the express tracks of the New York Subway and is considered a complete success.

The commission is of the opinion that such tests should be conducted by officials of the Government and at its expense. See Kinsman Company advertisement in another column.

Week of Prayer Services.

Week of prayer services will be held in a number of the local evangelical churches commencing Monday and continuing up to and including Friday night. Among the churches to observe the week are Trinity Reformed, Warren chapel, First M. E. and Crescent Avenue Presbyterian. The Monroe Avenue M. E. church will hold services Wednesday and Friday nights, the subject for Wednesday night being "The Church Universal," and the one for Friday night "Interests of the Local Church." The pastors of the churches will be in charge of the services, with the exception of Trinity Reformed church, where different ones will lead each night.

Edmund Tapscott's Funeral.

The funeral of Edmund Tapscott was held at his late home on Willow avenue, yesterday afternoon, with Rev. Arthur Searing Peck in charge. It was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends, many of the latter being business associates from New York. There were numerous floral tributes. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Thought He Saw Chimney Fire.

Fire headquarters was notified at 7:20 last night by Henry DeMott that a bad chimney nre was in progress at a house on East Third street at Washington. Chief Doane and a piece of apparatus went out but could find no blaze in the neighborhood. A citizen suggested that Mr. DeMott had seen the flare-up from the gas plant and the firemen accepted the theory.

GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB'S ELECTION

WILLIAM J. HAMILTON AGAIN HEAD OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD SOCIETY.

With fifty active members in attendance, the South Plainfield Good Government Club held its annual election of officers last night. William J. Hamilton was again chosen as president although he requested to be allowed to withdraw from the head of the organization as he has devoted a good deal of time to its projects and felt that the lead should be taken by someone else for a time, at least. The gathering was insisted, however, and he was elected unanimously by a standing vote. Mr. Hamilton is one of the most popular men in the village and the citizens are certain that with his being at the head of the Good Government Club, improvements needed by the place will be brought about.

The other officers selected were as follows: Vice president, John I. Holly; recording secretary, Harry A. Manning; treasurer, T. A. Linaberry; sergeant-at-arms, Robert Horne. The members discussed plans for raising some money to carry on its work to better advantage and it was practically decided to give a minstrel show in February. The details will be worked out within the next week.

The transportation problem between Plainfield and South Plainfield will be given the major portion of the club's attention during the next few months and it has several other improvements in view that will keep the members busy until next summer.

COLUMBIA LODGE OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Public Ceremony Combined With Musical Programme By Vivo Trio.

Past Grand Master Workman Ernest Stahl, of Trenton, assisted by Deputy McWood, of Newark, conducted a public installation of the officers-elect of Columbia Lodge, No. 58, Ancient Order Workmen, last night. In addition there was a fine musical programme by the Vivo Instrumental Trio, of which Martin A. Korff is the leader. These officers were installed:

After the installation a committee consisting of Stephen H. Schleif, J. W. A. Bauersachs and John G. Bicknell served refreshments and a social time followed.

The regulations governing traffic at the north side of the North avenue station, in the evening rush hour, were not put into operation last night. All the rules have not yet been decided upon. The regulations from the south side, for morning use, were put into effect yesterday.

Mr. VanEmburgh Again Appointed.

H. C. VanEmburgh, of this city, received his tenth appointment as engineer of Roselle borough, last night. He was also appointed engineer of Fanwood township at the meeting of the township committee Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. R. C. Flower Caught.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 5.—Dr. R. C. Flower, who the police say is the colossal mining swindler of the age, was arrested in this city yesterday after a chase that lasted more than three years, and has reached through Mexico and a greater part of South America. When Detective Sergeant McConville and Detectives Tate and Wood ran their quarry to earth he was posing as "Professor Oxford," a benevolent old gentleman with a new process for making chemical bricks and artificial diamonds.

RAILWAY WANTS DEPOSIT.

Company Asks for Its $25,000 Because the Concern Has Been Dissolved.

Trenton, Jan. 5.—An application has been filed in the office of the secretary of State by David Bingham, representing the Essex Cross Railway Company, to withdraw $25,000 from the State treasury, which was deposited when the concern received its charter five years ago.

The company was incorporated for the purpose of constructing and operating an electric railway in Essex and Union counties and particularly in the municipalities of Bloomfield, East Orange, Vailsburgh, Irvington, Union and Elizabeth. At a recent meeting of the directors, it was decided that the company be dissolved and that all rights of the corporation to priority of application for location of tracks should be waived.

This action was the result of the inability of the company to acquire a franchise in East Orange, although application was made to the Common Council of that city on three separate occasions.

Franchises were obtained in Elizabeth, Irvington and Clinton, with fair prospects of securing a franchise in Bloomfield, but all of these rights have expired by limitation. But even with these in force, the directors decided that the project was impracticable without the East Orange franchise.

Harriman Railroad King.

New York, Jan. 5.—Wall street was amazed yesterday at the developments of the first day's investigation of the Harriman railroad merger by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It learned: That E. H. Harriman is without question the most important power in railroad circles the country has ever had. That since last July he has invested $103,302,745 in stock of roads in which he was not before interested. That he has bought $32,334,300 of the Baltimore and Ohio common and $7,206,400 of the preferred, as well as quietly gathered up $14,285,745 of the New York Central holdings. That he has acquired large holdings in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. That he is the dominant master of the Union Pacific and allied corporations. That he has absolute authority to borrow what money he needs, pledging the securities of his companies. All this was brought out by the witnesses who had the private records of the Union Pacific Railway Company before them, and is only the forerunner, the government's counsel said, of developments that may be expected.

Weather Bad, Seeks Death.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

George M. Cohan's new musical play, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," will be the bill at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night, with Fay Templeton, who plays the role of housemaid. Others in the cast are Victor Moore, Emma Littlefield, Julia Ralph, Marion Singer, Donald Brian, Charles Prince, James H. Manning, Louis R. Grisel, Maurice Elliott, Floyd Francis and Harry Watson. The character opposite is "Kid Burns," a young man with an extraordinary vocabulary of piquant slang. One of the songs of the play, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," is sung by him.

"David Harum" is announced as the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. Julius Cahn's company appear in the production with Harry Brown as "David Harum." There are three acts in "David Harum." The play is a clever and a remarkable dramatization of the book and retains everything that had any value in the story. The horse trade in the opening act is described as being one of the best and most humorous scenes ever unfolded in a purely American play.

The marked success of "Piff Paff Pouf," under the management of B. C. Whitney, is not to be wondered at when account is taken of the extremely pretty music and the bright lines in the dialogue. It is filled with melody of the sort that cannot fail to please and there are players to make you laugh, singers who are profitable to hear, a remarkably well drilled chorus, an excellent orchestra and the scenic and environment of the comedy are most complete. To have won its spurs on all the fields of criticism is proof that its engagement here will be the season's important engagement. "Piff Paff Pouf" will be the offering at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night under the auspices of the Kings Daughters and to secure seats well in advance would be judgment well used.

In the second act of Lillian Mortimer's last season's success, "No Mother to Guide Her," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night, an entirely new scene is shown. It discloses a camp of the gypsies absolutely true to life. It was with great difficulty that a number of the properties for this act were obtained from these nomads, but the price offered by Miss Mortimer for different pieces of camp furniture was so far in excess of what the gypsies paid for them that she was able to secure the complete outfit.

John Philip Sousa's latest military comic opera, "The Free Lance," which, with Joseph Cawthorn as the star of the original cast, which will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on January 15, is declared by many erudite music lovers his best work. In collaboration with Harry B. Smith, who is the lyricist, the famous band-master is said to have turned out one of the most fascinating plays since the days of "Robin Hood."

Christmas at the Relief.

If all those who sent gifts to the Relief Association could have been at the rooms the day before Christmas, when the bags, full to the brim with good things, were given out, they would surely have had great satisfaction in the thought that their assistance helped to make December 25, 1906, a particularly merry and joyful day for 483 children in presenting 155 families. Each child received a toy, cap or mittens, and two pairs of stockings, the latter being furnished by the Elks' generous check. 57 trees with boxes of ornaments were sent to the poorest families. Warm garments were given to 21 old people, also to 17 at the Industrial Home, who received from the Silver Cross Circle candy, tobacco and fruit. The entertainment given by the Elks at Reform Hall December 24 for 475 children was an added joy to the general happiness. For the many contributions of money, provisions, coal, free press notices and for the time given by those who assisted in preparing the tags, the Board of Managers desires to express their appreciation and to thank the kind friends whose generosity helped in the Christmas cheer.

A Valuable Industrial Investment, Money to be Made by Buying Now.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The rumors of a football game between the West, represented by Chicago University, and the East, by Pennsylvania or Yale, have been temporarily quashed by an announcement made by Coach Stagg, of Chicago, who has just returned from a trip into this part of the country:

"I don't know how the reports that Nov. 16 had been agreed upon as a tentative date for a Chicago-Pennsylvania game started," said the Maroon coach, "for no such action has been taken. As a matter of fact, this game was not discussed and nothing has been done since the receipt of the letter from Pennsylvania asking for the game. Neither was anything done in regard to a Yale game. Nothing can be done as yet. I have no authority to arrange Eastern games, and I have told all applicants that it will be well along in January before Chicago can begin to do anything definite in regard to its football schedule."

Dave White, captain of the 1907 football team of Exeter Academy, has been indefinitely suspended because of differences with the faculty. White has played on the Exeter team for two years past and is thought to be the best school tackle in New England. Before entering the New Hampshire school he played tackle for the Dorchester, Mass., High School.

The University of Utah is rapidly taking the lead in athletics in the intermountain region of collegiate sport, thanks to the efforts of the coach, Joseph Maddock, who produced a football team during this past fall that was considered the best in the Northwest. The team won every game of its season, with the exception of the first, by overwhelming scores, and the track team also did good work, although it failed to win the State meet, lacking five points of the score made by the University of Colorado.

DIAMOND DUST.

Hal Chase wants more money for next season, and the chances are he'll get it.

Abbaticchio is too good a ball player to be allowed to forsake the diamond for some other calling. The same is true of Fred Glade.

In 1882 George Gore, one of the best outfielders in that day, had 33 errors in 84 games. In 1905 Cannell, by no means a crack outfielder, had only 23 errors in 154 games. The explanation of the difference made by an old timer is that in the old days the outfielders threw more balls to the plate and thus ran the chances of making more errors. The number of outfield assists twenty-five years ago was much greater proportionately than now.

Unless the Tri-State League, known as the Outlaws, consents to surrender the major league players now in its ranks it cannot hope to receive protection from the National Commission and the National Association of Minor Leagues. The Outlaws induced most of their players to break the contracts or jump the reserve rule and have been paying big salaries to keep them. The Tri-State clubs want to keep the men at reduced salaries and believe they have as much right to them as the American League had to the players taken from the National League in time of war. The big bugs in baseball government feel that the Tri-State is on its last legs and that a peremptory demand for the return of the contract jumpers should be promptly heeded. Some of the outlaw clubs are opposed to securing protection for the reason that they think their league will die a natural death if the stars who have been playing with them are surrendered to their former employers. Meanwhile the players—those of them that have not been blacklisted—will probably jump the Outlaws anyway rather than take chances of having their salaries cut, which seems inevitable no matter whether protection is secured or not.

Plainfield, N. J., January 5, 1907.

A FARCE—COMEDY.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley has never been accused of not having the courage of his convictions. The fact is that his frankness of speech has always been his chief characteristic, and it has earned for him esteem from even his bitterest political enemies. He calls a spade a spade and every time he strikes he generally hits the nail on the head. Last night he hit the Plainfield Common Council. Probably he had no intention of doing so, but his remarks were so apropos to existing conditions in this city that he will be given credit for having our Common Council in mind when he said to his own Council:

"A man in the Council should have a mind of his own and have the courage of his convictions. It has never been the custom of this Council to adjourn to a private room to discuss public matters and then come out and vote without enlightening the lobby. If you have anything to say, bring it out right here. You represent the people and we should do it to the best of our ability. I am always open to suggestions and will esteem it greatly if any matter you believe should be looked into is brought up in open meeting for a good, common sense discussion."

Those who have never attended a meeting of the Plainfield Common Council can hardly appreciate how very fitting this rebuke is. When any real business is to be transacted, some member of the body will arise and with serious expression and solemn voice move that the grave legislators go into executive session for "six minutes." There is a chorus of "ayes," and the men who are legislating for 18,000 people slowly file into a little box-like room which, judging by its furniture, one would say is a grill room of a hotel or a smoking room of a theatre. Half an hour or so later, these eleven men, if it so happens that there is a full Council, march back to their seats for the purpose of allowing interested citizens to hear a vote taken, or more often a motion to lay on the table, regarding some very important piece of business. The stranger would never imagine that the eleven men were transacting public business. It would be more natural for him to suppose that it was a meeting of the directors of some close corporation, whose deliberations were none of the public's business.

If President Daniel wants to abolish an outrageous custom, he should use his good offices in convincing the Common Council of 1907 that a little side room, with closed doors, is no place to perform the city's business.

AN IDEAL COMMISSION.

The make-up of the water investigating committee can be regarded as nothing short of ideal, and Mayors Smalley and Fisk and President Daniel are to be congratulated on the wisdom of their selections. With the duty instrusted to such a body of men, the inhabitants of the city and borough may rest assured that the work will be performed in an aggressive, thorough and most intelligent manner.

CITY TREASURER'S REPORT

Do not fail to read the report of City Treasurer Arnold, which is published in this issue. That painstaking and most competent official presents his annual report in a shape that makes it very easy for one to see at a glance how the finances of the city stand.

The annual roll-call meeting of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., will be held Monday night. District Deputy Grand Master G. S. Hamilton will install the officers-elect.

There will be a joint installation of the officers of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps on Tuesday night. Department officers of both the G. A. R. and Relief Corps are expected.

PLANS FOR S. S. MEET

Eight Churches at Least Will Be Represented, May-be More.

A SCHOOL CUP OFFERED

Put Up By C. W. McCutchen—League Committee Chairmen Appointed.

Swiftly the Sunday-school Athletic League moves on its way. The irreverent and unchurchly youths who have been under the impression that anything so robust as athletics could not flourish like a green bay tree under the guidance of Sunday-school superintendents and their assistants will find themselves looking on an orderly and well-managed meet, with a cup, medals and all the things properly touching on and appertaining to a hot hustle for honors and records. Plans for a meet have been all but completed. The date, February 1, has been fixed, and eight Sunday-schools have already begun to make up teams. Yes, the league is flourishing; it is beginning to look like a green bay tree and a tall cedar of Lebanon combined.

The Board of Governors of the league met and talked over the meet last night. They decided on prizes, and turned over the task of making up a list of events to G. L. Listman, Y. M. C. A. physical director. The meet is to be held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

President C. W. McCutchen, of the First Baptist church, has offered a cup, to be known as the president's cup, to be competed for by the teams. The Sunday-school winning it two years in succession will keep it. The school winning the cup this year will have one leg on it, but will have to repeat next year to keep its grip. The individual champion will get a silver medal and the second place man will get one of bronze.

These chairmen of standing committees were appointed: Thack, G. L. Listman; records, James Joy; membership, John McClymot; basketball, John McClymot; baseball, J. W. Gavett; aquatics, Dr. N. H. Probasco; gymnastics, G. L. Listman; press, Rev. E. V. Stevenson.

The eight churches already in the league are the First Baptist, First Methodist Episcopal, Grace Protestant Episcopal, Park Avenue Baptist, Warren chapel, Hope chapel, Congregational and Trinity Reformed. Two or three others are expected to join before the meet. A big entry list is in sight.

John McClymot took the place of Willard Wadsworth on the Board of Governors, for the Congregational church. Mr. Wadsworth could not serve.

PERSONAL.

Edmund Pack, of Park avenue, is detained at home by an attack of grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Shirley and son, Leo, of College place, are spending a week at Suffield, Conn.

Miss Edith Young, of Orange, has returned home after a visit with Miss Mary VanEps, of East Fifth street.

Albert Kurzhals, of West Second street, who is ill with lead poisoning, left Thursday for Norfolk, Va., where he willl visit his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke and A. H. Thorne, of East Fifth street, have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. William D. Bauer, of Somerville.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

I wish this to ve corrected about the Prideville prisoners, as they were called in your paper last night. The charge was made by Special Marshal John Reiman. When he took them to court he could prove nothing. The chief officers of the court were Mayor Smalley, Judge Dolliver and Lawyer Huff. Marshal Reiman made a false charge against these boys, whose names are Howard, Fred and George Perry, Charles Bremmer, Charles Bimble, Lewis Hansen, Edward Gaub and James Neill. They were all discharged for the want of evidence.

STOKES IS OUT OF RACE

Governor Says He Will Not Be a Candidate For United States Senator.

DRYDENITES HOPEFUL

"I Intend, If God Spares My Life, to Finish Out My Term," Says Mr. Stokes.

An interview with Governor Edward C. Stokes by Lathrop Anderson, a member of the Essex County Tax Board and a Colby leader, in which the Governor made a positive declaration that he was not a candidate for the United States Senate, gave some relief to the supporters of Senator Dryden, who have been saying all along that the Governor would not enter the race. Mr. Anderson visited Governor Stokes at Trenton Thursday to talk over taxation matters, and the Governor asked Mr. Anderson what the situation was in Essex.

Mr. Anderson referred to the intention of State Senator Everett Colby not to vote for Mr. Dryden's re-election. Mr. Anderson also dwelt upon the attitude of the New Idea wing of the Republicans in the matter of the senatorial fight, and finally opened up a conversation touching upon the announcements that the Governor was a candidate for the office.

"I should feel honored," Governor Stokes told Mr. Anderson, "to serve the people of New Jersey in the United States Senate, but I have never been, am not now, nor will I be a candidate in the present contest while I am Governor of this State. I was elected Governor of New Jersey, and I intend, if the Lord spares my life, to finish out my term."

Mr. Anderson expressed surprise at the Governor's statement and asked the executive whether he would object to allowing the declaration to be made public. Governor Stokes assured Mr. Anderson that he had no objection.

The Dryden supporters were cheered a little by the positive announcement that the Governor would not be a candidate against the junior Senator. For several weeks friends of the Governor have been endeavoring to have him make a definite statement as to how he stood on the question of the United States Senate, and they have kept things humming doing all they could to make possible the election of their favorite.

regard to money matters we are very much better off at present than we were ten years ago. A lot of good time has been lost in the way of improvements. I hope for a change soon and trust that we can do better. What we need more than anything else is economy as the taxes are already high and the valuations have been raised far enough.

"A man in the Council should have a mind of his own and have the courage of his convictions. It has never been the custom of this Council to adjourn to a private room to discuss public matters and then come out and vote without enlightening the by. If you have anything to say, bring it out right here. You represent the people and we should do it to the best of our ability. I am always open to suggestions and will esteem it greatly if any matter you believe should be looked into is brought up in open meeting for a lobby. If you have anything to say, Following the Mayor's address, the members discussed several of his suggestions, especially the Watchung avenue extension. The new member, Barzilla R. Waldron, occupied his seat, and was an interested participant.

Blue-Lawed Boston.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 5.—The Sunday activities of the people of Boston will be checked in many important ways under decisions reached in the Municipal Court yesterday in connection with the cases brought under the enforcement of the Sunday laws, commonly known as the Massachusetts "blue laws." Twelve hundred residents of Boston have been summoned into court as a result of the controversy between District Attorney John Moran and Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara over the alleged violations of the Sunday statue. The decisions of Special Justice Duff, who was assigned to try the cases, were many and varied yesterday, and if they are sustained by the higher courts will signalize cessation in many directions of work which has been carried on without interruption on Sundays in the past. The Court found, for instance, that the transfer of scenery and other theatrical effects from theatres after midnight of Saturday, is not work of necessity, which is permitted under the statutes.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

At the Lincoln Square Theatre, New York's newest and most beautiful playhouse, at 65th and Broadway, Walter N. Lawrence Produced on December 31st a three-act farce with songs now and then entitled "Matilda." Alfred Hickman heads the cast and is ably supported by Amy Ricard, Maude Fulton, Joseph Tuohy, Katherine Emmett, Lionel Walsh, Clara Thompson and others. To quote the criticisms of the leading New York papers "Matilda" can be described as "the farce of a thousand laughs," a play that begins with a smile and ends with a roar of laughter," the World said it was a fortune winner and the desponden, the blue and forlorn should hasten to the Lincoln Square Theatre and obtain relief by seeing "Matilda." The story of the farce concerns a young woman who has been left a large sum of money on condition that she marry a man she has never seen. This condition is obnoxious to her by reason of her being in love with another man. In order to obtain the fortune and still marry the man of her choice she resorts to a subterfuge. She enlists the aid of a friend who has made a hit as a female impersonator in amateur affairs and he poses as her and and therefore disgusts the other claimant to the estate. This masquerade assumed by Alfred Hicgman, furnishes two hours and a half of delight and hilarity. As a natural sequence to situations and dialogue songs are introduced of a most catchy variety. This marks a new idea in entertainment as the chorus feature of musical comedies are obliterated. "Matilda" will no doubt run far into the summer and should prove a delightful evening to the myriads of theatregoers. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees's will be played at the same prices as the evenings when the best seats will sell for one dollar and a half with 500 good seats at a dollar.

Undoubtedly the dramatic event of this season in New York will be the appearance of Blanche Walsh at the Astor Theatre next Monday night when she will present Clyde Fitch's newest play, "The Straight Road." It is promised for the new play that it is something different. It tells the story of the redemption of a woman. It is not the story of a lost woman, but the simple life history of a girl of the slums. Both Miss Walsh and Mr. Fitch have been anxious to emphasize the fact that this is not a problem play. It is a play written to entertain, and a play that once seen, spectators will desire to see over and over again. It is just a straightforward story in which one woman works on another in an earnest effort for good, but there is a strong heart interest in it andplenty of dramatic action. It has scenes of low life, and it has scenes placed among the higher classes so that there is practically an even division of atmosphere. Managers Wagenhals & Kemper promise that the production will be a most beautiful one appealing to the eye and perfectly agreeing with the realistic theme of the play. The company which surrounds Miss Walsh has been especially selected with the idea of creating the characters in the most perfect manner. All members of the company are metropolitan favorites, and it is looked upon as the most brilliant coterie of player that will be seen on Broadway this year. Among others there are Charles Dalton, Dorothy Dorr, Louise Closser, Helen Lowell, Howard Estabrook, Jessie Ralph, William Travers and William Wadsworth.

LITERARY.

A Happy New Year to everybody in general and to Lippincott's readers in particular. By way of helping to make good this wish the initial number for 1907 is an especially all around, good, entertaining issue, full from cover to cover of the sort of reading that people want; and this standard will be striven after twelve times during the next twelve months—sometimes it will be surpassed. The opening novelette in January is by Grace MacGowan Cooke: "Love Among Thieves" is a distinctly modern story of love and mystery—social, not professional—and it is written in Mrs. Cooke's most engagingly vivacious style, in which the humorous abounds.

Demolished Fruit Wagon.

While the wagon was being unloaded, a horse belonging to Alexis & Co., fruit dealers, ran away from the freight station yesterday. It swung upon the sidewalk on Richmond avenue near Third and wrecked the wagon against a tree. The animal was thrown down and was captured before it could arise.

Gifts to Children's Home.

At regular monthly meeting of the Children's Home Association a unanimous vote of thanks was passed to V. W. Nash, Jr., for five tons of coal; also to Holy Cross church for a generous donation of groceries, canned fruits, etc., received after the Christmas acknowledgment.

—The Lehigh Valley has placed an order for six passenger coaches and two combination buffet baggage cars for use in the Black Diamond Express, to replace similar equipment now on that train. Delivery of this equipment is promised in May, 1907, and the cars are to be the most modern and comfortable that can be made.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

BY HARRY LEON WILSON AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

But she talked. Her tones played with the constancy of an ever-living fountain. Artlessly she lost herself in the sound of their music, until she also lost her sense of proportion, of light and shade, of simple, Christian charity. Her name was Lorena Sears, and she had come in with one of the late trains of converts, without friends, relatives, or means, with nothing but her natural gifts and an abiding faith in the saving powers of the new dispensation. And though she was so alive in her faith, rarely informed in the Scriptures, bubbling with enthusiasm for the new covenant, the new Zion, and the second coming of the Messiah, there had seemed to be no place for her. She had not been asked in marriage, nor had she found it easy to secure work to support herself.

"She's strong," said Brigham, to his inquiring Elder, "and a good worker, but even Brother Heber Kimball wouldn't marry her; and between you and me, Brother Joel, I never knew Heber to shy before at anything that would work. You can see that, yourself, by looking over his household."

But, after the needful preliminaries, and a very little coy hesitation on the part of the lady, Lorena Sears, spinster, native of Elyria, Ohio, was duly sealed to, for time and eternity, and became a star forever in the crown of Joel Rae, Elder after the Order of Melchisedek in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and President of the Amalon Stake of Zion.

In the bustle of the start south there were, of necessity, moments in which the crown's new star could not talk; but these blessed respites were at an end when at last they came to the open road.

At first, as her speech flowed on, he looked sidelong at her, in a trouble of fear and wonder; then, at length, absently, trying to put his mind elsewhere and to leave her voice as the muted murmur of a distant torrent. He succeeded fairly well in this, for Lorena combined admirably in herself the parts of speaker and listener, and was not, he thankfully noted, watchful of his attention.

He was called back by the stopping of her voice, but she had to repeat her question before he understood it. The Devil tempted him in that moment. He was on the point of answering, "Because she talked too much," but instead he climbed out of the wagon to walk. He walked most of the 300 miles in the next ten days. Nights and mornings he falsely pretended to be deaf.

But he had taken up a new cross and he had his reward. The first night after they reached home he took the little Bible from its hiding place and opened it with trembling hands. The stain was there, red in the candlelight. But the cries no longer rang in his ears as on that other night when he had been sinful before the page. And he was glad, knowing that the self within him had again been put down.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Wild Ram of the Mountains Offers to Become a Savior on Mount Zion.

In the valley of which Amalon was the center, they made ready for the end of the world. It is true that in the north, as the appointed year drew nigh, an opinion had begun to prevail that the Son of Man might defer his coming; and presently it became know that Brigham himself was doubtful about the year 1870, and was inspiring others to doubt. But in Amalon they were untainted by this heresy, choosing to rely upon what Brigham had said in moments more inspired.

He had taught that Joseph was to be the first person resurrected; that after his frame had been knit together and clothed with immortal flesh he would resurrect those who had died in the faith, according to their rank in the priesthood; then all his wives and children. Resurrected Elders, having had the keys of the resurrection conferred upon them by Joseph, their own households; and when the last of the faithful had come forth, another great work would be performed; the Gentiles would then be resurrected to act as servants and slaves to the Saints. In his lighter moments Brigham had been wont to name a couple of Presidents of the United States who would then act as his valets.

It was this earlier teaching that the faithful of Amalon clung to, perhaps not a little by reason that immediately over them was a spiritual guide who had been trained from infancy to know that salvation lay in belief,—never in doubt. For a sign of the end they believed that on the night before the day of it there would be no darkness. This would be as it had been before the birth of the Savior, as told in the Book of Mormon: "At the going down of the sun there was no darkness, and the people began to be astonished because there was no darkness when the night came; and there was no darkness in all that night, but it was as light as if it were midday."

They talked of little but this matter in that small pocket of the intermountain commonwealth, in Sabbath meetings and around the hearths at night. The Wild Ram of the Mountains thought all proselyting should cease in view of the approaching end; that the Elders on mission should withdraw from the vineyard, shake the dust from their feet, and seal up the rebellious Gentiles to damnation. To this Elder Beil Wardle had replied, somewhat testily:

"Well, now, since these valleys of Ephraim have got a little fattened a whole lot of us have got the sweeny, and our skins are growing too tight on our flesh." He had been unable to comprehend that the Gentiles were a rejected lot, the lost sheep of the house of Israel. On this occasion it had required all the tact of Elder Rae to soothe the two good men into an amiable discussion of the time when Sidney Rigdon went to the third heaven and talked face to face with God. They had agreed in the end, however, that they were both of the royal seed of Abraham, and were on the grand turnpike to exaltation.

To these discussions and sermons the child, Prudence, listened with intense interest, looking forward to the last day as an occasion productive of excitement even superior to that of her trips to Salt Lake City, where her father went to attend the October conference, and where she was taken to the theater.

One day in this spring when she was 14, the good Bishop Wright, on his way down from Box canyon with a load of wood, saw her striding up the road ahead of him. Something caught his eye, either in her step which had a child's careless freedom, or in the lines of her swinging figure that told of coming womanhood, or in the flashing, laughing appeal of her dark eyes where for the moment both woman and child looked out. He set the brake on his wagon and waited for her to pass. She came by with a smile and a word of greeting, to which his rapt attention prevented any reply except a slight nod. When she had passed, he turned and looked after her until she had gone around the little hill on the road that entered the canyon.

After the early evening meal that day, along the many-roomed house of this good man, from door to door there ran the words, starting from her who had last been sealed to him:

"He's making himself all proud!"

They know what it meant, and wondered whom.

A little later the Bishop set out, his face clean shaven to the ruffle of white whiskers that ran under his chin from ear to ear, his scant hair smooth and shining with grease from the largest bear ever trapped in the Pine mountains, and his tall form arrayed in his best suit of homespun. As he went he trolled an ancient lay of love, and youth was in his step. For there had come all day upon this Prince of Israel those subtle essences distilled by spring to provoke the mating urge. At the Rae house he found only Christina.

Dark rooms are not only uncomfortable, they breed a spirit of antagonism and spoil the good cheer which might prevail if each spot in the house was cheerful in itself.

"Where's Brother Joel, Sister Rae?"

"Himself has gone out there," Christina had answered with a wave of her hand, and using the term of respect which she always applied to her husband.

He went around the house, out past the stable and corrals and across the irrigating ditch to where he saw Joel Rae leaning on the rail fence about the peach orchard. Far down between two rows of the blossoming trees he could see the girl reaching up to break off a pink-sprayed bough. He quickened his pace and was soon at the fence.

"Brother—Joel,—I—the—"

The good man had been full of his message a moment before, but now he stammered and hesitated because of something cold in the other's eye as it seemed to note the unwonted elegance of his attire. He took a quick breath and went on.

"You see the Lord has moved me to add another star to my crown."

"I see; and you have come to get me to seal you?"

"Well, of course I hadn't thought of it so soon, but if you want to do it to-night—"

"As soon as you like, Bishop,—the sooner the better if you are to save the soul of another woman against the day of desolation. Where is she?" and he turned to go back to the house. But the Bishop still paused, looking toward the orchard.

"Well, the fact is, Brother Joel, you see the Lord has made me feel to have Prudence for another star in my crown of glory—your daughter Prudence," he repeated as the other gazed at him with a sudden change of manner.

"My daughter Prudence—little Prue—that child—that baby?"

"Baby—she's 14; she was telling my daughter Mattie so just the other day, and the Legislature has made the marrying age 12 for girls and 15 for boys, so she's two years overtime already. Of course, I ain't 15, but I'm safer for her than some young cub."

"But Bishop—you don't consider—"

"Oh, of course, I know there's been private talk about her, nobody knows who her mother was, and they say whoever she was you was never married to her, so she couldn't have been born right, but I ain't bigoted like some I could name, and I stand ready to be her Savior on Mount Zion."

He waited with something of noble concession in his mien.

The other seemed only now to have fully sensed the proposal, and, with real terror in his face, he began to urge the Bishop toward the house, after looking anxiously back to where the child still lingered with the mist of pink blossoms against the leafless boughs above her.

"Come, Brother Seth—come, I beg of you—we'll talk of it—but it can't be, indeed it can't!"

"Let's ask her," suggested the Bishop, disinclined to move.

"Don't, don't ask her!" He seized the other by the arm.

"Come, I'll explain; don't ask her now, at any rate—I beg of you as a gentleman—as a gentleman, for you are a gentleman."

The Bishop turned somewhat impatiently, then remarked with a dignified severity:

"Oh, I can be a gentleman whenever it's necessary!"

They went across the fields toward the house, and the Bishop spoke further.

"There ain't any need to get into your high-heeled boots, Brother Rae, jest because I was aiming to save her to a crown of glory,—a girl that's thought to have been born on the wrong side of the blanket."

They stopped by the first corral, and Joel Rae talked. He talked rapidly and with power, saying many things to make it plain that he was determined not to look upon the Wild Ram of the Mountains as an acceptable son-in-law. His manner was excited and distraught, terrified and indignant,—a manner hardly justified by the circumstances, about which there was nothing extraordinary, nothing not pleasing to God and in conformity to His revealed word. Bishop Wright indeed was puzzled to account for the heat of his manner, and in recounting the interview to Elder Wardle, he threw out an intimation about strong drink. "To tell you the truth," he said, "I suspicion he'd jest been putting a new faucet in the cider barrel."

When Prudence came in from the blossoming peach trees that night her father called her to him to sit on his lap in the dusk while the crickets sang, and grow sleepy as had been her baby habit.

"What did Bishop Wright want?" she asked, after her head was pillowed on his arm. Relieved that it was over, now even a little amused, he told her:

"He wanted to take my little girl away, to marry her."

She was silent for a moment, and then:

"Wouldn't that be fine, and we could build each other up in the Kingdom."

He held her tighter.

"Surely, child, you couldn't marry him?"

SURPRISE GALORE IN TOURNEY GAMES

SO MANY OF THEM OCCURRED THAT FANS WERE OVERCOME.

A big surprise barrel was uncorked at McLaughlin's last night and as a result the fans were almost overcome by the unexpecteds that flew around. Eight teams were in competition in tourney games and not since the big contest started has there been so much doing. The greatest surprise of all was occasioned by Chief Kiely and Judge Runyon taking three straight from Ed Britton and Frank Willett. After that Mack and Meyer dumped "Doc" Thiers and Charlie Maltby twice and then went in and took three straight from Radin and Ackor. The gallery was just recovering from its amazement when Patsy Reville and Sam Felver trimmed Sam Cunningham and Charlie Woolston for three good ones. The results in nearly every instance were so far away from what was anticipated that some of the tipsters haven't recovered yet.

In the last of his three games, all pretty ones, Chief Kiely made the high score of the tourney so far, a 247, thus going ahead of "Bill" Dilks. His average for the series was 211 2-3. Frank Willett was in deplorable form, no doubt occasioned by his dread of getting over the foul line. His bad luck spread to his partner and "Ed" fell far below his average. Sam Cunningham was another man who lost all control of himself and the best he made was 177. Mack and Meyer made a team score of 418 in one game, only fourteen below the high mark of Dilks and Gaddis. Kiely and Runyon are now second in the contest, having nine wins and three defeats.

PARK CLUB TAKES ALL THREE GAMES.

High Scores Rolled by Local Team Against Strong Westfield Aggregation.

The Park Club bowling team made a fine start for the New Year, last night, by taking all three games from Westfield in the Central Journal Bowling League tournament, on the local aleys. The Park bowlers did their best work in the first game, when they rolled a score of 902 against 859 for their opponents. They took the second game by a score of 870 to 760 and the third by a score of 828 to 811.

Daniel was high man with a score of 213 which he rolled in the second game, while F. O. Ball maintained his reputation by rolling 212 in the first game. In the third game Long put up a score of 201. Lyman rolled 186 in the first game, but fell off in the next two games. Daniel followed up his score of 213 by rolling 188 in the last game.

The score of 190 was the best effort of the visitors, it being rolled by Townley in the first game. The remaining scores were only fairly good, being about the average for ordinary rolling. The scores follow:

VETERAN GROCER RETIRES.

Herman A. Weber Sells Out to L. G. Henry.

Herman A. Weber, one of the oldest grocers in the city, has sold his business at Liberty and West Second streets to L. G. Henry, formerly of West Front street, and he has taken possession. Mr. Weber is planning to move on his farm at South Plainfield and will give up business entirely.

Mr. Weber has been in the grocery business in this city probably longer than any other man. He first engaged in the business twenty-six years ago in the store on Liberty street, owned by the late Charles Graves. He remained there ten years, when he erected the dwelling and store at Liberty and West Second street. He has been in business there continuously for sixteen years. Mr. Weber served the city as councilman for one term, 1901-1902, being elected on the Republican ticket from the Fourth ward. Mr. Henry has been engaged in the grocery business for several years and is thoroughly experienced.

PASTOR'S ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Mr. Finn Observes Completion of Third Year at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

A SPECIAL SERMON

Large Congregation Hears the Minister Preach On "New Year Remembrances."

Rev. A. E. Finn completed the third year of his pastorate at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday, and in the morning before a large congregation, he delivered his anniversary sermon. His subject was "New Year Recommendations," and his text was taken from Psalm 78:7: "That they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep His Commandments." Mr. Finn spoke as follows:

"The purpose of this text was that future generations might remember what wonderful things God had done for Israel, that this remembrance might inspire hope in Him and that memory and hope might be an impelling force to faithful effort in the present. Let us cast the three thoughts of our text into New Year Recommendations.

"I. Looking backward with thankful remembrance—Memory is hallowed when it is linked with God. It yields its best results and bears its most precious fruit when, associated with God, it leads us to regard the past as the field of operation in which God has been leading Himself nearer to us and to remember that he has been moulding and shaping everything that has befallen us. As a Church we look back with thankful remembrance. God has given us the joy of seeing our plans ripen and bear fruit for His glory. We remember with thankful hearts the success of our self denial effort and the success of our plans to reduce our church debt. We rejoice in the increased offerings to missionary objects and that God has been pleased to use us to bring some souls to a knowledge of His truth.

"II. Looking forward with joyful hope—Memory and hope are closely related, indeed it may be said that the power by which we look backward is the power by which we look forward. A man's attitude toward the future very largely determines his health of soul. We may think of the failures and the mistakes of the past and be impressed with the pathos of living. But if there is something pathetic in yesterday there is something inspiring in tomorrow. Business men take account of stock not only to find out what they have been but to find out what they may be. We look foward with joyful hope because tomorrow presents to us another chance to improve on yesterday. The hope that is fixed upon God draws back the curtain and lets us see enough of the eternal future to make our lives bright and our hearts calm.

"III. Meeting the present with faithful effort—Memory and hope both yield motives which should impel to faithful effort in the present. Let us confront the New Year resolved on faithful effort in present duties. Our happiness this year as it has in all other years will depend on what we give to God of money, of service, of effort, of life. With united forces we can present to God the best year of service we have yet given Him."

During the past three years, under the pastorate of the Rev. A. E. Finn, the Park Avenue Baptist church, has continued to grow in membership and increase in spiritual interest, while the financial condition has been a source of encouragement. The membership on January 1, 1904, was 288. Since that time there have been received into membership 33 by leter, 36 by baptism and 5 by experience, a total of 74. There have been 23 dismissions by letter, 12 members have died, 14 erasures and one excluded, a total of 50. The net gain is 24, making the membership 312 on January 1 of this year.

The money raised and the use to which it was put is as follows:

Current expenses, $9,243.38; repairs and improvements, $2,923.54; paid on church debt, $2,582.91; for benevolences, $3,562.91; total amount raised in three years, $18,312.73.

Those who have died during the past three years include John R. Dunham, Mrs. Henry Bundy, Mrs. Amelia A. Stimson, J. F. Weeks, Roland C. Treadwell, Mrs. Jennie Dayton, Mrs. Charlotte E. Hallock and Mrs. Mina Rider. Those who were received into membership at the communion service yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hadley and Mrs. S. B. George.

The anniversary hymn, which was sung yesterday, was composed by Mrs. A. E. Finn, wife of the pastor. The title is "Our Anniversary Hymn."

SHE WAS FORCED TO WED

In Divorce Suit So Declares Orphan Who Married Father's Friend.

IS TWICE HER AGE

Ralph Boardman Is Guardian of Carmela Mariano, Who Wants Marriage Bonds Broken.

Through her guardian, Richard Boardman, of this city, fifteen-year-old Carmela Mariano is trying to have her marriage to Antonio Mariano, nearly twice her age, and a friend of her dead father, set aside, alleging that she was forced into the marriage with no gnowledge of the step she was taking.

The child-wife is an orphan, her mother dying in September, 1902, and her father a month later. There was a little property and money left, and the court appointed Boardman as the executor and her guardian.

She met Mariano three years ago, shortly after her father's death, and as a friend of her father his sympathy for her as an orphan appealed to her. She alleges that she had no understanding of the fact that he was suing for her hand in marriage, being only a child. She said she continued to regard him as a kind friend, and that last August he told her that he was about to make her his wife. She cried, and it was not until she was frightened by threats, she swears, that she consented to go before Justice of the Peace Harry J. Turner, at the City Hall in Trenton and be married. This, she says, was done without consent of her guardian.

Mariano and his wife lived at No. 22 Carside avenue, Trenton, until three weeks ago, the child-wife becoming embittered against him by frequent quarrels. On one occasion, said she, she was locked out of her home and forced to spend one night in the streets.

J. A. STAATS IS NO SLOUCH OF A DETECTIVE.

Unmarks Window Smasher Through a Clue Furnished By Drop of Blood.

Frank Jellid and Charles Behavey, one of North Plainfield and the other of New York, were fined $5 apiece in the city court this morning by Judge Runyon, for drunkenness and disorder Saturday night. In addition to raising a disturbance on the street, they broke on the panes of glass in the storm door at the Hotel Kensington.

In connection with the glass-breaking, J. A. Staats, proprietor of the hotel, did a bit of detective work that opened the eyes of Patrolman O'Keefe, who arrested the pair. Mr. Staats reported the smashing of the window, and when O'Keefe nabbed Jellid and Behavey on Park avenue, for disorderly conduct, he thought they might be the ones who pushed in the glass. He took them to Mr. Staats for identification. Mr. Staats hadn't seen the window-smashers, so he couldn't identify, but he saw something like a clue that was just as good. As the two prisoners stood before him, with their hands in their pockets, he noticed a red drop on the floor beside Jellid.

"Let me see your hands," he said to Behavey. The man's hands were all right. Jellid showed his left hand; it was simply dirty.

"Let me see the other one," said Mr. Staats. Jellid reluctantly pulled his right hand from his coat pocket. Mr. Staats said "Ha! ha!" just like Sherlock Holmes. The hand was gashed in half a dozen places. The drop of blood had dripped through his coat pocket. Jellid acknowledged the window-smashing.

Violent Through Illness.

Fearing that he was losing his mind, relatives of Martin Ptaschinska, of Duer street, had the borough police take him in custody yesterday. He was removed to headquarters where it was found after an examination by physicians that he was violent through illness and that possibly by proper treatment he would recover. He is being held in the private room at the station but will probably be taken to the hospital or some other institution this afternoon.

In Memory of Bishop McCabe.

The service at Grace M. E. church, last night, was in the form of a memorial for Bishop McCabe, who died six weeks ago. Addresses were made by Rev. Parsons and Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll. In closing, Edson C. Martin led in singing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," one of the bishop's favorites.

Rasores' Club Meeting.

The Rasores Club will meet on Tuesday morning, with Mrs. Kimball at Truell Court. The subject will be the "Brontes."

NEW AUTOMOBILE BILL

Senator Frelinghuysen Preparing Some Amendments to Present Bill.

FOR MORE INSPECTORS

No Radical Change Proposed—Statute Has Proven to Be Great Success.

Far famed has been New Jersey in automobile circles since the passage of the Frelinghuysen motor vehicle regulation act by the Legislature at the last session. Automobile journals have picked the measure to pieces, clubs have discussed it and individuals have criticised it. Hardly had the act been in force a month when it was seen to be defective in some parts, and from that day to this it has been a topic of general discussion among automobilists just what changes would be made.

Some few weeks ago it was rumored that Senator Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, whose name the bill bears, though it is by no means the measure that he introduced originally into the Legislature, was planning to advocate this year either an entirely new set of restrictions for the use of motor vehicles or amendments covering certain very important points. The statement was made that Senator Frelinghuysen intended to advocate the doing away with the speed limit and the introduction into the law of a clause prohibiting driving at excessive speed. In order to veritfy these reports Senator Frelinghuysen was interviewed last week. The results of this interview may well be taken as indicating the trend of feeling among the lawmakers in the Legislature this term.

To a reporter Senator Frelinghuysen said, when asked whether he was drafting a new automobile law with radically different features: "With reference to automobile legislation, you may say for me that I believe the bill passed last winter has been beneficial in its effects. While it was somewhat in the nature of experimental legislation, yet I believe it has demonstrated its usefulness, the main defect being, in my opinion, inadequate provision for the proper enforcement of the law."

The Senator continued: "The bill, as originally presented, called for a force of twenty-one inspectors, one for each county in the State. Experience has demonstrated that this force is inadequate, and I am in favor of amending the bill by making an additional force of twenty-five inspectors, appointed to serve without pay. That this plan is feasible is demonstrated by the fact that some of the best inspectors under the old law were appointed from the ranks of the automobilists and served without pay. Already appointments have been received from this class of automobilists who desire a proper observance of the rights of the highway."

Senator Frelinghuysen concluded the interview by remarking: "At present I do not see the necessity for any radical change. I am very much opposed to any change in the speed limit."

It is also understood that Commissioner Smith, of Trenton, who is chief of the department, has some notions regarding automobile legislation that he hopes to be able to have Senator Frelinghuysen draft in any amendments that may be made to the present law.

Benner Boy Improving.

Harvey Benner, the young son of Lawrence Benner, who was accidentally shot through the body by his father, was reported today as improving. There has been no indication of blood poisoning so far and Dr. Buchanan is hopeful that it will not come, although he cannot tell positively for another week.

Used Individual Service.

The new individual communion service was used at the Congregational church yesterday morning for the first time and was very satisfactory. There were also five new deacons' chairs used at this service. Miss Ellena T. Woodcock was received into membership on confession of faith.

Mrs. James Middledith, of Truell Court, is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Morris Tremaine, of Buffalo, N. Y.

TO START THE LAW MILL

131st Session of Legislature Convenes Tomorrow Afternoon.

A CAUCUS TONIGHT

Governor's Message Will Be Transmitted As Soon As the Lawmakers Organize in Both Houses.

The 131st session of the New Jersey Legislature will convene at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Trenton. The real work of the session will begin tonight. Then the Democratic members of the Assembly will hold another caucus in the Assembly chamber. Two caucuses of the Democratic Assemblymen have already been held, one in Trenton and the second in Newark. These meetings succeeded in selecting a Speaker and a few of the lesser officers. Tomorrow night the clerk and other leading places will be filled. It is believed the Republican Senators will hold their second conference in the enate chamber tonight, when the steering committee, appointed during the Christmas holidays, will announce the names of those allotted to clerkships, doorkeepers and the like.

Each house will organize tomorrow afternoon in its respective chamber. The Senate, comprising fifteen Republicans and six Democrats, will be organized by the Republicans. Senator Minck, of Cumberland, will be chosen President, and Senator Hillery, of Morris, will be the leader, as he was a year ago. The House will be organized by the Democrats, who have thirty-one members to twenty-nine Republicans. The Speaker will be Edgar E. Lethbridge, of Essex. There has been a report current for a few days that the Republicans were going to unseat Assemblyman Joseph Firth, the Democratic Representative of Warren, because he pleaded guilty some years ago of a crime. It appeared, however, that the crime to which the Warren member pleaded guilty was not one which deprived the convict of his rights of citizenship, and consequently left him undisturbed so far as his vote and his right to hold a seat in the Legislature are concerned. If there are any more schemes afloat or in contemplation for ousting any of the members, they are kept beneath the surface.

After the Legislature has been properly organized tomorrow the Governor will send in his message, the committees will probably be announced in the Senate, and then adjournment will be taken for the week.

It is doubtful whether much legislation will be effected or attempted until after the election of Senator Dryden's successor, which is due during the week beginning January 21. The excitement, which recently calmed down so much, will revive with the opening of the session this week, and probably increase until the contest is settled. The announcement made yesterday that Governor Stokes had told Lathrop Anderson, of Essex, that he was not a candidate for the United States Senatorship and would not consider it during his term of office as Governor, and that Mr. Anderson had permission to quote him to that effect, has thoroughly settled the Governor's attitude. He is unqualifiedly out of the race and must so be considered. What will be the result when the effects are thoroughly felt it is rather too soon to predict.

Faithful Pupils Rewarded.

Alexander Millar, superintendent of the Congregational church Sunday-school, made several presentations at the session yesterday, rewarding pupils for regularity in contributions to the school, through the envelope system. Two children, Eleanor Bold and Carter L. Goodrich, had perfect records and the former received a music roll and the latter a gold pen. Second prizes, comprising books, were presented to Stanley Bates and Harold Tomlinson. For perfect attendance during the fourth quarter Miss Myra Emmons, Stanley Bates, Harold Miller and Norman Rhoads each received a gold pin. Miss Estelle Winckler's class having the best record for attendance received a flag.

Birthday Party for Miss Blair.

Miss Marion Blair, who was eight years old on Saturday, was given a birthday party in the afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, at their home on Duer street. The afternoon was spent in playing games after which refreshments were served. She received a number of gifts. Those present were the Misses Dorothy Lee, Gladys Lee, Blanche McVoy, Dorothy McVoy, Bessie Case, Mary Anderson, Mareline Blair and Craig Blair, Everett Case, Earl Kirch, Robert Blair and Miss Margaret Adams, of New York.

THREE THIEVING VISITS

Second Story-Crooks Made an All-Evening Stay in Town.

COP LET 'EM GET AWAY

Patrolman Saffron Had a Chance at Them In the Middle of Their Second Job—$300 Worth of Swag.

Thieves worked on three houses in this city Saturday night. They got away with swag in only one place, and the haul amounted to less than $300. The police believe the same pair worked all the places.

At the home of W. E. Lowe, 1024 Park avenue, the family and all the servants slept undisturbed while about $250 worth of silverware was being spirited away. The robbery took place some time between 11 o'clock Saturday night and 6 o'clock in the morning. One of the maids discovered the theft at the latter hour, when she came downstairs to attend early service at St. Mary's church.

The thieves—indications pointed to the presence of two—gained entrance by forcing a window of a small room at the side of the dining room. They confined their operations practically to the butler's pantry. All the smaller pieces of silver were taken, but no attempt was made to work in the other parts of the house, where jewelry and money might have been gathered up. None of the family or servants heard anything out of the way during the night.

A tramp stopped at the back door of the house Saturday to ask for a cup of coffee. It is supposed he was the spy of the crooks.

The crooks were frightened away from the house of R. L. Cline, a coal dealer at 817 West Fifth street. Mr. Cline found the window of a lower floor room forced up when he came home at 6:45 o'clock Saturday night. He believed he scared the thieves off when he opened the front door.

Edmund Wright, Jr.'s, house, at 524 Belvidere avenue, was the other place visited by the industrious crooks. They went there apparently right after leaving the Cline house. Patrolman Andrew Saffron discovered the leader at work, but didn't get him.

The Wrights have not been home for several days. The house was not reported vacant, but the police knew it was and all the officers were told so. When Saffron, who was walking by the house at 7 o'clock on his way to the station house, saw a match flicker in an upstairs room, he knew something was wrong. He watched, and saw two more matches flare up, in different places in the room.

Saffron went to a police alarm box and called up headquarters. He said he thought a capture might be effected. The wagon ith two officers rattled up, but there was no capture. When the policemen reached the house, the matches were no longer flaring and the match-striker was not to be found.

Evidences of a burglarious visit were numerous. A window on the lower floor had been forced, and drawers and a desk upstairs had been forced. The crook had evidently been frightened off. So far as the police could see, nothing of value was missing. Chief Kiely had not learned this morning where the Wrights were.

The chief could not explain why Saffron did not wait for the crook himself and nab him as he left the house. Saffron was in citzen's clothes, and could have lain for the thief with every chance in his favor.

Chief Kiely is convinced that all the jobs were the work of one man. The entrance was gained in the same way in all the houses, and the manner in which the jobs were worked showed evidences of the same hand. The crook is supposed to be some old bird who came out here to work the town as hard as he could in one night. The police have no description on which to proceed in their hunt for him.

PLAINFIELD MAN LEAVES $3,000 TO THE POPE

Fact is Revealed When Michael Heffernan's Will is Filed at the Surrogate's Office.

RELATIVES LEFT OUT

Lived In Miserly Fashion But Refused to Take $211 Coming to Him From His Sister's Estate.

By the filing of his will in the surrogate's office at Elizabeth, Saturday, it became known that Michael Heffernan, who died in Muhlenberg Hospital six weeks ago, had left the bulk of his estate to Pope Pius X. Its aggregate value is about $4,000 and the head of the Catholic Church is to receive the balance after $500 for Father Federici, of Jersey City, formerly of St. Mary's church, and a contribution for several masses for the repose of his soul, is deducted. Joseph Harrigan, of East Fourth street, is named as executor.

The case is a peculiar one from the fact that Heffernan lived in almost miserly fashion and it is declared by the neighbors that he frequently went without eating in order to save money. It was thought that he owned nothing much beyond the house in which he lived on East Third street, as he always complained of extreme poverty and was always ready to accept anyone's hospitality. He dwelt in the house alone and spent most of his time in looking after a cow and chickens that he kept in the back yard. The same neighbors assert that he did not buy himself proper food, and say that he practiced the same rule with the cow and the fowls as they seldom had enough life in them to move out of anybody's way. He was stricken with paralysis about two months ago and because of his weakened condition he was unable to withstand the shock. He was sixty-three years old.

Heffernan left no wife or children but he left other relatives who are in poor circumstances and they naturally thought that his property would revert to them. When the contents of the will were made known they were greatly surprised and it is not improbable that they will contest it.

The filing of the will has also revealed the fact that Heffernan refused to take $211 left him by a sister several years ago. He had some dispute with her before her death and he informed the executors they could do what they wanted with the money as he didn't care for it. It was placed in the keeping of the surrogate at the time and will now be added to his estate.

CORONER BISHOP SAYS HE DID HIS WHOLE DUTY

ANGERED AT CRITICISM OF HIS ACTION IN SOUTH PLAINFIELD TRAGEDY

Harry Bishop, of Perth Amboy, coroner of Middlesex county, was in conference with Prosecutor Berdine at New Brunswick Saturday regarding the killing of four Newark boys at South Plainfield on last Tuesday night. The coroner was much provoked over the criticism which has been heaped upon him because he did not order an inquest in the case. He declares that he conducted a full investigation of the affair, spending several hours upon it the night of the accident and that an inquest would be an unnecessary and expensive inquiry. Prosecutor Berdine was satisfied with his explanation and no inquest will be held.

Coroner Bishop says that the night of the accident he secured an engine and hurried to the scene of the accident upon it and at once interviewed all of the witnesses and those interested; learned that the killing of the boys were trespassing when killed. He declares emphatically that there is not the slightest ground for blaming the railroad company for the accident; that the engineer did not have to blow his whistle to warn the boys, as the boys had no business on the tracks.

He says that he has learned that the lives of the railroad men are made miserable by gangs of boys who ride back and forth on freight trains between Newark and South Plainfield, and that the officials have exhausted every power in their means to get rid of this nuisance.

The coroner prides himself upon the way he has been conducting his office since his election. He declares that he thoroughly investigates every case and where the circumstances warrant it he at once notifies the county physician and prosecutor. He pointed out to the case of the killing of a man at a grade crossing in Perth Amboy last week, where he held an inquest upon the prosecutor being in attendance.

RECOVERED REVOLVER STOLEN IN ELIZABETH

PATROLMAN FADDE'S PRESENTATION GUN WAS SOLD TO HARRY DREIER.

Patrolman Henry Fadde, of the Elizabeth police force, came up the county this morning to get back the pearl-handled engraved presentation revolver stolen from his house on December 12 by a nervy crook. The gun was sold to Harry Dreier, a sporting goods dealer, by Lewis Haney, the crook.

Haney got the revolver, which was presented to Fadde twenty years ago by the citizens of South Elizabeth for bravery, by telling the veteran officer's daughter that her father was holding a couple of bad men at bay and wanted his best gun. He got the revolver without trouble, and sold it to Dreier the next day for $1.50. It is worth about $15.

Haney was arrested on suspicion of ringing false fire alarms on the new boxes in Elizabeth a few days ago. He confessed to stealing Fadde's revolver, and told him where he had sold it. Fadde recovered the revolver on an order from Chief Kiely.

Miss Sampson Engaged.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Cornelia Sampson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sampson, of East Fifth street, to John C. Ketcham, of 196 Prospect street, Westfield. Miss Sampson is a soloist in the choir of the Westfield Presbyterian church, and Mr. Ketcham is also active and prominent in that church.

William Wright Paralyzed.

William Wright, whose home is at the Hotel Waldorf, East Front street, suffered a paralytic stroke, last night, and upon the direction of City Physician Dr. C. B. Lufburrow the man was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. His condition during the night was serious, but today it is reported to be better.

Herbert Brooks Critically Ill.

Herbert Brooks, of the borough, who has been critically ill during the past two weeks, remains about the same. Yesterday, Dr. Lyle, a New York specialist, was called in consultation, but little hope could be offered for recovery.

WAR-SCARRED VETERAN HEARS FROM OLD FOES.

J. B. Hurlburt Invited to Attend Memorial Reception at Fort Fisher.

J. B. Hurlburt, of Lincoln place, has received an invitation, in common with all the surviving Northern soldiers and sailors who took part in the battle of Fort Fisher in the Civil War, to attend a big reception to be held at the Fort on January 15 by the survivors of the great fight on the Confederate side. Mr. Hurlbert saw hard fighting in the war, and had a big dose of Southern prisons.

Fort Fisher was the key to the port of Wilmington. It was almost impregnable, and the struggle over its possession became towards the last, a hand to hand conflict with bayonet and clubbed muskets. The Union soldiers held to the struggle, with fierce determination, and took the works at a great sacrifice.

Mr. Hurlburt was one of the first to enter the fort in the final assault. He fell as he plunged in, and was trampled on in the rush of combatants, but arose and resumed his place in the ranks. He fought until the fort was taken. The battle has been rated as one of the fiercest of the war.

Fort Fisher was the key to the blockade ordered by the Northern commander, and its capture cut off all Confederate communication. Its loss helped to break the back of the Confederacy.

Mr. Hurlburt's experiences in Southern prisons included Bell Island, Va., and Libby prison, Andersonville, Ga. He is hale and hearty today, and still works, as he has for the past thirty-eight years steadily, in The Daily Press composing room.

Pioneering by Motor.

An interesting experiment in the adapting of automobiles to purposes of traction in reigons so little reclaimed as the Congo is now being made in the Rubi-Welle district of the Free State. Up to a couple of months ago a practicable road rather more than 10 miles long had been made, and motor wagons loaded up to a ton or slightly over were making the journey daily at a speed of about six miles an hour. It has to be remembered that this road is not the paved street of civilization. The aim is to cut a great main road for these motor wagons through the whole region.

LEFT HUSBAND AT THE VERY ALTAR.

Twelve Hours After Marriage Bride Was on Her Way to Distant Home.

For some reason not yet explained Mrs. Marie Bookman, wife of Meyer Bookman, of No. 216, York street, Jersey City, left him less than twelve hours after Justice of the Peace McKenna had made them man and wife.

Bookman, who is a painter and decorator, is suing for divorce, and testimony was taken Saturday by Special Master in Chancery Pierre Cook.

Mrs. Bookman lives in Philadelphia. Just before Christmas she visited Jersey City. Bookman fell in love with her and by ardent wooing won her hand in little over a week. She consented to a hasty marriage, but before the couple reached the Bookman domicile the bride lost the smile she brought with her from the Justice's office.

She said she had suddenly discovered that she did not love Bookman and was sorry she married him. Her change of heart spoiled an evening of pollity that had been arranged in the young couple's honor. The bride packed her suitcase and declared she was going home, and she shortly afterward started on her journey.

Thinking it was a nervous breakdown, Bookman went to Philadelphia next day, but no amount of persuasive eloquence could induce his wife to return to Jersey City with him.

GET MORE THAN THEY ASKED.

Orange Patrolmen Will Receive $2.85 a Day.

An unexpected New Year's present was voted the patrolmen of the Orange police force Thursday night by the Police Committee, when it was decided to pay the men $2.85 a day, an increase of twenty cents over their present salaries. The men had petitioned for ten cents, but the committee decided to double this amount.

The committee also took action on the petition presented some time ago by the men in the department, from the chief down, asking for an increase. The salary of the chief will be raised from $2,760 to $3,500 a year, that of the detective-sergeant from $1,080 to $1,300, and the pay of the desk sergeants and roundsmen from $1,080 to $1,200.

The committee decided to have a new ordinance prepared covering the license fee for theatrical performances. It is probable that a fixed amount of $75 a year will be made for theafres.

GOES LONG WAY TO WED.

Trenton Girl Follows Cupid to Philippine Islands.

Trenton, Jan. 7.—Miss Flora Wilkinson Watson, daughter of John Watson, 330 South Warren street, has left Trenton to sail for Lucena, Province of Tayabas, Philippine Islands, to marry First Lieutenant William T. Butler, of Troop F, Sixth United States Cavalry.

Since the announcement of the engagement Miss Watson has received a large number of letters from friends of Lieutenant Butler in the Philippines. Officers, wives and American women on the island have written expressing gratification of her coming, and the Mayor of the city has extended a most kindly welcome.

Child's Death Kills Mother.

New York, Jan. 7.—After remaining unconscious more than thirty-six hours, in a condition which mystified doctors who tried to ascertain the origin of her trouble, Mrs. Robert F. Mosca, who was found in her apartments at No. 536 Hicks street, Wednesday, with her dead baby clasped to her breast, died Saturday morning. Doctors worked steadily in an effort to revive her, but not once did she show a sign of returning consciousness. In the opinion of Dr. Emil Hartung, physician for Coroner Brewer, the woman's condition was due to a sudden fright. An autopsy on the body of the child showed that its death was due to heart spasms. The fact that the child was nearly twelve pounds above the normal weight of a baby of its age was assigned as the cause of its heart trouble. It is believed that the shock followed the discovery that her child was dead reduced Mrs. Mosca to the state of coma from which the doctors could not revive her.

Carnegie Gives $750,000.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—Andrew Carnegie began the New Year with a gift of $750,000 to the Bureau of American Republics for a permanent home. The matter is one which is very close to Secretary Root's hopes, and this gift, which places beyond question the permanency of the institution and guarantees efficient work on its part, is exceedingly gratifying to both the Secretary and President Roosevelt. It will enable Secretary Root to carry out his plans to enlarge the scope of the bureau and at the same time it will provide a home or place wherein the interests of all America can better be discussed.

At the end of the rope are seen a large number of people referred to as "Those people know how to pull together." The pad part of the calendar is made up of twelve envelopes, and at the end of each month the owner is expected to put his contribution in toward the church debt. Each envelope bears a suitable Scripture selection.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Crawford, Holly, Zimmerman, Murray, Burch, O'Hara, McGlynn, Karger, Fromme and Beebe are names that will be found on the St. Louis National list this year. There's an array of young blood for you—men who were unheard of in big league circles two years ago.

Possibly Walter Camp's football genius has obscured the fact that he was a rattling good baseball player when an undergraduate at Yale. Recent explorations into old and musty baseball guides reveal that in the early '80s Camp was a mighty batsman. He had an average of .372 one season. He was a contemporary of Jumping Jack Jones, who, with Billy Murphy, is the only player of note Yale ever has given to major league baseball.

Manager Armour differs from those who say Evers and Huggins are as good second basemen as Lajoie. "Lajoie can get the ball easier and touch out more runners at second base with one hand than Huggins or Evers can with two," he declares. "No other second baseman is in Lajoie's class for a minute." Maybe Armour would have a higher opinion of Huggins and Evers if he had seen them play oftener.

There is a report out that Bob Unglaub, formerly with the New York and Boston Americans and last season with the Tri-State League, has been traded by Boston to Washington for Jake Stahl. Unglaub, it is said, some time ago expressed his willingness to play in Washington if a trade could be made. Unglaub is a good first baseman and a good hitter. His home is in Baltimore.

Storke, the college third baseman, who goes to Pittsburg, is an all around performer. He played every position on the team when at Amherst and has been known to pitch and catch in the same game.

"In point of fact no outfielder of the past or present ever even remotely approached McAleer in judging a fly ball or getting to it after he had judged it," George Davis is quoted as saying in a recent interview. McAleer was a king of the outer garden all right, but it would be hard to make many old timers believe he had much, if anything, on Curt Welch, Dicky Johnstone or Jimmy Fogarty.

Speaking of all around players, one of the finest in the game is Lew McAllister, who is to succeed Stallings as manager of the Buffalo team.

GOLF.

Special interest centres around the third annual midwinter golf tournament booked for January 17, 18, 19 and 21, owing to the fact that the new Pinehurst system of qualification will then be tested for the first time. Under this system entrants will be required to furnish their association handicaps and will be classified in divisions according to these handicaps, the limit in each division being determined by the committee, the best sixteen scores in each division qualifying, instead of the best sixty-four medal play scores, as is customary.

A test of this method has long been considered by prominent golfers in the hope of overcoming the objectionable features of the usual method, but the local club is the first to take the initiative, and the outcome of the test will be awaited with keen interest.

Four divisions will qualify for the president's, secretary's, treasurer's and captain's cups, a gold medal being offered for the best score in qualification. There will also be sterling cups for the runners up in each division and the winners of consolation divisions made up of those who lose in the first round of match play.

Even thus early a field of fully 150 players is assured, a number somewhat in excess of last year's big tournament, and it will include many golfers of national prominence and representatives from all sections of the country.

Just preceding the midwinter tournament, on January 14, 15 and 16, the annual frolic of the advertising men will be held and a wealth of trophies will be offered, the whole combining to make a week of golf such as would be possible at no other resort in the world but Pinehurst and which will inaugurate the most important series of tournaments in the history of the local country club.

Nature as a Weaver.

As a weaver, Nature produces fine work. Certain tree barks and leaves furnish excellent cloth, as, for instance, the famous tapa cloth used in the South Sea Islands. Nature is a glassmaker, too, according to the Indian Review. By discharging her lightning into beds of quartz sand she forms exquisite little pipes of glass. She makes valuable ropes of various kinds in the shape of tropical vines and creepers, and she is even a lace maker, as witness the lace trees of the West Indies.

TEACHERS' PAY AGAIN.

All over the country more just treatment of the teachers', the molders of the rising generation, is at last being given. The people have awakened to the fact that the pedagogue is comparatively speaking the poorest paid individual there is to be found in the various walks of life. In the current number of the American Monthly Review of Reviews is a most timely article on this subject and it will well repay the members of the Common Council and of the Board of Education to peruse it carefully.

From the article in question we note:

"Never have the schools of this country had so important a part to play in our civilization as at the present time, and nothing else is so important about the schools as the qualification and character of the teachers. Monthly or yearly rates of payment of teacher that seemed ample 15 or 20 years ago are insufficient now. This is true with respect to the public schools, and it also applies to higher institutions, where the salaries of professors ought to be made sufficient to attract and hold a superior class of men. The problem is a very serious one, and it deserves careful consideration throughout the country. If there is one reason stronger than another why the taxing power should lay a firmer hand upon the growing wealth of great corporations and upon the income of vast private fortunes, it is because the state must adequately perform its responsible task of education.

"If there is to the compulsory attendance of schools, there must be schools worth the attending, and ample provision for all the children. If there is to be extension of child labor laws and better enforced exclusion of children from factories, mines, and various gainful employments, there must be developed such a system of education as to add immensely to the efficiency of the child when at a later age, he joins the army of the breadwinners. Let us repeat, then, that the central fact in the school system is the teacher, and that we cannot expect to have the right sort of teachers in the long run without paying them enough to justify them in regarding their profession as a permanent calling rather than a temporary makeshift."

TO PUNISH UNION?

When first Union county's legislators announced that they would follow the wishes of their constituents and vote only for such candidate for United States Senator as would be perfectly acceptable, from Trenton came the whisper that Union would be "whipped into line" at the proper time. The bosses were evidently working on the theory that all legislators were alike and that it would be just as easy to corral Union's delegation as it would some South Jerseymen. In this they made a great big mistake for as time went on Union's unintimidated senator and assemblymen became more and more independent, finally asking Mr. Dryden for the sake of the Republican party to quit his quest for the office.

Now that the bosses see that Union's men are not of the stripe that they have been accustomed to deal with, another task has been taken. According to dispatches from Trenton, Union county is to be "punished" unless its legislators recant and become vassals of the bosses. South Jersey, it is alleged, will hold up every measure introduced by or on behalf of Union. But here again the bosses are making a woeful mistake. They dare not carry out their threat. That Union county knows how to rebuke bossism is a matter of common knowledge. Only a few short years ago, the independent spirit asserted itself in the party and the bosses suffered the shock of seeing their ticket defeated at the polls. It cannot be said that Union will do this again, but certain it is that it will not suffer humiliation at the hands of bosses because its legislators are going to be faithful to their constituents and to their oath of office.

"THE SHAME OF UNION COUNTY."

Referring to the request of Senator Ackerman and Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, Peter Tillman and John R. Moxon, Union county's legislators, that John F. Dryden withdrew as a candidate for United States Senator, the New York Sun says editorially:

"The first duty of the New Jersey Legislature is to investigate the moral condition of Union county. The members of the Legislature from that once virtuous and happy county, the site of Elizabeth and the Hon. John Kean, and laved by the limpid waters of Newark bay, have published a shameless document. They aver that the sentiment in Union against the re-election of the Hon. John Fairfield Dryden as a Senator in Congress from New Jersey is 'so strong and overwhelming' that they believe that 'a Republican other than he could be elected to that office.'

'If this belief is well founded, if Union has indeed become so blind to the true moral worth, to spotless statesmanship and whiskers, to a long life devoted to the Public Service and the elevation of the poor; if Union is as degraded as Essex, the fact and the causes should be officially certified. Who knows to what other counties the infection may be spreading? Are the Jerseys succumbing to a great moral decline and fall-off?

"Indignant Virtue joins with Philanthropy and Sociology in demanding that the truth be known, the iniquity exposed. If New Jersey is no longer equal to the task of living up to Glorious John, if he is to be chained to his rock for the monsters of envy to devour, the Rahway will be swollen by the tears of the good until it makes the Amazon look like a tadpole puddle."

TO MR. TYLER.

The people know that you are "on your job" and that you always have been. As chairman of the public affairs committee of the Common Council your best efforts will be given in solving such important problems as may be presented from time to time. There is work now for your committee. Overhead wires are not only a disfigurement to the city streets but a real menace to the inhabitants. Particularly is this so of the big feed wire running through Second street. You can do a public service, Mr. Tyler, by devoting your energies to this matter right away.

SLANDERING A CANDIDATE.

No, Constant Reader, it was not Mr. Dryden who said "I believe that the office should seek the man, and not the man the office."

NOW IS THE TIME AND HERE IS THE PLACE TO BUY, IF YOU WANT BARGAINS.

SHIRLEY & JOHNSTON,

Babcock Building. Plainfield, N. J.

A Valuable Industrial Investment, Money to be Made by Buying Now.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are an improvement on existing visual signals, in fact there is an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the various conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH ISSUES ITS YEAR BOOK

CONTAINS MUCH INFORMATION COMPILED BY RECTOR WARNER.

Under the supervision of the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, the Church of the Holy Cross has just issued its first year book. It contains a great deal of valuable information not only to the members of the parish, but to all who are interested in this church and the work it is doing. PAY YOUR TAILOR BILL OR GO ON BLACKLIST.

Montclair Belles May Ask Callers to Show Receipts for Smart Clothing.

Beau Brummels in Montclair are on the anxious seat. They are confronted with the alternative of parting company with Dame Fashion or settling their clothing bills.

The tailors of the Orange Mountain town are organizing to protect themselves against the suave, well-groomed men whose habit is to dress in the latest style at their drapers' expense. A preliminary meeting was held last night. The names of those who owe their tailors were read. Unless they pay these men will be placed on the blacklist. The young women of the town are enjoying the situation keenly, and it is said that every well-dressed eligible will be compelled to carry a receipted tailor bill with him when he calls as a voucher.

ADVANCEMENT IN JAPAN.

Great Step Forward Taken by Female Subjects of the Mikado—More Girls Attend School.

The remarkable increase during the last few years in the number of women employed in various branches of commercial life in Japan must be regarded as a very significant sign of the times. Not content with the occupations which have almost exclusively belonged to females, they have now invaded those fields which have hitherto been considered as belonging to the male sex.

The experiment made in the employment of women as clerks and bookkeepers has been found satisfactory, and we now find girls employed by many of the firms and stores in Tokyo and other large cities. The employment of women in these various directions will do much toward emancipating the Japanese women, who have until now been entirely dependent on men for the shaping of their destinies. It is only natural, under such circumstances, that female education should engage serious public attention. The number of girls receiving a school education, it is stated, is now more than eight times the number of those at school ten years ago. More remarkable are the figures given by the Tokyo Educational society. Fifteen years ago the percentage of females admitted to the training school for teachers was less than 20, as compared with the men, but to-day the rate has been completely reversed, the number of male applicants being now about 15 per cent of the total! It is said that women, as teachers, are proving themselves superior to men, and that there is consequently more demand for the former than the latter. There is no doubt that the employment of women in the various branches of business activity will steadily increase with the advance of education among them.

RUM QUEERED STORY.

Considering Ship's Cargo It Was Little Wonder the Sailor Had Seen Sea Serpent.

The young Earl of Yarmouth took out his notebook and jotted down a recipe for egg-nogg.

"Rum," he wrote. "Three noggins of Jamaica rum."

And then he paused and smiled.

"I am reminded," he said, "of my last voyage.

"During the voyage I made the acquaintance of an old sailor, and many a chat I had with him on deck, I in my deck chair, he with his eternal paint can and brush, painting away at smokestack and what not, as sailors do.

"We saw one morning a jet of water shoot up, fountain-wise, from the calm sea, and the sailor said:

"'A whale.'

"And sure enough, a moment later we saw the whale, a big fellow.

"'Did you ever see a sea serpent?' said I.

"The old sailor paused a moment in his painting.

"'Yes, my lord,' he said. 'I seen a sea serpent wunst. We had started from Jamaica with a cargo o' rum, and—'

"But I had heard enough.

"'Go back to your painting,' I said."

Diamond Cut Diamond.

G. T. Brokaw, the noted golfer, made a tremendous drive and lost the ball. As he looked for the ball he said:

"Once, in Scotland, I saw a lost ball cause a great commotion. Over there, you know, a lost ball means a lost hole.

"Two professionals were playing, and one of them lost a ball in the tall grass. He searched for it a long time. Nearly half an hour passed. His opponent kept urging him to admit that the ball was lost, and to forego a hole, but this the other refused to do.

"And finally, with a triumphant laugh, he pounced down, fumbled in the weeds, and rose with a ball in his hand.

"'Here's my ball. I've found my ball!' he shouted.

"'Yer a liar,' said the other professional, 'for I've got it here in my pocket.'"

More Than Likely.

John Kendrick Bangs, the humorist, was discussing in a New York club a case of plagiarism.

"The man admitted that plagiarism was suspected of him," said Bangs, smiling. "He almost admitted it was proved. He reminded me of a Yonkers boy I used to know.

"The boy said to his chum one morning:

"'I hid under the parlor sofa last night to hear what young Softleigh would say to my sister.'

"'Well, what did he say?' the other boy asked.

"'He only talked religion and politics, and he kicked me about 30 times on the head.'

"'He knew you were there, I guess,' said the second boy.

"'I'm afraid he suspected it.'"

Selling Snow in Syria.

A Syrian correspondent describes the method in Asia Minor of providing a substitute for ice; snow it gathered in the adjacent mountains and packed in a conical pit, tamped in tightly and covered with straw and leaves. At the bottom of the pit a well is dug, with a drain connected at the bottom to carry off the water formed from melted snow. As the cost of collecting and storing is very small, the only labor is in delivering to the consumers, which is accomplished by pack horses.

EAT BETTER APPLES.

Markets for New Jersey's Products Greatest in the World.

Trenton, Jan. 7.—The State Horticulture Society met in the Assembly rooms of the State House and heard addresses by fruit growers and farmers.

The president, Horace Roberts, of Morristown, made the opening address. He recommended that the society assist in amending the limited franchise law so that it would be possible to build trolley freight roads in country districts. He said that this would be a great advantage to the farmer, giving him much lower rates.

The fruit committees reported that the peculiar season had been felt over the State, the excess humidity shortening fine crops, but bringing good prices.

Many new varieties of cut flowers have been introduced this season, the flower committee reported.

The afternoon session convened at 1:30. Music was furnished by an orchestra from the State Model School. The most important address was by Gamriel Huston, president of the State Horticultural Association, of Pennsylvania. His topic was "Apples." He said that farmers of New Jersey had the best location in the world. Nearer the two greatest markets in the United States, they had unlimited opportunities. "But we must educate the people to eat better apples," said Mr. Huston, "or they will begin to buy elsewhere."

Poor crops throughout the State this season, except in Essex county, was the report of the vegetable committee, but good prices prevailed. Last night an illustrated lecture on "Home Flower Growing," by J. O. Thilow, Philadelphia, was the feature.

RED BANK MAN MISSING.

Relatives of Athletic Clerk Fear He Has Met Foul Play.

Red Bank, Jan. 7.—Harry H. Smock, a local young man, has been missing from his home since Monday morning. For the past eight years he has been employed as a clerk in the Fidelity and Casualty Company in New York city. He was a daily commuter. Mr. Smock left home on Monday and reported at the office at the usual time. At about 4 o'clock he had a few words with friends in the city and bid them a hasty goodby, as he said he was in a hurry to catch the 4:45 train for home. He did not reach home and nothing has been heard of him since that time. A general alarm has been sent out for him from New York.

Mr. Smock is twenty-seven years old and has been married two years. He has an infant son. He was a young man of clean habits, and mingled with the best society people here. He was an active member of the Y. M. C. A. and was very popular with the young men. His wife's mother and sister, who lived with him in his beautiful home on Leroy place, are almost frantic with grief. They still entertain hopes of his returning, although it is believed that he has either met with foul play or that he has become temporarily insane.

For some time after his marriage he resided in Orange, where he still owns property. He was formerly pitcher for the Red Bank baseball team. He is an all around athlete, six feet tall and of light complexion.

Bandana Averts Mishap.

Trenton, Jan. 5.—Patrolman Fox, by using a red bandana handkerchief to signal a heavy freight train, yesterday prevented a serious accident. Fox was about to pass the Philadelphia and Reading Railway crossing at Olden avenue when he noticed a heavy truck wedged between the railroad ties. It was impossible for the horses to move the wagon. The driver was sitting on the truck, and in his endeavor to get away he did not notice the approaching train. Fox succeeded in stopping the train within a few feet of the wagon.

Donkey Goes Mad.

New York, Jan. 7.—Going suddenly mad as a result of having been bitten several weeks ago by a mad dog, a small donkey, no bigger than a Newfoundland dog, ran wild in East End avenue at Eighty-first street late Saturday afternoon, trying to bite everyone who came near, managing finally to touch the coat of a thirteen-year-old boy and ripping it from his back. The animal was finally tied to a lamp post and shot by Policeman Graney, of the East Eighty-sixth street station.

Will Celebrate Tenth Anniversary.

Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, is planning for the tenth anniversary of the founding of the church. The services will be held for one week commencing February 3, and there will be a special programme each evening.

Fence Vault Record.

The contestants in the fence vault event in the Y. M. C. A. championship competition next Thursday night will have a record of 6 feet 5½ inches to go up against. It was made by Frank N. Marclay in 1898.

COOPER IN ST. LOUIS

Unique Character Worth a Large Fortune in Mound City.

IS LAVISH OF CHARITY

Proved Sensation in Eastern Cities and Was Subject of Much Notoriety in Leading Newspapers.

St. Louis, Jan. 6.—L. T. Cooper, the man who has created a sensation throughout the east, and who is rapidly acquiring a national reputation, arrived in St. Louis yesterday.

Cooper is president of the Cooper Medicine Company, of Dayton, Ohio, and has made a fortune within the past few years estimated at several millions, by the sale of two preparations, which are claimed to be very unusual, and which are said to accomplish remarkable results.

Cooper spends his time traveling from city to city introducing these remedies and in this manner he has acquired the fortune he now possesses.

Cooper is said to be a very remarkable character, and a man with eccentric ideas; one of his beliefs is that a certain part of his income should be devoted to charitable work, and he is said to give thousands of dollars to the poor in each city that he visits.

His charitable work is original, as he is continually devising new methods of making money to give the most pleasure and relief possible.

The most remarkable feature of Cooper's work is what is known as his "Three minute removal of deafness." In cities visited by him within the past year he has appeared nightly before large audiences and offered to make any one hear, within less than three minutes, if they would come up on the stage. Reports from Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland, and Louisville, and other cities, seem to indicate that Cooper actually did as he claimed.

Each night he is said to have removed, before thousands of people, cases of deafness in about three minutes' times with one of his preparations. The accounts of his work appeared in all of the leading "dailies" of the east, and people have flocked to him from all parts of the country.

The sale of his preparations is said to reach enormous proportions within a week after Cooper arrives in a city. Whether he will be as successful in St. Louis as elsewhere remains to be seen.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Fay Templeton, who comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight in Klaw & Erlanger's production of George M. Cohan's new music play, "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," will be supported by the original company. There will be an auxiliary interest in twelve very beautiful young women who will all play characters and prove a strong element in the musical features. Those who are familiar with the details of this production, do not hesitate to predict that it will receive the verdict of being the greatest musical novelty of the season.

Mr. Julius Cahn will present his superb production of "David Harum" at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. Harry Brown will play the title role. The advance sale of seats has been, as was expected, unusually heavy and a crowded house is something that is assured for the comedy. The play is in three acts and opens in front of "David Harum's" bank in Homeville, N. Y. A real rainstorm is shown in the second act, the Deacon being found behind the balky bay horse trying to induce him to move during a heavy downpour.

The music in "Piff, Paff, Pouf," B. C. Whitney's musical cocktail, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night, and has all that subtle charm and fascination which Wm. Jerome and Jean Schwartz instilled into several of their other productions, among them may be mentioned—"Dolly Varden," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." The melodious atmosphere of the entire production is fragrant with harmonious exhilaration. It has undisputed power and popularity and many of the songs will be whistled on the streets long after the engagement here.

Besides writing her own plays and designing the costumes and making the models for the scenery for her production of "No Mother to Guide Her," Miss Lillian Mortimer drew sketches for the lithographs used in advertising the attraction. Miss Mortimer has written a strong story in this her latest play, which shows scenes that have never been used for dramatic purposes. "No Mother to Guide Her" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. It is a melodramatic novelty which tells a story that throbs with human interest, and so clever has been the character drawing that in a number of cities where this attraction has been, the authoress has come in for high praise for the ability displayed in dramatic construction and invention.

Klaw & Erlanger will present at the New Plainfield theatre on January 15, the Sousa Opera Company in the "March King's" latest and greatest success entitled "The Free Lance," the book of which is by Harry B. Smith, the author of "Robin Hood." Joseph Cawthorn is the stellar feature of the cast, which with the ensemble numbers more than seventy-five persons including such well known singers and comedians as Nella Bergen, Albert Hart, George Tallman, Jeanette Lowrie, George Schiller, and many others of like calibre in the principal characters. "The Free Lance" is a real comic opera, written in the best vein of our great American "March King," John Philip Sousa, and brimming over with that rythmic, swinging, stirring, martial music which has made his name so popular throughout the world.

LITERARY.

If the January number of the Atlantic Monthly is any indication of what may be expected from "the grand old magazine" during its coming jubilee year, there is a feast in store for its readers. The issue opens very fittingly with a genial and witty discourse from the editorial pen on "Turning the Old Leaves." "Why," asks the writer, "must we always be so anxious to turn the new leaf at New Year's? Is there nothing worth remembering in those closely-written and thumbworn pages of the past?" Certainly the Atlantic has a past to be proud of; yet one of its distinctions is the directness with which it faces the issues of the present day. Nothing, for example, could be more timely than an article by James A. Le Roy upon "Japan and the Philippine Islands," in which, after a resume of past "yellow peril" scares, the author makes some bold prophecies about our future relations with Eastern races.

McClure's for January opens the New Year with an astonishingly good number, distinguished, as usual, by the clean-cut, vigorous tone of its articles, and by fiction of marked excellence. "Mary Baker G. Eddy, the Story of Her Life, and the History of Christian Science," opens its first instalment in a manner that practically insures the success of the serial with the American public. Its tone is clear, conservative, and incisive, and it presents the remarkable story of Mrs. Eddy's childhood and youth, and the early influences which molded her career in a narrative of absorbing interest. Carl Schurz has an usually strong article describing his first meeting with Lincoln, and the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate at Quincy, Illinois. Eugene Wood writes with irresistible humor of "The Drama in Our Town."

Titus H. Laury, of East Front street, is improved from a severe illness.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

BY HARRY LEON WILSON AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1900 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

"But of course I could! Isn't he tried in the Kingdom, so he is sure to have all those thrones and dominions and power?"

"But child, child! That old man with all his wives—"

"But they say old men are safer than young men. Young men are not tried in the Kingdom. I shouldn't like a young husband anyway—they always want to play rough games, and pull your hair, and take things away from you, and get in the way."

"But, baby,—don't, don't—"

"Why, you silly father, your voice sounds as if you were almost crying—please don't hold me so tight—and some one must save me before the Son of Man comes to judge the quick and the dead; you know a woman can't be saved alone. I think Bishop Wright would make a fine husband, and I should have Mattie Wright to play with every day."

"And you would leave me?"

"Why, that's so, Daddy! I never thought—of course I can't leave my little sorry father—not yet. I forgot that. I couldn't leave you. Now tell me about my mother again."

He told her the story she already knew so well—how beautiful her mother was, the look of her hair and eyes, her slenderness, the music of her voice, and the gladness of her laugh.

"And won't she be glad to see us again? And she will come before Christina and Lorena, because she was your first wife, wasn't she?"

He was awake all night in a fever of doubt and rebellion. By the light of the candle, he read in the Book of Mormon passages that had often puzzled but never troubled him until now when they were brought home to him; such as, "And now it came to pass that the people Nephi under the reign of the second king began to grow hard in their hearts, and indulged themselves somewhat in wicked practices, like unto David of old, desiring many wives—"

Again he read, "Behold, David and Solomon truly had many wives, which thing was abominable before me, saith the Lord."

Still again, "For there shall not be any man among you have save it shall be one wife."

Then he turned to the revelation on celestial marriage given years after these words were written, and in the first paragraph read:

"Verily, thus saith the Lord unto you my servant Joseph, that inasmuch as you have inquired of my hand to know and understand wherein I, the Lord, justified my servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, as also Moses, David, and Solomon, my servants, as touching the principle and doctrine of their having many wives—"

He turned from one to the other; from the many explicit admonitions and commands against polygamy, the denunciations of the patriarchs for their indulgence in the practice, to this last passage contradicting the others, and vexed himself with wonder. In the Book of Mormon, David was said to be wicked for doing this thing. Now in the revelation to Joseph he read, "David's wives were given unto him of me, by the hand of Nathan, my servant."

He recalled old tales that were told in Nauvoo by wicked apostates and the basest of Gentile scandal-mongers; how that Joseph in the day of his great power had suffered the purity of his faith to become tainted; how his wife, Emma, had upbraided him so harshly for his sins that he, fearing disgrace, had put out this revelation as the word of God to silence her. He remembered that these gossips had said the revelation itself proved that Joseph had already done, before he received it, that which it commanded him to do, citing the clause, "And let my handmaid, Emma Smith, receive all those that have been given unto my servant Joseph, and who are virtuous and pure before me."

They had gossiped further, that still fearing her rebellion, he had worded a threat for her in the next clause, "And I command my handmaid, Emma Smith, to abide and cleave unto my servant Joseph and to none else. But if she will not abide this commandment she shall be destroyed, saith the Lord; for I am the Lord thy God, and will destroy her if she abide not in my law . . . and again verily I say, let mine handmaid forgive my servant Joseph his trespasses and then shall she be forgiven her trespasses."

This was the calumny the Gentile gossips back in Nauvoo would have had the world believe,—that this great doctrine of the Church had been given to silence the enraged wife of a man detected in sin.

But in the midst of his questionings he seemed to see a truth,—that another snare had been set for him by the Devil, and that this time it had caught his feet. He, who knew that he must have nothing for himself, had all unconsciously so set his heart upon this child of her mother that he could not give her up. And now so fixed and so great was his love that he could not turn back. He knew he was lost. To cling to her would be to question, doubt, and to lose his faith. To give her up would kill him.

But at least for a little while he could put it off.

CHAPTER XXV.

How the World Did Not Come to an End.

With the first day of 1870 Joel Rae began to wait. With prayer and fasting and vigils he waited. Now was the day when the earth should be purified by fire, the wicked swept from the land, and the lost tribes of Israel restored to their own. Now was to come the Son of Man who should dwell in righteousness with men, reigning over them on the purified earth for a thousand years.

He watched the mild winter go, with easy faith; and the early spring come and go, with a dawning uneasiness. For the time was passing with never the blast of a trumpet from the heavens. He began to see then that he alone, of all Amalon, had kept his faith pure. For the others had foolishly sown their fields, as if another crop were to be harvested,—as if they must continue to eat bread that was earth-grown. Even Prudence had strangely ceased to believe as he did. Something from the outside had come, he knew not what nor how, to tarnish the fair gold of her certainty. She had not said so, but he divined it when he shrewdly observed that she was seeking to comfort him, to support his own faith when day after day the Son of Man came not.

"It will surely be in another month, Daddy—perhaps next week—perhaps to-morrow," she would say cheerfully. "And you did right not to put in any crops. It would have been wicked to doubt."

He quickly detected her insincerity, seeing that she did not at all believe. As the summer came and went without a sign from the heavens, she became more positive and more constant in these assurances. As the evening drew on, they would walk out along the unsown fields, now grown rankly to weeds, to where the valley fell away from their feet to the west. There they could look over line after line of hills, each a little dimmer as it lay farther into the blue through which they saw it, from the bold rim of the nearest shaggy-sided hill to the farthest feathery profile all but lost in the haze. Day after day they sat together here and waited for the sign,—for the going down of the sun upon a night when there should be no darkness; when the light should stay until the sun came back over the eastern verge; when the trumpet should wind through the hills, and when the little man's perplexities, if not his punishment, should be at an end.

His hope lasted hardly until the year ended. Before the time was over, there had crept into his mind a conviction that the Son of Man would not come; that the Lord's favor had been withdrawn from Israel. He knew the cause,—the shedding of innocent blood. They might have made war; indeed, many of the revelations to Joseph discriminated even betwen murder and that murder in which innocent blood should be shed; but the truth was plain. They had shed innocent blood that day in the Meadows. Now the Lord's favor was withdrawn and His coming deferred, perhaps another thousand years. The torture of the thing came back to him with all its early coloring, so that his days and nights were full of anguish. He no longer dared open the Bible to that reddened page. The cries already rang in his ears, and he knew not what worse torture might come if he looked again upon the stain; nor could he free himself from these by the old expedient of prayer, for he could no longer pray with an honest heart; he was no longer unselfish, could no longer kneel in perfect submission; he was wholly bound to this child of her mother, and the peace of absolute and utter sacrifice could not come back to him. Full of unrest, feeling that somehow the end, at least for him, could not be far off, he went north to the April Conference. He took Prudence with him, not daring to leave her behind.

HYDROGEN ON IRON.

Series of Interesting Experiments in a German Laboratory.

The influence of hydrogen on iron forms the subject of a series of experiments made in the Charlottenburg technical laboratory by E. Heyn. The gas is allowed to act upon the iron at red heat, and it is found that the latter is considerably affected. In the first experiments he found that iron heated to redness and plunged into an atmosphere of hydrogen, then tempered in water, became brittle, and that this brittleness is especially remarked in the trials of cold bending.

On the other hand, if the iron is again heated at a rather low temperature in a water or oil bath, it becomes much less brittle, or even regains its original state. The same phenomena is observed when the pieces are allowed to remain in the open air at the ordinary temperature. The time required for the iron to come back to the normal state varies with its constitution. For instance, samples of Martin steel of .05 carbon took 15 days to come back. In the case of steel wire one-eighth inch in diameter and very poor in carbon the time was much longer.

Widespread Railroad Demands.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 5.—Railway managers of roads throughout the country are facing fresh demands for an increase in wages and better working conditions that will startle, it is declared, the entire industrial world. A conference of labor leaders representing nearly all classes of railroad labor was in session yesterday in Chicago to initiate the move. A universal eight hour day and a wage increase of from 5 to 20 per cent. are the demands that will be brought to the attention of the general managers of not only the twenty-three systems centering in Chicago, but on nearly all the roads in the United States, Canada and Mexico. The committee, representing 150,000 railway employees, is composed of A. B. Garretson, Grand Chief of the Railway Conductors; J. J. Hannahan, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and P. M. Morrisey, Chief of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. These men arrived in Chicago yesterday and immediately went into executive session.

ROD AND GUN.

The grounds at Tom Brantingham's club house on Park avenue will be the scene of several target shooting matches, Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock. The first will be a 100 bird race between Tom Brantingham and Scott Terry for $25 a side. After that S. A. Sabbacher will shoot with Henry Haurand fifty birds for $10 a side, Sabbacher giving his opponent a lead of seven birds. A final match will be between Sabbacher and Den Gavin, shooting twenty-five birds for $5 a side. The contests will be followed by sweepstakes.

ORANGE IN THE LEAD.

Victory Over Montclair Gives It Clear Title to First Place.

By its victory over Montclair Saturday night the Orange five in the Northern New Jersey Y. M. C. A. Basketball League cleared its title to first place. Hudson City, though it did not play, was sent to second, while Newark was advanced a step nearer to Montclair through the defeat of the latter club. The relative positions of the last three teams in the standing is unchanged, Plainfield remaining in sixth place.

The standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Orange	5	1	.833
Hudson City	4	1	.800
Montclair	3	2	.600
Newark	2	3	.400
Passaic	1	2	.333
Plainfield	1	3	.250
Rahway	0	3	.000

The Hudson City team will come here tonight to play the home five.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

The Critchley Field Club, of Brooklyn, failed to appear for the game with the Plainfield Association Football Club, at the home grounds Saturday afternoon. The crowd that gathered in expectation of the contest was vastly disappointed, for the Critchleys stand third in the New York State League, and a hot struggle was on the cards.

The Plainfield team is going very strong these days. Some great games will be seen on the local grounds in the next few months.

The Camersons, of New York, sustained their first defeat this season, Saturday, losing to the Thistles by five goals to two. Brooklyn defeated the Wanderers at Brooklyn by five goals to one. Plainfield recently lost to these teams by only two goals.

The prize award of the Plainfield Club took place Saturday afternoon on the club grounds. The winner was Mr. Kinney, 361 Clinton avenue, who has received the Morris chair.

(Other sporting news on page three).

Rats!

The story appearing in a Newark paper this morning in which two telephone operators at the Westfield exchange are described as having had a terrific battle with rats while at work Saturday night, is declared by officials at the exchange to be made out of the whole cloth. The young women deny that such a thing occurred.

Dr. Maxson Talks to Pupils.

Titsworth, yesterday afternoon, and rendered the carols sung by them at Christmas time, as Mr. Titsworth's health did not permit him to attend the exercises.

The last entertainment in the course conducted by the congregation of Grace M. E. church will be held on January 22. The artists will be the Metropolitan Male Quartette and Miss Helen M. Miller, impersonator. They come highly recommended and the entertainment will no doubt be a fitting close to what has been a very enjoyable series.

Miss Marjorie Acker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Acker, is ill at her home on Westervelt avenue.

Miss Annie Miles, of Somerset street, is spending the winter with friends in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Society notes of Brooklyn give an account of a dinner given New Year's Day by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gilbert at their home in this city to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Grant McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney C. Gupon, Mr. and Mrs. William Beard, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander J. Sheldon.

Celebrated Eighth Anniversary.

In honor of the eigth anniversary of her birthday, Erma Gordon Robbins was given a birthday dinner yesterday by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, at their home on Elmwood place. A feature was a birthday cake decorated with eight candles which were lighted during the dinner hour.

Rushmore Case Adjourned.

The case of S. W. Rushmore against Mary Connor was again laid over this morning. G. W. V. Moy, for Mr. Rushmore, asked the adjournment because the plaintiff's wife was too ill to appear in court. The hearing was set down for Saturday at 9 o'clock.

Andrew Carney, Jr., left for Canada, today, to resume his studies.

PARK AVE. CHURCH S. S. HOLDS ELECTION

GEORGE E. HALL IS RE-ELECTED SUPERINTENDENT.

Officers were elected, reports were presented and considerable business transacted at the annual meeting of the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Saturday night, at the home of Superintendent Geo. E. Hall, Belvidere avenue. There was a full attendance of officers and teachers.

Secretary Harry F. Cuming reported the present membership to be nine officers, seventeen teachers; 204 pupils, being an increase of forty over last year. The average attendance during 1906 was 115 and during 1905 it was ninety-nine. During the past year fourteen members of the school united with the church.

Treasurer Joseph M. Hawkins reported a balance on January 1, this year of $76.40 in the missionary fund and $44.46 in the general fund, a total of $120.86. The receipts during the year for the missionary fund were $155.86 and $679.86 for the general fund, a total of $835.72. From the missionary fund there was expended $231.97 and $681.81 from the general fund, a total of $913.78, leaving 29 cents in the missionary fund and $42.51 in the general fund, a total of $42.80.

Miss Elmira C. Runyon, superintendent of the primary department, reported the present membership to be 55, in three divisions—beginners, primary and junior classes. The work in this department is very encouraging. The eachers have adopted many plans and suggestions brought out at the Asbury Park Summer School of Methods. There has been an increase of thirteen in the primary department over the previous year.

Year reports were also submitted by E. Frank Vail, libarian; Roland Coles Treadwell, chairman of the music committee; Miss Adelia Runyon, chairman of the missionary committee, and Miss Florence G. Hawkins, chairman of the entertainment committee.

These officers were chosen for the coming year:

Superintendent, George E. Hall; assistant superintendent, Miss Florence G. Hawkins; secretary, Henry F. Cuming; assistant secretary, Martin Stutsman; treasurer, Joseph M. Hawkins; libarian, E. Frank Vail; pianist, Miss Mary E. Clark; blackboard artist, Charles VanWinkle; leader of orchestra, G. W. V. Moy; superintendent primary department, Miss Elmira C. Runyon; assistant superintendents, Mrs. Harry C. Runyon and Miss Charlotte Tennant; superintendent Home Department, Mrs. D. M. Runyon.

Superintendent Hall in accepting for another year the offise, heartily thanked the school for its loyal support and co-operation. He spoke of the perfect harmony which exists in the school and the pleasure he has experienced in working with all the members. Several new plans for the development of the school were spoken of and will be carried out in the near future. Following the transaction of business a pleasant social hour was enjoyed during which refreshments were served.

MAKE THE HOME PLEASANT.

Don't be afraid of a little fun at home.

Don't shut your house lest the sun should fade your carpets and your hearts lest a hearty laugh shake down some musty old cobwebs there.

If you wish to ruin your sons let them think that all mirth and social enjoyment must be left on the threshold without when they come home at night! Young people must have fun and relaxation somewhere.

If they do not find it at their own hearthstones it will be sought at other less profitable places.

Therefore make the homestead delightful with all those little arts which parents so perfectly understand.

Don't press the buoyant spirits of your children; half an hour's merriment round the fireside at home blots out the remembrance of many a care and annoyance during the day, and the best safeguard they can take with them into the world is the influence of a bright little domestic sanctum.

Week of Prayer Services.

Special week of prayer services will be held in many of the local churches this week, commencing tonight and continuing until Friday night.

A WOMAN'S PHILOSOPHY.

There is some good, even in those who appear at the worst.

An opinion carries conviction only when expressed with force.

The "bluff" that lasts the longest often has the least in the way of merit.

A bargain seems to grow in importance after it has been allowed to pass.

Sudden wealth is apt to bring trouble to its owner.

Thoughts often are expressed by a glance of the eye without the use of words.

Fault finding eventually results in a disposition toward selfishness.

Affection consists not in the use of carefully prepared utterances.

Reticence has been responsible for many a lamentable failure.

It is hard to form a correct opinion of others on what is said about them.

NEW FANS.

Very pretty jeweled fans of exquisite workmanship are to be seen in the best houses, and it is difficult to say which is most beautiful among all the new designs; fortunately there are many, so that every taste can be gratified.

The real lace fan is always a thing of beauty and a pride to its possessor.

The beautiful designs in Brussels lace with painted panels are too exquisite to embroider, but in the lighter lace, Chantilly, for instance, the floral design is outlined in delicate shades of silk, the larger flowers standing out in relief.

A pretty and dainty fan for a young girl is gilt-spangled net in small scroll pattern with mother-of-pearl sticks.

Aluminium Wire for Magnets.

Magnet windings of uninsulated wire are said to have proved feasible by the use of alumninium wire, the natural oxide upon which forms an effective insulation for moderate voltage. For over 200 volts, paper wound wet between the layers is effective, and for higher potentials, extra oxidization has been secured by dipping in a chemical bath.

Fractures Hip Bone.

George W. Mundy, aged 79 years, residing with Peter Rose, of Belmont avenue, was taken to the hospital, last night, suffering from a fractured hip bone. He was descending the stairs at his home early in the evening, missed his footing and fell a distance of several feet to the bottom. His condition is favorable for recovery.

Hopeful.

Rev. Frederick B. Bridgman, the noted and successful missionary to the Zulus, was talking in Philadelphia about missionary work.

"I am very hopeful of it," he said. "I may be a little too much so, because I have had such good success. It is better, though, to be too hopeful than too doubting. Much depends upon the character of the people one works among and I can sympathize a little with the missionary who returned home from China in a very despondent mood. A Chinese convert stole this missionary's watch and then came back to him the next morning to learn how to wind it up."

A Toss-Up.

The Girl—I don't know whether to run for the fence or the tree.
The Cow—Moo-oo-oo!
The Girl—Oh, I guess it's a toss-up.

NOT THERE TO SING.

Applicant for Position on Stage Had No Ambition to Be One of the Chorus.

The following story is told at the expense of a New York theatrical manager:

"We were engaged one morning testing voices for a summer production, the manager, musical director and myself; there was a rather long line and all looking for positions in the chorus, and nearly every voice was below the standard, which was very disappointing, and the manager got to be very irritable as we got to the last of the applicants, who was a very melancholy looking man. As he came to the piano he attempted to make some remark, but was promptly cut short by the manager, who said:

"'You will omit all preliminary remarks and get down to business! Try him,' he added, turning to the director.

"The latter began the accompaniment to a popular song, which, with some hesitancy, the applicant for a job attempted with what voice he had. His effort was about as bad as it could have been.

"'Look here!' cut in the manager, after the singer had cleared his throat for a second verse, 'that will do! You actually have the nerve to ask me for a job?'

"'Certainly,' replied the sad one in an injured tone.

"'Why, man, you can't sing a little bit!'

"'I don't claim to be able to sing,' calmly responded the man, 'and I don't want to sing. I am a stage carpenter. I was only singing to please you people—you seemed to be set on it.'"

QUIET KING OF BEASTS.

Beautiful Animal Seen by Young Englishman in Nigeria Was of Peaceful Disposition.

That the lion is not always the roaring, tearing beast of legandary description may be seen in the following extract from the diary of a young Englishman who is at present serving his country in northern Nigeria:

"I had just topped a long incline and was walking my pony, when on coming around a corner of the road, hidden by some trees, I saw, 70 yards in front of me, basking in the sun on an open patch of burning grass, a magnificent full-grown lion. The sun was not strong, and he was very lazily flicking his tail from side to side. He had a short mane, and his eyes were a lovely amber red in the weak sunlight.

"My first sensation was one of astonishment, profound amazement and delight at seeing such a fine beast. He was a beauty, and it seemed impossible to realize that he was really wild as he lay on his side looking at me with his head raised as a dog does when he hears his master's footstep. He was fat as butter, sleek coated and glossy.

"My pony, as the breeze was coming from the other direction, did not wind him and went steadily on without so much as pricking up his ears. My dog was walking on in front, about ten yards, and luckily did not notice him. It was not until I was actually passing him that I realized that if the lion took it into his head to fancy a bit of white man I should be unable to dispute his right.

"After I had proceeded some 150 yards the lion got up leisurely and followed along the road behind me, but after going about 100 yards, he turned into the bush at the side of the road."

The Way Home.

On one occasion a bishop invited some friends to dine with him. On their arrival, a short time before dinner hour, he suggested that in the interval of waiting his friends would perhaps like to walk through the grounds.

After spending about a quarter of an hour in admiring the flowers, shrubs and greenhouses, they suddenly came upon a door in the garden wall.

"Ah," said the bishop to his astonished guests, "this will be a much nearer way for you to go home than by going back to the front," and, forgetting his invitation, he opened the door and bowed them out.

Sure of His Job.

A Philadelphia lawyer recently had cause to make frequent complaints of the destructiveness of his office boy, an Irish lad of twelve. The straw that broke the camel's back was the smashing of a unique inkstand presented to the attorney by a friend in Japan. As the stand was quite valuable, the lawyer decided to teach the boy a lesson. So, summoning him, he said: "Look here, Tom, this sort of thing must cease! That inkstand was worth $30. I shall retain $2 of your salary each week till it has been paid for."

With a grin the boy replied: "Well, sir, it looks like I'm sure of a steady job for some time to come."

Western Races Dying Out.

The real yellow peril is European race suicide. The birth rate in the German empire continues on its downward course, being only 33.9 per thousand in 1903, from 35.7 per thousand in 1901. In Great Britain the birth rate has fallen from 30.7 in 1893 to 27.6 in 1904. French statistics show that at present the birth rate is only 22 per thousand. It is interesting speculation to try to foretell what another century may bring forth in the world's politics if the birth rate of western nations continues to decline and that of the orient keeps up as high as it has in the past.

APPOINTMENTS HELD UP

Nominations For New Offices in Police Department are Withdrawn.

BACK TO COMMITTEE

Confirmation of Appointments of Additional Patrolmen Is Also Deferred—Some Objections.

Following closely the action of the Common Council of 1906 in creating the offices of captain, sergeant and detective sergeant of the police department by amending the ordinance, Mayor Fisk, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, made appointments for the purpose of filling the new offices. But through a move on the part of Mr. Tyler, the appointments were withdrawn. They will probably come up at a later meeting.

Mayor Fisk nominated Sergeant Christian Frederickson to the office of captain, Roundsman John Flynn to the office of sergeant of police and Patrolman F. S. McCarthy to the office of detective sergeant. Chairman Frank Randolph, of the police committee, moved that the appointments be confirmed.

Mr. Tyler rose to a point of order, stating that the rules provide that in the case of such nominations the appointees shall be voted upon separately and not collectively. Mr. Randolph was not particularly anxious to have this done and his motion to withdraw the appointments and have them referred to the police board was carried. He did not attempt to bring them up again during the session.

After the disposition of this matter the appointments of Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Charles H. Dunham, to succeed themselves, and William C. Kinney to succeed Mayor C. J. Fisk, as members of the Board of Health for a term of two years, were confirmed without any objection, in accordance with a resolution by Mr. Tolles.

Later in the evening, following the suggestion made by Mayor Fisk in his message, Mr. Randolph offered a resolution authorizing the Mayor to appoint nine more men as regular policemen, it being understood, of course, that five of that number are now specials doing regular duty, and it would mean the appointment of four extra men and the act of making the five specials regulars. Mr. Randolphs resolution called for a force of twenty-six regular men, instead of seventeen. He explained that the present force allowed two-thirds of a man for every one thousand inhabitants and he considered this to be a small percentage.

Mr. Hibbard considered the increase to be excessively large, and thought the increase should be based on the proportionate growth of the city.

Mr. Tyler wanted to know whether the police board had held a meeting this year. Mr. Randolph replied that no meeting had been held, but that the present police board is the same as that of last year, and the matter was considered carefully last fall. He said that the adoption of the resolution would simply give the Mayor the authority to appoint four extra men, but as it is hard to get men to serve on the force he doubted whether the appointments would be made at present.

At this point Mr. Tyler stated that while the rules provide that reports of such committees be made in writing and signed by the members of it, it had not been the custom. He then moved that the resolution be referred back to the police board with the understanding that the report of that body be made in writing signed by all the members.

In answer to Mr. Montgomery's question as to whether Mr. Mellick was at the December meeting of the police board, Mr. Randolph replied in the negative.

The vote was then called for on Mr. Tyler's motion and it was carried, Councilmen Ginna, Hibbard, Montgomery, F. Randolph, Tyler and Daniel supporting it and Councilmen Buxton, Gloak and Tolles voting against it.

"The Yellowstone Park."

An entertainment of exceptional interest will be the illustrated lecture to be given at the Park Club Thursday night by E. C. Culver, on "The Yellowstone Park." Mr. Culver has been connected with the administration of the Park for more than twenty years and is an authority upon the most interesting section. Moving pictures of the falls, geysers and other scenes of action will be shown, making the exhibition one of extraordinary beauty. The lecture is given through the courtesy of the passenger department of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, and is intended for the members of the club. A few cards of invitation for guests may be obtained from Mrs. C. A. Reed, chairman of the entertainment committee.

MAY USE CITY'S SEWERS

The Borough Commission Requests Information Concerning Terms for Joint Service.

ADDRESS CITY FATHERS

Will Bear Share of Interest On Cost and of Annual Expense of Running Plainfield's Plant.

The urgent need of a sanitary sewer system or some method of disposing of the sewage in North Plainfield was brought to the attention of the Plainfield Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, through a communication from W. J. Buttfield, secretary of the North Plainfield Sewage Commission. Steps had previously been taken looking to a solution of this question, the Plainfield Council having received a communication last year on the subject. At that time nothing definite resulted.

The North Plainfield officials have been considering the sanitary sewer problem for some time, and as stated in Mr. Buttfield's letter last night two propositions are before the borough—the joint use of Plainfield's system and the installation of an independent system in the borough. Mayor Fisk stated that he had been communicated with about the matter, but preferred that the Common Council should investigate it. The important part of Mr. Buttfield's letter is as follows:

"I am directed to inquire of your honorable body whether or not you would favorably consider a proposition upon the following basis:

"A contract between the city and borough under which the city shall agree to dispose of the borough's sewage—of a maximum amount to be delivered—for a minimum term of ten years. This maximum amount to be revised from year to year in accordance with the growth and consequent requirements of the borough.

"Compensation to the city for such services to be provided by a payment of a proportion of the interest on cost and of the future maintenance of the city's disposal works, such proportion to be arrived at by assessing the borough in accordance with the ratio of the valuations of the ratables of both city and borough.

"Said cost of Plainfield's disposal works to be determined by taking first cost of the land, together with the cost of the improvements now or hereafter actually in use for the purposes under consideration. This estimated cost should not include cost of renewals and repairs incurred before the proposed joint use, neither should it include the cost of unused lands, nor of works heretofore in operation, but now in disuse.

"Any preliminary understanding mutually satisfactory in the main must be subject to legal endorsement, and to any provisions necessary to properly safeguard the interests of both the city and borough.

"If the foregoing suggestions meet with your approval, will you kindly furnish a rough estimate of the cost of the city disposal works as defined above, and an estimate of the annual expense of maintaining the same."

Mr. Buttfield concludes his communication with a request for an early reply, owing to the present need of a sewer system in the borough. The matter was referred to the street and sewer committee and will be reported upon at the earliest convenience of that committee.

Higher Salaries for Teachers.

Under the method of apportioning State school moneys adopted by the last State Legislature $400 is issigned to each school district in the State for every high school teached employed in an approved high school of a four years' course. Hitherto the apportionment for such teachers has been $200. The State Teachers' Association claims that these additional $200 should be added to the salaries of the high school teachers, in the following statement, made at the late meeting in Atlantic City: "Any high school teachers whose salaries are not increased $200 in 1907 will be defrauded by their boards of education, and they should not be slow in making the fact known to the public."

Bergen, of Somerville, representing Solomon's Lodge; Walter Chandler, of Elizabeth, Grand Master of New Jersey; Judge J. B. Dill, of the Court of Errors and Appeals, and Rev. Dr. William H. Morgan, of Newark.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

Board of Health Receiving Assistance From Clinical Society in Its Campaign.

MAYOR FISK'S SCHEME

At His Own Expense, Mayor Is Endeavoring to Have One Patient Cured By Fresh Air Treatment Here.

Following the instructions of the Board of Health, Plainfield's physicians are faithfully reporting any cases of consumption that may come under their care, and an aggressive fight is being waged against that terrible disease, as is shown in the annual report of the Board just submitted to the Common Council.

In dwelling on this subject, Health Officer Thurlow in his annual report says:

"Forty-two cases were reported and twenty-six deaths. The number of cases exceeded those of last year for the reason that physicians are more faithful in reporting this disease, and we feel sure that forty-two represents the actual number of cases which came under the care of physicians during the year.

"Disinfection after deaths or removal of patients suffering from tuberculosis was continued through the year; and also every effort was made to give publicity to our anti-spitting ordinance. In addition to the above, a circular containing information for consumptives and those living with them, was issued for distribution among all classes, whether consumptives or not.

"Much activity and interest in this subject was shown in Plainfield this past year. The Plainfield Clinical Society realizing that the most efficient means of stamping out this disease was to show how it could be prevented and cured, appointed a committee of twenty representative men and women of Plainfield; it was the purpose of this committee to hold meetings and exhibits to instruct the people about tuberculosis. A large public meeting was held in March 20th and followed by smaller local meetings in various churches and societies; this coming year the State Tuberculosis exhibit will visit Plainfield. The work done by this committee was excellent and we believe that this coming year it will do more than anything else toward checking the progress of this disease which has always been one of the chief causes of death.

"The following is a very interesting illustration of how tuberculosis may be cared for at home by what is known as the open air and rest treatment. This experiment was made under the direction of and through the generosity of one of our citizens, Charles J. Fisk.

"In August, 1906, the patient, who was in the advanced stages of tuberculosis, was placed in a tent in the care of a nurse and kept in bed during the entire twenty-four hours. Forced feeding, consisting mainly of milk and eggs, and general tonic and symptomatic treatment instituted. The tent, situated in the rear of a house in the residental portion of the city, was erected over a wooden platform three feet above the ground and constructed of some strong, waterproof material, the whole being protected from wind and rain by a "fly." The results of this treatment were most astonishing for the patient has shown marked improvement and has gained rapidly in flesh and strength."

To the report, Mr. Thurlow appends valuable information for consumptives and those living with them, which has already been published in these columns.

Will Help the Investigation.

Complying with the request of Mayor C. J. Fisk, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, Mr. Tyler offered a resolution directing that the clerk be directed to deliver to the Mayor a copy of the contract between the city and the Plainfield Water Supply Company, copies of all ordinances and references to the water subject, and that the clerk, street committee and all committees turn over to Mr. Fisk any papers on the subject and that the clerk obtain a receipt for them. The resolution was adopted.

Visitors at Borough Schools.

Miss Vaile, teacher of cooking in the Jersey City evening schools, visited the cooking department of the borough schools yesterday. Dr. Francis McConaughy, of Somerville, spent yesterday morning at the borough school, accompanying Dr. Hughes, the school physician, on his rounds. Dr. McConaughy is the first school physician to be appointed in Somerville and he wished to become acquainted with the work as it is done in the borough.

Boys' Club Concert.

A phonograph concert will be held at the Boys' Club, Sycamore street, tomorrow night. Plans for the year's work will be announced.

MR. GILBERT CHAIRMAN OF MERGER COMMISSION

COL. TYLER CHOSEN FIFTH MEMBER OF CONSOLIDATION PROBERS.

The first meeting of the Consolidation Commission was held in the offices of Mayor Charles F. Fisk yesterday afternoon and by an unanimous vote Col. Mason W. Tyler, father of Councilman William S. Tyler, was selected by the four others as the fifth member of the body. Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, president of the New York Clearing House Association and president of the Market and Fulton Bank of New York, was the unanimous choice for chairman. City Stenographer George B. Wean was appointed secretary.

Arrangements were made to hold meetings on every Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The sessions will be held in the office of the Mayor of Plainfield, and several public meetings in addition will probably take place in the Common Council chamber. Mayors Fisk and Smalley have been invited by the commission to attend all meetings. The body will begin its work as if nothing had ever been done towards the proposed merger of the two municipalities.

APPENDICITIS FATAL TO HERBERT B. BROOKS

DEATH CAME TO HIM EARLY TODAY AFTER ILLNESS OF FOUR WEEKS.

Following an illness of nearly four weeks with appendicitis, death came shortly after 4 o'clock this morning to Herbert Brentnall Brooks, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Brooks, of Rockview avenue. He was operated on by Dr. Endicott three weeks ago Saturday but had been steadily sinking for the past week. The end had been expected for two or three days and the members of his family were at his bedside when the end came.

Mr. Brooks was in his forty-fifth year and had been a resident of Plainfield practically all his life. His disposition was of the whole-souled, democratic kind and he had hosts of acquaintances in every part of Plainfield and throughout the State. In his younger days he travelled as far as Australia several times but in recent years had been connected with his father's firm, the Clarence Brooks Varnish Company, of Newark. Selfishness or criticism were foreign to his makeup and many of those who were numbered among his friends have often felt his kindly sympathy and assistance. He was a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., and also Plainfield Lodge, B. P. O. E.

Beside his parents, Mr. Brooks is survived by his wife and three sisters, Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, of the borough; Mrs. Ely, wife of Captain Frank Ely, now stationed at Denver, Colorado, and Miss Lillie Brooks. The funeral will be held at the parents' home, Thursday afternoon at 2:45.

FREEHOLDERS NEGLIGENCE COSTS THE COUNTY $128.

B. A. Doyle Recovers Damages for Injuries Received on Cranford Bridge.

Bernard A. Doyle, of this city, who brought an action against the Union County Board of Freeholders in the Circuit Court, Elizabeth, yesterday, was awarded $125 damages by the jury when the case was nished this morning. J. A. Kiernan, Esq., of Elizabeth, represented the plaintiff, and County Attorney W. R. Codington and Alvah A. Clark, Esq., the defendant.

The plaintiff claimed that on August 16 last, he and his wife were walking across the South avenue bridge, Cranford, when his left foot went through a rotten plank, inflicting injuries which detained him at home a couple of weeks. He also claimed that he stills suffers pain from the injured leg.

Dr. J. S. Greene, who is the employ of the Public Service Corporation, was called as a witness, and stated that he examined Doyle on January 3 last and found him to be in a perfectly healthy condition. The jury was out but a short time when it returned a verdict of $125 for the plaintiff.

GARBAGE AS A MENACE

Recommendation For Municipal Collection and Disposal of Refuse.

AND OF ASHES, TOO

The Board of Health Says Present Method Is a Disgrace to City of Plainfield.

Nothing has been done by the Common Council towards the oft-agitated plan for municipal collection and disposal of garbage and ashes. The urgent need for it is clearly explained in the following recommendation of the local Board of Health:

"A proper sanitary method for the collection and disposal of the garbage and ashes of Plainfield is today one of the most important questions with which the city has to deal. This past year we received more complaints of nuisances arising from garbage than any other source. Our house-to-house inspection showed that many of the rear yards are a disgrace to a city that takes such pride in cleanliness as Plainfield. These conditions are due principally to the fact that the prices charged by the collectors are beyond the reach of the poorer people; and under the circumstances, there is little for them to do but to bury the garbage and throw the ashes into the yard.

"At the present time there are thirteen collectors, one of whom is a woman; of the remaing twelve men, four are colored. Their wagons, horses and equipment are unsanitary, unsightly and of the most primitive sort. During the summer a great many complaints came to this department of the objectionable odors emanating from the wooden wagons, wooden pails and barrels used by the various collectors. These were seldom properly cleansed and usually contained some portion of the garbage from a previous collection which naturally became most offensive during the hot months. These wagons were driven not only in the residential part of the city, but also into the business section, and allowed to stand for some time. At the present time there is not one modern iron or steel garbage wagon in use in the city of Plainfield.

"A continued stream of complaints of the failure of collectors to remove the garbage of their regular customers came to this department during the summer. But the power of the board is limited in this matter to the control of the manner in which garbage is collected, and is not sufficient to compel a collector to remove the garbage from his customer's house. As a resule of this lack of power the board is unable to relieve these citizens. In numerous cases the garbage would be left for three or four weeks until a collector could be found who was willing to remove it.

"This state of affairs is a drawback to our city in that it discourages any one contemplating a residence here. One of our complainants was a new resident of our city who experienced considerable difficulty in having his garbage removed. He expressed strong surprise that Plainfield should be so behind the times in the method of garbage collection.

"From the sanitary standpoint the ashes are not as important as the garbage, but the present method of ash collection is very expensive and unsightly. The ash wagons are no better than the garbage wagons; they are broken down affairs which are constantly spreading ashes over the streets.

"There is but one means of permanent relief from this constant source of complaint and that is for the city of Plainfield to establish a system of municipal garbage and ash collection.

OSGOOD A COMMISSIONER.

Jersey Central's Engineer Member of Water Investigating Body.

Joseph O. Osgood, chief engineer of the New Jersey Central, has been appointed by Mayor Fisk as a member of the bi-municipal public ownership commission, which is empowered to investigate the subject of establishing a water plant to be used jointly by Plainfield and North Plainfield. Mr. Osgood is considered to be the best informed man in the subject in this section and the Mayor says he is exceedingly anxious for him to co-operate in the investigation.

The first meeting of the commission will be held in Mayor Fosk's office on Friday night at 8 o'clock. Notice were sent out last night to all the fifteen members to be in attendance.

W. C. T. U. URGES "CURFEW LAW" FOR PLAINFIELD

Committee of Women Confer With Mayor Who Promises to Investigate the Idea.

IN FORCE ELSEWHERE

Mr. Fisk Communicates With Mayors of Trenton and Rahway to See How Scheme Works There.

Representing the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson and Mrs. Elizabeth Parse met Mayor Charles Joel Fisk by appointment at his office yesterday afternoon to lay before him their claims for a "Curfew Law" for Plainfield. Mrs. Tomlinson is president of the Union county organization of the W. C. T. U. as well as of the Plainfield branch, while Mrs. Parse is vice-president of the latter body. After listening to their views, the Mayor stated that he would give the suggestion his immediate and careful attention and that he would communicate with the W. C. T. U. at an early date.

It was explained by the delegation that more than 400 cities and towns in the United States have a "Curfew law" and that satisfactory results have been obtained in every instance. It is the custom in these places to ring a bell or sound an alarm at 9 o'clock at night warning all children under a certain age to get off the streets. If found out of doors after that hour, unaccompanied by parents or guardians, they are taken in custody by the police officer who must see that they get home at once. In some instances they are taken to police headquarters for a reprimand.

Among the places having such an ordinance at present are Trenton and Rahway, in this State, Titusville, Pa., thirty communities in Minnesota and large cities in the west including Topeka, St. Joseph, Kansas City and Louisville. The scheme was first put into practise in 1894 and it is said to work well.

When asked by a reporter for The Daily Press what view he took of the matter, Mayor Fisk said today: "I know nothing about the subject further than what was explained to me by the W. C. T. U.'s delegates. It may be a very good thing; at any rate I am going to investigate it. Already I have written to the mayors of Trenton and Rahway asking for some information on the subject. I want to find how the thing is done and how it works. I have also had a talk with Chief Kiely about it. I can't give any opinnion about the matter, however, until I complete my investigations."

LARDER THIEF AGAIN IN HANDS OF POLICE

PATROLMAN PAYNE RECAPTURED FLEET NEGRO IN A POOLROOM.

Patrolman John Payne, yesterday, recaptured the negro who escaped from him a month ago after stealing a twelve-pound roast of beef and the minor accessories of a Sunday dinner from the refrigerator at the house of W. T. Kaufman, of West Seventh street. The larder thief is Ernest L. Treat, twenty-six years old, a man-of-all-work. He was caught in a West Third street poolroom.

Within three days after the Sunday night when Treat slipped away from Payne as the officer was ringing up the patrol wagon, leaving the meat, butter, ham and etceteras behind, Payne and Patrolman Kelly, working on the case together, learned things that led the former to believe that Treat was the man he wanted. No trace of the man was found in town until yesterday, when Payne heard that he could find his quarry in the poolroom. He went there will Kelly and made the capture. He identified Treat readily. The negro made no trouble when arrested. He will be arraigned for a preliminary hearing this afternoon.

Treat may have to face another charge. In May, 1906, a robbery of $11 from a house on West Seventh street was reported, and the crime was virtually traced to a negro named Treat. Chief Kiely believes the larder thief is the same man.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN ROSS MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY AT HOME OF THEIR SON LAST NIGHT.

Friends and relatives to the number of seventy-five joined with Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, of 339 East Sixth street, in celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary, last night. A reception was held at the home of their son, L. R. Ross, 403 East Seventh street.

The house was handsomely decorated with flowers and plants. A two-piece orchestra played through the evening.

Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, the aged couple's pastor, spoke and offered prayer for their continued health and happiness. During the prayer, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Benward, of Piscataway, at whose wedding, the fiftieth anniversary of which was observed January 1, Mrs. Ross was bridesmaid, stood beside Mr. and Mrs. Ross. The latter attended the Benward celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross received a number of gifts. Their children gave them a purse of gold.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross were married at the old homestead of Runyon Walker, of Piscataway, the bride's father, by the late Rev. C. J. Page, then pastor of the Stelton Baptist church. They lived in Piscataway until twenty-seven years ago, when they moved here. They lived for many years in the house on East Seventh street opposite the one where their son now lives. They have had five children, four of whom are living—L. R. Ross, Mrs. C. Arthur Baynon, Mrs. Frank L. Runyon, and Mrs. George H. Davey. Peter, the firstborn, died when a young child. There are five grandchildren.

LOSES HIS HEARING STOCK BROKER SUES.

That Sense Destroyed by Accident N. W. Chambers Wants Damages.

Newton W. Chambers, a stock broker, formerly residing in this city, but now of Jersey City, is the plaintiff in a suit for $15,000 damages started in the Supreme Court, Elizabeth, this morning against the Public Service Corporation. His counsel is Craig A. Marsh. Alvah A. Clark represents the defendant company. The case will occupy the entire day.

The plaintiff alleges that on December 29, 1905, while a resident of this city, he was a passenger on an Arlington avenue trolley line. The car was stopped to allow him to alight, but he claims that the car started before he left it. He grasped the railing and says that he was dragged a considerable distance, his face being cut and the nose broken. At the time he thought little of the injuries, but the next morning discovered that he was deaf in the left ear. He called Dr. F. C. Ard, who treated him. Later he became deaf in the right ear and is now totally deaf.

SICHE COMPANY WON.

Finally Gets Verdict Against W. W. Warnock By Court's Direction.

Two actions of similar nature were the only ones contested in the District Court this morning. After a string of adjournments the case of the Siche Gas Company against W. W. Warnock was finally fought out a second time. The first trial resulted in a disagreement of the jury. This time Judge Newcorn directed the jury to bring in a verdict in full for the plaintiff. The action was for the collection of $160 due on a gas machine. Mr. Warnock claimed it did not come up to the guarantee accompanying it. W. A. Coddington appeared for the plaintiff.

The Sunlight Gas Machine Company sued Jasper Cadmus in the same sort of an action and met the same sort of defense. Judge Newcorn reserved decision. H. C. Runyon appeared for the plaintiff, W. A. Coddington for the defendant.

Mrs. Alfred F. Osmun.

Mrs. C. Lillian Osmun, wife of Alfred F. Osmun, died at her home on West Fourth street, last night, after an illness of more than a year. She was the daughter of Mary E. and the late Clarkson Hope and had lived in Plainfield all her life. She leaves two sisters, the Misses Irene and Violet Hope, of East Third street. The funeral will be held at her late residence Friday afternoon at 2:30.

Desirable Winter Trips.

Improvements in through train service in recent years have annihilated distances and brought the West and East, the South and North within easy reach. These improvements have wonderfully stimulated travel from the hot to the cool zones in summer, and from the cold to the warm zones in winter.

The annual mid-winter migration to Florida and Southern California has begun.

To the popular resorts of the Southland, Florida and the Gulf Coast, the Florida Limited Trains via the Pennsylvania Railroad from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington to St. Augustine, and their connections, with the through sleeping cars to Charleston, Augusta, Southern Pines, Camden, New Orleans, and other points, afford attractive and convenient service.

To the resorts of Southern California, the through trains to Chicago, and the through trains from Chicago to Los Angeles offer exceptionally good service with only one change of cars.

Winter excursion tickets at reasonably low rates and with liberal return limits are on sale at Pennsylvania Railroad ticket offices to all the resorts of Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, the Gulf States, California and Mexico. Copies of the Winter Excursion Book containing short descriptions of the principal winter resorts with lists of hotels, routes and rates of fare may be obtained of ticket agents without charge.

Personally-Conducted Tours to Florida will leave by Special Pullman Trains on February 5, 19 and March 5; to the New Orleans Mardi Gras, Mexico, and the Grand Canyon on February 7; to the Grand Canyon, California, and Colorado February 26.

For descriptive itineraries giving full information and rates for these as well as other tours, apply to Ticket Agents.

A Valuable Industrial Investment, Money to be Made by Buying Now.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

Noted Artists at McIntyre Concert.

It is difficult to see how any one of the McIntyre concerts could be described as unusually excellent in view of their singular attractiveness, but surely one may use these words in connection with the programme for Friday night at the Casino, when two such soloists as Mr. Dubinsky, 'cellist, and Julian Walker, New York's great basso, appear on the same evening and especially considering the fact that Beethoven's beautiful Trio in B flat is also on the programme. A finer musical treat could not be offered and it deserves a crowded house.

BOARD OF EDUCATION ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

DR. J. B. PROBASCO AGAIN MADE PRESIDENT OF THE SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The City Board of Education elected officers for the ensuing year, last night, again making Dr. J. B. Probasco its president. Leander N. Lovell was elected vice president, F. T. Woodhull secretary and Frank B. Clark clerk. President Probasco will announce his committees next month but they will probably remain as at present as the personnel of the board is the same as last year.

In the regular business session, plans for the new school to be erected at Essex street and Darrow avenue, were discussed informally but no definite action will be taken for some time yet. The board is being guided by the wants of the pupils in its arrangements and on suggestions from Superintendent Maxson it will probably be a twelve room structure with a large auditorium. It will relieve the pressure on the Irving school which is now so much taken up that many of the pupils are on half time.

The report of Engineer Frank J. Hubbard, who was engaged to oversee the grading of the new high school grounds, was submitted and showed that the work had been accomplished in a very satisfactory manner at a saving to the board of $2,000, the cost being that much less than the contract price asked. The board tried twice to secure bids for the job but only one appeared and it was considered too high. At Secretary Woodhull's suggestion, Mr. Hubbard was secured to take the matter in charge and have the retaining wall in the rear and the grading done by the day's work. Only the best material was used in everything and as a result the grounds are in splendid shape and the taxpayers have been saved a tidy sum.

The reports of the custodian of school moneys showed a large balance to the credit of the board, due to the recent receiving of its portion of taxes.

BOARD OF HEALTH'S APPROPRIATION, $5,000.

Altogether $6,000 Will Be Received by that Department for 1907.

In response to a request from the Board of Health and in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Tolles, the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, appropriated $5,000 for the board's use for the coming year. At first it was requested that $1,000 be given the board until the regular appropriations are made, but Mr. Tolles stated that the corporation counsel advised that the whole appropriation be made at this time, if the money is needed. This is the same appropriation as last year, it being understood that $1,000 additional is to be appropriated later for the hospital for the care of the indigent poor of the city.

President Daniel announced his selection of members as a committee to represent the Common Council on the committee of fifteen to investigate the question of municipal water works. The men chosen are Councilmen Mellick, Tyler and Tolles. Mr. Daniel added that they could make their own selection of a chairman.

MONDAY CLUB HEARS CHILD LABOR LECTURE

SECRETARY OF CONSUMERS' LEAGUE TELLS OF CAMPAIGN OF IMPROVEMENT

Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary of the Consumers' League, of New York, spoke before the Monday Afternoon Club yesterday, at the Casino, on child labor reform. The Consumers' League aims to discourage the use of child labor in manufacturers by discrimination in purchases, and by agitation for better and more stringent laws.

The audience attracted by Mrs. Kelley was large. Her talk was followed by an animated discussion, in which all the aspects of the child labor evil were considered.

Mrs. Kelley spoke of the improvement in conditions at the department stores of New York during the holiday rush, through the efforts of the League. There were few violations of the law forbidding the employment of children under sixteen years of age after seven o'clock. The lecturer urged her hearers to shop early in every rush season.

Mrs. Kelley had nothing particularly nice to say of New Jersey's safeguards about the children. As bad as was Illinois' farcical enforcement of the educational test for laboring children, the lecturer said New Jersey's record was worse. There was no educational requirement at all. That a child be fourteen years old was the only regulation. Moreover, the appointment of truant officers to enforce the compulsory education law was not mandatory.

It was a great problem, Mrs. Kelley continued, to arouse public sentiment and conscience to the necessity of reform. The League was working hard to have a national law passed requiring that all minors at work shall have acquired the equivalent of five years' schooling.

All women, Mrs. Kelley said, wore the products of child labor. The work of children entered into almost everything of feminine wear. She told in this connection of the perilous work of small boys who clean out the bleaching vats in cotton mills. The boys are sent into the vats stripped, and if their bodies are not carefully oiled the lye eats their skin wherever the oil coating is insufficient. She instanced the case of a three-year-old girl who sorted petals for her mother, an artificial flower maker, to show how early in life the children of the poor are forced into work.

New Jersey's old child labor law, Mrs. Kelley said, was highly approved by the League. When it was enacted the League placed New Jersey at the head of the white list. When it was repealed, New Jersey was put at the foot of the black list.

COHAN PLAY BREAKS RECORD AT NEW PLAINFIELD

Attendance at "45 Minutes From Broadway" the Largest Since the House Opened.

George M. Cohan's much heralded musical frappe, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," with Fay Templeton in the leading role, was presented at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, before the largest audience that has been in the playhouse since it opened. Not a seat could be bought after 6 o'clock and from then on until safety demanded a cessation only standing room was sold.

The play was given exactly as it has been presented in all the large cities, in fact, it came direct from the Grand Opera House, New York, and the original cast remained intact. Miss Templeton as "Just Plain Mary" scored an instantaneous hit and Victor Moore in the role of "Kid Burns," a Broadway boy who expresses much practical philosophy in entertaining slang, was a revelation to many local playgoers. The remainder of the company was of a high standard and the cast was without a weak spot. The scenic vesture was heavy and afforded three pleasing stage pictures.

It is a notable fact that the previous record for attendance at the New Plainfield was held by another Cohan show, "Little Johnny Jones," which played to S. R. O. last spring.

BALLOT REFORM.

People's Lobby Asks For That, Too; Legislative Committee.

Walter Linbarger and R. Henry Depew attended a meeting of the Governing Board of the People's Lobby at Newark, last night. Mr. Depew has just been appointed to the Board.

The Board added ballot reform to its Declaration of Principles, and appointed a committee of five, of which Mr. Linbarger is a member, to represent the Lobby at Trenton during the session of the Legislature. Mr. Linbarger went to the Capitol this morning to meet his fellow committeemen. They will urge the adoption of a rule requiring committees to report measures at the request of fifteen members.

HEALTH BOARD'S REPORT

Review of 1906 and Suggestions For 1907 in Annual Statement.

VERY LOW DEATH RATE

Communicable Disease, Ice, Nuisances, Plumbing and Milk Supply Among Chief Topcis.

In the annual report of the Board of Health, filed with the Common Council, Health Officer Leon Thurlow incidently brings out the following facts of interest to the community:

The two great needs of the city from a sanitary standpoint are: First, a proper collection and disposal of the garbage, ashes and rubbish; second, an ordinance prohibiting the burning of leaves, and also one prohibiting bon fires in the crowded sections of the city.

The annoyance caused by the burning of leaves every fall cannot be emphasized too forcibly. Under the laws of the State of New Jersey, this matter does not come within the jurisdiction of a board of health. I would, therefore, strongly recommend that the board request the Common Council to adopt the necessary ordinances to stop this practice. Both of these subjects are discussed in detail later in this report.

Deaths—There were 298 deaths recorded during 1906, which represents a death rate of 15.60 per thousand population. It will be noticed that 96 or about one-third of the total number were among persons over sixty years of age.

The total number of birth returns made in 1906 was 404. In 1906 there were recorded 155 marriages, 134 of which were white and 21 colored; representing a rate of 8.12 per thousand.

The following is a summary of the returns made to this office during 1906: Marriages, 155; births, 404; still-births, 15; deaths, 298; total, 892.

Communicable Disease.

A remarkably low number of cases of communicable disease occurred throughout the year. There were 32 deaths but 26 of these resulted from tuberculosis.

Ice Supply.

The local sources of supply—Watchung Lake and The Hygeia Ice Plant—from which the ice for Plainfield has been obtained in previous years, were not sufficient for the needs of the city this past year. Owing to the warm winter of 1905-06, very little ice was cut from Watchung Lake, and although this was supplemented by the entire output of the artificial ice plant, which was from 25 to 30 tons daily, it became necessary, during the latter part of the season, for the dealers to purchase ice outside the city.

Watchung Lake.

There has been little change in the watershed of this lake; two or three houses have been built but these are some distance from the lake. There is only one privy vault in the vicinity and that is cemented and made water-tight. The principal objection to the lake as a source of ice supply is that it receives the surface drainage from the southeast side. On this side is the main road from Watchung to Warrenville and also several houses. Formerly a ditch ran along this side which carried the surface water to below the dam, but now the walls of the ditch are broken and open at both ends into the lake. At the time of inspection the water in the ditch was discolored and stagnant. The lake would be greatly improved as a source of ice supply if the walls of the ditch were repaired and the surface water discharged below the dam.

House-to-House Inspection.

The sanitary survery of the city was continued this past summer. Few new properties were inspected however, most of the time being spent in having the 2,500 houes already inspected, thoroughly cleaned up. This work has been greatly delayed on account of the large number of sewer connections and new plumbing systems made necessary in order to abolish the vaults and cesspools.

In the past three years we have had a total of 700 vaults and 300 cesspools abolished. This coming year the work will be pushed with all possible energy and we hope to have every vault and cesspool in all but the outlying parts of the city, abolished.

Nuisances.

During the year 253 complaints were received and investigated. 210 of these nuisances were abated; in the remainder the board had no power, or there was no cause for complaint.

As usual, the nuisances caused by accumulations of garbage and refuse head the list. There were fewer complaints of vaults and cesspools this year than last because of the vigorous efforts of the board to rid the city of them. During the past three years more than 700 vaults and 300 cesspools have been abolished.

Another cause for complaint was the burning of papers and rubish in the rear yards. This has been the practice of many of the store-keepers and has been the source of much annoyance to the residents of the apartments over the stores and to the occupants of other ctores in the vicinity. The Board of Health has no authority to adopt prohibitive measures against this practice and I would, therefore, suggest that steps be taken to have the Common Council adopt an ordinance prohibiting bonfires in the crowded districts of the city.

Another cause for complaint of similar character was that of burning leaves every fall. While this cannot be absolutely proven to be detrimental to health, it is unquestionably most irritating to the throat and may easily make a person susceptible to the various throat diseases. This practice of burning leaves should also be prohibited.

Both of these causes of complaint would be abolished if a municipal collection of the ashes, garbage and refuse were established. In addition to the regular rubbish wagon, one or two wagons of large capacity could be used temporarily for the collection of the leaves during the few weeks in the fall when this is necessary, and the leaves removed to some place outside the city.

One other source of complaint which was most annoying was the nuisance arising from the lack of proper privy vaults, or, the temporary vaults in connection with buildings under the course of construction.

Plumbing.

The large amount of building in Plainfield this past year, combined with notices to connect properties with the sewer and abolish vaults and cesspools, made a great deal of work for the plumbers. Some trouble was experienced on account of their failure to finish the work promptly.

Milk Supply.

A careful supervision of the milk supply has become one of the most important branches of the work of this board. The system of dairy inspection and milk analysis started five years ago, was continued through this past year. Five hundred and forty-three dairy inspections were made of the 102 dairies supplying Plainfield with milk and forty-one inspections of the stores selling milk. As the sources are constantly changing, it is only by repeated and careful inspections that a high standard can be maintained.

In connection with this work of dairy inspection, a crusade against polluted dairy wells was begun. Fifty samples of water were taken from wells on different dairy premises, particular attention being paid to the wells used for washing milk utensils, bottles, etc. The result of these analyses showed many wells to be badly polluted by barnyard drainage; in each instance these wells were ordered closed. We hope to complete this work during the coming year and we will then know that every dairy supplying milk in Plainfield is provided with a good, wholesome water, free from contamination.

During the summer months several samples were taken which were exceedingly high in bacteria. An investigation showed in most cases some abnormal condition at the dairy—frequently, the lack of ice. Bacteria in milk are not always an indication of dirt. A high number may be due to careless handling or to improper storing.

Hospital Funds.

The report of Muhlenberg Hospital includes a statement of several changes in the Memorial Funds. Bonds and mortgages for $1,500 were added to the funds through the combination of two sums received. The $15,000 in the Memorial Funds have been formally appropriated to the permanent improvement of the hospital property. From the money received from the Carnival $1,400 has been set aside for permanent investment for the Burlingham Bed Fund. It is announced that Mr. and Mrs. James W. De Graff have given $2,000 more, making a total value of a contagious diseases building.

Poles Look Suspicious.

George Grasse and Joseph Berg, Poles, were arrested by Patrolman Messler early this morning for hanging about the streets in a suspicious manner. Berg had a .32 calibre revolver on him. They turned out to be employes at the Scott Press Works, where they recently took the berths of displaced union men. That explained the presence of the revolver in Berg's pocket.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The long awaited production of "David Harum" will be given at the New Plainfield theatre this evening. It is almost needless to add that the house will be crowded. The play is divided into three acts and the ascending curtain will show an exterior scene, the location being Homeville, N. Y. "David Harum's" bank is on the one side of the road and Aunt Polly Bixbee's house on the other, and in the back ground is the big barn which shelters Harum's horses. All of the characters come on quickly and Harum makes his first appearance as he drives into the barn behind that pesky critter, the bay hoss. The second act shows the sitting room of Aunt Polly's house on Christmas morning. There are three sides of Harum's character shown, and the supporting company includes a number of well known players. Harry Brown, the comedian, for years a celebrity in the comic opera world, will assume the role of "David Harum."

"Nothing succeeds like success," and of all the musical comedy successes of the past twenty-five years no work of this kind has been produced which has equalled the popularity of Stange, Jerome and Schwartz's "Piff, Paff, Pouf," B. C. Whitney's musical cocktail, which will be the offering at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night under the auspices of the King's Daughters. Last year this merry work played nearly all the big cities in the country and everywhere met with the most flattering reception. The reason for "Piff, Paff, Pouf's" popularity is easily found. In the first place it is genuinely witty, and the other reason is in the music. From the opening chorus until that sung as the curtain is going down on the final act there is a flow of melody which not only pleases the ear, but also is of the quality which once heard is not easily forgotten.

Built upon new and original lines is "No Mother to Guide Her," the play written by Lillian Mortimer, last season's success and which she is again using this season. In this play Miss Mortimer enacts a part entirely different from those she has been seen in heretofore. Instead of delineating an emotional role she has seen fit to display her versatility in a character comedy part. The play is one of intense interest, as it discloses a phase of human life which has always been a sealed book to many theatre-goers however worldly wise they may be. This play comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night.

Aubrey Mittenthal's beautiful dainty musical comedy success, "The Girl From Broadway," with Grace Edmond, Otto Bros., Harry Fentelle and a strong supporting company of merry makers, plays a return engagement in this city by popular request at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday, matinee and night. Since its presentation in this city many new and novel effects have been added. The success that this latest of all musical offerings has scored has forced upon itself a series of return engagements to appease the appetite of the music lovers in the cities where it has been presented.

Next Tuesday night Klaw & Erlanger will present the Sousa Opera Company in John Philip Sousa's military comic opera, "The Free Lance," with Joseph Cawthorn as the stellar feature and the original cast of seventy-five singing comedians, which characterized the original presentation in New York last season at the New Amsterdam theatre. Joseph Cawthorn enacts the stellar character and such well known people as Nella Bergen, Jeanette Lowrie, Albert Hart, George Tallman, George Schiller, Stanley Murphy and a host of others complete the cast. The book and lyrics of "The Free Lance" are by Harry B. Smith and said to be the best that have evolved from his pen since his great success with "Robin Hood."

JOURNALISIC OPINIONS

Union's Stand.

The request of Union county's representatives in the Legislature that Mr. Dryden should withdraw and that if he does they will enter the Republican caucus, is tantamount to a declaration that they can not vote for him if he remains a candidate. It is to be kept in mind that the Senator and Assemblymen of the county are men of experience in public affairs and of high personal character. There can be no question of their sincerity and honesty of opinion, and that they are acting in response to a decided public sentiment is apparent to all. Mr. Dryden must recognize that his re-election is opposed by the people of this State, and that even if he obtained success through the aid of such men as David Baird, it would be a barren victory. The counties of Hudson, Essex, Bergen, Morris, Passaic, Sussex, Warren, Hunterdon, Union and Ocean declared against him at election in a manner to leave no possible doubt as to their sentiment. Middlesex was almost as explicit, by its defeat of Senator Jackson. In the other counties there was no manifestation of preference for him, and the sentiment of the real leaders of the people was against him, and is now. We do not see that he has any justification in refusing the request of the Union county members of the Legislature.—Newark Sunday Call.

Talks of His Medicines That Have Been Sensation in Eastern Cities and Made His Fortune.

St. Louis, Jan. 7.—L. T. Cooper, or the "Great Cooper," as he is called, was seen in his hotel this morning by a reporter and proved to be a comparatively young man, as he is little over thirty years of age.

Mr. Cooper is the man who is said to have created a sensation in eastern cities by his extensive charitable work and the enormous sale of two preparations of which he is the owner. While talking his face lights up with a smile, almost boyish in its expression, and he seems very young to have acquired the enormous fortune he is said to possess. When asked about his plans for his visit to St. Louis, he said:

"I shall remain in this city about four weeks. I have come here to introduce my preparations in my usual way and I will give the public ample opportunity to ascertain whether the claims I make for these medicines can be verified.

"It is one of my beliefs that every successful man should devote a part of his resources in aiding the unfortunate. I rely to a great extent on the public for information concerning families, or individuals who are in need, and I will, therefore, be very grateful to all who will send me the name and address of people who are destitute."

Upon being asked about the public removals of deafness, which he has made in Pittsburg and other cities, Mr. Cooper said, "I have appeared each night, in the cities I have visited, before audiences that ranged from two to ten thousand people, and have stated that I would remove in less than three minutes' time, deafness of years' standing.

"I have treated in public in this manner over a hundred people each night. I shall do this work in St. Louis to some extent, and I will then prove whether I am successful or not. It will be time to discuss this work after I have given one of these demonstrations as my claims would now seem extravagant.

"The preparation with which I give these demonstrations is not the one to which I owe my success, as my New Discovery is my principle remedy. This preparation is for the removal of all forms of stomach trouble.

"I have not yet decided where my headquarters will be while here, but will know within the next twenty-four hours."

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1903 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

She went with high hopes, alive with new sensations. Another world lay outside her valley of the mountains, and she was going to peep over the edge at its manifold fascinations. She had been there before as a child: there was no love like that, and beside the little bent man she went out into the night.

The next morning had come a further delight, an invitation to a ball from Brigham. Most of the day was spent in one of the shops, choosing a gown of wondrous beauty, and having it fitted to her. When she looked into the little cracked mirror that night, she saw a strange new face and figure; and, when she entered the ballroom, she felt that others noted the same strangeness, for many looked at her until she felt her cheeks burn. Then Brigham arose from a sofa, where he had been sitting with his first wife and his last, and came gallantly toward her; Brigham, whom she knew to be the most favored of God on earth and the absolute ruler of all the realm about her,—an affable, unpretentious yet dignified gentleman of 70, who took her hand warmly in both his own, looked her over with his kindly blue eyes, and welcomed her now she was going as a woman. She remembered the city, bigger and grander than fifty Amalons, with magnificent stores filled with exotic novelties and fearsome luxuries from the land of the wicked Gentile.

More fondly did she recall two wonderful evenings at the theater. First had been the thrilling "Robert Macaire," then the romantic "Pizarro," in which Rolla had been a being of such overwhelming beauty that she had felt he could not be of earth.

This time her visit was an endless fever of discovery in a realm of magic and mystery, of joys she had supposed were held in reserve for those who went behind the veil. It was a new and greater city she came to now, where were buildings of undreamed splendor, many of them reaching dizzily three stories above the earth. And the shops were more fascinating than ever. She still shuddered at the wickedness of the Gentiles, but with a certain secret respect for their habits of luxury and their profusion of devices for adornment.

And there were strange new faces to be seen, people surely of a different world, of a different manner from those she had known, wearing, with apparent carelessness, garments even more strangely elegant than those in the shop windows, and speaking in strange, soft accents. She was told that these were Gentiles, tourists across the continent, who had ventured from Ogden to observe the wonders of the new Zion. The thought of the railroad was in itself thrilling. To be so near that wonderful highway to the land of the evil-doers and to a land, alas! of so many strange delights. She shuddered at her own wickedness, but fell again and again, and was held in bondage by the allurements about her. So thrilled to her soul's center was she that the pleasure of it hurt her, and the tears would come to her eyes until she felt she must be alone to cry for the awful joy of it.

The evening brought still more to endure, for they went to the play. It was a play that took her out of herself, so that the crowd was lost to her from the moment the curtain went up in obedience to a little bell that tinkled mysteriously,—either back on the stage or in her own heart, she was not sure which.

It was a love story; again that strangely moving love of one man for one woman, that seemed as sweet as it was novel to her. But there was war between the houses in the play, and the young lover had to make a way to see his beloved, climbing a high wall into her garden, climbing to her very balcony by a scarf she flung down to him. To the young woman from Amalon, these lovers' voices came with a strang compulsion, so that they played with her heart between them. She was in turn the youth, pleading in a voice that touched every heartstring from low to high; then she was the woman, soft and timid, hesitating in moments of delicious doubt, yet almost fearful of her power to resist,—half-wishing to be persuaded, half-frightened lest she yield.

"It Will Surely Be In Another Month, Daddy—Perhaps Next Week."

When the moment of surrender came, she became both of them; and, when they parted, it was as if her heart went in twain, a half with each, both to ache until they were reunited. Between the acts she awoke to reality, only to say to herself: "So much I shall have to think about—so much—I shall never be able to think about it enough."

Feverishly she followed the heart-breaking tragedy to its close, suffering poignantly the grief of each lover, suffering death for each, and feeling her life desolated when the end came.

But when the dull curtain shut her back into her own little world, where to Zion in words of a fatherly gentleness. Later, when he had danced with some of his wives, Brigham came to dance with her, light of foot and full of zest for the measure as any youth.

Others danced with her, but during it all she kept finding herself back before the magic square that framed the land where a man loved but one woman. She remembered that Brigham had sat with four of his wives in one of the boxes, enthusiastically applauding that portrayal of a single love. As the picture came back to her now, there seemed to have been something incongruous in this spectacle. She observed the seamed and hardened features of his earliest wife, who kept to the sofa during the evening beside the better favored Amelia, whom the good man had last married, and she thought of his score or so of wives between them.

Then she knew that what she had seen the night before had been the truth; that she could love no man who did not love her alone. She tried to imagine the lover in the play going from balcony to balcony, sighing the same impassioned love-tale to woman after woman; or to imagine him with many wives at home, to whom would be taken the news of his death in the tomb of his last. So she thought of the play and not of the ball, stepping the dances absently, and, when it was all over, she fell asleep, rejoicing that, before their death, the two dear lovers had been sealed for time and eternity, so that they could awaken together in the Kingdom.

They went home the next day, driving down the valley that rolled in billows of green between the broken ranges of the Wasatch and the Oquirrh. It was no longer of the Kingdom she thought, nor of Brigham and his wives; only of a clean-limbed youth in doublet and hose, a plumed cap, and a silken cloak, who, in a voice that brought the tears back of her eyes, told of his undying love for one woman—and of the soft, tender woman in the moonlight, who had trusted him and let herself go to him in life and in death.

The world had not ended. She thought that, in truth, it could not have ended yet; for had she not a life to live?

CHAPTER XXVI.

The Lion of the Lord Sends an Order.

They reached home in very different states of mind. The girl was eager for the solitude of her favorite nook in the canyon, where she could dream in peace of the wonderland she had glimpsed; but the little bent man was stirred by dread and chilled with forebodings. To him, as well as to the girl, the change in the first city of Zion had been a thing to wonder at. But what had thrilled her with amazed delight brought pain to him. Zion was no longer held inviolate.

And now the truth was much clearer to him. Not only had the Lord deferred His coming, but He had set His hand again to scatter Israel for its sin. Instead of letting them stay alone in their mountain retreat until the beginning of His reign on earth, He had brought the Gentiles upon them in overwhelming numbers. Where once a thousand miles of wilderness lay between them and Gentile wickedness, they were now hemmed about with it, and even it polluted the streets of the holy city itself.

One morning, a few weeks after he had reached home from the north, he received a call from Seth Wright.

"Here's a letter Brother Brigham wanted me to be sure and give you," said this good man. "He said he didn't know you was allowing to start back so soon, or he'd have seen you in person."

He took the letter and glanced at the superscription, written in Brigham's rather unformed but plain and very decided-looking hand.

"So you've been north, Brother Seth? What do you think of Israel there?"

The views of the Wild Ram of the Mountains partook in certain ways of his own discouragement.

"Zion has run to seed, Brother Rae; the rank weeds of Babylon is a-goin' to choke it out, root and branch! We ain't got no chance to live a pure and Godly life any longer, with railroads coming in, and Gentiles with their fancy contraptions. It weakens the spirit, and it plays the very hob with the women. Soon as they git up there now, and see them new styles from St. Looey or Chicago, they git downright daft. No more homespun for 'em, no more valley tan, no more parched corn for coffee, nor beet molasses nor unbolted flour. Oh, I know what I'm talkin' about. That reminds me, you had Prudence up to Conference, and I guess you don't know what that letter's about."

"Why, no; do you?"

"Well, Brother Brigham only let a word or two drop, but plain enough; he don't have to use many. He was a little mite afraid some one down here would cut in ahead of him."

Joel Rae had torn open the big blue envelope in a sudden fear, and now he read in Brigham's well-known script:

"Dear Brot. Joel:

"I was ancus to see more of your daughter, and would of kept her hear at my house if you had not hurried off. I will let you seal her to me when I come to Pine valle next, late this summer or after Oct. conference. If anything happens and I am to bisy will have you bring her hear. Tell her of this and what it will mean to her in the Lord's kingdom and do not let her company with gentiles or with any of the young brethren around there that might put Notions into her head. Try to due right and never faint in well duing, keep the faith of the gospel and I pray the Lord to bless you.

"BRIGHAM YOUNG."

LIGHTS ARE WANTED

After Long Argument Evergreen Avenue Is Provided For—One of Those Secret Sessions Again.

In his successful efforts to obtain four new electric lights to be located on Evergreen avenue, Chairman Montgomery, of the lights and trees committee, met with considerable opposition at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night. He explained that there are eight new houses in that section of the city and not a single light. He believed that such improvements should be encouraged.

Mr. Buxton wanted to know whether Evergreen avenue had ever been accepted by the city, and it was learned that it had not. But it was explained that lights have been located on other streets not accepted. Mr. Hibbard favored the granting of the petition for the lights as presented by Woolston & Buckle and by residents in that section. President Daniel thought it would be best to first have the street dedicated and then grant the request for lights. Mr. Tolles said that while lights have been put on unaccepted streets, it is not the rule. Mr. Tyler spoke in favor of the petition adding that improvements should not be discouraged when it was within the power of the Common Council to encourage them.

Mr. Daniel said that he knew something of the conditions in the section referred to, adding that an eighty foot boulevard has been laid out on Evergreen avenue and many improvements are planned. He did not think that four lights would be too many. However, when the vote was taken he and Mr. Tolles voted against the motion of Mr. Montgomery, while the other seven members voted in favor. The negative votes were cast for technical reasons and not with any idea of blocking a needed improvement. Another motion of Mr. Montgomery that two lights be located at Monroe avenue and West Eighth street, in response to a request from H. H. Apgar and others, was carried.

At this stage in the proceedings Mr. Tolles caused a ripple of laughter to pass around the room, when he moved that a five minute recess be taken. Mr. Daniel said that he thought the member from the Third ward was the only one who wanted a recess, to which Mr. Tolles replied: "Well, I think he wants company."

When the members returned from a five minute recess which lasted thirty-five minutes by the clock, Mr. Tolles offered a resolution that the Common Council lease rooms Nos. 2 and 3 in the building to be used by the Mayor and for other purposes. His resolution also provided that $30 a month be appropriated for the lease and $30 additional for the decoration and repair of the rooms and $320 for the furnishing of the rooms. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Tooles explained that a similar idea was thought of last year, but as Former Mayor Buckle was part owner of the building, it was thought best not to make the change.

AVIS BREAKS AWAY FROM JOHN F. DRDYEN

ENATOR LOSEB STILL ANOTHER VOTE IN RE-ELECTION FIGHT.

State Senator John Boyd Avis, of Gloucester county, will vote for David O. Watkins, former Governor and present Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, for United States Senator. He said so last night, making the first real break in the South Jersey delegation so far as public announcements are c oncerned. The Senator made the declaration to a correspondent at his office in Trenton.

"I have given careful and serious thoughts to the United State Senatorial situation ever since election," said Mr. Avis. "Senator Dryden and myself have always been the best of friends personally, and I believe he has a careful and painstaking manner represented the desires of his constituents. After the p rimaries last fall I felt that the result in Essex county evidenced an indorsement of his candidacy. The result at the election, however, at which time Essex county and a large part of North Jersey returned Democratic majorities and elected Democratic represenatives, left this matter an open question, and I believed it my duty tc carefully consider the situation as to the effect of the election of Senator Dryden upon the future of the Republican party.

"Governor Stokes, to my mind, would make an ideal United States Senator, by reason of his splendid service to the State of New Jersey and to the Republican party for years past, and, further, because of the inhibition in the state constitution, with relation to the election of the Governor as United States Senator, and the repeated public declaration of Governor Stokes that he is not a candidate, I feel that it is not necessary to go away from my own county to find a person for whom I can conscientiously cast my vote for the important position. I am for David O. Watkins, the present Commission of Banking and Insurance."

THREE BIDS NECESSARY BEFORE CITY PURCHASES.

Mayor Fisk's Recommendation Followed By Resolution in Common Council.

As suggested in the annual message of Mayor Fisk, Mr. Tyler presented two or three resolutions at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, with a view to having them referred to the finance committee for further consideration before being acted upon.

The resolutions provide for amendments to rules 31 and 32, and prohibit any officer of the city or any committee of the Common Council from making any purchase or incur any liability to exceed $30 without first obtaining at least three bids and the amendemtn to rule 32 provides for the publishing of all claims paid by the city and a careful consideration of them by the finance committee before paid. Messrs. Hibbard and Daniel thought $30 was too small an amount and favored making it at least $50, else it would be necessary for the Common Council to meet frequently to authorize expenditures.

Mr. Tyler offered another resolution which authorizes the finance committee to pass upon small expenditures, covering the auditing of claims, fixing times of meeting of the finance and auditing committees and providing for a certification of the claims to the Common Council before passed upon.

Heretofore, it has been the custom of the Mayor to pass upon the claims before approved by the auditing committee. It is Mr. Fisk's idea that the auditing committee shall meet on a Friday night preceding a Common Council meeting to pass upon all claims. This will save time and trouble at Common Council sessions, where it has been the custom to pass upon the bills during the evening. The advisability of having the claims published each month in The Daily Press and the Courier-News and this will also be considered by the finance committee.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Large productions will be the rule at the New Plainfield during the coming two months and Manager Counihan has in preparation a most delectable dramatic and musical bill of fare. Among the attractions he has secured are Sousa's opera, "The Free Lance," with Joseph Cawthorn and a company of eighty, appearing this week at the Grand Opera House, New York; dainty Fritzi Scheff in a new play; "The Daughters of Men," which has just concluded a successful New York run; "My Wife's Family," the big western musical comedy which took Chicago by storm; "Ben Hur," the Klaw & Erlanger production that has hitherto played only week stands; "Wonderland," Nat Wills in his new production, and David Higgins, or "At Piney Ridge" fame.

Vesta Victoria, the English vaudeville actress who took the metropolitan district by storm last spring by her introduction of the song, "Waiting at the Church," is returning to America and will appear next week at Percy Williams' Colonial theatre. It is said that she has a new song that will eclipse "Waiting at the Church" or "Daddy Wouldn't You Euy Me a Bow-Wow," the piece she brought over ten years ago and which was sung from Sandy Hook to the Golden Gate.

Manager Counihan has taken possession of his new offices which are located in the New Plainfield theatre building to the right of the box office. They are without doubt as handsomely appointed as those possessed by any playhouse in the State. They are richly carpeted and fitted with oak desks and furniture and Manager Counihan and his assistant, "Mike" Shannon, have commenced the collection of a players' gallery to adorn the walls. They have secured many handsome photographs and theatrical prints as a nucleus.

The attraction at the New Plainfield theatre in this city, on Tuesday evening, January 15, will be the Sousa Opera Company, headed by Joseph Cawthorn, in Klaw & Erlanger's production of John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, "The Free Lance," the book for which was written by Harry B. Smith. This piece will be staged here with the same detail observed in its original presentation at the New Amsterdam theatre in New York last spring, and will be sung by exactly the same company. No change has been made in the cast. The original company has been kept intact ever since the premiere performance—a remarkable circumstance in itself. This is the first time in the history of the stage that an operatic organization has been retained without change for two seasons. Since the opening of the current season "The Free Lance" has been sung in all the principal cities with great success. Nella Bergen, the most talented light opera prima donna on the American stage, sings the leading female role of Princess Yolande. The presentation of "The Free Lance" in this city will prove the most important musical booking of the season.

Hydrophobia Without Hurt.

New Haven, Jan. 8.—Oscar Wilson, upon whose person could be found no external sign of a scratch or bite, died last night of hydrophobia, according to indications found in an autopsy. Wilson owned three dogs and often petted others, and it is believed that some dog that he met on the street and played with may have scratched him on the hand, the scratch healing. On Friday night Wilson was taken ill with what seemed a cold. The next day he had a horror of swallowing water, and when convulsions developed symptoms pointed to hydrophobia.

UNION RESENTS THREATS

What Might Happen if State Leaders "Punish" our Legislators.

BOOMERANG POSSIBLE

In Interview C. S. Sminck Shows That It Is Not a Case of "the Tail Wagging the Dog."

Attacks made by the State Republican machine on Union county's legislators because they refuse to sanction the return of John F. Dryden to the United States Senate may act as a boomerang and it is declared by men always known to be strong supporters of the organization that the Dryden campaign has received a severe set-back. Free prediction is made in the county, and particularly in this city, as to what may happen if the bosses carry out their threats to have Union county punished by holding up its measures in the present session.

Three years ago the bosses forced the party voters to name candidates against their will. The effect was instantaneous; Union county, the Republican stronghold of New Jersey, jumped over into the Democratic column, and it was loyal Republicans who did the trick. If "punishment" is to be administered to the county now because its Senator and three Assemblymen cannot be intimidated, it is said the voters may rise in their wrath again and administer a stinging rebuke next fall, when Union will be sorely needed by the organization.

In a talk with a reporter for The Daily Press, Charles S. Sminck, a regular and conservative Republican, said:

"A certain insurance company having its headquarters in Newark called attention in a recent advertisement to the immortal words of Lincoln, 'Trust the People.' The legislators of Union county can 'trust the people' who will see that they are not 'punished.' A Trenton despatch in the Herald last Monday stated that the bosses say our stand 'is too much like the tail wagging the dog.' Is it? Union county is fifth in population, with a valuation of $106,000,000 as compared with Burlington, $28,000,000; Cape May, $20,000,000; Cumberland, $20,000,000; Gloucester, $18,000,000; Hunterdon, $19,000,000, which together make a total of $105,000,000—or Warren, $21,000,000; Sussex, $13,000,000; Somerset, $22,000,000; Ocean, $13,000,000; Morris, $38,000,000, making a total of $107,000,000—or Camden, $62,000,000, and Morris, $28,000,000, making a total of $10,000,000. Tail wagging the dog, eh?

"The condition demonstrates: First, That Union county has no boss; second, Independence within party lines, and third, if the tail is wagging the dog, the tail has no collar.

"It is evident that the people are aroused, and that no one has a mortgage on the Senatorship. The vital thing to consider is the effect on the people of the election of a particular candidate. Patriotic legislators should aim to select a Senator who will be close to the people, unite the Republican party, create confidence and help to continue the prosperity of the country."

Mr. Sminck would not say what the effect would be if the bosses carry out their threat to punish Union county because Senator Ackerman and Assemblymen Perkins, Moxon and Tillman cast their ballots for the man whom their constituents demand as Senator; but he did say that should the Legislature elect Mr. Dryden it will be a bad day for the Republican party in Union county.

In Plainfield, the city that gives Union county its Republican majority, and brought about the election of the party's Assembly candidates at the recent election, the sentiment is solid against Dryden.

BOARD OF HEALTH ORGANIZES FOR THE COMING YEAR.

An organization for the coming year was effected and reports presented at the annual meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health, yesterday afternoon. Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Dr. T. S. The presentation was made by her children and was a surprise. Mrs. Mattox also received a hand-painted plaque.

After the programme refreshments were served under the direction of the executive committee of the corps, of which Mrs. W. C. Smith and Mrs. Sadie Baglin are the head and they were assisted by other members.

MONS. STAFFORD OUT OF SETON HALL COLLEGE

APPOINTED TO PARISH MINISTRY AT AT HIS OWN REQUEST.

Monsignor John A. Stafford, formerly assistant at St. Mary's R. C. church, under Father Smyth, resigned as president of Seton Hall College, yesterday, and was appointed rector of the Church of St. Paul of the Cross, Jersey City, succeeding the late Rev. Thomas Quinn. With this appointment went that of the Rev. Dr. James F. Mooney, professor of moral theology in Seton Hall Seminary, who becomes head of the college and rector of the seminary. The appointment is temporary until ratified by the board of trustees.

Monsignor Stafford returns to parish work at his own request, made to Bishop O'Connor at the golden jubilee of the college. The Bishop was reluctant to grant the request, but Monsignor Stafford was persistent.

As head of the college, Monsignor Stafford, in the golden jubilee last June, suggested that collections be taken through the parishes to reduce the college debt. As a result, $42,000 of the $65,000 was raised. Monsignor Stafford also started the Bayley Hall preparatory school.

He was ordained in Rome in 1888, and became a curate in St. Mary's where he remained until 1892, when he was sent on to St. Mary's, Jersey City. He remained there until 1893, when he went to Seton Hall as vice president. He was made president in 1897. He was one of the most popular clergymen in the history of the parish.

COLONEL ACCUSED BY A LIEUTENANT

GUARD SURPRISED AT CLASH BETWEEN COLONEL COLLINS AND LIEUT. BREESE

Colonel Dennis F Collins, of Elizabeth, commanding the Second Regiment, National Guard, has preferred charges of inefficiency against Lieutenant E. Yardee Breese, and the Lieutenant has retaliated by charging the Colonel with conduct unbecoming an officer.

Military circles were surprised by the charges because of the social prominence of both officers and because Lieutenant Breese is a protege of General Quincy O'M. Gillmore, brigade commander. Sensations are expected from the trial. As a test Lieutenant Greese has been ordered to drill a battalion here this evening. General Gillmore will be on hand. The Lieutenant is under suspension pending the test.

Bitter feeling between Colonel Collins and Lieutenant Breese has existed for a long time. The Colonel charges that the Lieutenant's work, particularly at regimental drills, reflects discredit on the whole command. He has twice ordered him to take military examinations. Once the Lieutenant was passed with high averages. The next time no public report was made.

LEGISLATURE ORGANIZES

Senate and House Chooses Its Officers For the 131st Session.

SLATES NOT BROKEN

R. A. Vail Confirmed In Senate For Circuit Court Judgeship—Appointments Made.

The Senate of New Jersey was called to order at Trenton by Senator Hillery, of Morris county, at 3:15 yesterday afternoon. He read the roll of the Senate as certified by Secretary of State Dickinson. Senator Johnston Cornish, of Warren county, was chosen temporary chairman, and was escorted to the chair by a committee consisting of Senators Lee, Avis and Hinchliffe. Howard L. Tyler was chosen temporary secretary.

The Senators, elected last fall, were then sworn into office.

Senator Hillery placed in nomination Senator Bloomfield H. Minch, of Cumberland, for president of the Senate. He reviewed the career of Senator Minch. Senator Price, of Sussex, was placed in nomination by Senator Minturn. The vote was: Minch, 15; Price, 6. Senator Minch was escorted to the chair by Senators Hillery, Frelinghuysen and Minturn.

Howard L. Tyler, of Cumberland, was nominated for secretary. He was elected unanimously. He was sworn into office by President Minch. Senators Bradley, Ackerman and Price were named as a committee to inform Governor Stokes that the Senate had organized. The House of Assembly was also informed.

The following were nominated by Senator Hillery and elected:

Assistant secretary, William H. Albright, Gloucester; journal clerk, John W. Cliff, Union; assistant journal clerk, U. S. Grant, Ocean; sergeant-at-arms, John F. Lovett, Mercer; assistant sergeant-at-arms, Geo. F. Streker, Burlington; bill clerk, Harry G. Walter, Essex; assistant bill clerk, William N. Conkling, Somerset; supervisor of bills, Charles L. Grubb, Morris; assistant supervisor of bills, Edward A. Sexsmith, Monmouth; clerk to Committee on Printed Bills, Howard Keasby, Salem; doorkeepers, C. Clay Lewis, Atlantic; Edward Lyons, Bergen; J. L. Fisher, Essex, and W. W. French, Somerset.

In esexcutive session the Senate received these nominations from the Governor:

Benjamin A. Vail, Circuit Court Judge of Union; Henry S. Scovel, Prosecutor of Camden county; John G. Horner, judge of the Common Pleas Court of Burlington county; Frank G. Lloyd, Circuit Court judge; Theodore Sansman and John H. Murray, board of managers of the sanatorium for tubercular diseases; Thos. W. Trenchard, justice of the Supreme Court.

The appointments of Judges Vail and Horner were immediately confirmed, as they are ex-Senators. The others were referred. The Senate adjourned until next Monday morning.

After Parker had called the House to order the Rev. Benjamin F. Buck, of Millville, father of Assemblyman Buck, of Cumberland, offered prayer.

The Democratic leader, Klenert, nominated Edgar E. Lethbridge, of Essex, for speaker.

Mr. Crowther, of Middlesex, named Randolph E. Perkins, of Union. Mr. Lethbridge was chosen by a party vote.

Mr. Lethbridge was escorted to the Speaker's desk by Messrs. Riordan and Perkins, and was sworn in by Mr. Wright.

In naming Minch for the Presidency Mr. Hillery's remarks embodied a comprehensive outline of the policy which the Senate majority will pursue during the session, including the long-looked-for elimination of the theory of "Senatorial courtesy," which has on many occasions proved a barrier to proper legislation. The entire tone was in keeping with the defi issued to the Republican leaders at the recent Senatorial caucus. Senator Hillery said in part:

"The vicissitudes of public life are best known to those engaged in the work. The public is not an easy taskmaster; its wants are many and its opinions are variable. There is, however, a judgment borne of consensus which form a true will in reality be administered for the people.

"Customs grow up in legislative bodies which sometimes serve to hinder and impede progress. The people have come to regard that indefinable something known as 'Senatorial courtesy' as an impediment which sometimes chokes the channels of proper legislation. Every piece of legislation that is deemed worthy of introduction by any member of this Legislature and may be entrusted to a committee of this body is entitled to the consideration which its importance warrants, if need be, by all the members of this body."

HUBBARD DECLINES; CANDIDATES FOR JOB

WON'T CONTINUE AS ASSESSOR—TALK OF ABOLISHING BOARD.

Although Mayor Fisk has not yet announced his decision in the case of the resignation of Assessor Joseph A. Hubbard, who has held his official position for over thirty years, it is said that Mr. Hubbard has decided that his resignation shall stand; that he will refuse to continue in office. It is also said that Mayor Fisk is anxious to have Mr. Hubbard continue on the board.

Since it has become known that Assessor Hubbard resigned there are several persons in the Third ward who have been mentioned as his successor. They include Major Paul, former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell and Harry B. McDonald, but no intimation is made as to who the probable successor may be.

It has been rumored that Mayor Fisk favors abolishing the present Board of Assessors and appointing a commission of three whose duty it shall be to make all assessments. This change would remove all ward lines so far as the assessing of property is concerned, the commissioners being obliged to work in all parts of the city. This would also mean that instead of one assessor passing upon his own work all three would have to go over the assessments.

It is known that Mr. Fisk is not at all satisfied with the present workings of the equal taxation law and said so in his message. It was his idea that a committee be appointed by President Daniel to handle the matter with a view to obtaining a more equal assessment throughout the city. If the commission is appointed as hinted there would likely be many changes made in the assessments as well as in the method of the work.

WANT SOMERSET CO. BUILDINGS REMOVED

PURCHASER HOWEVER, WON'T CARRY OUT AGREEMENT WITH FREEHOLDERS.

The January meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, held in the chapel of the First Reformed church, Somerville, yesterday, was devoted largely to a discussion of road improvements throughout the county as approved by State Road Commissioner Hutchinson.

Hyman Kline, represented by James L. Griggs, presented his claims in connection with his refusal to abide by the agreement in purchasing the old jail and court house. He stated that because the board failed to turn over the property to him on time he could not sell it as arranged. He asked for a reduction in the purchase price, agreeing if his request is granted, he will remove the buildings and dispose of them as best he can. The board decided to meet on Saturday, January 12, to consider the matter further.

Most of the session was taken up with the discussion of road improvements. The specifications for the construction of the public road from North Branch to the Hunterdon county line, with a spur from North Branch to the New Jersey Central station at North Branch, were presented by County Engineer Doughty. They were approved and Director Baird was authorized to advertise for bids and the freeholders will meet at Somerville, Tuesday, February 5, when the bids will be received and opened. The road is four miles long and must be completed by October 1, 1907. It is a continuation of the macadam road built last summer from Somerville to North Branch.

Freeholder Gibson moved that the road from South Bound Brook to the Middlesex county line, as petitioned to be improved under the State Road Act, and which was authorized to be surveyed by County Engineer Doughty upon the approval of the State Road Commissioner, May 19, 1906, be surveyed from the river bridge to the east borough line of South Bound Brook when approved by the State Road Commission. The motion was carried.

As a final stroke in the improved road question, Freeholder Codington, of Warren, presented a resolution, which provided that the freeholders approve the petitions for the improvement of public roads heretofore certified to the State Commissioner of Roads for his approval.

Miss May Bachelor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bachelor, after spending the winter vacation at her home on West Eighth street, has returned to Wellesley College, where she is a junior.

—Harry Randolph, of West Sixth street, has taken a position in the office department of the Plainfield Cab Company.

ACKERMAN CHAIRMAN OF BEST COMMITTEES

UNION'S SENATOR AND ASSEMBLYMEN FARE WELL IN LEGISLATURE.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman was favored yesterday in the make-up of the committees of the State Senate. Besides being made chairman of the finance committee and of the riparian rights committee, he was made second member of the committees on municipal corporations and appropriation, and was also one of a committee of three to notify Governor E. C. Stokes that the Legislature had organized and was ready for business. On joint committees Mr. Ackerman was made a member of the committees on State Hospital, Home for Feeble-Minded Women and Sanitarium for Tuberculosis.

In the Assembly the Union county members were also honored. Assemblyman Perkins was named on the Ways and Means, Federal Relations Committees and on joint committees was named on the New Jersey State Reformatory Committee. Assemblyman Tillman was put on the committees for bill revision, militia and on the joint committee for Reform School for Boys. Assemblyman Moxon was given a place on the committees for printed bills and game and fisheries and on joint committees he was named on Soldiers' Home Committee.

ALL CITIZENS ELIGIBLE TO LEAGUE OF MERCY

HOSPITAL INAUGURATES A GENERAL COLLECTION SCHEME.

The finance committee of Muhlenberg Hospital about two months ago organized the "League of Mercy of Muhlenberg Hospital," an association modelled after the well-known "League of Mercy of London," which for the many years has been so successful in raising large sums of money for the hospitals in that city. The committe had divided the entire city and borough into sixteen districts, placing each in charge of a president. The president of each district has divided his territory into three sub-districts and put in charge of each a vice president. Each vice president has appointed out of his sub-district five members and each of the members undertakes to secure within the year twenty subscriptions of at least twenty-five cents each. There are thus 240 members, each making collections from twenty persons, so that altogether 4,800 persons will be reached. The minimum subscription is twenty-five cents a year corresponding with the shilling subscription in London.

The finance committee is of the opinion that the League of Mercy will prove a systematic and effective method of securing subscriptions from all the people who are willing to give. The extension of the work can be easily effected by increasing the number of sub-districts, thus enlarging the number of active members.

It is intended to extend the work of the league so as to include Fanwood, Scotch Plains, Dunellen, New Market and South Plainfield. One or more members in each district will take charge of the penny a day subscriptions, and steps in that direction will undoubtedly be promptly taken. The committee will announce shortly a list of the names of the presidents and vice presidents of the League of Mercy, to enable all the friends of the hospital who are willing to give towards the support of the institution a penny a day to know through whom such subscriptions can be paid. Subscriptions may also be sent direct to J. E. Erickson, the treasurer of the hospital.

LARDER THIEF SENTENCED.

Treat Given Sixty Days On Charge of Disorderly Conduct.

Ernest Treat, the young colored man who rifled W. T. Kaufman's refrigerator a month ago and escaped from Patrolman Payne only to be recaptured Monday afternoon in a West Third street poolroom, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail last night by Judge Runyon. He was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct. The police were disinclined to prosecute him in a more serious charge because all his plunder had been food.

Treat denied the theft, but there was no shade of doubt in Payne's identification, and there was plenty of testimony to disprove his assertion that he had not been in town since Thanksgiving Day. Treat's reputation was also against him.

He was photographed and taken to jail this morning. Patrolman Martin guarded him on the journey down.

DEMENTIA CLAIMS THREE

Man and His Wife and Sister-in-Law, All Aged, Found in Pitiable Plight.

THEY LIVED TOGETHER

John McElroy and Eliza Sullivan Sent to Insane Asylum and Mrs. McElroy Taken to Hospital.

Suffering from senile dementia, John McElroy, eighty years old, and Eliza Sullivan, seventy-six years old, his sister-in-law, were removed from their home in Chestnut street, North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, to the State Alylum at Morris Plains. McElroy's wife, sister of Mrs. Sullivan, is at St. James Hospital, Newark, to where she was taken on Monday, suffering temporarily from the same affliction. She is seventy-eight years old.

The three aged sufferers were rescued from surroundings that are indescribe. They had managed to keep house without suffering until a few months ago, but suddenly their minds gave way, one after another, under the weight of years, and the home became a pitiable travesty on a place of human habitation. When the borough authorities investigated the case a week ago at the instigation of the Organized Aid Association they found the house in a fearful state of filth, and amid the dirt the white-haired and shaking trio were shivering and starving to death. Neighbors had been sending in supplies, and there was food enough and clothing enough and to spare, but none of the three had mind enough left to eat or seek warm wrappings. There was clothing enough in the house, Borough Physician Dundon reported, to have supplied half the poor in North Plainfield. Moreover, McElroy owns the house in which they lived, and is said to own other property. No money was found in the house.

Mrs. McElroy's condition is believed to be temporary. For that reason she was sent to the Newark institution. Food, warmth and rest, it is expected, will restore her mind. Her husband and sister are said to be hopelessly weak-minded. Mrs. McElroy was told of the removal of husband and sister but it is doubtful if she comprehended the information.

The McElroys have lived here for years. If Mrs. McElroy recovers her mind, she will be cared for by friends in this city.

Investing Company Dinner.

To celebrate the fourth anniversary of the company's incorporation, the stockholders of the Mono Investing Company held a dinner at the Hotel Iroquois last night. Only the stockholders, who number twenty-three, were present. Everybody practised after-dinner oratory. It was said this morning that the dinner had no business significance; it was merely a commercial birthday party.

Colby Hopeful.

Everett Colby, Essex Senator, said yesterday that Senator Ackerman, of Union; Assemblyman Fake, of Bergen, and he would take no part in a caucus if Senator Dryden was a candidate. He said that only one more vote was necessary to secure Dryden's defeat, and he believed that Senator Wakelee, of Bergen, or Assemblyman Perkins, would bolt the caucus if Dryden was a candidate.

The Kinsman Block Signal System, A Valuable Industrial Investment.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE IN A VERY FEW LINES

PRINCIPAL POINTS OF ANNUAL ADDRESS TO THE LEGISLATURE.

The benefits that will accrue to municipalities from the taxing of railroads as individuals, show that the local appropriation for school expenses can be reduced from fifty to seventy-five per cent.

The necessity of some central, equalizing board is indispensable to an honest administration of our tax laws.

The administration of our tax laws has been inequitable for so long that no one could expect that equalization of valuations—right in theory and just in practice—could be accomplished without difficulties and embarrassments.

A careful, if somewhat hasty, inquiry throughout the State shows that on a conservative estimate from sixty to seventy-five per cent. of the tax bills for 1906 were lower than the same bills for 1905.

The preservation of our revenues is essential to the continuance of the work the State is performing for the people.

Economy must be observed in every phase of State expenditure.

Of ten new buildings and additions authorized since the creation of the Department of Charities and Corrections, every one of them has been constructed for less than the original amount appropriated, so that a balance was returned to the State treasury of $88,070.

No consideration has apparently been given to the employment of children in mercantile and other pursuits (other than manufacturing)—a subject worthy of thought.

The time has arrived for decision as to how far the State proposes to go in the further development of the Bordentown School for Colored Youths. I recommend such increased facilities at that institution as the demands upon it seem to warrant.

I earnestly recommend that the matter of teaching immigrants who settle in our State something of our customs, laws and institutions be carefully considered, and that some plan be devised for carrying on this suggested work, supported by an appropriation for that purpose.

The addition of an elective course in our Normal School, covering two years of advance work in high school branches, together with the usual pedagogical training, would equip the teacher-student for high school work and would give us a teachers' college course in our Normal School.

Whatever policy is adopted as to the remaining riparian lands of the State, care should be exercised that either the State or its municipalities should retain control over some of its water fronts.

The findings of the committee to investigate the condition of life insurance companies will enable you to deal with this important topic along lines of the most advanced thought and to place New Jersey in the lead as the State which has the best laws for the protection and safety of policy-holders.

I recommend that provision be made for a common secretary to the boards of Pharmacy, Medical Examiners, Dentistry, Veterinary Medical Examiners, Undertakers and Embalmers and Public Accountants, with an office in the State house.

I have requested the New Jersey delegation to the interstate conference on divorce to draft an act along the lines suggested by the conferees—uniformity of divorce legislation throughout the United States.

I earnestly commend to your thoughtful consideration the subject of submitting to the people such constitutional amendments for the reorganization of our courts as will enable this department of government to proceed unhampered in its administration of justice.

The method of selecting the grand juries should be carefully reviewed, and, if possible, a better method devised and enacted into law.

A judicious civil service law, providing that appointments—municipal, county and State—be based upon efficiency is well worthy of your consideration. A State civil service commission would be necessary to the execution of such a law. I would vest in this commission the power of confirmation over all appointments to the classified service, and would make all such appointments subject to trial for a period before they are made permanent.

I renew my recommendation of last year of the English and Massachusetts corrupt practises act for elections, caucuses and primaries as the basis of legislation on the purity of the ballot.

I recommend that official ballots hereafter be not allowed outside of the polling places, and that laws be enacted to this end.

The fate of the voting machine rests, as it should rest, with the sovereign voters of the State, but the lovers of good government and of honest elections should think calmly and deliberately before they condemn an agency more helpful to their cause than a thousand unenforced statutes.

The passage of an act preventing the further pollution of our streams and the protection of our bathing grounds would appeal to those whose vision extends beyond the present hour.

The acquisition in fee of the fresh-water lakes and ponds by the State is desirable as a matter of public policy.

The creation of a State water supply commission to control and regulate the diversion of potable waters without interfering with present municipal or vested rights, or the vesting of some such power in a State board already in existence, would seem to be necessary to save this valuable State asset.

The erection of a storage reservoir in the Passaic Valley would serve many economic purposes.

An amendment to the Constitution is the only way by which the system of Assembly districts can be restored in this State. I recommend consideration by the Legislature of a constitutional amendment for this purpose.

The primary act could be amended so that at the primary for the nomination of members of a Legislature who would at the next legislative session vote for a United States Senator, every voter could indicate his choice for Senator upon the primary ticket. I recommend legislation to this end.

Let the people be given the opportunity to pass upon the policy of divorcing State and municipal contests and the holding of State elections in Presidential and Congressional years.

Municipal ills should be remedied at home, not at Trenton. Municipal reform should be inaugurated at home, not at Trenton.

An honest, fair and strictly business relationship between the people and public utility corporations serving them, under an arrangement by which the former share in the earnings of the latter, will promote good ends and satisfy the sense of fairness.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Athletic Association of the First Baptist church Sunday-school will meet at the church Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet with the women's society at the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday afternoon in the observance of a day of prayer for missions.

"The Call of God to His People," will be the subject of the week of prayer service at the Park Avenue Baptist church tonight. Tomorrow night there will be a prayer-meeting at the home of Seely Edsall on Sandford avenue.

The tenth anniversary of the founding of Monroe Avenue M. E. church will be observed early in February for one week. A special programme is now being prepared, and it is likely that all of the former pastors will attend sometime during the week of the celebration.

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

In his admirable message, Governor Stokes wastes few words on high sounding phrases. He takes up in turn, the most pressing affairs of State, particularly those in which immediate legislation is needed, and he handles his subjects in a vigorous fashion. He tells just what ought to be done by the Legislature and how in his opinion it may be done to the best advantage. There is not a syllable in the whole document that smacks of the ring politician or party boss. It's first rate throughout.

Among the more important topics he takes up is the proposition, long ago suggested by him, that the members of the Assembly be chosen from districts and not from the county at large. In his advocacy of a change, he says incidently:

"Under our present system the members of the House of Assembly in those counties that have more than one member are responsible to no distinct and separate constituency, but rather to a party organization or to a self-appointed committee of party leaders.

"This condition violates the fundamental principles of popular government. It promotes rule by the few rather than government by the many. So strongly wedded is public sentiment to the system of Assembly districts that it is the custom in many of the larger counties to form imaginary legislative districts and allot the members to be elected by that county to these districts existing only in the fancy of the nominating convention The minority party, under present conditions, seldom has any representatives from the county in the House of Assembly. In 1905, in the counties of Passaic, Hudson and Essex, the minority party polled forty per cent. of the vote, but did not have in the House of Assembly a single member to speak for it. Most of the large counties embrace both urban and rural populations, and in some sections are communities of commuters. Under the county system of electing members of the Assembly these different elements may not have proper or adequate representation. Under the district system they could speak for themselves.

"It is always difficult to induce those in power to favor a change. Letting well enough alone blinds the sight to coming changes which may reverse conditions. Political selfishness always eventually, sometimes quickly, brings political ruin. There is only one safe law to follow in politics—the law of right. Then every political party or element has at all times a fair chance, and that is all that should be asked. The Assembly district system accords with the principles of representative and popular government, and gives to each party its political rights.

"In my message last year I suggested that provision for Assembly districts could be made by a constitutional amendment; or it might be attempted by a legislative act so drawn as to receive prompt interpretation by the courts, This latter method was tried by the last Legislature, and the act was declared unconstitutional by the Court of 'Errors and Appeals. An amendment to the Constitution, as suggested before, is, therefore, the only way by which the system of Assembly districts can be restored in this State. I recommend consideration by the Legislature of a constitutional amendment for this purpose.

Space will not permit any extended reference to the message, but summed up in a few words these are the recommendations:

Increased facilities at the Bordentown School for Colored Youth.

Economy in State appropriations. The Governor says he will exercise the veto power in the maintenance of this policy.

Some plan for the improvement of the condition of the foreign population of the State.

Addition of a two years' teachers' college course to the Normal School to give teachers a higher academic training.

Careful legislative treatment of the relation of master and servant.

That provision be made for a common secretary to all State licensing boards, with an office in the State House, attached, perhaps, to the office of the Secretary of the State.

Appointment of a commission to take up with a Pennsylvania commission the work of preserving the Delaware river fisheries.

Legislation submitting to the people constitutional amendments for the reform of the judiciary of the State.

Greater simplicity in legislation, with a condensation and revision of the statutes. The Governor says every law should be intelligible to the ordinary mind.

Further jury reform. The Governor recommends that the method of selecting grand juries be carefully reviewed, and suggests a law providing that the grand jury panels be revised by the judge of the court of common pleas.

Civil service in government except as to those officers elected by the people, whose appointment is confirmed by the Senate, officers of any city or county whose appointment is confirmed by a legislative body, and persons appointed by name by statute. The Governor says patronage is the blight of office.

Further ballot reform. The Governor says the distribution of ballots should be confined to the polling places. He advises careful consideration of the voting machines before they are condemned.

Further development of the forest reservations and the protection of woodlands from fire. In connection with this the message recommends the acquisition by the State of its fresh water lakes with contiguous woodlands for recreation parks.

The erection of a storage reservoir in the Passaic valley to conserve the North Jersey portable water supply. The Governor says this would cost $7,500,000, and thinks the improvement would pay for itself in thirty-five years. He suggests the creation of a State water supply commission.

An amendment to the constitution permitting the election of members of Assembly by districts.

Legislation permitting at the primary election preceding the election of a United States Senator expression by the votes of their choice of candidates for that office.

More home rule in municipal government. The Governor says municipal ills should be remedied at home; not at Trenton.

Equitable division of the profits of public utility corporations between the corporations and the municipalities which they serve.

HUSH!

The Common Council took itself seriously as usual Monday night in holding a "five minute" executive session which lasted just a half hour longer than the stipulated time. The city's business must be transacted behind closed doors; so the august members seem to believe.

Mr. Dryden is "as strong as the rock of Gibralter" in his determination not to be budged from his position as an office-seeker.

To the credit of Senator Ackerman and Assemblyman Perkins may it be said "In Union there is strength."

THE USE OF "MRS."

A Few Hints on the Etiquette of Letter Writing.

There is one little etiquette of letter writing which many women who ought to know better are forever transgressing. This is the use of "Mrs." in the signature.

A married woman ought never to sign herself other than "Mary Catherwood Pitcoe." This is imperative if she is writing to an acquaintance. If it is a business letter or to one who would not know her position and married title, she writes under this signature "Mrs. William Pitcoe" in parenthesis.

This is a simple enough rule, but the number of ladies who appear to think they must perpetually inform even the best informed of their married state is truly astounding.

One woman had a little shock the other day on receiving a letter from a social acquaintance whom she admired hugely at a distance. It was a very nice letter, but it was signed "Mrs. William Pitcoe" and gave its recipient a distinct chill of disappointment.

Numbers of women do it.

Also many misguided unmarried ladies blazon "Miss" before their names when signing letters to acquaintances. The only use of "Miss" in a signature is in brackets before the name in writing to a stranger who will need to know how to address his reply.

These are little things, but they mark the mistress of the gentle art of letter writing by their omission or commission.

FIGHT AT SCOTCH PLAINS OVER FIREMEN'S ELECTION.

Hot Rivalry For Offices, Victory Being Scored by Hook and Ladder Company.

In peaceful Scotch Plains, the old rivalry for supremacy between Bucket and Engine Company and Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company manifested itself again last night at the annual election for fire department officers held in Excelsior Hall. The result was that the fire laddies held one of the largest polled and hottest elections since the two companies were put under control of the Township Committee. The friendly rivalry of several years ago has changed until at the present time it is a case of brother against brother, the feeling among some of the members being most bitter. The polls were open from 8 until 9 o'clock, but from 7 o'clock on until long after the final vote was cast and the victory of Excelsior Company announced, the streets presented a more animated appearance than on a regular town or State election day night. The inclement weather was no bar to getting the vote out, those who did not show up willingly were brought to the polls in carriages. Excelsior Company had all their old-time members out, bringing some from New York and several from Plainfield to help carry the day for the company ticket.

Township Clerk Edward L. Hand threw a bomb into the camp of the Bucket and Engine Company by notifying them that their candidate for second assistant chief, Louis B. Coddington, was not eligible for the office, not even being a member of the company, never having been accepted by the Fire Board on account of being beyond the prescribed age. Coddington had been a member and active worker in Bucket and Engine Company for several years and all supposed he was a bonifide member of the department. This announcement coming from the representative of the Township Committee only made the feeling more bitter and raised the cry of favoritism from the administration. The Bucket and Engine Company insisted it was right and Coddington even tried to cast his ballot but his vote was challenged. Notwithstanding this drawback the engine company kept up the fight until the last vote was cast and is still vowing vengeance and retaliation next year. The total vote cast was fifty-eight, Excelsior's ticket with former Chief William B. Noble at the head and William H. Lake and Phillip Blank as assistants, received thirty-three, while Bucket and Engine Company's ticket headed by Chief William Jamison and Horace Pangborn and Louis B. Coddington, received twenty-five, giving Excelsior Company a majority of eight votes and turning the tables on its old rivals for the defeat administered last year.

PLAINFIELD ANNUAL MEETING.

Several Changes Likely in Officers of Country Club.

The trustees of the Plainfield Country Club met at the Casino, last night, to consider plans for the annual meeting to be held early in February. It is understood that there will be several changes in the board of trustees, and the fact that George P. Mellick retiring as president of the club, will necessitate the selection of another man for that office. Who will succeed Mr. Mellick has not yet been determined, the matter being left in the hands of the nominating committee.

At the annual meeting there will come up for decision the question of installing an independent lighting plant at the clubhouse, and other improvements are also being considered with an idea of making it an all-year-round club.

Thief Overlooked Money.

Chief Kiely has received positive information that the second-story thief who was detected at work in Edmund Wright's house on Belvidere avenue, Saturday night, did not take any valuables with him when he escaped. He located the Polish maid employed by Mr. Wright and had her make investigation. Nothing was missing, she said. The crook missed $150 in money that lay in one of the drawers.

ROYAL BLUE EXPRESS BARELY ESCAPES WRECKING.

Presence of Mind of Conductor William Sheehan Gives Engineer Warning In Time.

A westbound flyer on the New Jersey Central, coming out from New York at a fifty-mile-an-hour clip, was barely saved from crashing into a local in the Aldene section of Roselle Park Monday evening. An open switch was the cause. The railroad people believe someone tampered with it and Chief Detective Dougherty is conducting an investigation.

When the local tried to back away in the rear of Ridgeway's lumber yards, several of the cars buckled and projected over the tracks on which the express came tearing along. The quick presence of mind of William Sheehan, of Somerville, conductor of the local train, prevented what would undoubtedly have been a disastrous wreck. He remembered that the express was due on the instant, and ran out to signal it to stop. He was barely in time. Engineer B. Loughrey, of Philadelphia, did not stop the flyer until the pilot of the locomotive struck one of the cars on the local train. There was slight force to the crash and but little damage was caused. Fred Wilcox, a former well known Dunellen resident, was engineer of the local.

Reed, Isaac W. Rushmore, Samuel Townsend, Lewis E. Waring and Orville T. Waring. The board will meet on Thursday, January 17, for the election of officers.

Helped Stranded Teuton.

A German, who described himself as Johann Miller, 43 years old, a cooper, five weeks over from Breslau, applied at the Organized Aid Association rooms this morning for relief. He said he wanted to get to Bethlehem, Pa., where he had friends. The association turned him over to the police. After examining him through a German young woman who came in the headquarters a few minutes after the man was brought there, and said she wanted to see that he got help, the Chief arranged for his dinner at Timbo's restaurant, and got him a ticket to Bethlehem. He licked the plates. The young woman, who said she was a governess in a West Eighth street family, assured the Chief that "Major" Fisk would repay the ticket and meal money.

Rare Treat for Music Lovers.

The McIntyre Chamber Concert, the third in the series, will be given at the Casino, Friday night, and promises to be a rare treat for music lovers. In addition to Vladimir Dubinsky, the noted 'cellist, who is a favorite here, there will appear as assisting artist, Julian Walker, the famous New York basso. He is considered one of the best in Metropolitan music circles and should attract a crowded house. Jan Witzemann will be the violinist, while Joseph McIntyre will be at the piano. The programme arranged will be of the same high character as those given at previous concerts.

Officers of People's Lobby.

James E. Martine, of this city, has been appointed a vice president of the People's Lobby, which was organized for the purpose of scrutinizing all legislation. John Moody, of Cranford; Sampel S. Childs, of Bernardsville; Hamilton W. Mabie, of Summit, and William H. Whiting, of Bound Brook, are to act in the same capacity. The Somerset branch of the governing committee comprises Walter Linbarger, Lewis A. Thompson, James L. Griggs, Horace Coddington and Nelson Y. Dungan. R Henry Depew, of this city, is also a member of the governing committee.

Funeral of Charles Adair.

The funeral of Charles Adair, who died at his home in Newark, was held at the residence of his nephew, George Clark, of Scotch Plains, yesterday. It was conducted by Rev. T. Moore-Smith and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. During the service two hymns were sung by Mrs. Edward Hand and Mrs. John Lindahl. Interment was made in the Scotch Plains cemetery, the pall bearers being Peter Smith, John Osborne, Walter Clawson and Frank Atchason.

Mrs. Chamberlain's Funeral.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Mrs. Tom Chamberlain was held at her late home on West Third street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, of which she was a member. The floral tributes included set pieces from the Ladies' Class at Hope and the Ladies' Aid Society. Interment was made in Hillside, the pall bearers being James Brown, Joseph Brown, Oscar Pearson and Robert Kenney.

Jersey Central's Taxes.

The Central Railroad Company, represented by H. W. Doty, and Frederick W. Faulks appeared before the County Board of Taxation yesterday with ten appeals from assessments made against the shops at Elizabethport. The company asks for a reduction of $233,130 from the assessment on the shops and it is probable that the matter will come up before the State Board before a final adjustment is reached.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

B. C. Whitney's big musical production, "Piff, Paff, Pouf," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. It is being given under the auspices of the local King's Daughters.

In order to perfectly familiarize herself with the actual scenes in a gypsy camp, Miss Lillian Mortimer spent two weeks with a gang of Romays in Northern New York last summer. After explaining her mission it was only after considerable pleading and the proffer of a considerable sum of money that they allowed her to visit their camp daily. Her time was spent in talking with them and sketching scenes of gypsy life which are of great value to her, as the second act of "No Mother to Guide Her" is laid in a camp of these people. It is in this play that she made such a pronounced hit last season. It will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

Aubrey Mittenthal's picturesque revelation in musical surprises, "The Girl from Broadway," by Herbert Hall Winslow, is to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night, and will, no doubt, receive an enthusiastic welcome. The musical comedy has been given in Plainfield before, so does not come as a stranger here. One of the interesting features as will be well remembered is the presence of that dainty and winsome little comedienne Miss Grace Edmond, who, after a short career in the dramatic world, has stepped into the position of leading lady of a high-class musical organization. Miss Edmond has the title role in "The Girl from Broadway," a part requiring good looks, good acting, and having provided for it a couple of songs that make demands upon the actress' vocal ability, and she has "made good" in every phase of the part, and has won every bit of praise she has received.

Lincoln J. Carter's border drama, "The Flaming Arrow," will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. It is said to possess the true western melodramatic flavor depending for its success upon the brisk action, exciting climaxes and stage mounting, together with an adroitness of dramatic conception and an excellent plot. The company numbers forty people, and a full tribe of genuine Indians.

A new comic opera by John Philip Sousa, the American "March King," is sure to attract interest from music loving people of this country and his latest production, "The Free Lance," which will be presented by the Sousa Opera Company at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, is said to be written in the "March King's" happiest strain. "The Free Lance" attained a notable success in New York last fall at the New Amsterdam theatre, and comes here with the same big cast, numbering seventy-five singers and comedians, and surrounded by the same wealth of beauty which Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger gave to the New York presentation. Harry B. Smith, the librettist of "Robin Hood," is sponsor for the book and lyrics which are said to be of a better quality than any he has evolved for a decade. A notable feature is made of a male chorus of fifty voices which greatly aids in the rendering of Mr. Sousa's spirited martial music.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles—A Plainfield Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Plainfield people testify to permanent cures.

John H. Stewart, carpenter, of 413 New street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Last winter I suffered with severe pains across my kidneys and what is more commonly called backache. When my back hurt the worst cold sweat stood out on me, and if I caught cold it always settled on my kidneys. I got so bad with these troubles that I had to quit work, but though I doctored faithfully, no medicine struck the right spot until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's pharmacy. I took in all three boxes and they stopped my many aches and pains and regulated the action of the kidneys. Since taking them I have worked steadily, without any ill effect on the action of the kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1903 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

The shrewd old face of the Bishop had wrinkled into a smile of quiet observation as the other read the letter. In relating the incident to the Establishment of the [illegible]ly, he said of Joel Rae at the moment he looked up from this letter: "He'll never be whiter when he's dead! I see in a minute that the old man had him on the bark."

"You know what's in this, Brother Seth—you know that Brigham wants Prudence?" Joel Rae had asked, looking up from the letter, upon which both his hands had closed tightly.

"Well, I told you he dropped a word or two, jest by way of keeping off the Princes of Israel down here."

"I must go to Salt Lake at once and talk to him."

"Take her along; likely he'll marry her right off."

"But I can't—I couldn't—Brother Seth, I wish her not to marry him."

The Bishop stared blankly at him, his amazement freezing upon his lips, almost, the words he uttered.

"Not — want — her — to marry — Brother Brigham Young, Prophet, Seer, and Relevator, President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in all the world!"

"I must go up and talk to him at once."

"You won't talk him out of it. Brother Brigham has the habit of prevailing. Of course, he's closer than Dick's hat-band, but she'll have the best there is until he takes another."

"He may listen to reason—"

"Reason?—why, man, what more reason could he want,—with that splendid young critter before him, throwing back her head, and flashing her big, shiny eyes, and lifting her red lips over them little white teeth—reason enough for Brother Brigham—or for other people I could name!"

"But he wouldn't be so hard—taking her away from me—"

Something in the tones of this appeal seemed to touch even the heart of the Wild Ram of the Mountains, though it told of a suffering he could not understand.

"Brigham is very sot in his ways," he said, after a little, with a curious soft kindness in his voice,—"in fact, a sotter man I never knew!"

He drove off, leaving the other staring at the letter now crumpled in his hand. He also said, in his subsequent narrative to the Establishment of Truth: "You know I've always took Brother Rae for jest a natural born not, a shy little cuss that could be whiffed around by anything and everything, but when I drove off he had a plumb ornery fighting look in them deep-set eyes of his, and blame me if I didn't some way feel sorry for him,—he's that warped up, like an old water-soaked sycamore plank that gits laid out in the sun."

But this look of belligerence had quickly passed from the face of Joel Rae when the first heat of his resentment had cooled.

After that he merely suffered, torn by his reverence for Brigham, who represented on earth no less a power than the first person of the Trinity, and by the love for this child who held him to a past made beautiful by his love for her mother,—by a thousand youthful dreams and fancies and wayward hopes that he had kept fresh through all the years; torn between Brigham, whose word was as the word of God, and Prudence who was the living flower of her dead mother and all his dead hopes.

Presently he saw Prudence coming across the fields in the late afternoon from the road that led to the canyon. He watched her jealously until she drew near, then called her to him. In a few words he told her very gravely the honor that was to be done her.

When she fully understood, he noted that her mind seemed to attain an unusual clearness, her speech a new conciseness; that she was displaying a force of will he had never before suspected.

Her reply, in effect, was that she would not marry Brigham Young if all the angels in heaven came to entreat her; that the thought was not a pretty one; and that the matter might be considered settled at that very moment. "It's too silly to talk about, she concluded.

Almost fearfully he looked at her, yielding a little to her spirit of rebellion, yet trying not to yield; trying not to rejoice in the amused flash of her dark eyes and the decision of her tones. But then, as he looked, and as she still faced him, radiant in her confidence, he felt himself going with her—plunging into the tempting wave of apostasy.

CHAPTER XXVII.

A New Face in the Dream.

Prudence had to be alone to dream her dreams of a love that should be always single. Brigham's letter, far from disturbing these, had brought them a zest hitherto lacking. Neither the sacrilege of refusing him, its worldly unwisdom, nor its possible harm to the little bent man of sorrows, had as yet become apparent to her. Each day, when such duties as were hers in the house had been performed, she walked out to Box canyon, that green-sided cleft in the mountain, with the brook lashing itself to a white fury over the boulders at the bottom. She would go up out of the hot valley into its cool freshness and it pleasant wood smells, and there, in the softened blue light of a pine-hung glade, she would rest, and let her fancy build what heaven-reaching towers it would. On some brown bed of pine-needles, or on a friendly gray boulder close by the water-side, where she could give her eyes to its flow and foam, and her ears to its music,—music like the muffled tinkling of little silver bells in the distance,—she would let herself go out to her dream with the joyous, reckless abandon of falling water.

It was commonly a dream of a youth in doublet and hose, a plumed cap, and a cloak of purple satin, who came in the moonlight to the balcony of his love, and sighed his passion in tones so moving that she thought an angel must have yielded—as did the girl in the balcony who had let down the scarf to him. She already knew how that girl's heart must have fluttered at the moment,—how she must have felt that the hands were mad, wicked, uncontrollable hands, no longer her own.

There was one place in the dream that she managed not without some ingenuity. It had to be made plain that the lover under the window did not come from a long, six-doored house, with a wife behind each door; that this girl, pale in the moonlight, with quickening heart and rebellious hands on the scarf, and arms that should open to him, was to be not only his first wife but his last; that he was never even to consider so much as the possibility of another, but was to cleave unto her, and to love her with a single heart for all the days of her life and his own.

There were various ways of bringing this circumstance forward. Usually she had Brigham march on at the head of his great family and counsel the youth to take more wives, in order that he should be exalted in the Kingdom. Whereupon the young man would fold his love in his arms and speak words of scorn, in the same thrilling manner that he spoke his other words, for any exaltation which they two could not share alone. Brigham, at the head of his wives, would then slink off, much abashed.

He Lifted His Broad Brimmed Hat to Her in a Gracious Sweep.

She had come naturally to see her own face as the face of this happily loved girl in the dream. She knew no face for the youth. There was none in Amalon; not Jarom Tanner, six feet three, who became a helpless grinning child in her presence; nor Moroni Peterson, who became a solemn and ghastly imbecile; nor Ammaron Wright, son of the Bishop, who had opened the dance of the Young People's Auxiliary with prayer, and later tried to kiss her in a dark corner of the room. So the face of the other person in her dream remained of an unknown heavenly beauty.

And then one afternoon in early May a strange youth came singing down the canyon; came while she mused by the brook-side in her best-loved dream. Long before she saw him, she heard his music, a young, clear, care-free voice ringing down from the trail that went over the mountains to Kanab and into Kimball valley; one of the ways that led out to the world that she wondered about so much. It was a voice new to her, and the words of his ballad were also new. At first she heard them from afar:—

"There was a young lady came a-tripping along,
And at each side a servant-O,
And in each hand a glass of wine
To drink with the Gypsy Davy-O.

"And will you fancy me, my dear,
And will you be my Honey-O?
I swear by the sword that hangs by my side
You shall never want for money-O.

"Oh, yes, I will fancy you, kind sir,
And I will be your Honey-O,
If you swear by the sword that hangs by your side
I shall never want for money-O."

The singer seemed to be making his way slowly. Far up the trail, she had one fleeting glimpse of a man on a horse, and then he was hid again in the twilight of the pines. But the music came nearer:—

"Then she put on her high-heeled shoes,
All made of Spanish leather-O,
And she put on her bonnie, bonnie brown,
And they rode off together-O.

"Soon after that, her lord came home
Inquiring for his lady-O,
When some of the servants made this reply,
She's a-gone with the Gypsy-O.

"Then saddle me my milk-white steed,
For the black is not so speedy-O,
And I'll ride all night and I'll ride all day
Till I overtake my lady-O."

She stood transfixed, something within her responding to the hidden singer, as she had once heard a closed piano sound to a voice that sang near it. Soon she could get broken glimpses of him as he wound down the trail, now turning around the end of a fallen tree, then passing behind a giant spruce, now leaning far back while the horse felt a way cautiously down some sharp little declivity. The impression was confused—a glint of red, of blue, of the brown of the horse, a figure swaying loosely to the horse's movements, and then he was out of sight again around the big rock that had once fallen from high up on the side of the canyon; but now, when he came from behind that, he would be squarely in front of her. This recalled and alarmed her. She began to pick a way over the boulders and across the trail that lay between her and the edge of the pines, hearing another verse of the song almost at her ear:—

"He rode all night and he rode all day,
Till he came to the far deep water—,
Then he stopped and a tear came a-trickling down his cheek,
For there he saw his lady-O."

Before she could reach a shelter in the pines, while she was poised for the last step that would take her out of the trail, he was out from behind the rock, before her, almost upon her, reining his horse back upon its haunches,—then in another instant lifting off his broad-brimmed hat to her in a gracious sweep. It was the first time she had seen this simple office performed outside of the theater.

She looked up at him, embarrassed, and stepped back across the narrow trail, her head down again, so that he was free to pass. But instead of passing, she became aware that he had dismounted.

When she looked up, he was busily engaged in adjusting something about his saddle, with an expression of deepest concern in his blue eyes. His hat was on the ground and his yellow hair glistened where the band had pressed it about his head.

"It's that latigo strap," he remarked, in a tone of some annoyance. "I've had to nx it every five miles since I left Kanab!" Then looking up at her with a friendly smile: "Dandy most stepped on you, I reckon.

The amazement of it was that, after her first flurry at the sound of his voice and his half-seen movements up the trail, it should now seem all so commonplace.

"Oh, no, I was well out of his way."

She started again to cross the trail, stepping quickly, with her eyes down, but again his voice came, less deliberate this time, and with words in something less than intelligible sequence.

"Excuse me, Miss—but—now how many miles to—what's the name of the nearest settlement—I suppose you live hereabouts?"

"What did you say?"

"I say is there any place where I could get to stop a day or so in Amalon?"

"Oh—I didn't understand—I think so; at least, my father sometimes—but there's Elder Wardle, he often takes in travellers."

"You say your father—"

"Not always—I don't know, I'm sure—" she looked doubtful.

"Oh, all right! I'll ask him,—if you'll show me his place."

"It's the first place on the left after you leave the canyon—with the big peach orchard—I'm not going home just yet."

He stroked the muzzle of the horse.

"Oh, I'm in no hurry, I'm just looking over the country a little. Your father's name is—"

"Ask for Elder Rae—or one of his wives will say if they can keep you over night."

She caught something new in his glance, and felt the blood in her face.

"I must go now—you can find your way—I must go."

"Well, if you must go,'—he picked up his hat,—"but I'll see you again. You'll be coming home this evening, I reckon?"

"The first house on the left," she answered, and stepped once more across the trail and into the edge of the pines.

When she knew he must be gone, she came out again to her nook beside the stream where, a moment before, her dream had filled her. But now, though nothing had happened beyond the riding by of a strange youth, the dream no longer sufficed. In place of the moonlit balcony was the figure of this young stranger swaying with his horse down between the hollowed shoulders of the Pine mountains and reining up suddenly to sweep his broad hat low in front of her. She was surprised by the clearness with which she could recall the details of his appearance,—a boyish-looking fellow, with wide-open blue eyes and a sunbrowned face under his yellow hair, the smallest of moustaches, and a smile of such winning good-humor that it had seemed to force her own lips apart in answer.

KIELY AND RUNYON LOSE A GOOD CHANCE

WOULD HAVE TAKEN LEAD IN TOURNEY BY WINNING LAST NIGHT'S GAMES.

With a good chance of taking the lead in the tourney, Chief Kiely and Judge Runyon went up against hard luck, last night, and dropped two games to the "headliners," Gaddis and Dilks, thereby staying back. The "municipal" team pulled together in the last stage of the series and captured the third match by a margin of sixteen. Splits fell to the lot of Judge Runyon in his second game so often that he handed in a niggardly 130 and was glad to get out of it at that. Chief Kiely was also a little out of form and failed to reach the 200 mark, something unusual for him. Gaddis and Dilks now have thirteen wins and but two losses.

Mack and Meyer went on the alleys with a rush and took three straight from Koons and Skinner. Mack fell down in the second game with a 126 but it was saved by his partner getting 201. In the next, Mack reciprocated by hitting the pins for 210 while Meyer dropped to 146. Ir the other games rolled, Harry Radin and Hafry Ackor took two away from Causebrook and McLaughlin.

The scores:

Gaddis	190	153	171
Dilks	205	189	175
vs.

BOWLING.

Three of the winners shot over the 200 mark, Daniel scored 216 in the first game, Barlow 226 and Long 213, in the second game. The best the Cranfords could do in the way of high mark was 197.

The scores:

PARK CLUB.

Barlow	168	226	162

CHAMPION BOWLERS ON TOUR.

Voorheis and Weingarth Planning Trip Through New Jersey.

Johnny Voorheis, of Brooklyn, and Billy Weingarth, of Newark, the famous bowlers, are arranging a trip through New Jersey. Already several exhibition matches have been booked in the various towns and cities where the bowling fever is at its height, and this place is likely to be included in the circuit.

Local pin knights are greatly interested in the remarkable stunts and big scores being put up by Messrs. Voorheis and Weingarth in the tournaments in Newark and New York, and are hopeful of seeing them perform on local alleys. Voorheis and Weingarth, in their exhibition matches in the different towns, are pitted against the strongest local bowlers possible, which adds great interest to their appearance. Alley owners who desire to secure this double attraction can obtain terms and other information by addressing John J. Campbell, Tuxedo alleys, 227 Halsey street, Newark.

Surgery Under Locomotive.

New York, Jan. 9.—Crawling under a monster engine in the Van Nest yards early yesterday morning, Dr. Piecek, a young ambulance surgeon of the Fordham Hospital, amputated one of the legs of Charles Fisher, forty-one years old, a freight conductor of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, who was pinned three hours under the wheels. Dr. Piecek amputated Fisher's left leg, stanched the flow of blood by tourniquets, and by the administration of stimulants kept Fisher conscious while he was performing the operation. Fisher kept up a conversation with the surgeon, who was working under difficulties to save his life. Three hours later Fisher's right leg was removed close to the body at Fordham Hospital, and he declared, and the surgeons sustain his belief, that he is going to live, "for the wife and babies," as he puts it. Fisher's home is at No. 591 East 136th street. He fell in attempting to swing on the engine's footboard.

Action Against McClellan.

New York, Jan. 9.—Alleging that George B. McClellan has usurped and intruded into, and now unlawfully holds the office of Mayor and unlawfully claims and assumes to be Mayor of the city," William S. Jackson, Attorney General of the State, executed a flank movement yesterday upon the Mayor and began an action in the Supreme Court to compel him to surrender the office to W. R. Hearst. That this action surprised and annoyed Eugene L. Richards, counsel for Mayor McClellan, was evident last night from the attack made upon the Attorney General in a statement in which his action was described as "reckless, outrageous and riotous," and he was referred to as a man "so careless of his dignity, so reckless in conduct, so contemptuous of the law" that only a "court of impeachment might adequately deal with his case."

Quits Drinking; Gets Million.

Amityville, L. I., Jan. 9.—For thirteen years a patient in the Bushwick Home, Eugene Anderson has come into a fortune estimated to be more than a million dollars, which is to be divided between himself and one brother, James M. Anderson. Eugene Anderson, who is fifty years old, resides in Katonah, N. Y. Had it not been for his love for liquor he would have come into his own some time ago. Failure to exercise sufficient will power, however, stood in the path to his fortune, as trustees of the estate refused to deliver the money to him. A long period of total abstinence won for him the much longed for fortune. As soon as the formalities regarding his fortune are completed Anderson will go South, where he will reside.

MR. FOX MAKES ANSWER

State Child Labor Committee Head Replies to Mrs. Kelly's Attacks.

LECTURER MISTAKEN

Present Child Labor Laws in New Jersey As Good As Those of Any State in the Union.

Some adverse reflections made by Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary of the Consumers' League of New York, on New Jersey's child labor law do not meet with the approval of Hugh F. Fox, of this city, chairman of the State Child Labor Committee and probably the best informed man in New Jersey on that subject. Mr. Fox holds the opinion that certain of her remarks before the Monday Afternoon Club were unjust, and in answer to them he has sent the following communication for publication:

"Will you please let me try to correct the unfortunate impression which appears to have been given by the Secretary of the National Consumers League at the recent meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, in regard to Child Labor in New Jersey? Your paper reports the speaker as follows: 'New Jersey's old child labor law was highly approved by the league. When it was enacted the league placed New Jersey at the head of the white list. When it was repealed, New Jersey was put at the foot of the black list.' While the speaker may have qualified these statements in some way, she certainly seems to have made her audience feel that New Jersey is low down in the list of manufacturing States, from the standpoint of child-labor conditions.

"This impression is not only unfair, but it is extremely mischievous, because it discourages the honest and efficient workers in the Department of Labor, and breeds a spirit of antagonism which reacts on the Child Labor Committee.

"The facts are that New Jersey has as good a law to prevent the employment of children under fourteen in factories, mills and workshops, as any State in the Union. Judging by its results, it will stand the test of comparison with any other State, including even Massachusetts. The method of securing proof of age is the best and most comprehensive that has yet been devised; the system of centralized control of the inspectors, and the almost automatic checks upon their work is thorough and complete; the scheme of co-operation with the school authorities is so nearly perfect, that it may fairly be described as interlocking; and the Commission of Labor is a man of the highest integrity and ability, who is thoroughly in sympathy with the law and its purpose, and has shown a fine spirit of independence and breadth in its execution. He has recently instituted thirty-six suits against manufacturers for breach of the law, which—under our admirable New Jersey system—are prosecuted by the Attorney-General.

"The State of New York has a fine system of Child Labor regulation—on paper. But the laws are very poorly enforced, owing to the fact that the Department of Labor is scandalously undermanned, and constantly overtaxed. It is a question if it has not been overloaded with too onerous duties.

"The special point upon which New Jersey is open to adverse criticism is the failure to enact a law prohibiting the employment of children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen, at night. Many boys under sixteen are employed in the night-shifts in the glass works, and the Child Labor Committee will renew its efforts during the present session, to secure remedial legislation. This is the next step to work for, and we need all the support that public sentiment can give us. But misleading statements about existing conditions do not smooth our way to success.

"In common justice the hands of our officials should be upheld by organizations that are working for children's interests, when the officials are really doing good work.

"Just a word more, as to the old fifty-five hour law which the speaker referred to. In 1892 an act was passed providing that fifty-five hours should constitute a week's work in factories, etc., for males under eighteen and females of all ages, excepting in fruit canning establishments and glass factories. The attempts to enforce it were so unsuccessful that it was a 'dead-letter' from the start. The consensus of legal opinion was that the law was unconstitutional because of the exceptions in its application, as well as for other reasons, and when the present factory and child labor laws were passed—repealing the previous legislation—the fifty-five hour provision

WATER CO. TO BUILD A HUGE RESERVOIR

MIDDLESEX CONCERN PURCHASES 184 ACRES NEAR GARWOOD.

The Middlesex Water Company has just bought 184 acres of land near Garwood, in the valley through which flows the Robinson branch of the Rahway river. This stream is soon to be put in harness and the topography of the Clark Township will be greatly altered. The purpose of this change and improvement is the construction of a reservoir.

Engineer Simpson has been busy the last six months surveying and driving stakes, and is so far in his work that the task of cleaning the valley will be started in a few weeks.

The first piece of property bought by the company was the farm owned by J. Majer. This farm lies half in the city of Rahway and the other half in Clark Township, and comprises forty-five and sixty-six one-hundredths acres. The price paid was $10,500. Through this property runs the Madison Hill road, better known as the Goosetown lane. Here a bridge spans the river, and from this point all surveys and observations begin.

At Majer's a new dam will be constructed close to the bridge. It will be 310 feet long, with a height of twenty-two feet. Soundings have been made for the foundations, and hard shell-rock has been found at a depth of fourteen feet. This will be the main dam. Its estimated cost will be $1,500,000. From here the company intends to lay its water mains to Carteret and along the Sound, its object being to supply all the large factories along the Sound with soft boiler water.

SPOKE ON "IDEALS."

F. H. Andrews Gives "Uplift" Talk at High School.

F. H. Andrews delivered an "uplift" address to the students of the Plainfield High School this morning. "Ideals" was his subject, which, he said, "are the standards by which you square your eyes."

"There are two ways of living," said Mr. Andrews, "the horizontal and the vertical." The dog and the horse presented illustrations of the horizontal life; they woke in the morning, ate, worked, if they have to, and went to sleep again; they lived for the day only.

"The boy who comes to school with his lessons half done, trusting on luck and inspiration to get through the day," continued the speaker, "is living the horizontal life. The vertical life require that one bend all his energies to one good ideal, and if he fails to reach it he receives the invaluable benefit of the effort. It is in school that character is formed, and preparations are made for the emergencies of life, the testing line."

"The selection of friends," declared Mr. Andrews, "made a great difference in a person's life, for everyone will find his level. Now is the time to make ideals and work with the determination to win."

MISSION OF GOV. STOKES

Party is Threatened by Factional Strife Which He Wants to End.

RIDICULES "DISCIPLINE"

Bosses Cannot Punish Sovereign Voter He Declares—His Office a Contractual Obligation.

District Court Judge Benjamin F. Jones, of Orange, yesterday gave out a letter from Governor Edward C. Stokes, in which the Governor reiterates his statement that he will not be a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed John F. Dryden, and gives his reasons for the stand he has taken. The Governor says he wants to help in the work of reuniting his party, and does not wish to be under the suspicion of scheming for the Senatorship. He says that the results of the recent elections convey a warning that must be heeded. His letter reads as follows:

"My Dear Judge:—I have your kind favor of the 5th, in which you set forth reasons why the constitutional provision concerning the Governor and the United States Senate is void, and does not bind either the members of the Legislature or myself.

"I have never held any different view from that expressed by you. My attitude in regard to the Senatorship, however, is based upon convictions broader than constitutional limitations. I am not, have not been, and shall not be, a candidate for United States Senator during my term as Governor. This statement involves no change in my position. It is simply a reiteration of what I have said time and again.

"The clause in the State constitution void, though it be from a constitutional, legal and moral aspect, has its significance: It was placed in the constitution by the people as their expression of the policy which they desired should govern the action of their chief executives. They evidently intended to prevent the Governor of the State from using the power and patronage of his office in furtherance of his own political and personal preferment.

"It would in my opinion be very unfortunate if the Governorship of this State should at any time be involved in active participation for Senatorial honors. It would divert the Chief Executive from the interests of the people he was elected to serve to the use of his power for a purpose for which he was not elected. The embarrassments, not to say scandals, which would grow out of this misuse of the executive office can be easily imagined. I shall not establish the precedent of perverting the office in this manner. No Governor should ever assume a position where, even in the minds of the most critical, he can be under suspicion of using his patronage as a consideration for votes.

Moreover, when I was elected to the office of Governor, I made a quasi contract with the people to serve them until the end of my term. In the ordinary course of events it is my duty to serve out that contract, and if my life is spared I shall continue as Governor until my term expires.

"I cannot see where my entrance into the Senatorial race could do anything but harm. I have other thoughts in mind. No good Republican can today be blind to the serious condition of our party. It is split into factional divisions, each anxious for its own supremacy. The result of the elections in Essex, Hudson and Passaic cannot be lightly dismissed as temporary reverses that will right themselves next year. They contain a warning that must be heeded. It is time for the loyal party spirit to come to the front with a programme broad enough and with a charity wide enough to unite the rank and file Together, with others, I hope to be able to aid in this necessary movement. This I cannot do if my every effort to this end is under suspicion of Senatorial scheming. It is only when this idea is eliminated from the public mind that I can hope to be at all useful in aiding in the work of harmony.

"I believe in party organization. I am an organization man, but I have no sympathy with that policy which would prevent the organization from what it should be—a body of conciliation and deliberation for the party's good—into a machine for the advancement of individual factional or private interest It is folly to talk of disciplining those who do not agree with us in party matters Such an attitude is not regularity or party loyalty, but party destruction. A party cannot succeed without votes. The sovereign voter cannot be disciplined. You can only appeal to his sense of right and his desire for good government. It is this policy that makes a party strong.

"I believe the people of this State

AS TO ASH CART COVERS

Judge Runyon Says Ordinance on Them Should be Strengthened

DOESN'T SPECIFY KIND

In Disposing of Ash Cart Case, Magistrate Declares Council Could Easily Make Wood Covering Required.

Notice was again given by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning that, working in conjunction with the police, he would do all he could to correct the unsatisfactory conditions surrounding the ash and rubbish cart service in the city He made a prisoner charged with breaking the ordinance on the cart coverings promise to guard his loads from wind and joltings effectually, and hung a $5 fine over him to compel compliance with the promise. In speaking of the case, the magistrate declared the ordinance did not go far enough in its provisions as to the coverings demanded.

The prisoner was Isaac White, colored. He was arrested on North avenue yesterday by Chief Kiely. He was loading several barrels of ashes and paper on the wagon and did not cover the load up between trips to and from the cellar. Papers blew all over the street and into passing carriages, the Chief said.

"I thought I had a good cover," said White, "but I'll get a better one if you say so."

"It's my opinion that no cloth cover is a good and sufficient protection," said Chief Kiely.

"I agree with you," said Judge Runyon. "I think the cover should be of wood. The ordinance does not say that, however, and the question of covering is left open for discussion. It seems to me an easy matter for the Council to provide specifically as to the kind of cover.

"White, I wish you would make a wagon cover that will be a model for the other men in the business. At any rate, I will hang a $5 fine over you and if your new cover is not satisfactory I will let it fall."

White said the business was not profitable enough for the men engaged in it to warrant their buying wagons of a proper type. The wagons, he said, should be very deep, as in New York and other cities of that size. The householders, he said, should keep their ashes and paper separate, and have them removed by different wagons. He said the people who complained of the ash-cart annoyance made conditions bad themselves by mixing ashes and papers.

Boys' Club Entertainment.

The phonograph recently presented to the Boys' Club by George M. Rittenhouse, of Sandford avenue, furnished an enjoyable entertainment for the boys at the clubhouse on Sycamore street, last night. It was the regular night for games and amusements of all kinds, the affair being planned by Kenneth Robbie, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., under whose auspices the club is now conducted. There was a large attendance of boys and all had a general good time. The club was never in better condition than at present and a good work is being accomplished.

Sentences Deferred.

Lucius Taylor, colored, of this city, pleaded guilty in Court of Common Pleas yesterday to the larceny of two chickens. Sentence was deferred one week. Louis Mulligan, also of this city and considered an incorrigible, was arraigned. Sentence was likewise deferred one week. The application of Henry Wiedenhoffer for a renewal of an inn and tavern license, which was to have been considered yesterday morning by Judge Atwater, was, on motion of Lawyer T. M. Kelly, representing the applicant, laid over for two weeks.

Looking for Rahway Fugitives.

Responding to a general alarm from Rahway Reformatory, Chief Kiely has instructed his men to keep a watch for Wilbet Duck, colored, and John Saltino, white, who escaped from the institution Tuesday night. They may pass through here on their way to Philadelphia, where Duck has friends.

F. L. Clark Gets Title.

Title to the property at the northeast corner of Front and Grove streets, which was sold by Emanuel Schloss to F. L. Clark on Tuesday, was passed yesterday. Lawyer H. C. Runyon represented Liefke & Laing, the brokers. Mr. Clark is said contemplates a number of improvements to the property.

CHAMBERS GETS $6,250

Wins His Suit Against P. S. C. For Damages For Personal Injuries.

JURY OUT 8 HOURS

Accident On Trolley Car On Putnam Avenue a Year Ago—In Supreme Court.

In the Supreme Court case of Newton W. Chambers against the Public Service Corporation, which has been on trial at Elizabeth the last two days, the jury after eight hours deliberation, rendered a verdict last night for $6,250 in favor of the plaintiff. Mr. Chambers was injured on Putnam avenue near Hillside avenue a year ago last month. He was his only witness as to the manner in which the accident happened.

The story told by Chambers was that after the car had stopped at Hillside avenue he was in the act of alighting when the car suddenly moved forward with a jerk so violent as to throw him from the car, and that as he fell, he grasped the hand rail and was dragged a considerable distance, and finally was forced to let go, with the result that he was thrown forward, striking on his face. He was rendered unconscious for a moment, but afterwards told the conductor that he would make no claim against the company, as he thought his injuries would not amount to much. The injuries proved to be very serious, including among the consequences, deafness in both ears. The defendants produced the conductor, the motorman and Mr. Brokaw, who was then employed by the P. S. C., and was riding on the rear platform, and two passengers. The witnesses for the defence stated that the car did not stop at Hillside avenue, and that Mr. Chambers jumped from the car while it was in rapid motion, and that he stated to the conductor that night, and to the company's adjustor the next day, that it was his, Chambers', own fault, as he had no business to jump while the car was moving. The conductor produced his report made to the company the next morning, in corroboration of his testimony. Doctors F. C. Ard and W. K. Browning testified as to the serious character of the plaintiff's injuries, and Dr. Greene testified for the defendants.

Craig A. Marsh, counsel for Mr. Chambers, made a motion, after the evidence was all in, to add a new count to the declaration, based on the defendant's evidence so as to set up in the alternative that Mr. Chambers was injured while in the act of alighting from a slowly moving car, by reason of the sudden and unexpected increase of speed. The motion was not resisted.

Alvah Clark, counsel for the Public Service Corporation, insisted that the company was not at fault, and that the evidence clearly showed that Mr. Chambers took the risk of jumping from the car while it was in motion and after he had been warned by the conductor not to jump. He said that Mr. Chambers' own admission to the conductor on the night of the accident, and to Adjustor Collins the next morning, entitled the defendants to a verdict. Mr. Marsh cited legal authorities for the proposition that the jury was at liberty to consider whether Mr. Chambers was in a mental condition to make a responsible statement on the night of the accident, or the next morning, and that if they believed that he was not in such a condition, he was not bound by any admissions made at those times. The court ruled in accordance with these authorities, and left it for the jury to decide what his condition was and to say whether the company was negligent and whether Mr. Chambers was guilty of contributory negligence.

The jury retired at the noon hour, and did not reach its verdict until 8:30 o'clock at night.

Mrs. Mantz Gets Divorce.

Chancelor Magie, on the recommendation of Vice Chancelor Emery, has granted a decree of absolute divorce to Emma Mantz, of Warren township, from her husband, Andrew Mantz, on the ground of desertion. The parties separated in the year 1888, since which time they have both resided in Warren township.

Dr. Davis, Jr., Entertains.

Dr. Charles Davis, of Park avenue, entertained the business men's gymnasium class of the Y. M. C. A., at a social at his home, last night. There were twenty-six members of the class, including Kenneth Robbie, the secretary, and George L. Listman, physical director.

The Men's Club of St. Stephen's church held a dress rehearsal of the play, "A Haunted House," which the members are to present tonight. The cast is well grounded in stage business, and the production promises to be a great success.

LAWYER OWENS INJURED AFTER CRASH OF VEHICLES

TAKEN TO MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL WITH COMPOUND FRACTURE OF ANKLE

In a confusion of carriages on Park avenue, near Fifth street, shortly after the arrival of the 6 o'clock commuters' train, last night, a runabout holding Lawyer John P. Owens and Andrew Love, Jr., collided with a depot wagon owned by J. M. Green, of West Seventh street. Owens and Love were hurled to the roadway and the former sustained a compound fracture of the right ankle that necessitated his removal to Muhlenberg Hospital. His companion escaped with a few bruises.

The Green carriage was in charge of the coachman, Abner Babcock, and it was occupied by Miss Brown, a sister to Mrs. Green. Babcock was on his right side of the street with lots of other carriages ahead and behind him when he noticed the approach of a vehicle from the direction of Sixth street. He pulled over as far as he could but the other rig, which was being driven by Love, turned to avoid another carriage and struck him. The runabout was overturned, sustaining a smashed wheel, but the Green vehicle was only scratched. Miss Brown and Babcock escaped with a slight shaking up.

Owens did not know he was severely hurt at first and hobbled to the curb on East Fifth street. There he was compelled to sit down and after the tangle of rigs had been straightened out, bystanders turned their attention to him. He was sent to his home in a cab and Dr. Endicott was called. The physician advised his removal to the hospital and he and Dr. Boone performed an operation on the fractured ankle last night. He will be laid up a month or six weeks. The runabout belonged to Harry McDonald's livery.

HOLY CROSS WOMEN DISCUSS INDIAN MISSIONS.

Mrs. E. P. Murray and Rev. Mr. Warner Read Papers at Meeting.

Despite stormy weather the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Missions of the Church of the Holy Cross was well attended Tuesday afternoon. The subject for study and consideration was "The American Indians." Two excellent papers were read, the first by Mrs. E. P. Murray, dealing with the red man in general, his traits and characteristics and the lines of missionary effort necessary to reach the Indian.

The second paper was read by the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, and dealt with the missionary labors of Marcus Whitman and his wife among the Indians of Oregon before that country was part of American territory. It was noted in an historical way that Whitman's trip of 4,000 miles across the country and his appeal to Congress saved the territory of three states as they now exist to the United States.

At the business meeting, with Mrs. J. Bloomfield Beach presiding, reports were read showing the treasury to be in good condition. The sum of $10 was appropriated for the work of the Rev. Mr. Merrill, among the Oneida Indians and $5 was appropriated for Archdeacon Hughson's work in the South. Report was made of boxes and barrels of missionary goods valued at $145 sent to Deaconess Boorman for work among the Mountain Whites. Two very interesting letters from Miss Boorman descriptive of her work were attentively listened to and by vote ordered placed in the secretary's report. It was decided to prepare much-needed articles and to collect supplies necessary for filling a large box to be sent to St. Bernard's School at Gladstone, Somerset county, an institution which the missionary committee has aided for several years. The meeting then adjourned until Tuesday, February 12, papers having been assigned to cover the ground work among the Indians of Alaska, California and Florida.

Elks' Show Date Fixed.

The committee recently appointed by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., to arrange for a theatrical performance under the lodge's auspices, met last night and fixed on February 7 as the date. The attraction has not been specified as yet but it will be either a big musical production of a "monster" vaudeville, composed only of headliners apeparing at Hammerstein's, the Keith & Proctor or Percy Williams' houses. Manager W. J. Counihan, who is one of the committee, has several attractions under consideration and will arrive at some decision in a few days.

CHURCH 75 YEARS OLD

First M. E. Church Congregation Arranging to Celebrate Anniversary.

OFFICIAL BOARD ACTS

Rev. A. C. McCrea Appointed Chairman of General Committee—History of the Parish.

Plans are now under consideration for the celebration of a red letter event in the history of the First Methodist Episcopal church, the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of that organization. At an official board meeting held in Vincent chapel, last night, after the prayer-meeting, the event was discussed at considerable length with the result that the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea was appointed the chairman of a committee to be named by him, and he was given full charge to go ahead and arrange the details. He has not selected his committee yet, but it will be a large one, comprising representatives from all the various departments and societies of the church.

Although the anniversary occurs this year, the exact time for observing it will be decided later and the date will be set far enough ahead to allow the committee to complete its arrangements. The celebration will probably last for one week and will take in two Sundays. The idea is to make it an elaborate affair. The best speakers throughout the country will be secured, men and women of the greatest prominence and influence in the Methodist church and as many of the former pastors are still living, they will be invited to attend and take some part in the jubilee.

The last celebration of this kind was in commemoration of the completion of the fiftieth year of the church and at that time, Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney, a former pastor from 1866-68, and now president emeritus of the Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, prepared and read a historical sketch of the church. Dr. Whitney will no doubt be asked to add the last twenty-five years' history to that sketch and read it at the coming celebration.

The First M. E. church is the first one of that denomination organized in this city. The first service is said to have been a prayer-meeting held in the dwelling of a family of the name of Gordon, about the year 1823, by a preacher named Hancock. Soon afterward the preacher from the New Providence Circuit found his way here, a society was formed and Plainfield became one of the regular preaching places on that extensive circuit. In 1826 an unsuccessful endeavor was made to erect a church on West Second street (then Barn street). For a time the preaching was held in John Briant's carriage shop.

In 1832 Rev. George F. Brown and Rev. J. N. Crane being then on the circuit, the first Methodist church in Plainfield was erected. It stood on the site of the present edifice and was a plain, unpainted wooden structure, 30x40 feet, with bare floor and uncushioned benches. The membership at that time was but seventeen. The next year Plainfield was detached from the circuit and constituted a "Station, with Rev. James H. McFarlan for its first appointed pastor, and the society numbering some ninety members, the old church was sold and a new brick meeting house, 50x65 feet, was built on its site, at a cost of about $10,000.

This was the first pewed church in the conference. In 1850, Rev. W. E. Perry being pastor at that time, a frame dwelling was erected on Madison avenue for a parsonage. The preacher's salary was then $450, the annual benevolent collection $111.69, and the debt $5,400. In 1852 ground for a cemetery was acquired for $800. The great burden of debt embarrassed the little society until after the war. In 1855, through the efforts of Rev. A. M. Palmer, the amount was subscribed and during the ministry of Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, his successor, the last dollar was paid. In April, 1869, during the first pastorate of

The one hundred and twenty-ninth anniversary of the battle of Bound Brook is to be celebrated on April 27 next in a manner never before attempted in Somerset county. It is proposed to have a parade in which a battalion of the Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., will take part, in addition to numerous lodges and civic societies, a concert by a celebrated band of music and addresses by eminent speakers and a display of fireworks at night both on land and on the river.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Lillian Mortimer will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tonight where, supported by a company of great strength, she will present her last season's success, "No Mother to Guide Her." This talented actress star has in this, her present vehicle, a melodrama of great power disclosing a story of wonderful vibrant interest, teeming with emotions and heart throbs, interspersed with lines of comedy giving it as it were a laugh between a tear.

No actress within recent years appearing at the popular price theatres has scored a greater success than that recorded by that charming and dainty little comedienne Grace Edmond, who is playing the title role in "The Girl from Broadway," which is underlined for a return engagement in this city at the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday, matinee and night. This latest of musical comedy successes is from the prolific pen of Herbert Hall Winslow, while the whistle-on-your-way-home song hits owe their originality to Karl L. Hoschna and Charles Noel Douglas. Many new and novel features have been added since its first appearance in this city, making it, so it is said, one of the musical treats of the season.

Lincoln J. Carter will present at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night the stirring drama of western life, "The Flaming Arrow." The story relates the love of a daughter of a colonel of the United States army, commanding a Western post, for a young Indian—"White Eagle," and the machinations of two villians which furnish the motives of the action. The villian inflame several braves to make war on the decimated forces at the fort and in the attending excitement abduct the commander's daughter. The daughter after a series of hair raising adventures is rescued by her Indian lover and justice is dealt out to the villians in true western style. The cast is a large one and contains the names of many prominent people. A tribe of full-blooded Indians are also carried.

The great big joyous event of the season will transpire at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night when Klaw & Erlanger's "The Free Lance," John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, with all the original cast of the New York presentation is given here. When John Philip Sousa writes the music for an opera it is bound to have a swing, and dash, and abundance of vitality, and a spirit of youth and enthusiasm. It is with good reason that Sousa is called "The March King." There is no resisting his martial strains; even those of the elite who scoff at Sousa's music cannot keep their feet still when the band begins to play. "The Free Lance" is said to be the best comic opera he has ever written. Not only is there an abundance of march numbers, but there are numerous tender lyrics and jolly comic jingles as well. The libretto is by Harry B. Smith and is said to be the best he has written since "Robin Hood." Klaw & Erlanger have given "The Free Lance" a most sumptuous production.

The Kinsman Block Signal System, A Valuable Industrial Investment.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

Barge Sinks Schooner.

New York, Jan. 10.—Swung by a strong tide, the barge Lancaster, in tow of the tug Covington, crashed into the small two masted schooner Blanche Morgan, Captain William Horton, in the East river off the Navy Yard yesterday and almost cut the little craft in two. It sank almost immediately and last night lay in the channel obstructing the path of war ships and colliers bound to and from the Navy Yard. Wrecking crews were quickly set to work to remove the obstruction and it is thought that the remains of the battered schooner will be removed early today.

MADE DEAF HEAR AGAIN

Astonishing Demonstration Given by Cooper in St. Louis.

THREE MINUTES A CASE

Young Man Gives a Sample of Work Which Aroused Eastern Cities During the Past Few Months.

St. Louis, Jan. 9.—On Wednesday afternoon some remarkable demonstrations were given in public by T. L. Cooper, or the "Great Cooper," as he is called, who is introducing for the first time in St. Louis the preparations which created a sensation in eastern cities.

The demonstrations took place at Mr. Cooper's headquarters and were witnessed by several hundred people. As nearly as could be learned the facts were these:

At three o'clock in the afternoon the young man agreed to show what one of his remedies would do for deafness, and agreed to make any one present who was afflicted with deafness hear again in less than three minutes.

There were many deaf people present and about a dozen of these were given the demonstration, consisting of a single application of one of the Cooper preparations.

The hearing of these people was then tested after an interval of between two and three minutes. The test consisted of questions put to them in an ordinary conversational tone at distances varying from five to thirty feet.

The results were remarkable in the extreme. Some of these people who were treated had been deaf for a number of years. When the first question was asked a look of amazement would spread over their faces and they would forget to answer the question. As the questions were repeated the surprised look would give way to one of delight. Many were so affected that they burst into tears and were scarcely able to answer the question.

In no single instance, so far as could be learned would an individual fail to hear. Many were able to hear a finger snap at a distance of thirty feet. At the request of Mr. Cooper questions were put to them by their friends or by various spectators in an ordinary tone of voice and the questions were readily answered.

In giving an account of these demonstrations, Mr. Cooper said:

"The preparation used is not the one with which I accomplish most, as my New Discovery, as it is called, and to which I owe my success is for the treatment of all forms of stomach trouble and the general breaking down of the system that follows in the wake of diseases of this character.

"The stomach is the seat of a great many troubles, for instance, my remedy will relieve thousands of people of rheumatism in this city, simply by getting the stomach in working order."

Many people seen who were present at this demonstration assert positively that Cooper undoubtedly made these deaf people hear again.

Wings and Flies
By Tom Muir.

"Ed" Foster, a former Plainfield boy who was widely known in the city fifteen or twenty years ago, is on the bill at Keith & Proctor's Union Square theatre, this week. He does a comedy acrobatic act assisted by a trained dog and is featured on the bill.

Paula Edwardes and "Princess Beggar" made a big hit at the Casino theatre, New York, Monday night. Crowded houses have been the rule since and it looks as if she would repeat her "Winsome Winnie" success.

The local favorite, "The Mayor of Tokio," comes back to the New Plainfield on January 19. John L. Kearney, a comedian of wide reputation, will have Richard Carle's part, one in which he has been meeting with great success. The show is in Toronto, Can., this week and plays six one night stands in this vicinity before going to Philadelphia for a run. With the exception of Carle and Emma Janvier, the company remains the same as when it was last seen here.

What will undoubtedly constitute the most brilliant musical event of the season, will occur at the New Plainfield next Tuesday night, when Klaw & Erlanger will present the Sousa Opera Company in the latest composition of the celebrated "March King," John Philip Sousa, his successful comic opera entitled "The Free Lance," with Joseph Cawthorn as the stellar feature of the original organization of seventy-five notable comedians and singers, which presented "The Free Lance" nearly all last season at the New Amsterdam theatre, New York city. "The Free Lance" is the largest musical organization presented by Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger this season, and aside from its beauties of music, wit and humor, its magnificent musical organization and extraordinary personnel of cast, its elaborateness of production, which is said to be as rich and in as good taste as anything that has preceded it under their management, which is saying much, after seeing their productions such as "Mother Goose" and "Ben Hur."

"Mike" Shannon, general business representative at the New Plainfield, was initiated by the Elks, last night, making the third of Manager Counihan's staff to be vested with the antlers by the local lodge.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The sewing meeting of the Women's Association of the Congregational church, has been omitted for this month.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a temperance meeting at the church tomorrow night.

Tomorrow, the day appointed for prayer for missions by the Women's Baptist Board, of Boston, will be observed by the women's societies of the Park Avenue and First Baptist churches at the former church. The meeting will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Loyalty to Jesus Christ and His Last Command," will be the subject of the week of prayer service at the Congregational church tonight. Last night Miss Etta Raybert sang a solo at the special service. Tomorrow night the music will be in charge of the Sunday-school choir.

Evangelistic services were started with the week of prayer meetings at Bethel chapel Sunday night, and will be continued for two weeks. The pastor, Rev. F. D. Tildon, is being assisted this week by Rev. John Lane. The meetings are well attended and much interest is being manifested.

AN IDLE THREAT.

All this clap-trap about the Republican bosses of New Jersey threatening to "punish" Union county because its legislators will not bow to their will and vote for the slated candidate for the United States Senate against the wishes of their own constituents, is ridiculed by men of sounder judgment. May it be said to the credit of Union that the independent position taken by its representatives at Trenton is in keeping with its traditions and bears almost conclusive proof that bosses are not omnipotent in this county. It is this same spirit of independence and honesty that has made the Republican party at large what it is today.

It is quite apparent that Governor Stokes had just such cases as this in mind when he wrote to District Court Judge Jones:

"I am an organization man but I have no sympathy with that policy which would prevent the organization from what it should be—a body of conciliation and deliberation for the party's good—into a machine for the advancement of individual, factional or private interest. It is folly to talk of disciplining those who do not agree with us on party matters. Such an attitude is not regularity or party loyalty, but party destruction. A party cannot succeed without votes. The sovereign voters cannot be disciplined. You can only appeal to his sense of right and his desire for good government. It is this policy that makes a party strong."

POLITICAL HYDROPHOBIA.

"This yelping of the small dog (Union county) because it isn't as big as some other is becoming tiresome." In such language does the Trenton State Gazette wind up one of its monotonous and windy pleas for the bosses' candidate for the United States Senate. As in many of its previous efforts, the Trenton paper purposely makes absolute misstatements in order to create sympathy for its cause. For instance it says that Senator Ackerman is opposed to the re-election of John F. Dryden "because of his connection with corporations." That is unqualifiedly false and the State Gazette knows so. It is the people of Union county who are opposed to Mr. Dryden and their servant, Mr. Ackerman, is simply obeying their will. But neither his nor their opposition is based on such narrow and silly ground as the one the Trenton paper has set up for its purpose. The people of Union county as a whole, we believe, are the equal if not the superior mentally of those of Mercer or of any other county in the whole State; bar none. And to say that their opposition arises from the fact that Mr. Dryden is connected with some sound business corporations is absurd on the face of it. The State Gazette must be suffering from political hydrophobia.

A WISE COURSE TO PURSUE.

If it be true, as commonly reported for some days, that E. E. Iremonger will receive the support of the regular organization for the position of chairman of the Republican City Committee, the leaders of that element of the party are to be congratulated on their good sense and sound judgment. From well authenticated sources it has been learned that the organization members of the body are agreed that the so called "new idea" members are entitled to recognition and that they will see that they get it. Of course the purpose is to restore perfect harmony in the party's ranks as well as in its councils. To this end, as a preliminary step it is said the organization members in the committee will cast their votes for Mr. Iremonger. It is a sensible move.

Rev. William Day, the church was greatly beautified, but on the eve of the Sabbath on which it was to be re-occupied, it took fire and was burned. It was immediately rebuilt on an enlarged and improved plan, substantially as it is today.

The beautifully and commodious Sunday-school room, known as Vincent chapel, was added in 1887. In 1894, the parsonage was sold, and by a united effort the entire mortgage indebtedness upon the church and chapel property was cleared. In 1898 electric light was introduced into the auditorium, city water brought into the building, and the floating debt reduced. In 1900-1901, the remainder of the floating indebtedness was paid, and the building declared entirely free of debt.

In 1887 the official board initiated measures for the extension of Methodism. Lots were purchased on Park place, North Plainfield, and at Monroe avenue and West Fourth street, suitable buildings erected and Sunday-schols organized, and in December, 1896, Monroe Avenue M. E. church, after three years of normal connection with the parent church, was formally separated and organized, and Grace M. E. church was also organized previous to that time on Park place. Both these churches have been singally successful. The Monroe Avenue church will celebrate its tenth anniversary in February.

The list of pastors of the First M. E. church follows:

G. F. Brown and J. N. Crane, 1832-3; J. H. McFarland, 1833-4; E. L. Janes, 1834-5; G. S. Wharton, 1835-6; B. Benson, 1836-7; E. Sanders, 1837-8; V. Shepherd, 1838-40; G. F. Brown, 1840-1; A. THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In your report of our case against W. W. Warnock, which appeared in Tuesday evening's paper, your reporter has picked out certain evidence which the defendant gave, viz.: "That his machine did not come up to the guarantee given." In your report of the previous trial in this case, certain words were used which were dertimental to this company.

We have no objection whatever in having the whole of the evidence published in both cases, but we do object to have certain words picked out, which would make it appear that our company were unfair in business, and our machinery not up to the high standard we claim for it. The verdict in the case, of course, satisfies us, but your paper is widely read in this locality, and we should esteem it a favor as a reader to receive fair play in any articles appearing concerning our company.

Yours most respectfully,
Siche Gas Company,
L. R. ARNETT,

It is estimated by the fire insurance agents that if our village had a fire protection the rate of insurance would be about one-half what it is now. PRIVATE PLANT ASSAILED IN JOHN MOODY'S TALK.

Its Ownership Source of Political Corruption, Says Cranford Man.

A debate followed an hour's talk on municipal ownership by John Moody, of Cranford, in the Men's Club of Trinity Episcopal church in Elizabeth Tuesday evening. Mr. Moody said he favored municipal ownership not because it was better than private ownership but because the latter was the most fruitful source of political corruption. He held that ninety per cent. of the political corruption was due to the farming out of public privileges.

He said that it would be ridiculous to assert that the present Senators had sought their offices because they desired to become great statesmen or men like Lincoln or Webster. If there were no interests, he asserted, they would not be in the Senate. He would not say they were not sincere in their beliefs, he declared, or that they had a scheme to rob the people. Combinations of corporate interests, he asserted, were natural and economical tendencies. Whatever the increase in the value of franchises the privileges they guaranteed were still the property of the people.

He believed that if present conditions are to be remedied the people have got to eliminate the means of building up great political machines. "Tom" Johnson, he said, was the only man he knew who favored municipal ownership and understood the difficulties in the way of its accomplishment. Mr. Moody said he knew why men served in city councils without pay and said it was natural that they should go there expecting to get something out of it.

As the salary of the members of the Elizabeth City Council is $1 a year H. H. Isham interrupted him, saying:

"Men give their services as jurors as a public duty and they serve in city councils in the same way. I have had much experience with members of the city council and I have found very few men there who could be approached. I don't like to have any such impression as you have given get abroad here. There are not a great many men in this city who have been before city council as often as I have and I want to bear testimony right here that I have always found them on the square."

Mr. Moody explained that he did not intend to refer particularly to the City Council of Elizabeth, but was speaking in a general way.

HOUSE'S PURSE STRINGS HELD BY REPUBLICANS.

Majority On Appropriations Committee May Be Shrewd Democratic Trick.

Since the adjournment yesterday of the Legislature it has been discovered that the Republicans control the legislative Committee on Appropriations, although this was supposed to have reposed in the Democratic majority in the House.

The question arises whether this is the result of a Democratic oversight or is a shrewd trick of ex-Senator Smith's Democrats to place the responsibility for appropriations on the Republicans.

The Appropriation Committee ordinarily is controlled by the party in power in the House. It is composed of four Senators and five Assemblymen. President Bradley, of the Senate, in appointing his committee named three Republicans and one Democrat, as follows: Bradley, Ackerman and Robbins, Republicans, and Cornish, Democrat.

It was expected Speaker Lethbridge in appointing the House Committee on Appropriations would name four Democrats and one Republican, as he did on all the joint committees, but there were only three Democrats named on this committee. It is made up of Firth, Baker and Cornish, Democrats, and Elvins and Smalley, Republicans.

The committee on the two houses when they meet in joint session will have five Republicans and four Democrats. There are many demands for increased appropriations to come before the Appropriation Committee, and it will have an arduous task before it.

That Essex county will completely dominate the Democratic control of the House of Assembly was further manifested yesterday afternoon when the House was finally organized. Essex men are in command of the important committees. They have the Speaker and clerk of the House. They have the support of four of the five Passaic county members, so that their domination of the Democratic end of the House will be absolute.

None of the important committee chairmanships went to Hudson county. Robert Davis, the Hudson Democratic leader, came down with an army of advisers to see that his delegation got its due, but the Democratic differences were all settled by James R. Nugent, of Essex, and State Chairman William B. Gourley. It was made plain to the Hudson men that they were to cut only a small figure.

Michael Donohue.

Michael Donohue, who was for years gateman at the Prospect avenue railroad crossing in Dunellen, died at his home in that borough yesterday, aged ninety years. He succumbed to the weakness of old age, after a gradual failing in health. It is two years since he retired from his post at the crossing. His wife and several grown children survive him.

NEW JERSEY AT JAMESTOWN.

State Building Almost Completed—Like Morristown Headquarters.

The replica of General Washington's headquarters at Morristown, which will be in the New Jersey State building at the Jamestown Exposition, is almost completed. Colonel Lewis T. Bryan, secretary of the State Commission, and Professor R. R. Morse, designer, are in Norfolk arranging for a State exhibit at the exposition. They inspected the building yesterday. Morse has charge of the installation of the State exhibits, as he has had at previous expositions. He is the inventor of the cabinets in which the exhibit is made.

The exhibit, which consists of matters educational, social, economic, good roads, agricultural, forestry, game and mines will be transferred to Trenton at the close of the exposition and maintained as permanent exhibits.

Lost $133,000 at Roulette.

New York, Jan. 10.—By the return of six well known gamblers to Broadway, loudly declaiming against Frank Burbridge and his Cuban Club at Havana, there is revealed a story of a loss of $133,000 at roulette by Joseph Leiter in the establishment of Burbridge. Owen C. Parr, who for more than a year was Burbridge's manager, warned the other men against making the trip to Cuba. He confirmed the report of the loss of Mr. Leiter, for he officiated at the roulette wheel when the young man who once tried to corner wheat had his unfortunate encounter. He tells also of a private reception to a member of the wealthiest land owning family in America and a well known American actress. The outcome of this was not so fortunate for the gamblers, for after losing $100 the land owner withdrew grumbling loudly at his fate.

May Enter Meet.

The Plainfield High School Athletic Association is considering the invitation to enter the Poly Prep Athletic meet which is to be held in the Twenty-third Regiment armory, Brooklyn, February 9, and will probably enter. This is an annual affair, in which many schools are usually represented. The first four winners of each event are awarded a cup.

—Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck continues to improve every day and is apparently growing stronger. His speech is also much better.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 13.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—How God's image is preserved in us or lost.—Gen. i. 26; Col. iii. 1-10. (A temperance topic.)

The dignity of man has been recognized and emphasized from many different standpoints. We look at his physical makeup and are amazed at the wonderfulness of his body; we examine his intellectual attributes and are still more surprised; we behold the workmanship of his hands under the direction of his mind and gaze in wonder and in admiration. Under this spell we feel like exclaiming with the psalmist, "Thou hast made him a little lower than gods and hast crowned him with glory and honor; Thou hast put all things under his feet." But nothing that man can say or think begins to express the dignity of man as it is set forth in the Scriptural assertion that he has been created in the image of God. "And God said, Let us make man in our own image, after our own likeness. * * * So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him." Here we see the highest glory and dignity of man—created in the image of God!

The story of man in his relation to the image of God may be told in three chapters:

1. Man was created in the image of God. This does not refer to his physical appearance. God is a spirit, and man's likeness to Him consists in his possession of the attributes that characterize the spiritual nature of God—His mental, moral and spiritual qualities. God thinks, and man was created with the power to think; God is perfectly holy in all His moral attributes, and man was created in perfect holiness; God is spiritual, and man was created with a spiritual nature as well as a physical one. Under these conditions of perfect likeness God and man lived upon terms of the most familiar character. God walked with man in the garden in which He had placed him. He talked with man, and their intercourse was like that between man and man today. Would that it ever might have remained so and that man might have escaped separation from God, with all its attending woes and sorrows!

2. The image of God in man was disfigured by sin. The perfect man was tempted, and, yielding to the temptation, the image of God in him was grossly marred. He still possesses the same attributes as God, but no longer in the perfection that God possesses them. His thoughts are evil and his imagination vain. He still has a moral nature, but it is corrupted with sin. There is still a spiritual side to his character, but he no longer lives in perfect spiritual communion with God. His spiritual nature is debased and his manhood degraded. And all is the result of sin, yet man persists in sin. There is no picture in life so sad to look upon as the image of God debased and degraded in the image of man. And nowhere perhaps is this debasement so perceptible as in the case of drunkenness. To see a man under the influence of intoxicating liquor and to remember that he possesses the image of God is a sad sight indeed. The mere thought of thus degrading the image of God should forever make this particular sin loathsome to us and forever guard us against falling a victim to this prevalent, but most degrading vice.

3. The image of God disfigured by sin may be restored in Jesus Christ, the Son of God. Through Adam the image of God in all the human race was marred, but in Christ it may be restored. In Adam all died; in Christ all may be made alive. The blessed news of the gospel is that in Christ we may "be renewed in knowledge after the image of Him who created us." Have we been renewed? Have we received again the perfect image of God in Christ or do we still possess the marred image of God? It should take no time for us to decide that we should accept Christ and His work for us, and thus again bear the perfect image of our God and once again live in closest fellowship and communion with Him.

Vermont's Seal.

Through the kindness of Miss Grace M. Young, secretary of the Vermont Christian Endeavor union, we are able to show this print of the attractive seal used by Vermont state officers upon their envelopes, says the Christian Endeavor World. The seal was designed by the ex-secretary of the union, Miss Helen Graves. It has three divisions grouped about the Christian Endeavor monogram, representing the three great thoughts of Christian Endeavor—consecration, symbolized by the cross; fellowship, symbolized by the church, and service, symbolized by the garnered wheat. The date is that of the formation of the Vermont Christian Endeavor union and the whole is appropriately printed in green, the color of the Green Mountain State.

Jan. 13: "Selfishness in Prayer."—Matt. vi. 5-8.

By REV. WALTER [illegible] D. D.

Passages for reference: [illegible] xxvii, 8-10; Isa. i. 15; Luke xviii. 1-14; xxi. 36; James iv. 3.

How much there is that we call prayer which really has not one element of true prayer in it!

How much there is in real prayer more than most have ever understood!

Is prayer asking for things? This is all that many have ever known of it, and all the praying which multitudes have done has been in the time of trouble, when they were hard pressed, to ask for help out of their difficulty. We have seen not a few who have been apparently near death's brink, feel that their lives had been misspent, have been afraid to die and so have cried hard and long to God to spare them, promising if they would [illegible] they would lead a different life. Some of these have been spared and got well [illegible] the great majority of cases there [illegible] their lives from the [illegible] panions and [illegible] resumed, and no [illegible] place. Was their [illegible] not? It may have been, and the real difficulty may have been in a different place. But we are [illegible] of the people who merely asks for things because they are ill or selfishly concerned for comfort and ease.

There is the possibility of such communion with God in prayer that the soul loses all special care and will as to the direction of the affairs of life and has a peaceful indifference which way things go only so that the glory of God be seen.

James is very emphatic in his declaration regarding the asking amiss. Is there not much of such asking in this present time? It is to be feared if much of the so called praying of the present time was analyzed and reduced to its proper elements it would be found made up of a combination of pride, fear and selfishness.

What, then, shall we never ask for things, shall we not bring all our needs to God and expect help? Most certainly we can and should make all our wants known to God and trust Him to supply our needs, but we should be careful to first believe that He is [illegible] us with the best [illegible] We should recognize [illegible] our lives [illegible] to His over [illegible] should [illegible] our [illegible] strength [illegible] or our [illegible] bearing [illegible] Savior [illegible] that He knows [illegible] and will supply them. [illegible] with all this our desires should [illegible] or our [illegible] profit, [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] things. [illegible] ally [illegible] as much as for the quiet [illegible] and the [illegible] of the day, the knowledge [illegible] and live.

Have you ever given close study to the Lord's Prayer? If not, it will pay you to study all its parts carefully. It is our model prayer, showing us how to approach God.

There is, first, adoration: "Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name." That is the first thing to desire and to ask. Do you wish this above all things possible besides? Is God's glory more to you than your own pleasure and profit? Then proceed. If it is not the supreme object of your desire, you would well pause here and master this selfishness of yours before you go on to ask anything more, for it is doubtful if you can receive the other things before this point is settled. There are law and rule in spiritual things as truly as in the natural world, and until you are in proper condition of soul to receive nothing can be imparted.

"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." So go on with the whole prayer. Occasionally examine yourself and your desires in the light of this analysis and see how much of the right spirit you have and how much of the selfishness which defiles all good.

If you have been self seeking, correct it and rest in God for all that He can impart.

The [illegible] things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the great art is [illegible] to have as many of them as possible.—Bacon.

Never tell evil of a man if you do not know it for a certainty, and if you know it for a certainty [illegible] self.—[illegible]

The [illegible] and seeking [illegible] is noble and [illegible] of God's best gifts.—[illegible]

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1903 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

The picture of him stayed in her mind: the sturdy young figure,—rather loose jointed but with an easy grace of movement,—and the engaging naturalness of his manner. But after all nothing had happened save the passing of a stranger, and she must go alone back to her dream. Yet now the dream might change; a strange youth might come riding out of the east, sitting a sorrel horse with a star and a white hind ankle, a long rangy neck and strong quarters; and he—the youth—would wear a broad, gray hat, with a band of silver filigree, a scarlet kerchief at his throat, a scarlet sash at his waist, and yellow dogskin "chaps."

Still, she thought, he could hardly have a place in the dream. The real youth of the dream had been of an unearthly beauty, with a rose-leaf complexion and lustrous curls massed above a brow of marble. The stranger had not been of an unearthly beauty. To be sure, he was very good to look at, with his wide-open blue eyes and his yellow hair, and he had appeared uncommonly fresh and clean about the mouth when he smiled at her. But she could not picture him sighing the right words of love under a balcony in the moonlight. He had looked to be too intensely business-like.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

The Gentile Invasion.

When she came across the fields late in the afternoon, the strange youth's horse was picketed where the bunch-grass grew high, and the young man himself talked with her father by the corral bars. She had never realized how old her father was, how weak, and small, and bent, until she saw him beside this erect young fellow. Her heart went out to the older man with a new sympathy as she saw his feebleness so sharply in relief against the well-blooded, hard-muscled vigor of the younger. When she would have passed them, her father called to her.

"Prudence, this is Mr. Ruel Follett. He will stay with us to-night."

The sombrero was off again and she felt the blue eyes seeking hers, though she could not look up from the ground when she had given her little bow. She heard him say:

"I already met your daughter, sir, at the mouth of the canyon."

She went on toward the house, hearing them resume their talk, the stranger saying, "That horse can sure carry all the weight you want to put on him and step away good; he'll do it right at both ends, too—Dandy will—and he's got a mighty tasty lope."

At supper and afterwards Mr. Follett talked freely of himself, or seemed to. He was from the high plains and the short-grass country, wherever that might be—to the east and south she gathered. He had grown up in that country, working for his father, who had been an overland freighter, until the day the railroad tracks were joined at Promontory. He, himself, had watched the gold and silver spikes driven into the tie of California mahogany two years before; and then, though they still kept a few wagon-trains moving to the mining camps north and south of the railroad, they had looked for other occupations.

Now their attention was chiefly devoted to mines and cattle. There were great times ahead in the latter business. His father remembered when they had killed cattle for their hides and tallow, leaving the meat to the coyotes; but now, each spring, a dozen men like himself, under a herd boss, would drive 5,000 head to Leavenworth, putting them through ten or 12 miles a day over the Abiline trail, keeping them fat and getting good prices for them. There was plenty of room for the business. "Over yonder across the hills," as Mr. Follett put it, there was a herding ground 400 miles wide east and west, and a thousand miles north and south, covered with buffalo grass, especially toward the north, that made good stock feed the year around. He, himself, had, in winter, followed a herd that drifted from Montana to Texas; and in summer he had twice ranged from Corpus Christi to Deadwood.

Down in the Panhandle they were getting control of a ranch that would cover 5,000 square miles, and some day they would have every one of its 3,000,000 acres enclosed with a stout wire fence. It would be a big ranch, bigger than the whole state of Connecticut—bigger than Delaware and Rhode Island "lumped together," he had been told. Here they would have the "C lazy C" brand on probably a hundred and fifty thousand head of cattle. He thought the business would settle down to this conservative basis with the loose ends of it pulled together; with closer attention paid to branding, for one thing; branding the calves, so they would no longer have to rope a full-grown steer, and tie it with a scarf such as he wore about his waist.

But they were also working some placer claims up around Helena, and developing a quartz prospect over at Carson City. And the freighting was by no means "played out." He, himself, had driven a six-mule team with one line over the Santa Fe trail, and might have to do it again. The resources of the west were not exhausted, whatever they might say. A man with a head on him would be able to make a good living there for some years to come.

Both father and daughter found him an agreeable young man in spite of his being an alien from the Commonwealth of Israel. He remained with them three days looking over the country about Amalon, talking with its people and making himself at least not an object of suspicion and aversion, as the casual Gentile was apt to be. Prudence found herself usually at ease with him; he was so wholly likable and unassuming. Yet at times he seemed strangely mature and reserved to her, so that she was just a little awed.

He told her in their evenings many wonder-tales of that outside world where the wicked Gentiles lived; of populous cities on the western edge of it, and of vast throngs that crowded the interior clear over to the Atlantic ocean. She had never realized before what a small handful of people the Lord had set His hand to save, and what vast numbers He had made with hearts that should be hardened to the glorious articles of the new covenant.

When he left he told them he was making a little trip through the settlements to the north, possibly as far as Cedar City. He did not know how long he would be gone, but if nothing prevented he might be back that way. He shook hands with them both at parting, and though he spoke so vaguely about a return, his eyes seemed to tell Prudence that he would like very much to come. He had talked freely about everything but the precise nature of his errand in the valley.

In her walks to the canyon she thought much of him when he had gone. She could not put his face into the dream because he was too real and immanent. He and the dream would not blend, even though she had decided that his fresh-cheeked, clear-eyed face, with its clean smile and the yellow hair above it was almost better to look at than the face of the youth in the play. It was not so impalpable; it satisfied. So she mused about them alternately, the dream and the Gentile—taking perhaps a warmer interest in the latter for his aliveness, for the grasp of his hand at parting, which she, with astonishment, had felt her own hand cordially returning.

For two weeks they heard nothing of the wandering Gentile, and Prudence had begun to wonder if she would ever see him again; also to wonder why an uncertainty in the matter should seem to be of importance.

But one evening early in June they saw him walking up in the dusk, the light sombrero, the scarlet kerchief against the blue woollen shirt, the holster with its heavy Colt's revolver at either hip, the easy moving figure, and the strong, yet boyish face.

He greeted them pleasantly, though, the girl thought, with some restraint. She could not hear it in his words, but she felt it in his manner, something suppressed and deeply hidden. They asked where his horse was and he replied with a curious air of embarrassment:—

"Well, you see, I may be obliged to stop around here a quite some while, so I put up with this man Wardle—not wanting to impose upon you all—and thanking you very kindly, and not wishing to intrude—so I just came to say 'howdy' to you."

They expressed regret that he had not returned to them, Joel Rae urging him to reconsider; but he declined politely, showing a desire to talk of other things.

Then he spoke of adventures with the Indians while freighting over the Santa Fe trail, and of what a fine man his father, Ezra Calkins, was. It was the first time he had mentioned the name and her ear caught it at once.

"Your father's name is Calkins?"

"Yes—I'm only an adopted son."

Bowling and General Sports

BOWLING.

Tourney games at McLaughlin's tonight: W. and J. Schaub against Maltby and Thiers; Vail and Meyers against Day and Gahagan; Nash and Skelly against Blatz and VanEmburgh.

The gallery is looking for some frightfully high score reports from McLaughlin's. Elmer Cutting has equipped himself with a special turned ball and bowling shoes and is confident that he can smash all records.

There is a possibility that Voorheis and Weingarth, the famous bowling team, may visit Plainfield in their coming tour through New Jersey. Manager McLaughlin is in communication with their manager and hopes to arrange for a series of exhibition games on the local alleys.

"Bill" Warnock and "Doc" Giddes are anxious for the present tourney at McLaughlin's to come to an end so that another one might be started. They have teamed up and feel satisfied that no one can give them odds on either average or high scores.

Gaddis and Dilks now have a nice lead on the other tourney bowlers. They have won thirteen games and lost but two and are in better trim than when the contest started. Dilks is way ahead on average and also held high individual score until Chief Kiely took it away from him by three pins.

Because of interference with his work, "Orrie" Dodge has been compelled to drop out of the tourney games. By consent of the other contestants, his partner, "Billy" Leland, will team up with Howard Thompson. The latter is an all-round good pin smasher and being familiar with the McLaughlin alleys is counted on to keep up the Leland-Dodge record.

DIAMOND DUST.

By the favorable action taken by the National Baseball Commission yesterday on the application of the Tri-State League of Pennsylvania for protection under the national agreement the refuge of contract jumping players was destroyed. The committee from the Tri-State League, headed by President Carpenter, presented the application, and an agreement was quickly reached by which the TriState comes into the national agreement, subject to the indorsement of the National Association, which meets in New York tomorrow, and for which meeting the delegates left immediately. According to the agreement under which the Tri-State League receives protection the matter of the circuit is to be determined by the National Association, which will also determine under which class the Tri-State shall operate. The new circuit probably will be assigned to Class B.

Strobel, second baseman of the Boston Nationals, has just made a statement that does not reflect much credit upon Soden and Conant, the former owners of the club, who recently sold out to George B. Dovey. Strobel says that he signed last season for what was really a minor league salary, but that he was so badly hurt in a collision with Catcher Grady at St. Louis in the summer that he could not play again during the remainder of the season. Although all lof the major league clubs pay the expenses of players placed in this manner under medical treatment Strobel declares that he was unable to secure any of the $460 paid out by him in doctors' bills, although he received his salary intact while he was idle. Srtobel, by the way, will be sent to either Toronto or Baltimore by the Boston Nationals, as he has no chance to displace Ritchey of Pittsburg at the second bag.

Owing to a misunderstanding on the part of Ban Johnson, the American League president, regarding the time of meeting, the joint schedule committees of the National and American leagues did not get together until late yesterday afternoon. The National League committee consisted of Ebbets, Dreyfuss and Murphy, while that of the American League included Herrmann, Bruce and Bernard. Presidents Pulliam and Johnson acted as ex-officio members for their respective leagues.

After Herrmann had been chosen chairman and Dreyfuss secretary, it was unanimously decided that the season in each league should consist of 154 games for each team. The opening date in both leagues was set at Thursday, April 11, and the closing dates at October 5 in the East and October 6 in the West.

It was also decided that the opening games of the National League should be played at New York and Boston in the East and in Cincinnati and Chicago in the West. In the American League Philadelphia and Washington secure the Eastern openings and St. Louis and Detroit those of the West. The opposing teams in these opening games are to be selected by Presidents Pulliam and Johnson, who will complete the schedules and compare them with a view of securing a minimum number of conflicting dates. Holiday dates also were selected by the two leagues, but these will not be made public until the clubs in cities where there are conflicting teams decide upon their assignment. Nothing further was done by the National Commission in the Sebring case, in which a decision will be given later in the week. The various delegates left for their respective home last night.

FOOTBALL.

Encouraged by the open winter, the Metropolitan Association Football League will play the second half of the championship series every Saturday from this week on. At a meeting held at the Cosmopolitan yesterday, at which the Caledonians, West Hudsons, Brooklyn Thistles and Favorites were represented, the remainder of the schedule was drawn up.

The West Hudsons, of Newark, triple champions of New Jersey, hold the lead at present. Bertram L. Aiguier, of No. 58 William street, New York, was elected secretary of the league to succeed James Young, retired. President Arthur E. Rendle was in the chair, and his offer of medals to the players shooting the most goals came up for discussion. It was decided that such recognition of individual excellence would tend to discourage team work, and Mr. Rendle was prevailed upon to withdraw his offer. Instead he will give silver medals to each member of the champion team and bronze medals to each member of the team finishing second in the competition.

In addition, the president announced his readiness to provide a cup as a prize for the Junior Football League, being formed in Newark. It was also voted to issue a challenge for an intercity contest to the associated clubs of Philadelphia, and an inquiry will be sent to Boston, with the same object in view. The New York Amateur Association Football League will also be invited to engage in an interleague match.

The Dartmouth Athletic Council has announced that Fred Cy Folsom had resigned as coach of the football team, and that Dr. John O'Connor, of Haverhill, Mass., who was graduated from Dartmouth in 1902, had been invited to take up the work of coach next season.

Walter Camp, Yale's athletic adviser and member of the intercollegiate football rules committee, returned from Chicago yesterday and said that a meeting of the rules committee would be held some time this month. Whether there would be any changes of the football code he was unable to state, but it is his belief that nothing of any importance will be done this year. It was learned that while in Chicago Mr. Camp did not have a conference with Stagg, coach of Chicago University, relative to arranging a game for Yale should Harvard drop from the Yale schedule. It was intimated that such rumors had no foundation in fact and that the matter had not been considered by the advisers of Yale. Mr. Camp states that his Western trip was for the purpose of business and not connected with the athletic policy of Yale, as has been stated.

GOLF.

At the Pinehurst, N. C., Golf and Country Club, which is six miles from Southern Pines, the series of open tournaments will begin next week. The week, in fact, will be one of constant golf. The Eastern Advertising Men's tournament will be on January 14, 15 and 16, and the midwinter open tournament on January 17, 18 and 19. The St. Valentine open tournament for men at Pinehurst will begin on February 13 and that for women on February 20. The United North and South championship for women begins on March 27 and the seventh similar tournament for men on April 1. The Pinehurst open championship will be on April 6. Dates for the southern California tournaments are also being announced. The men's amateur championship will begin at the Corrado Country Club on February 4, and the women's on February 11. The 3,000 yard course is one of the best on the Coast. Willie Wier, of the Morris County Golf Club, has returned to the Summerville, S. C., Golf Club. Summerville is the first stop of many New Jersey golfers on their trips South.

WON CLOSE GAME.

P. H. S. Five in Nip-and-Tuck Battle With Leal's.

The closest game so far in the Interscholastic Basketball League schedule was played yesterday in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium by the Plainfield High and Leal's schools teams. The score was 31 to 23 in favor of the high school.

The scoring see-sawed all the way. Both teams played well, and the result was in doubt up to the last minute of play. Leal's was one point to the good, 16 to 15, at the end of the first half, but could not punt hard enough in the second to draw away from their lively opponents.

The line-up:

P. H. S.		LEALS.
Caldwell	forward.	Averill
Line	forward.	Howard
J. Gavett	centre.	Brokaw
Snyder	guard.	Duke
Freeman, Morris	guard.	Bergen

Referee, Underhill; umpire, Listman; timer, Mathewson. Time of halves, twenty minutes.

Plainfield High School leads the league with two wins and no losses.

Trap Shooting Contests.

A large crowd of trap shooting enthusiasts witnessed several matches at Tom Brantingham's place on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. The feature was one for a hundred birds between Brantingham and Scott Terry for $25 a side. Brantingham had a lead of thirteen when the ninetieth was reached and was declared the winner. S. A. Sabbacher had a steady eye with him and beat Den Gavin two birds in a twenty-five bird match for $10 a side. He also won from Henry Haurand by one in a twenty-five bird match. Following the matches, ten shooters took part in sweepstakes. In the first, Scott Terry won the first money and in the second it went to Tom Brantingham.

CUPID, CONSTITUTION AND TRADING STAMPS.

Couple Wed In Jersey City Swayed By Patriotism and Principles of Domestic Economy.

Jersey City, Jan. 10.—Justice of the Peace Sweeney, who announced some time ago that he would give trading stamps to all persons embarking on the matrimonial sea who came to him to be wed, was surprised last night when he was visited by a young couple. The groom was John H. Wirsching, of 157 Newark avenue, twenty-six years old, a clerk in a New York banking house, and the bride was Miss Anna E. Lockhardk, twenty-four years old.

They entered Justice Sweeney's office and tried to explain their mission, which the experienced justice had already guessed, visions of a fat fee having loomed up before him as he detected the smile of modest bashfulness spreading all over their faces. With Sherlockian intuition, he interrupted the groom by saying:

"Ah, I see that you want to get married," and the groom heaved a sigh of relief and nodded in the affirmative.

Then, turning to the bride, the justice said: "And I also perceive that you want trading stamps." The girl looked up, astonished that the judge should guess correctly, and admitted that she had found trading stamps useful and would gratefully accept them.

The judge's sympathetics attitude encouraged the groom, and he finally blurted out: "You see, your honor, we're great admirers of the American Constitution, and implicitly believe in the principles it enunciates. We have always held it in reverence as the greates monument of our early genius, and we want to use it in the marriage ceremony.

"And while it may be a little too early to mention the matter just now, still we intend to put that book in the hands of our children just as soon as they are old enough to understand it. It's a great book, the Constitution is, you know, and instead of giving them—our children—the speeches of Chauncey M. Depew and other books for children we've going to give them the American Constitution to read."

The justice of the peace, who is one of the most versatile men in his business in this part of the country, found a way in which to bring the Constitution into the ceremony by reading a few chapters. The young couple departed after the happy groom had paid the delighted justice a fat fee.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL CONTRACT IS SIGNED.

Approved By Dr. Wight and Will Be Presented to Governor.

The special committee of the State Board of Education arranging for the erection of the new normal school at Montclair Heights, met yesterday and the contract for the new building was signed by President James L. Hays, of the State Board. The contract was approved by State Commissioner of Charities and Corrections Dr. George B. Wight. The signing of the contract was witnessed by Dr. C. J. Baxter, secretary of the board. The contractor, Frederick Kelgus, was put under a bond of $100,000 for the proper performance of the contract. The contract is now to be approved by the Governor and this will be done in a few days.

The members of the committee present were Edward Russ, Francis Scott, C. E. Surdam, J. B. Woodward and S. R. Morse. These comprise the committee, together with Senator Everett Colby, who was absent.

The committee decided to visit the place in about ten days and select the exact portion on the grounds on which the school is to be built.

Slain in Fight Over 6 Cents.

Jamica, L. I., Jan. 10.—As the result of a fight over six cents between a butcher and a prospective purchaser the former is dead in St. John's Hospital and the latter is locked up in jail. Frank Blaha, proprietor of a butcher shop at No. 233 Potter avenue, Astoria, became involved in a quarrel with Dominick Christie, of No. 196 Potter avenue, because the Italian said he was being overcharged six cents. Blaha was stabbed several times in the head and shoulder, and his skull was fractured.

Prisoner in Court Robbed.

New York, Jan. 10—Nathan Gleckman, while a prisoner in the detention pen in the basement under Essex Market Court yesterday, was robbed of his watch. Gleckman told Policeman Dunn that a prisoner sent upstairs had picked his pocket while they were in the pen together. Sergeant Post, of the court squad, arrested Alfred Green, of No. 309 East Fourteenth street, who had just been fined $10 for fighting in the street, and found the watch.

Emily VanWinkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson VanWinkle, of West End avenue, is detained at home by illness. Mr. VanWinkle, who has been ill with the grip, is much improved.

HONORS FOR COMPANY K

Regimental Trophy and Collins Medal to be Presented at Annual Review.

LIST OE HONOR MEN

Bond Gets Special Medal As Best Marksman In Regiment—100 Per Cent. Duty Medals For Many.

Company commandants of the Second Regiment of the National Guard of New Jersey have submitted to Regiment Headquarters their lists of members of the respective companies who are this year entitled to long and faithful service medals.

The prizes will be presented sometime within the coming two months at a regimental review which will be given in the Armory at Trenton. It is the desire of the guardsmen that Governor Stokes make the presentations as he did last year and he will likely be invited to do this. In the event of his acceptance the review of the Second Regiment on the occasion of the presentations in the Armory will be in honor of the Governor. Information as to the date of the review will be announced later through orders from Regimental Headquarters.

The most important trophy for marksmanship in the Second Regiment will be the Collins Medal, given by Colonel Dennis F. Collins, commander of the Second Regiment. The winner of this prize for the year 1906 is Corporal William E. Bond, of Company K.

The medal of the National Rifle Association for marksmanship for 1906 will be presented to Second Lieutenant Charles F. Sylvester, of Company L.

The regimental trophy for marksmanship for 1906 will be presented to Company L, Captain Elston H. Bergen, commanding.

The regimental trophy for the highest per cent. of duty for 1906 will be presented to Company K, Captain William B. Martin commanding.

One of the most popular awards to be made will be the twenty years service medal to Regimental Adjutant John M. Rogers, of Trenton.

One hundred per cent. duty medals will be awarded at the review to the following members of Company K—Quartermaster Sergeant Albert T. Littell, Sergeants Oliver R. Pearson, Jr., 2 years; Albert T. Tranchand, 2 years; George L. Apgar, 2 years; Charles A. Peterson, Corporals Le Roy DeCamp, 2 years; James L. Niles, 2 years; Robert E. Goldsack, James B. Conkling, Clarence H. MRS. N. P. ROGERS NAMED FOR PRESIDENT

WOMEN'S METROPOLITAN GOLF ASSOCIATION WANT HER FOR HEAD.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of East Front street, an active member of the Baltusrol Golf Club and the Plainfield Country Club, where she has won many honors in golf, has been nominated for the presidency of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association for the ensuing year, to take the place of Mrs. E. F. Sanford, who has declined to serve another year. Mrs. Sanford has held the office two years. She is also president of the Women's Eastern Golf Association. There is apparently no opposition to Mrs. Rogers and her election seems assured.

Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, of the Nassau Country Club, who has served as secretary of the Metropolitan body for several years, is the nominee for vice president, while Mrs. S. F. Lefferts, of the Englewood Golf Club, has been named for treasurer, to succeed Miss Georgianna Bishop. Miss Elsa Huribut, of the Morris County Golf Club, has been nominated for secretary, and Mrs. Sanford has consented to remain as the fifth member of the executive committee. As nomination is equivalent to election, this ticket will in all probability be elected at the annual meeting of the organization to be held early in February.

PICTURED THE BEAUTIES OF "THE YELLOWSTONE PARK."

Park Club Members Enjoy a Fine Trip Through the Wonders of the National Playground.

The illustrated and moving picture entertainment on "The Yellowstone Park," at the Park Club, last night, was greatly enjoyed by a large audience. The lecture was given by E. C. Culver, who for more than twenty years has been connected with the administration of the park, and it was through the courtesy of the North Pacific Railroad that the club was able to secure the entertainment.

The views, probably the finest that have ever been shown here, were just one series of surprise from beginning to end, showing the natural beauties of the "National Playground." Perhaps, the most interesting views were those showing the many geysers in action, also the falls, stage coach parties, together with those of deer, elk, bear, mountain goats, as they roam about unmolested.

Mr. Culver's description of the views and the park, was a feature. He related many interesting incidents and added that practically all of the beauties of the old world are to be seen in The Yellowstone Park. Of especial interest were the moving pictures vividly portraying the herds of animals running and jumping over mountains and through valleys and wading through the beautiful streams that are to be found in the park.

HERBERT BROOKS' FUNERAL.

Extremely Simple Service at the Home of His Parents.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Herbert Brentnall Brooks was held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Brooks, of Rockview avenue, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, and was extremely simple. Members of the Masonic and Elk fraternities, to which he belonged, were present but there was no concerted action on their part. The floral tributes were numerous and included set pieces from the lodges and the firm with which Mr. Brooks was connected.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being lifelong friends: They were Andrew McLean Parker, Samuel P. T. Wilbur, Charles L. Lyman, Peter Matthews, William N. Runyon, Harry McIntosh, of this city, and Charles Moore, of Bayonne.

Miss Anderson Marries.

Miss Lillian May Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Anderson, of Elizabeth, and well known here among Scotch residents, and Irving Clark, of St. Louis, Mo., were married Wednesday night at the home of the bride's parents, 518 Jersey street, Elizabeth, by the Rev. F. C. Craft. The couple will reside at Roselle Park, after a southern tour. The groom is employed as an electrician in the U. S. Navy.

RACE SUICIDE FIGURES

They Turn Up in Local Birth Statistics For the Past Decade.

NET DROP OF 3 PER CENT.

And the Marriage Rate Goes Up—Death Rate Remains Pretty Much the Same.

Race suicide alarmists may find something on which to hang a sermon in the figures given out by the Board of Health on the yearly number of births in the city since 1897. The birthrate in 1906 was over three per cent. less than in 1897. There was one year in the decade when the drop was alomst seven per cent. It has never, in the nine years since then, gone appreciably closer to the rate of 1897 than up to within three per cent.

The birthrate in 1897 was 24.49; in 1906 it was 21.15. The lowest rate was in 1899, when 17.90 was the figure. Last year the births numbered 404; the poulation was 19,100. In 1897 the number of births was 351, the population being 14,330. In the lowest year, 1899, the figures were 269 births, population 15,020.

The number of births, population and rate of the other years of the decade were as follows: In 1898, 277, 14,670, 18.88; in 1900, 330, 15,369, 12.47; in 1901, 316, 15,990, 19.76; in 1902, 311, 16,600, 18.74; in 1903, 378, 17,230, 21.94; in 1904, 338, 17,850, 18.94; in 1905, 357, 18,478, 19.32.

The marriage rate of 1906 was 8.12, that of 1897 was 7.75. The number of marriages last year was 155. The highest marriage rate of the decade was 8.19, in 1899, the year of the lowest birthrate. The effect of the increase in marriages was reflected in the birthrate of the next year, 21.47.

The death rate varied little in the ten years. The highest rate was 15.94, in 1901. Last year's rate was 15.60.

THE DAY NURSERY NOT TO BE ABANDONED.

Rumor to That Effect Is False and Women Will Continue Charity As Heretofore.

In some way a rumor has been started that The Day Nursery on West Fourth street, which is conducted under the supervision of the City Union, King's Daughters, is to be abandoned and the work given up. This is wholly untrue. While the funds of the organization are low, the women fully expect to continue this growing and needed charity, believing that through their efforts and the help of their many friends, the necessary amount of money and provisions will be contributed as heretofore. As an evidence of the good work being done at the nursery, the report shows that during December over 400 children were cared for and the mothers are grateful for the assistance thus given to them.

On Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock the annual tea and reception will be held at the nursery, 444 West Third street, and a large attendance is expected. Each person is requested to bring dry groceries for the pantry, and in fact anything that will be of use at the nursery. An opportunity will also be given to contribute to a silver offering.

DUNELLEN BANK OPENING.

New Institution Will Start Business Next Tuesday Morning.

The Dunellen National Bank will open for business January 15. The president and the directors will welcome the Dunellenites to a reception at the institution that day, from 10 o'clock a. m. until 4 o'clock p. m. Refreshments will be served.

The bank will transact a general banking business and conduct a special savings department in which interest will be allowed on sums from $1 to $2,000 at the rate of 3½ per cent. On sums in excess of $2,000 interest at the rate of 3 per cent. will be allowed.

"Engagement Social."

The social committee of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church, of which Miss Helen Whitney is the chairman, is planning for a novel social to be held at Vincent chapel on Friday night, January 11. It will be called an "Engagement Social." Miss Sayres will have charge of the entertainment and Miss Edna French the refreshments. A silver offering will be received for the flower fund.

Y. M. C. A. Circus.

Tickets for the Y. M. C. A. circus, which is to be held February 11 and 12, have been issued. It was announced last night that Tornello, a well known wire-walker and juggler, would appear.

IREMONGER IS CHAIRMAN

Second Ward Man Succeeds Mr. Fisk as Head Republican City Committee.

McCARDELL IS VICE

Division of Offices Between Organization and "New Idea"— Townsend Picked for Secretary.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk tendered his resignation as chairman of the Republican City Committee, at the meeting held for reorganization at the Casino, last night, and E. E. Iremonger, of the Second ward, was chosen in his place. Every member of the committee expressed his regret over Mr. Fisks' action, but owing to his new duties as Mayor and other pressure of business felt compelled to give up the place. The secretary was instructed to communicate to Mr. Fisk the expressions of regret on the part of the committee. The Mayor promised the committee his hearty support in its work during the year.

In further completing the organization, Andrew McCardell, of the Fourth ward, was made vice chairman and William R. Townsend was chosen secretary and treasurer pro tem. This action was taken because at the time Mr. Townsend was not a member of the committee. He will probably be elected to membership at the next meeting, Tuesday night, February 5, when he will be continued in the office he now holds.

The vacancy in the First ward caused by the death of Dr. O. L. Jenkins, was filled by the election of Councilman R. I. Tolles. It was decided to allow the vacancy in the Third ward, caused by the resignation of Mayor Fisk, to go over until the next meeting, when some one will be chosen for the place.

As this was the first meeting for the year of the committee there was no new business to come before it and the session was naturally a short one. There was a full attendance of the committee and everyone seemed anxious to take up the work for the year in earnest and conduct it along the same line as last year. Mr. Iremonger, who has been actively identified with the "New Idea" movement, thanked the committee for the honor in electing him chairman and asked for the united support of the members in carrying on the work successfully.

ST. STEPHEN'S CLUB PLAY WAS A SUCCESS

"CAPACITY HOUSE" ENJOYED THE "HAUNTED HOUSE" LAST NIGHT."

The Junior Club of St. Stephen's P. E. church scored a success with its presentation of "The Haunted House." The play was well staged and the cast performed admirably. The audience taxed the parish house to its limits, and latecomers were turned away.

The play is a comedy in two acts. The two scenes, the outside and inside of a hotel, were skilfully staged.

The cast included Charles Frederickson, John King, Frederick Cook, Victor Gorlin, George Dobbs, Wilbur De Milt, James Guttridge. Miss Theresa Kahrmann played the incidental music. Herbert Guinn coached the players.

After the play, Mr. Gorlin gave Hebrew impersonations and performed feats of legerdemain. Dancing was enjoyed after the entertainment.

"FROM EGYPT TO JAPAN."

Superb Lecture at Casino for Muhlenberg Hospital.

Those who attend the illustrated lecture to be given at the Casino, tomorrow night, by J. Dunbar Wright, brother of Mrs. J. B. Dumont and Mrs. J. E. Corlies, will not only spend a profitable evening, but will help a worthy cause, Muhlenberg Hospital. Mr. Wright's lecture will be on the subject "From Egypt to Japan," and his many views are considered the finest yet shown. The lecture was given before the Lambs Club, of New York, on December 16, and last night before the New York Yacht Club, each time being attended by large audiences.

Mr. Wright has on two previous occasions given illustrated lectures in this city, and they have been greatly enjoyed by those attending. The views to be shown tomorrow night were taken by Mr. Wright while making a tour through Egypt and Japan and being thoroughly conversant with the subject he cannot fail to be interesting.

—The Y. M. C. A. boys' team will play the Junior Basbketball sharps of the Rahway association tomorrow at Rahway.

WANTS LAWS PUBLISHED

James E. Martine Would Restore Old Order of Things.

NOBODY SEES LAWS NOW

Instead of Appearing in the Papers, As In Former Years, They Are Buried In Obscure Pamphlets.

James E. Martine is working, with the other members of the People's Lobby all over the State, for the resumption of publication of all laws passed by the Legislature in the newspapers. The publication of the laws in the papers ceased about four years ago. Mr. Martine says the cessation was not right, not just to the people, and he intends to work hard to have the publication resumed.

Nowadays, the laws passed are printed in pamphlet form, as the legislative machine turns them out, and are supposedly distributed broadcast. They are not distributed, because the man who wants them must write for them, an nobody bothers to do it.

"The people are all supposed to know the laws," said Mr. Martine this morning; "it is a legal fiction. They don't know them, and everything possible should be done to keep them posted. The best means is to publish the laws, as they are enacted, in the newspapers of the State, so that they may go into every home. I m not a worker for newspapers, but for the people. Such publication would be for the education and enlightenment of the people."

A bill will almost certainly be introduced at this session of the Legislature, providing for the newspaper publication of acts. Mr. Martine will speak in its favor before the committee to which it is referred, if the measure is presented. Samuel Merwin, R. Henry Depew and Walter Linbarger are interested in the movement.

CHIEF GOT A LEMON AND HE SOLILOQUIZES.

Not the Only One but the First Through the Mail, He Mutters.

Chief of Police Kiely got one this morning. It was large and firm, and very yellow; a fine specimen of the fruit. It came in the mail. There were no wrappings to disguise its satirical outlines, the address being written on the skin. Also, there was nothing indicative of the identity of the sender. The chief recognized it as soon as he saw it.

"It is not the first one I've received," he explained. "But the others didn't come in the mail. They were handed to me directly. I wish I knew who sent me this," he continued thoughtfully. "I would like to return the gift."

Then he threw the beautiful yellow thing—really splendid specimen of the citrus lemonum—at the headquarters cat.

"I suppose," he mused, "that everybody knows those appointments didn't go through."

PHYSICIANS DINE.

Local Doctors Hold Quarterly Meeting.

The quarterly meeting and banquet of the Plainfield Medical Society was held at the Kensington Hotel, last night, covers being laid for seventeen. After the physicians enjoyed a fine turkey dinner, they adjourned to the hotel parlors, where Dr. Ellis W. Hedges presented an interesting paper on "The Treatment of Gall Stones." This was followed by the usual informal discussion.

The physicians present were Drs. F. C. Ard, Ellis W. Hedges, Marcus L. Clawson, Fred Hughes, C. A. Gesswein, Thomas Blair, W. Kempton Browning, C. B. Lufburrow, N. W. Currie, P. B. Cregar, Albert Pittis, P. J. Zeglio, J. Hervey Buchanan, A. V. VanHorn, J. T. Fritts, Anthony and Hubbard.

Telephone Company's Removal.

The local officials of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company have set July 1 as the date on which they will take possession of the handsome new building on East Fourth street. When completed it will be one of the best equipped and most up-to-date buildings of its kind in the country. At the time the move is made from the present quarters, the telephones in the city will be changed to the common battery system, the style in use in New York, Philadelphia and other large cities.

Reports in Club Formation.

An adjourned meeting of those interested in maintaining the Casino in accordance with plans outlined will be held at the Casino, Tuesday night, at 8:15 o'clock, to consider report of committees appointed to formulate plans for a club.

HONEYMAN TALKS ON JAPAN AND ITS PEOPLE

WELL INFORMED TRAVELER SPEAKS INTERESTINGLY ON FLOWERY KINGDOM

A. V. D. Honeyman gave a most interesting lecture on Japan this morning to the pupils of the North Plainfield High School. He discussed many facts in the lives of the Japanese, who he said make beautiful articles for sale in America and elsewhere, but have none of them in their own houses; for though they love beautiful things, they are too poor to afford them. Seventeen cents per day, he said, is a good wage, and twenty-nine cents a day is the highest paid to bricklayers, carpenters, and other expert workmen.

Travelers go about the country in jinrikishas, which are sulkies drawn by men. Only one person can sit in one sulky; and the Jap who draws it will take him sixty miles per day for a number of days without being fatigued. The legal rate for a days' journey is fifty cents. The cherry blossoms in Japan are the finest in the world. No cherries are ever allowed to grow, as that would interfere with the beauty of the blossoms. As it is, the blossoms look like roses, and are thickly clustered on every branch and twig.

Japan, according to Mr. Honeyman, is an excellent place for young people to start housekeeping, for it may be done with no more than a ten-dollar bill. Rents are usualy but one and one-half dollars a month; there is no furniture except mats and comfortables, and food costs but fifteen cents per day for a small family. The politeness of the Japanese is encountered on every occasion from all aclosses of people; and their cheerfulness all day long, even under the stress of poverty is noticeable.

"Japan is the land of the rising run. The national flag shows the rising sun in a white field. The Chinese, realizing that their country is very much larger than Japan, adopted as their national flag a dragon swallowing a small rising sun. A few years ago, when the dragon really tried to swallow the sun, it burned its mouth."

MISS PARKINSON THE BRIDE OF J. E. STEURWALD.

Marriage Ceremony Performed Last Night in the Presence of a Small Gathering.

In the presence of only a few relatives and intimate friends, Miss Nellie Parkinson, daughter of Mrs. T. H. Parkinson, of East Second street, and J. E. Steurwald, of New York, were quietly married at 6 o'clock, last night. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home by Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church. Miss Minnie Imbierowic, of Ravenswood, L. I., was bridesmand and Richard Johnson, of Columbus, O., a cousin of the groom, was best man. Miss Parkinson wore a pearl gray travelling gown.

Following the ceremony, a brief reception was held and supper was served. Violets predominated in the decorations in both the dining room and parlor, relieved at times by white streamers and smilax.

Mr. and Mrs. Steurwald left last night for a wedding trip as far as Columbus, O., the groom's former home, and on their return will reside in this city. Mr. Steurwald is engaged in the automobile business in New York. The bride presented her attendant with a pearl necklace and the best man received a pearl stick pin from the groom.

McIntyre Concert Tonight.

Those who enjoy classical music truly interpreted, should attend the McIntyre Chamber Concert at the Casino, tonight. A programme of rare excellence has been prepared and with such artists as Vladimir Dubinsky, 'cellist; Julian Walker, basso; Jan Witzemann, violinist, to say nothing of Joseph McIntyre, pianist, it will surely be a treat. This will be the third in the series given this season and will be an event of unusual interest.

Small Italian Lost.

A small Italian boy, who said his name was Michael Lauri, was found wandering about Park avenue by Patrolman O'Keeffe at 2 5'clock this morning. He said his father had moved here only a few days ago, and he couldn't remember the way home. O'Keeffe took him to headquarters where he was kept until this morning. He said he could find his way all right in daylight, and he was allowed to leave.

D. A. R. Birthday Party.

The Continental Chapter, D. A. R., will attend a birthday party to be given at the Wallace House, Somerville, tomorrow afternoon by Gen. Frelinghuysen Chapter, of that place. The chapters from Bound Brook and New Brunswick will also attend.

ADVICE FOR COMMISSION

Counsel of City and Borough to Appear Before Consolidation Commission.

SERVICES REQUESTED

Municipalities' Lawyers Are Desired to Enlighten Commission On Legal Aspects of Merger.

The bi-municipal consolidation commission has requested both Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, of this city, and Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, of the borough, to appear at its scheduled meeting on Monday afternoon. The meeting will be held in Mayor Fisk's office in the Smalley building and is likely to be a protracted one. The object of summoning the lawyers for the two municipalities is to obtain expert advice on the legal aspects of the subject which the commission is empowered to investigate.

The lawyers will be asked to explain whether from a legal standpoint the consolidation of Plainfield and North Plainfield can be brought about without any violation of the State laws and whether any remedial legislation will be needed in case the people of the two places decide favorably upon the proposed merger. It is said that the lawyers will explain as well whether annexation would have to follow consolidation and whether consolidation of the two places should be brought about before the annexation of North Plainfield's territory to Union county.

Mayor C. J. Fisk, of the city, and Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, will also attend the meeting at the request of the commission, of which former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of this city, is chairman. The commission will hold meetings weekly at the mayor's office and it is said that from time to time, citizens of the two places will be asked to appear before it to give their views on the consolidation idea.

COUNTY TAX BOARD HEARS ASSESSMENT APPEALS.

Local Factory Concerns and Other Property Owners Ask For Reductions.

The Union County Board of Equal Taxation met at Elizabeth yesteday for the purpose of receiving appeals from assessments. Among the local property owners who made protests were the Pond Tool Company and Scott Press Company, which asked reductions on their plants; William Palmer Smith, Mary F. Myers, J. Wesley Johnson, Andrew Muir, George F. White and Louis Levine. The appeal in nearly every case was presented by lawyers, John H. VanWinkle appearing for Mr. Smith, William Stillman for Mrs. Myers, George W. V. Moy for Mr. Muir and J. B. Coward for Mr. White.

The board granted several reductions and others, including the factory appeals, were held in abeyance for one week. Yesterday was the last opportunity property owners had of stating their objections to the assessments.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk represented the city in his official capacity.

PAID BELATED FINES.

Speakeasy Operators Here Out $500 After Deputies Visit Yesterday.

Money still due on the fines administered by the county court last May was collected yesterday from three men convicted of running speakeasies. Deputy Sheriff Peter V. Weaver and Deputy Sheriff Deinlein were sent after the money, collected over $500. All the convicted men have now paid up.

Domineck Paretti paid $150, the balance of his fine, and $49 costs. Thomas Brown paid $100 fine and $93 costs. Jules Masterodonato, who paid $25 on a $100 fine in May, gave up the balance and $59 for costs.

Saengerbund Dates Set.

The Gesang and Turn Verein held a business meeting last night and set the dates for several affairs to take place in the near future. The Narren Sitzung of "Knacker" night will be held on February 3, the annual masquerade ball on February 11 and the benefit for the singing section on February 21. The election of officers was deferred for one month.

Boys' Competition.

The fourth event in the Boys' Championship Competition at the Y. M. C. A., three standing broad jumps, was won yesterday afternoon by Vail, who covered 22 feet 10 inches. Conroy jumped 22 feet 5½ inches and B. Miller 21 feet 3 inches. There were twenty-five entries.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The first dance of the New Year, held last night by the Suburban Club in its hall at Fanwood, was one of the most enjoyable events the club has yet held. The floor was filled with merry dancers enjoying the strains of the two-step and waltz as played by Suhr's orchestra. At midnight a short intermission was held and refreshments served, after which dancing was continued until near the hour of 2 a. m. While dancing was the feature of the evening's pleasure, still those who tired of the mazy waltz enjoyed the freedom of the club's bowling alleys and billiard rooms. Friends of the club present included guests from Plainfield, Westfield, Rahway and the 'Plains.

Louis Beekon and Herbert Knight, who have been spending their holiday vation at their homes in the borough, have returned to their studies at the Carnegie Technical School.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

It is the opinion of local icemen that the crop, at best, which is yet to be harvested, will be a small one and inadequate to supply the demand. Ice that is stored after January is porous and of a poor keeping quality.

Another effort will be made at the present term of the Legislature by residents of South Plainfield to get a bill passed to form a borough, and it is supposed the object may be accomplished this winter.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold its annual turkey supper in the Sunday-school room of the church on Thursday and Friday, February 7 and 8. This will be one week later than the customary date.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Song, play and mirth" very aptly describes the latest musical comedy success, "The Girl From Broadway," which plays a return engagement by popular request at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night, and will be presented by the same strong cast of merry-makers as when first presented in this city. The company is headed by the daintiest of all comediennes, Miss Grace Edmond, assisted in the telling of the musical story by Otto Bros., Harry Fentelle, Robert H. Wilson, James A. Smith, Leona Leigh, Arthur Jennings and May Florine Linden and the beauty chorus of which our local critics commended so favorably upon.

"The Flaming Arrow," Lincoln J. Carter's original Western play, which are now so much in vogue, is now on its seventh annual tour, and seems to be one of the few successes that can repeat each year and please all. The same big company, Indians, band, horses, etc., are still a feature, while a new complement of scenery is being shown. The production will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night.

When the Sousa Opera Company appears at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night in Klaw & Erlanger's presentation of the "March King's" latest comic opera, "The Free Lance," we are promised not alone a feast of that stirring, swinging, rythmic and harmonious music which has made John Philip Sousa famous throughout this country, but the best libretto of a real comic opera that has been written by an American librettist since "Robin Hood," and Harry B. Smith, the author of the latter, is also the sponsor of "The Free Lance," which is termed a military comic opera in two acts. Joseph Cawthorn, so well known locally as one of the best comic opera comedians, is the stellar feature of the cast and has been provided with a character eminently fitted to show off his humorous personality to the utmost. The principal characters are assumed by Nella Bergen, Albert Hart, Jeanette Lowrie, George Tallman, Stanley Murphy and George Schiller. A singing ensemble of seventy-five accompanies the production.

One of the most carefully selected organizations en tour the present season is W. W. Newcomer's "The Volunteer Organist" company, which appears at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. The piece was staged by that past-master in the art of stage craft, Lawrence Marston. That Mr. Marston possesses remarkable gifts along this line is proven by the fact that it was he who staged the big Drury Lane melodrama, "The Price of Peace," for its run at the Broadway theatre, New York. He also staged Viola Allen's "In the Palace of the King" and "Unleavened Bread," each of which were admitted to be flawless in regard to stage management and incidental action.

The late Robert R. Hitt had a knowledge of stenography which was of great value to him in debate. He was the patron saint of the stenographers of the house.

Defeated Woman Wept.

New York, Jan. 11.—Weeping bitterly because she was not elected president of the West End Woman's Republican Club in the Hotel Astor, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Florence Morrell, independent candidate, declared between sobs that she wished she had not been the "dark horse" and that she would never again do any work in the society. In attempting to cheer her several other women dropped a few tears, for they whose husbands are enrolled Republicans felt keenly their defeat by members whose husbands are Hearst supporters. They showed their chagrin in such remarks as: "It's an outrage to have as the head of a straight Republican organization a woman whose husband is openly a Hearst man." Uttering these words in loud and scornful tones they flounced around where the newly chosen president, Mrs. William Grant Brown, was receiving congratulations on her triumph of thirty-six votes over nineteen.

Church of the Open Door."

New York, Jan. 11.—Exceedingly liberal in creed and manner of worship and original in method of organization, the "Church of the Open Door," which has recently been organized in Brooklyn, opens up a new epoch in religious circles in the borough, and the development and outcome of the movement will be watched with interest by all clergymen. This church, which purposes to have bowling alleys in the basement, a billiard room on the floor above and an orchestra of fifty pieces and a choir of fifty voices at every meeting, whose creed takes in every one of any denomination or race, certainly will attract considerable attention. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles T. Baylis, was formerly pastor of the Bushwick Avenue Congregational church, but resigned some time ago because of differences in the church.

"M. & B. CLOTHING—THE HIGHEST TYPE OF READY-TO-WEAR."

Unusual Sale of Unusual Merchandise at the M. & B. Store.

This great sale is indeed an unusual event—a helpful event—a triumph of modern retailing, that impresses itself upon every thoughtful buyer of Clothing, Furnishings, Hats and Shoes. In every nook and corner of this big store the opportunities for saving are almost startling.

The reasons why this sale has many unusual features make a short but interesting story; our volume of trade during the past season has far exceeded that of any previous year. We have been compelled to manufacture in greater quantities and carry a wider assortment of styles than ever before to meet the growing demand. The natural result is an unusually large number of broken lines in every department.

To move these broken lines quickly and maintain our unvarying policy of carrying nothing over from season to season, the price-cutter's axe has fallen heavily. The echo will reach the ears of thousands who, recognizing the pre-eminence of the M. & B. store for high grade merchandise, correct in fashion and distinctive in character, will crowd this unusual store to its capacity. You'll be one of the early comers if you're wise.

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY.

Purchasing Supplies In Bulk or In Small Quantities.

The question of whether it is better to buy family supplies in bulk or more according to the "hand to mouth" plan is not to be answered without reservation. Undoubtedly when the family is large and the mistress of the household will give attention to the manner in which the supplies are used, considerable may be saved by buying in bulk. But even this means the supposition that there is room enough for the stores. It would be a poor attempt at economy to increase rent merely to gain room for supplies on which the saving must be an accumulation of small amounts.

Unless the mistress of a home has good control over herself and servants she ought not to buy in bulk. It takes a good deal of will power and more business methods than exist in most houses not to become slack when there is an abundance of everything on hand. "Never mind; there is plenty more," becomes a frequent excuse for a little waste that may aggregate as much as was saved by buying in large quantity. There is no place to keep perishable fruits and vegetables in a small house, and it is much wiser to waive the small per cent. of saving that theoretically would be made by buying in bulk and let the marketman bear the loss in these supplies by spoiling. Be content to help him out by paying a trifle more.—Exchange.

FOR THE CROUP.

A Simple Remedy That Is Said to Be Very Effective.

When a doctor cannot be secured promptly in an emergency it is necessary to have a good remedy always on hand when children are inclined to be croupy.

A mother who will provide herself with half a pint of raw linseed oil can fight the worst case of croup she may meet with. It is said to be an unfailing remedy, and for quick results it beats anything else which can be given for that dread disease.

Half a teaspoonful is a dose unless the child is choking very badly. Then give a teaspoonful.

It acts two ways. In the first stage of croup, where there is not much mucus, it is loosened and carried off through the bowels.

In the second stage it causes vomiting; but, unlike ipecac, it leaves no soreness of the throat as an after difficulty.

It is rarely necessary to give more than one dose, when the child will get relief and go to sleep again.

This simple remedy is one that is within reach of every mother and one that can be kept in the house at all times, and while it is in the house the dread membranous croup need cause no terrors.—Boston Traveler.

KITCHEN HELPS.

When the heat of the oven is slow it may be increased by putting hot stove lids under the pudding or dish which is baking.

If you will always set the dishpan with the handles at the front and back instead of at the sides as you face it you will have fevew nicked tea sets.

If when covering a kitchentable with oilcloth a layer of brown wrapping paper is put on first it will prevent the oilcloth from cracking and make it wear three times as long.

To prevent bright pans from being blackened by smoke, rub with fat before putting them on the fire. Wash with hot water and soda after using them, and they will be quite bright.

In order to keep the odor of cauliflower, turnips and cabbage from permeating the house, lay a cloth over the top of the pot in which they are boiled and then sprinkle a little salt over the cloth. This is a simple remedy and is said to be effective.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Three minor league club owners who circulated in the crowd of baseball men at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday were once stars of great brilliancy on the diamond. Jesse Burkett, for several years the champion batsman of the National League as a member of the Clevelands, is now the owner of the successful Worcester Club. Hugh Duffy, also a former champion hitter when under Cap Anson, recently purchased a half interest in the Providence Club. Malachi Kittredge, one of the National League's best catchers for nearly fifteen years, is a stockholder and manager of the Montreal Club. Burkett, Duffy and Kittredge all received big salaries and had the common sense to put away enough to enable them to become magnates themselves.

Ed Barrow of the Toronto Club is in on the lookout for a manager. Joe Kelley was in New York yesterday and had a talk with Barrow. Kelley has declared his fixed intention of not playing ball again in the West. Another prospective Toronto manager is Charley Carr, the well known first baseman, who is in town and has had several talks with Barrow. Either of the two men would make a good field manager for the Toronto team.

Augie Moran, the umpire, with the Eastern League last season, goes to the Tri-State next season. He was free to go where he chose, and accepted an offer from President Carpenter. Tim Hurst says the Tri-State circuit is so compact that all you have to do in going from one town to another is to ask the conductor for a transfer.

FOOTBALL.

At a meeting of the football committee of the University of Pennsylvania last evening it was announced that the schedule for the season of 1907 had been completed and that unless some unforseen conditions should necessitate a change the Quakers would play twelve games next fall. Two of the most prominent of the Western universities figure in the provisional schedule, which follows: Sept. 28, Lehigh, at Franklin Field; Oct. 2, Villanova, at Franklin Field; Oct. 5, Bucknell, at Franklin Field; Oct. 9, Franklin and Marshall, at Franklin Field; Oct. 12, Swarthmore, at Franklin Field; Oct. 16, Gettysburg, at Franklin Field; Oct. 19, Brown, at Franklin Field; Oct. 26, Indians, at Franklin Field; Nov. 2, Lafayette, at Franklin Field; No. 9, Chicago, at Franklin Field, (not settled); Nov. 16, Michigan, at Ann Arbor; Nov. 28, Cornell, at Franklin Field.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Martine For Governor.

"More than likely," says the "Hudson Observer," "the next Democratic candidate for Governor will come from Hudson county, but if he does not, Martine is undeniably of the right kind of timber." The "Observer" adds that the Farmer Orator "may be a bit old-fashioned" but his rugged honesty and conservatism would do the State no harm for a term of three years." From no part of the State does there a single question arise as to James E. Martine not being well equipped to carry the Democratic banner in the Gubernatorial contest next fall. It is his "rugged honesty" which everyone from Sussex to Cape May recognizes, that makes him at this time one on whom every faction of the party could unite, and to whose cause this "rugged honesty" of character would attract the independent vote which controls elections today. We are aware that Mr. Martine does not seek this office, but that does not make him any the less desirable as a candidate.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

Frank L. Clark, of Central avenue, left today for St. Louis on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hyler, of West Front street, who have been visiting relatives in Hunterdon county, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Story Rowland, who were married a few weeks ago at Pittsburg, and who have been sojourning in Florida, are expected home son to occupy their new home on Stelle avenue. They will give a large reception the latter part of January or first of February for the purpose of affording Plainfield society an opportunity of meeting Mrs. Rowland.

ENCOURAGING SIGNS.

Senator Hillery is not the kind of man that loves to play to the gallery; to force himself into the limelight of publicity to attract notoriety is foreign to his nature. However much some may disagree with him, no one will deny that the member from Morris is a man of sincere convictions and one who is not afraid to speak right out when occasion requires. It was most encouraging, therefore, to read the words he uttered when naming Senator Minch for president of the Senate.

"Parties," said the Morris county man, "we will always have with us, but offensive partizanship is disappearing. There is now no excuse for a legislator not doing his duty. The public looks to the individual, not to the party, and the legislators canpot hide behind party. Senatorial courtesy has throttled legislation in the past. All bills in the future should be disposed of in the Senate.'

Equally encouraging were the remarks of Senator Minch, who said on assuming his chair:

"The spirit of independence is dominating the public mind. It prevails everywhere, and nowhere more than in this State. Partizanship in public affairs is frowned upon, and the only partisanship that will appeal to the people is that adherance to the rights demanded by men in every walk of life."

This fine sense of independence displayed by Hillery and Minch, is in line with expressions recently made by other leaders in the halls of legislation, particularly those of Assemblyman Perkins and Senator Ackerman, of our own county. "Representing the people of Union county," said they in the statement signed also by Assemblymen Tillman and Moxon, "it is our duty to respect their wishes."

With such men as Ackerman, Hillery, Minch and Perkins—and of course Colby—in the Legislature and with Stokes in the executive chair, the signs of the times point unmistakedly to good government.

A REFORM NEEDED.

The Westfield Standard is championing the cause of the teachers for high salaries and its arguments are quite effective. "If it be true," says the Standard, "that New Jersey is losing its good school teachers because of the higher salaries awaiting them in other states, a policy of reform in the direction of better compensation here should be begun at once. There is no higher vocation in life than that of the teacher, in school or elsewhere, and none more deserving of high remuneration. The teachers are the ones who, as a lecturer suggested here the other night, help us to do without them. They are the ones we delight in worrying while we are at school and learn to love when our school days are over. Of course, there are teachers and teachers. As a profession, however, none is nobler. It would be better to cut the salaries of the clergymen, pay less fees to lawyers and physicians, all of which is easy if we are but good, honest and careful, than to attract only poorer grades of men and women to mould the minds of the young in our schools."

Let the good work go on!

Considering that the honor is an empty one, there appearing to be no possibility that the candidate of the minority party will be elected, it is a wonder that the Democrats in the Legislature have not hit upon James E. Martine as their choice for United States Senator.

Undoubtedly, Col. Edwin A. Stevens is a very fine man, but to place him on the same level with Woodrow Wilson when the United States Senatorial nomination is in question, is to say the least an absurdity.

WOMAN ATE THE CONTRACT

With Document in Her Midst, She Asks, "What Are You Going to Do About It?"

The boom in real estate at Flushing, L. I., has landed part of a valuable contract in Mrs. J. S. Eardley's midst and stirred up no end of trouble between her and Thomas Pritchard, of Booraem avenue, Flushing.

Mrs. Eardley, who lives in Brooklyn, sold six lots in Flushing to Mr. Pritchard. Mr. Pritchard paid a deposit, and Mrs. Eardley signed a contract agreeing to surrender the lots to him for a certain price. Prices of Flushing property have jumped up as much as 25 or 50 per cent. in one day. Mrs. Eardley heard of this, and her soul was sad. She called at Mr. Pritchard's office.

"I want to keep my lots," said she, briskly.

"Madame, you can't," he replied with utmost suavity.

"Let's see the contract," said she, soothingly.

Mr. Pritchard handed her the precious paper, and in the twinkling of an eye she had bitten a big piece out of it. Mr. Pritchard grabbed her throat. Then came a fierce struggle between hand muscles and throat muscles, and throat muscles won, for Mrs. Eardley swallowed a large chunk of the contract and smiled in bitter triumph at her foe.

"I'll have the law on you!" he cried.

"Pooh!" sneered she. "I've got the evidence in my midst, and I'd like to see the court that can find out anything about it."

And there the matter rests.

SALMON NEEDS SALT WATER

Confined in Lake, with No Approach to the Sea, the Fish Rapidly Become Dwarfed.

The name salmon is given in England and all eastern states to a large, trout-like fish which lives in the sea, chiefly about the mouths of rivers, and which enters the streams to spawn, running for a considerable distance up the stream and returning to the sea after the act of spawning is accomplished, says a writer in the Pacific Monthly. The old males become somewhat distorted, especially through the lengthening of the jaws, but the changes with age and season are not much greater than in any large trout. The true salmon, like the true trout, is black spotted. It is called in science Salmo salar, and along with the true trout it belongs to the genus Salmo. There is only one species of Atlantic salmon; it is found on both sides of the ocean, and on both sides it becomes sometimes land-locked and dwarfish when it is shut up in a lake and when it cannot or does not go to the sea.

Harnessing the Mississippi.

Work will be begun before the year is out on a dam across the Mississippi river, at the foot of the Des Moines rapids, for the development of water power. It will be the greatest project of the kind except the combined works at Niagara, the dam the greatest in the world except those built by the British in the Nile. A minimum of 60,000 horse power is to be obtained and transmitted to factories in the heart of the agricultural center of the nation. The dam will be in sight of the three states of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, the legislatures of each state having adopted resolutions approving the work and promising all possible assistance. The estimated cost of the work will be $6,000,000, which is $100 per horse power on the minimum power capacity of 60,000 horse power. The cost of supplying power, including all fixed charges, maintenance, operation and all expenses, is closely estimated at eight dollars per horsepower-year, the cost of steam power in the territory within 200 miles now being from $40 to $65 per horsepower-year, with $55 as a conservative average.—The World To-day.

Cry for Land and Liberty.

It is stated that the estimate of the money needed by the Russian government for aid to the famine-stricken provinces would amount to nearly $40,000,000 this year. The peasants are starving, partly in consequence of lack of land to cultivate, partly because of specially bad crops this year. Meanwhile the rent of land is steadily rising. According to the latest report of the Peasants' bank the average rent per desiatin rose in 12 years from 39 rubles to 108 rubles. No wonder that the cry of the peasants is for "land and liberty." And the only reasonably fertile land remaining is that of private owners, the public domain being mostly swampy or forest land.

Too Appropriate.

In a small town in California a new hospital has recently been erected on Salsipuede's street, and the board of directors, in lieu of something better, suggested that the hospital bear the name of the street. One more cautious than the rest suggested that it would be well to know the meaning of such a name before making indiscriminate use of it, and it is to this man that the present success of the hospital is due, for finding that Salsipuedes meant "get out if you can," the name was hastily changed to something less suggestive of "who enters here, leaves hope behind."

The One Who Fills the Bill.

"The man who wins my admiration," said the serious girl, "must be one who can stand firm in his convictions in the face of ridicule, opposition and personal danger."

"I see," said Miss Cayenne. "Your ideal is a baseball umpire."

STEVENS OR WILSON?

Democrats Have a Lively Senatorial Race of Their Own On.

While the Democrats will have only thirty-seven votes in joint meeting of the Legislature, or four less than a majority of the whole number, they still hope a Democratic Senator may be chosen, if the members are united and a split sufficient to keep eight Republicans out of the joint meeting should occur in the latter party.

Where both houses are divided politically the election must be by open ballot at the joint meeting, and the candidate receiving a majority vote of all the members of both houses present and voting is, under the statute, entitled to the office.

While such a contingency is not apt to arise, there is an intense rivalry between the advocates of Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, of Hoboken, and President Woodrow C. Wilson, of Princeton University, for the honorary nomination. The latter, in a personal interview published in The Daily Press, declared he was not a candidate for the nomination and would not accept it if named. Colonel Stevens is a candidate, and his supporters claim he is entitled to the nomination because of the energy he displayed and the money he expended in the recent campaign. Former Senator James Smith, Jr., is against Colonel Stevens.

UNION COUNTY FARMERS OPPOSE SENATOR DRYDEN.

Agriculture Association Commends Action of Its Representatives.

The members of the Union County Agriculture Association at its meeting in Elizabeth, yesterday, adopted a resolution unanimously approving of the action of Senator Ernest R. Ackerman and Assemblymen Tillman, Perkins and Moxon in refusing to pledge their votes to the re-election of Senator Dryden.

The association argued that Senator Dryden had not been friendly to the farmer and his interests, that he had not voted for the oleomargarine bill and had in other ways acted in a way that was detrimental to farming interests in general.

Killed at "L" Station.

New York, Jan. 11.—In the presence of several hundred persons one man was killed and another probably fatally injured on the overcrowded, unprotected downtown platform of the Third avenue line of the elevated at 161st street yesterday morning. Many women sank to the platform fainting, while infuriated men trampled over them in their efforts to get at the guards and to save the men who were in peril. Scores of others, men and women, screamed and shouted so loudly that their cries brought a crowd up from the street. William F. Newman, forty-six years old, an importer of beeswax, of No. 3,278 perry avenue, was almost instantly killed and Karl Wehn, a seed importer, of No. 2,427 Jerome avenue, was severely injured and is in a critical condition in Lebanon Hospital. Mr. Newman's wife is an invalid with heart disease, and her condition is such that the fact of her husband's death has not yet been revealed to her.

Railroad Service Hours.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, the most radical Republican member of the Senate, obtained yesterday the passage by the Senate of a radical bill drawn to improve railroad passenger and freight service and to remedy the cause of railroad wrecks. This measure, if it becomes law, will make it unlawful, with certain exceptions, for railroads to work their train employees for more than sixteen consecutive hours. It forbids railroads from permitting any employee to work who, having been on duty sixteen hours in twenty-four, has not had eight hours off duty before again going to work.

MRS. BROWN SAT ON A WALL, MRS. BROWN HAD GREAT FALL.

Now All the Court's Forces and All the Court's Men are Asked to Make Amends.

Mrs. Mary Brown, of No. 181 Front street, Elizabeth, began suit yesterday against the city of Elizabeth, Street Commissioner N. K. Thompson, Contractor William McCloud and Police Captain Leary, demanding $25,000 damages for her arrest July 30, 1904.

At that time Mrs. Brown had built a retaining wall in front of her home. The city authorities, who were about to pave the street, said the wall encroached thirteen inches on the street line and Contractor McCloud attempted to remove it. Mrs. Brown squatted on the wall and dared the army of laborers to remove it or her.

The contractor appealed to the police, and three big bluecoats had a hard tussle getting the defender off the wall to the police station. She says her clothing was torn, she was treated brutally and was forced to remain in the police station several hours before the could get bail.

THE OUTLOOK IN JERSEY

Newark Manufacturer Thinks That State Has Wonderful Future in Store.

TUNNELS WILL HELP

Estimated That They Will Effect $200,000,000 Increase In Property Values.

"The most confirmed pessimist could not, I believe, find a single thing to grumble at in the prospects of our state for the new year," said one of the leading manufacturers of Newark. "Throughout the entire year just ending everything which has contributed to the advancement of New Jersey as an industrial and commercial state has also improved the outlook of the state for the ensuing year, with the result that our future was never better. In real estate alone there is a certain future increase of not less than $200,000,000 in the value of our properties incident to the building of the tunnels. Probably one-fourth of this amount will be added by the improvement in trolley facilities.

"Along the line of manufacturing we are certain of advancement which, while it will not equal the total amount of the foregoing figures, will establish a record for the manufacturing states of the country. The aggregate value of new plants coming to New Jersey during the last year was greater than ever before. Already during the present year purchases of land have been made and contracts signed which will insure the removal from other states to New Jersey of industries of a far greater value. One of the most favorable signs in this connection is that manufacturing establishments front other states which began to cross our boundaries a few years ago are now coming in ever increasing numbers from the east, west, north and south. Most important of all is the exodus, now well under way, of industries from the several boroughs of New York city to our factory lands.

"Fourteen years ago when New Jersey began the development of her modern transportation facilities, by the building of interurban trolley lines, she saw the solution of the industrial and commercial problem. In that time she has made more rapid advances both in transportation facilities and in industry and commerce than any of her rival states, and she has been enabled to rise from a comparatively humble place in the ranks to first. The end of 1907 will find recorded in the State of New Jersey a much greater advance than that in any other previous year. The ultimate extension of her transportation facilities will require an addition of something more than 1,000 miles of trolleys and steam roads. This in turn will bring to the state hundreds of new industries and hundreds of thousands of additional residents, who must find homes in the towns and cities of the state. For the purpose of accommodating this influx of immigration, New Jersey's building resources are already taxed to their utmost. The state is now drawing from all of her neighboring states for artisans employed in all of the building trades, and if she provides shelter for her army of new workmen she must build in the coming year between 20,000 and 30,000 homes in the already populace district comprised in her five northern counties.

"Industrially New Jersey has reached a position where she need so longer compete for the world's trade. The concentration of industries in the northern section of New Jersey has brought the consumers of the world knocking at her doors, demanding her products. To meet this demand the greates industrial concerns of the state are compelled to double the capacity of their plants and this fact, independent of the coming of new industries, will add not less than 40 per cent. to the population of the metropolitan belt in the next few years. New Jersey already produces a greater number of manufactured articles in greater amounts than any of her rival states and many industrial states of the south and west find that they will lose to New Jersey within the next year many of the industries which in the past have been the very foundation of their prosperity."

It was presented to him by Charles Nason, of Sabatis, the well known gunmaker. Mr. Nason for many years was located in Costa Rica and other points in Central America, purchasing coffee.

Franz Josef, th emperor of Austria, has a fad for collecting menu cards, and as his stock is contributed to by other monarchs it is a truly wonderful one. His choicest specimen is one used at the dinner given by the Czar to President Faure. This "card" is a block of of the rarest black marble beautifully painted by a famous French artist, the names of the various dishes being lettered in white ivory.

Although the population of the United Kingdom increased 2,000,000 during the last six years, there has been a decline of nearly 2,500,000 barrels in the consumption of beer. There is also a steady decline in the use of spirits. On the other hand, the 155,767,710 pounds of tea imported for home consumption during the first seven months of 1906 mark an increase of 10,000,000.

HIS CHART OF CONDUCT.

One of the prominent merchants of New York carried these "rules of conduct" in his pocketbook, accompanied by a memorandum to this effect, "read these rules at least once a week:"

Never be idle.
Make few promises.
Always speak the truth.
Never speak ill of anyone.
Keep good company or none.
Live up to your engagements.
Be just before you are generous.
Earn money before you spend it.
Drink no kind of intoxicating drinks.
Good character is above all things else.
Keep your own secrets if you have any.
Never borrow if you can possibly avoid it.
Never play at any kind of games of chance.
Keep your promises if you would be happy.
Make no haste to be rich, if you would prosper.
When you speak to a person, look him in the face.
Save when you are young, to spend when you are old.
Never run in debt unless you see a way to get out again.
Avoid temptation, through fear you may not withstand it.
Ever live (misfortune excepted) within your income.
Small and steady gains give competency with tranquility of mind.
Good company and good conversation are the sinews of virtue.
Your character cannot be essentially injured except by yourself.
If anyone speaks evil of you, let your life be so that none will believe him.
If your hands cannot be usefully employed, attend to the cultivation of your mind.

PERFECTLY SATISFIED.

"I don't wish to take up your time," the caller said, "unless you think it is likely I might interest you in the subject of life insurance."

"Well," replied the man ta the desk, "I ll not deny that I have been thinking about it lately. Go ahead. I'll listen to you."

Whereupon the caller talked to him 45 minutes without a stop.

"And now," he said at last, "are you satisfied that our company is one of the best, and that our plan of doing business is thoroughly safe?"

"Yes."

"Have I convinced you that we furnish as good insurance as any other company, and at rates as cheap as you can get anywhere?"

"Yes; I am satisfied with what you say—perfectly satisfied."

"Well, don't you want to take out a policy with us?"

"Me? Oh, no! I'm a life insurance agent myself. I thought I might be able to get some tips from you!"

FLIPPANT.

Edith—Is that your earliest ancestor?

Chawley—Naw! That's only the guy that left us the money to buy the others with!"—Chicago Daily News.

A Tip from Uncle David.

Wouldn't be so much weepin'
And few ruined lives
If we made our bankers
Always have their wives
Stay around to watch 'em
While they played the game,
So that other women
Wouldn't be to blame.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Wonder.

"Jinx has got a funny wife."

"How's that?"

"Why, they were going to Galveston Sunday, and she only had half an hour to get ready, and—"

"And it took her two hours to get her hat on straight—nothing funny about that."

"You've got it wrong; they were at the depot 15 minutes before train time."—Houston Post.

A Hopeful View.

"Do you think America will take a leading place in art as it has in commerce?"

"I shouldn't be surprised," said Mr. Dustin Stax. "We captains of industry are just waking up to the great increases of value that are to be gotten in works of art if you only know how to buy."—Washington Star.

Wifely Encouragement.

"You seem to be worried, Michael Oblalenskovitch," his wife said.

"Yes," replied the Russian terrorist, "I blew up the wrong grand duke by mistake this morning."

"But why should you worry about that? The bomb has not been wasted."—Chicago Record-Herald.

No Settlement There.

"Mrs. Splash has gone into settlement work."

"I know one person who wouldn't believe it."

"Who's that?"

"Her dressmaker."—Detroit Free Press.

At the Seashore.

"Dearest," he whispered, as the pale moon floated behind a cloud, "how long will you love me?"

"Till the very last," she answered, as she nestled to his breast. "Till the last day of your vacation."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Explained.

"Say paw."

"Well, son?"

"What is executive ability?"

"Executive ability, son, consists largely in being able to sign your name to important documents in an illegible hand."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Faint.

"I understand you've got a call to a distant church?"

"Yes, you might call it a call."

"What's the salary?"

"One thousand a year."

"That's no call; that's just a whisper."—Houston Post.

Not Skeptical.

"Do you believe that Samson lost his strength by having his hair cut?" asked the nonbeliever.

"I have no reason to doubt it," replied the practical man. "A talkative barber always makes me tired."—Chicago Daily News.

KILL BIG SNAKE WITH HAT PIN AND STICKS

Frightened by Bull, Girls Run Upon Huge Reptile and Bravely Offer Battle.

New Haven, Conn.—Miss Phoebe McClure, Miss Ruth Rice and the Misses Grace and Elizabeth Scott were picking wild flowers in a clump of woods near South Windham when Miss McClure stepped on something soft and thick that rolled under her heel like a piece of rubber. She looked down and saw a hideous black snake squirming and trying to get free.

"Oo-oo-oo-ee-ee-ee! A snake! A snake!" screamed Miss Phoebe the moment she recognized the monster. She also ran away at a high rate of speed. The other girls took up the running. Skirts were whisked out of the way of the good sprinting. The newest styles in summer hosiery gleamed gayly in the sun.

The girls leaped a stone wall into a pasture and safety. But the safety was only a dream, for in the midst of the pasture was a big, brown bull highly incensed by the flashes of red in skirts and hosiery and bellowing fiercely as he galloped up to offer battle.

With a last shriek the girls vaulted back to the wood lot and faced the black snake. Confronted with four beautiful victims, the snake was rattled. As he wagged his head from side to side, not decided as to where he should strike first, the girls hit him with long sticks and dropped heavy stones on his head. He was quickly knocked unconscious.

Miss Rice jabbed a long hatpin through the monster and pinned him to the ground. Miss McClure stamped on his head with her sharp French heels.

When the girls were sure that he was very, very dead they gathered up the snake and carried him to the village. He was five feet four inches long.

HELD UP BY BIG PANTHER.

Man and Wife Out Driving in Pennsylvania Pass Through Thrilling Experience.

Cross Fork, Pa.—Held up on the public highway and made prisoners for half an hour by a panther was the adventure which befell Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Crowley.

They were driving to Coudersport and in going through a deep woods their horses shied violently, snorted and attempted to turn around. Mr. Crowley thought a bear had crossed the road ahead of them. He leaped to the horses' heads and then saw, crouched in the middle of the road, not more than 20 feet ahead, an animal of the cat family, which, he declares, was a panther, as it was much too large for a catamount.

The animal squalled frightfully and the horses plunged backward, sending the rear wheels of the carriage over an embankment. Mrs. Crowley leaped out of the vehicle and escaped unhurt. Crowley tried to shoot the panther, but made the aggravating discovery that his pistol was empty.

For half an hour the panther crouched in the road until dawn approached, when it slunk away into the woods. Its arrival at the edge of the road was welcomed by a chorus of squalls and hisses, indicating that it was a female with a litter close at hand. This accounted for the mother's show of fight.

Woman Kills Big Blacksnake.

Easton, Pa.—Attracted by the excited barking of her small dog, Mrs. O. H. P. Reimer went to the spot and found that he was having a fight with a large blacksnake. The reptile would make lunges at the dog, but the animal managed to jump aside each time and escape. Arming herself with a garden hoe, Mrs. Reimer attempted to dispatch the reptile, which started for her. As her aim was inaccurate a battle, which lasted 15 minutes, followed. Finally Mrs. Reimer struck the snake back of its head with the blade of the hoe and put it out of the combat.

To Two Kisses, $25 Each—$50.

Jersey City, N. J.—To purloining one kiss—$25. That is the price that Julius and Marcus Carpenter each had to pay in the first criminal court. In Little Italy park they met Tessie Reilly. She refused the kisses they asked and they took them.

PLENTY OF CHALK.

A Block That Was Once as Large as the Continent of Europe.

The small piece of chalk which is in constant use in the schoolroom, the lecture room, the billiard room and the workshop has a strange history, the unraveling of which through all its complexities is one of the most difficult problems with which the science of the present day is called upon to deal. This piece is in reality a chip of an immense block of chalk that once filled an area the size of the continent of Europe and of which even yet several gigantic fragments remain, each hundreds of square miles in extent. These patches are scattered over the region lying between Ireland on the west and China on the east and extend in the other direction from Sweden in the north to Portugal in the South.

In the British Isles the chalk is found in greatest perfection and continuity in the east and southeast of England. A sheet of chalk more than a thousand feet in thickness underlies all that portion of England which is situated diagonally from the North sea at Flamborough head to the coast on the English channel in Dorset. This enormous sheet of chalk is tilted up slightly on the west, and its depressed eastern portion that dip toward the waters of the North sea are usually furied from sight by means of overlying sands and clays. Where the edges of the chalk come upon the sea the cliff scenery is strikingly grand and beautiful. Any one who has once seen the magnificent rocks of Flamborough and Beachy head, the jagged stacks of the Needles or the dizzy mass of Shakespeare's cliff near Dover, can understand why "the white cliffs of Albion" has grown into a stock phrase.

This massive sheet of chalk appears again in France, in many parts of Europe as far east as the Crimea and even in central Asia beyond the sea of Aral. How far it stretched westward into what is now the Atlantic may never be known, but chalk cliffs at Antrim, in Ireland, and less conspicuous formations are found in Scotland, in Argyll and Aberdeen. There can be little question that all these now isolated patches were once connected in a continuous sheet, which must therefore have occupied a superficial area about 3,000 miles long by nearly 1,000 broad, an extent larger than that of the present continent of Europe.

OLD VIOLINS.

The Best Method of Finding Out Their True Value.

Very often somebody thinks that he or she has a small fortune locked up in a fiddle case. The somebody does not know much about violins, but has heard or read that an old violin is a very valuable thing, and because grandfather happened to leave a violin, to assume duties upon the harp, somebody immediately believes that a grandfather's violin is a treasure. As a matter of fact, ninety-nine times out of a hundred grandpa invested in a ten dollar fiddle and played "Suwanee River" and "Annie Laurie." When he bought it the violin was worth $10, but since then it has been depreciating in value at the rate of about 10 cents a year. From the mere fact that most of the varnish is scratched off and there are several cracks in the instrument it does not follow that it is an "old one."

If a violin is good to start with it will improve with age and good care, but, on the other hand, a poor fiddle is not benefited to any extent if it survives a century or two.

Don't judge a violin by the label inside of it. Anybody can copy an old name and date and paste it in. If all the violins bearing a Stradivarius label were his, poor old Antonius would be working yet. More than half of the cheap, worthless violins bear copies of his or some other maker's label, and even some real old and good instruments have been passed off as the work of Amati, Guarneri, Magini and other famous makers.

Any one having a violin with the label of a comparatively unknown maker is likely to be the owner of a more valuable instrument that the person whose fiddle is marked "Antonius Stradivarius".

There is only one way to find out whether or not a violin is living up to its name, and that is to get the judgment of a good dealer. If he tells you that your violin is no good, but still offers to buy it, you may be quite certain that you have a good fiddle. But don't sell it. Take it to some other authority and see what he says, but don't make a bargain. You will hear from him if your violin is genuine, for the supply of valuable ones is small and great rivalry exists among dealers to secure masterpieces.

A great many people have the idea that all the very good instruments are the output of a half dozen old geniuses when the truth is that there are scores of old as well as quite modern makers whose works bring very high prices.—New York Herald.

DEFEAT ELIZABETH BOYS.

Y. M. C. A. Juniors Win a Victory at Basketball Handily.

As decisively as the most exacting physical director could desire, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys' five defeated the Elizabeth Juniors yesterday afternoon, at the home gymnasium. Score, 31 to 14. The Plainfield boys were in the glitter class right along. They turned off specimens of team work with ease and nonchalance, and dropped the ball expertly through the net whenever the action seemed necessary. Elizabeth was not in it.

The line-up and score:

VIEBROCK GETS A FIRST.

Wins Fence Vault Event in Y. M. C. A. Championship Competition.

Going 5 feet, 10½ inches, Viebrock scored into first place in the fence vault event in the all-around athletic championship competition at the Y. M. C. A. last night. That is a half an inch better than the last vault record, made in 1904, but considerably worse than the association record, made in 1898 by F. M. Marclay.

Banks and Odell were tied for second place with 5 feet 7½ inches, and Thompson and Lueder were tied for third place, 5 feet 5½ inches. There were nineteen entrants.

Banks still leads the contestants, but his margin is not large. He will have a chance to increase it in the three standing broad jumps next Thursday.

ANOTHER COMPETITION.

High School Boys of Y. M. C. A. In Athletic Championship Contest.

The High School department of the Y. M. C. A. started an athletic championship competition yesterday afternoon. There will be twelve events, one a week until the schedule is completed.

The event yesterday was standing broad jump. Morris won with a jump of 8 feet, 10 inches, a good mark. McClintock, 8 feet, 5 inches, was second, and Karner, 8 feet, 4½ inches, was third. The entries numbered twelve.

TOURNEY BOWLERS ROLL WITHOUT GOING "CRAZY."

Low Scores the Rule in Six Games Posted Last Night.

In the tourney games at McLaughlin's last night, Maltby and Theirs took two from the Schaub brothers and Day and Gahagan defeated Vail and Meyers three straight. The eight contestants were all perfectly sane, which is opposite to going "crazy" in bowling vernacular, and very mild scores were the result. Roy Day was the only one to go over the double century mark, and in one of his games Walter Vail dropped to 110. The Schaubs were in the poorest form they have been at any time since the tourney started.

Games scheduled for tonight are the following: Reville and Felver against Sheelen and Alberts, Mullen and Conklin against Leland and Thompson, Willett and Britton against Woolston and Cunningham.

Last night's scores:

J. Schaub	148	146	170
W. Schaub	137	132	158
	285	378	328
vs.
Maltby	162	151	159
Thiers	188	172	154
	350	323	313
Vail	110	179	145
Meyers	168	122	145
	278	301	290
vs.
Day	176	211	142
Gahagan	157	169	169
	332	380	311

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

A good game of "soccer" will be seen tomorrow afternoon, when Plainfield will meet the Brooklyn, New York State League team, on the Plainfield grounds, Clinton avenue and Second street. The game will be called at 2:45 p. m. The Brooklynites have only one defeat against them this season, and a hotly contested game is expected. The locals will line-up as follows: Goal, McNiece; backs, H. Farrow and Brit Martin; half-backs, Martin, Buckland and McCombe; forwards, Tyler, Spalding, McGregor, Sutton and Smeaton; reserves, Bennett and Boyd.

(Other sporting news on page three).

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

"Christian Institutions" will be the subject of the week of prayer service to be held at Trinity Reformed church, tonight.

George Edwards, the Indian scout, will speak at the Grove Street Rescue Mission tonight. Good music will be an added attractions.

The Men's Club, of the First Baptist church, will meet in the lecture room of the church on Monday night at 8 o'clock. An attractive programme will be presented.

Mrs. Smith, of Orange, will address the members of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union, Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., on "Intermediate Work." She may also teach the lesson.

Since the Day Nursery was opened almost a year ago there have 3,134 children cared for, nearly an average of twenty a day. It has been suggested that an opportunity be given those interested to become sustaining members of the Day Nursery upon the payment of $5 a year. Several persons have already signified a desire to contribute to the charity in this way.

CLOSED PORTALS.

J. V. E. Vanderhoef, deputy Supreme Archon of the Improved Order Heptasophs, visited Morristown Conclave last night and installed the officers for the ensuing year.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, met last night and initiated one candidate and discussed plans for holding a "ladies' night" entertainment. No definite plans were adopted, neither was a date set for the affair.

GEORGE L. RECORD'S SUIT THROWN OUT OF COURT.

Action Gave First News that He Had a Narrow Escape from Death Last Summer.

It became known yesterday for the first time that George L. Record, when making a tour of the State last summer in the interest of his candidacy for United States Senator, had a thrilling experience that almost lost him his life. With Senator Colby he had made July 15 a circuit of Union county and was returning to Jersey City in his automobile. He had just dropped the Essex Senator and was approaching a Lehigh Valley Railroad crossing at Frelinghuysen avenue, Newark, when he noticed the gates were down. There were no lights on the gates, and Mr. Record had driven his automobile almost up to them before he discovered his danger.

The machine was running at a high rate of speed. If he went ahead Mr. Record realized that he would crash through the gates. Turning the machine, Mr. Record made in the direction of the sidewalk. The machine struck the curb. Mr. Record went in the air and landed in a heap on a pile of lumber. He was bruised about the body. The automobile was put out of commission, and Mr. Record continued his journey to Jersey City by train.

Blaming the Lehigh Valley Railroad for the accident, Mr. Record brought suit in the First District Court, Jersey City, for $300 damages.

The case was tried yesterday and resulted in a non-suit. It was shown that the Pennsylvania Railroad, and not the Lehigh Valley Railroad, owned the tracks at the point where the accident occurred.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1903 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

Unconsciously she had been letting her voice fall low, making their chat more confidential. She awoke to this now and to the fact that he had done the same, by noting that he raised his voice at this time with a casual glance past her to where her father sat.

"Yes—you see my own father and mother were killed when I was eight years old, and the people that murdered them tried to kill me too, but I was a spry little tike and give them the slip. It was a bad country, and I like to have died, only there was a band of Navajos out trading ponies, and one morning, after I'd been alone all night, they picked me up and took care of me. I was pretty near gone, what with being scared and everything, but they nursed me careful. They took me away off to the south and kept me about a year, and then one time they took me with them when they worked up north on a buffalo hunt. It was at Walnut creek on the big bend of the Arkansas that they met Ezra Calkins coming along with one of his trains and he bought me of those Navajos. I remember he gave 50 silver dollars for me to the chief. Well, when I told him all that I could remember about myself—of course the people that did the killing scared a good deal of it out of me—he took me to Kansas City where he lived, and went to law and made me his son, because he'd lost a boy about my age. And so that's how we have different names, he telling me I'd ought to keep mine instead of taking his."

She was excited by the tale, which he had told almost in one breath, and now she was eager to question, looking over to see if her father would not also be interested; but the latter gave no sign.

"You poor little boy, among those wretched Indians! But why were your father and mother killed? Did the Indians do it?"

"No, not Indians that did it—and I never did know why they killed them—they that did do it."

"But how queer! Don't you know who it was?"

Before answering, he paused to take one of the long revolvers from its holster, laying it across his lap, his right hand still grasping it.

"It was tiring my leg where it was,"

He Paused to Take One of the Long Revolvers from Its Holster, Laying It Across His Lap.

he explained. "I'll just rest myself by holding it here. I've practiced a good smart bit with these pistols against the time when I'd meet some of them that did it—that killed my father and mother and lots of others, and little children, too."

"How terrible! And it wasn't Indians?"

"No—I told you that already—it wasn't Indians."

"Don't you know who it was?"

"Oh, yes, I know all of them I want to know. The fact is, up there at Cedar City I met some people that got confidential with me one day, and told me a lot of their names. There was Mr. Barney Carter and Mr. Sam Woods, and they talked right freely about some folks. I found out what I was wanting to know, being that they were drinking men."

He had moved slightly as he spoke and she glanced at the revolver still held along his knee.

"Isn't that dangerous—seems to me it's pointed almost toward father."

"Oh, not a bit dangerous, and it rests me to hold it there. You see it was hereabouts this thing happened. In fact, I came down here looking for a big man, and a little girl that I remembered, whose father and mother were killed at the same time mine was. This little girl was about three or four, I reckon, and she was taken by one of the murderers. He seemed like an awful big man to me. By the way, that's mean whisky your Bishop sells on the sly up at Cedar City. Why, it's worse than Taos lightning. Well, this Barney Carter and Mr. Sam Woods, they would drink it all right, but they said one drink made a man ugly and two made him so downright bad that he'd just as lief tear his wife's best bonnet to pieces as not, but they seemed to like me pretty well, and they drank a lot of this whisky that the Bishop sold me, and then they got talking pretty freely about old times. I gathered that this man that took the little girl is a pretty big man around here. Of course I wasn't expecting anything like that; I thought naturally he'd be a low-down sort to have been mixed up in a thing like that."

He spoke his next words very slowly, with little pauses.

"But I found out what his name was—it was—"

He stopped, for there had been an indistinct sound from where her father sat, now in the gloom of the evening. She called to him:

"Did you speak, father?"

There was no reply or movement from the figure in the chair, and Follett resumed:

"I guess he was just asleep and dreaming about something. Well, anyway—I—I found out afterwards by telling it before him, that Mr. Barney Carter and his drunken friend had given me his name right, though I could hardly believe it before."

"What an awful, awful thing! What wickedness there is in the world!"

"Oh, a tolerable lot," he assented.

He had been all animation and eagerness in the telling of the story, but had now become curiously silent and listless; so that, although she was eager with many questions about what he had said, she did not ask them, waiting to see if he would not talk again. But instead of talking, he stayed silent and presently began to fidget in his chair. At last he said, "If you'll excuse us, Miss Prudence, your pa and I have got a little business matter to talk over—to-night. I guess we can go down here by the corral and do it."

But she arose quickly and bade him good night. "I hope I shall see you to-morrow," she said.

She bent over to kiss her father as she went in, and when she had done so, warned him that he must not sit in the night air.

"Why your face is actually wet with a cold sweat. You ought to come in at once."

"After a very little, dear. Go to bed now—and always be a good girl!"

"And you've grown so hoarse sitting here."

"In a little while,—always be a good girl!"

She went in with a parting admonition: "Remember your cough—good night!"

When she had gone neither man stirred for the space of a minute. The little man, huddled in his seat, had not changed his position; he still sat with his chair tilted back against the house, his chin on his breast.

The other had remained standing where the girl left him, the revolver in his hand. After the minute of silence he crossed over and stood in front of the seated man.

"Come," he said, gruffly, "where do you want to go?"

CHAPTER XXIX.

How the Avenger Bungled His Vengeance.

At last he stood up, slowly, unsteadily, grasping Follett by the arm for support. He spoke almost in a whisper.

"Come back here first—to talk—then I'll go with you."

He entered the house, the young man following close, suspicious, narrowly watchful.

"No fooling now,—feel the end of that gun in your back?" The other made no reply. Inside the door he took a candle from the box against the well and lighted it.

"Don't think I'm trying anything—come here."

They went on, the little bent man ahead, holding the candle well up. His room was at the far end of the long house. When they reached it, he closed the door and fixed the candle on the table in some of its own grease. Then he pointed Follett to the one stool in the little cell-like room, and threw himself face down on the bed.

Follett, still standing, waited for him to speak. After a moment's silence he grew impatient.

"Come, come! What would you be saying if you were talking? I can't wait here all night."

But the little man on the bed was still silent, nor did he stir, and after another wait Follett broke out again.

"If you want to talk, talk, I tell you. If you don't want to, I can say all I have to say, quick."

Then the other turned himself over on the bed and half sat up, leaning on his elbow.

"I'm sorry to keep you waiting, but you see I'm so weak"—the strained little smile came to his face—"and tremble so, there's so much to think of—do you hear those women scream—there! did you hear that?—but of course not. Now—wait just a moment—have you come to kill me?"

"You and those two other hellions—the two that took me and that boy out that night to bury us."

"Did you think of the consequences?"

"I reckon you'd be called paid for, any time any one come gunning for you. I didn't think there'd be any consequences."

"Hereafter, I mean; to your soul. What a pity you didn't wait a little longer! Those other two are already punished."

"Don't lie to me now?"

The little smile lighted his face again.

"I have a load of sin on me—but I don't think I ever did lie to any one—I guess I never was tempted—"

"Oh, you've acted lies enough."

"You're right—that's so. But I'm telling you truth now—those two men had both been in the Meadows that day and it killed them. One went crazy and ran off into the desert. They found his bones. The other shot himself a few years ago. Those of us that live are already in hell—".

He sat up, now animated for the moment.

"— in hell right here, I tell you. I'd have welcomed you, or any other man that would kill me, any time this 15 years. I'd have gone out to meet you. Do you think I like to hear the women scream? Do you think I'm not crazed myself by this thing—right back of me here, now—crawling, bleeding, breathing on me—trying to come here in front where I must see it? Don't you see God has known how to punish me worse than you could, just by keeping me alive and sane? Oh, man! you don't know how I've longed for that bullet of yours, right here through the temples where the cries sound worst. I didn't dare to do it myself—I was afraid I'd make my punishment worse if I tried to shirk, but I used to hope you would come as you said you would. I wonder I didn't know you at once."

"Oh Man, How I've Longed for That Bullet of Yours!"

He put his hands to his head and fell back again on the pillow, with a little moan.

"Well, it ain't strange I didn't know you. I was looking for a big man. You seemed as big as a house to me that day. I forgot that I'd grown up and you might be small. When those fellows got tight up there and let on like it was you that some folks hinted had took a child and kept it out of that muss, I couldn't hardly believe it; and everybody seeming to regard you so highly. And I couldn't believe this big girl was little Prue Girnway that I remembered. It seemed like you two would have to be a great big man and a little bit of a baby girl with yellow hair; and now I find you're—say, Mister, honestly, you're such a poor, brokedown, little coot it seems a'most like a shame to put a bullet through you, in spite of all your doings!"

The little man sat up again, with new animation in his eyes,—the same eager boyishness that he had somehow kept through a.. his years.

"Don't!" he exclaimed, earnestly. "Let me ; you, don't kill me! For your own sake—not for mine. I'm a poor, meatless husk. I'll die soon at best, and I'm already in a hell you can't make any hotter. Let me do you this service; let me persuade you not to kill me. Have you ever killed a man?"

"No, not yet; I've allowed to a couple of times, but it's never come just that way."

"You ought to thank God. Don't ever. You'll be in hell as sure as you do,—a hell right here that you must carry inside of you forever—that even God can't take out of you.

Follett slowly put the revolver into its holster and sat down on the low stool.

"I don't know anything about all this hell-talk, but I see I can't kill you—you're such a poor, miserable cuss. And I thought you were a big, strong man, handy with a gun and all that, and like as not I'd have to make a quick draw on you when the time come. And now look at you! Why, Mister, I'm doggoned if I ain't almost sorry for you! You sure have been getting your deservance good and plenty. Say, what in God's name did you all do such a hellish thing for, anyway?"

"We had been persecuted, hunted, and driven, our Prophet murdered, our women and children butchered, and another army was on the way."

"Well, that was because you were such an ornery lot, always setting yourself up against the government wherever you went, and acting scandalous—"

"We did as the Lord directed us—"

"Oh, shucks!"

"And then we thought the time had come to stand up for our rights; that the Lord meant us to be free and independent."

"Secesh, eh?" Follett was amused. "You handful of Mormons—Uncle Sam could have licked you with both hands tied behind him. Why, you crazy fool, he'd have spit on you and drowned every last one of you, old Brigham Young and all. Fighting the United States! A few dozen women-butchers going to do what the whole South couldn't! Well, I am danged."

He mused over it, and for awhile neither spoke.

"And the nearest you ever got to it was cutting up a lot of women and children after you'd cheated the men into giving up their guns!"

The other groaned.

"There now, that's right—don't you see that hurts worse than killing?"

"But I certainly wish I could have got those other two that took us off into the sage-brush that night. I didn't guess what for, but the first thing I knew the other boy was scratching, and kicking, and hollering, and like to have wriggled away, so the cuss that was with me ran up to help. Then I heard little John making a kind of a squealy noise in his throat like he was being choked, and that was all I wanted. I legged it into the sage-brush. I heard them swearing and coming after me, and ran harder, and, what saved me, I tripped and fell down and hurt myself, so I lay still and they lost track of me. I was scared, I promise you that; but after they got off a ways I worked in the other direction by spells till I got to a little wady, and by sunup they weren't in sight any longer. When I saw the Indians coming along I wasn't a bit scared. I knew they weren't Mormons."

"I used to pray that you might come back and kill me."

"I used to wish I would grow faster so I could. I was always laying out to do it."

"But see how I've been punished. Look at me—I'm 50. I ought to be in my prime. See how I've been burnt out."

"But look here, Mister, what about this girl? Do you think you've been doing right by keeping her here?"

"No, no! it was a wrong as great as the other."

"Why, they're even passing remarks about her mother, those that don't know where you got her,—saying it was some one you never married, because the book shows your first wife was this one-handed woman here."

"I know, I know it. I meant to let her go back at first, but she took hold of me, and her father and mother were both dead."

"She's got a grandfather and grandmother, alive and hearty, back at Springfield."

"She is all that has kept me alive these last years."

"She's got to go back to her people now. She'll want to bad enough when she knows about this."

"About this? Surely you won't tell her—"

"Look here now, why not? What do you expect."

"But she loves me—she does—and she's all I've got. Man, man! don't pile it all on me just at the last."

He was off the bed and on his knees before Follett.

"Don't put it all on me. I've rounded up my back to the rest of it, but keep this off; please, please don't. Let her always think I'm not bad. Give me that one thing out of all the world."

He tried to reach the young man's hand, but was pushed roughly away.

"Don't do that—get up—stop, I tell you. That ain't any way to do. There now! Lie down again. What do you want? I'm not going to leave that girl with you nor with your infernal Church. You understand that."

SOME CURRENT VERSE.

At a Western Window.

I gaze from the western window,
Athwart the narrowing day,
Where the sunshine and the shadows
In parting glory play,
To violet isles enchanted
That smile at the open door
As the argosies of evening
Sail through to a fairer shore.

The day is long behind me,
The night is coming on;
But I hear a robin singing
The song he sang at dawn;
Now one with the morn is evening,
And one are the earth and sky,
The blossoms in the meadow
With the stars that breathe on high.

And youth is young forever,
And love is never old,
Though masks of age are breaking
Back to the primal mold.
So here, from my western window
I gaze, as the stars increase,
And the mortal and immortal
Are one in this blessed peace.
—Benjamin S. Parker, in The Reader.

Ruth.

She stood breast-high amid the corn,
Clasped by the golden light of morn,
Like the sweetheart of the sun,
Who many a glowing kiss had won.

On her cheek an autumn flush
Deeply ripened; such a blush
In the midst of brown was born,
Like red poppies grown with corn.

Round her eyes her tresses fell,
Which were blackest none could tell;
But long lashes veiled a light
That had else been all too bright.

And her hat, with shady brim,
Made her tressy forehead dim;
Thus she stood amid the stooks,
Praising God with sweetest looks.

"Sure," I said, "Heaven did not mean
Where I reap, thou shouldst but glean;
Lay thy sheaf adown and come
Share my harvest and my home."
—Thomas Hood.

"The World Is Too Much With Us."

The world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!
The Sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up-gather'd now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything, we are out of tune;

It moves us not—Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.
—William Wordsworth.

The Ocean of Love.

All day I felt the surge of some far sea
Murmuring through my being, and the sound
Throbbed with deep music while my sense was bound
Into a pulsing dream that grew to be
A song of oceanic mystery.
With depths to shake and currents to astound
My soul, till suddenly, O love, I found
Thy flood immeasurable surrounded me.

O sea unplumbed and powerful, bitter brine
Art thou to a weak adventurer in thy deep!
Yet doth the right of wild dreams make all mine
That ocean where my soul doth swing and sleep.
Mine are thy full soft tides, thy impetuous forms,
Thy cradling rest, and O love, thy blind storms.
—Smart Set.

The Mountain God.

There is a mountain god, they say, who dwells
Remote, untouched by prayer or temple bells;
A god irrevocable who compels
The hidden fountains and the secret wells
Upward and outward from their cloistered cells;
He calls them, calls them, till the lustrous day,
And not one rippling child dare disobey
There is a god who dwells within your eyes
Like that veiled god of mountain mysteries,
Compelling all my secret soul to rise
Unto a flooded brim of still surprise
Flooded and flushed beneath the god's great eyes
Beloved, you have called me to the day,
And all the fountains of my life obey.
—Florence Wilkinson, in McClure's.

White Hands.

The very snowiest hand that ever
The lip of true man kissed;
Soft as a flower and with faint veinings
Of May blue toward the wrist—
So fine, so frail it is, we ponder
The drudgery it has missed.

My own is white, too, lying beside it,
But there's a trace of horn
In the inner palm—work's mark. Dost see
Her little look of scorn
At hearing of the hundred guises
My busy hand has worn?

Here is for jeweling and gloving,
Innocent of all price;
Mine has the strength of striving in it—
While as it is—weighs twice
In the world's affairs, for gentle color
And unspoiled energies.
—Mildred L. McNeal Sweeney, in Success Magazine.

My Loss.

What have I left behind
In the joyous youth that is dead?
A love that was truly blind,
A phantom that quickly fled.

What have I buried deep
In the grave of the vanished past?
A night of distressing sleep,
A horror that could not last.

What have I tossed for aye
In the echoless past's abyss?
The hopes of a mocking day:
The pain of a false, false kiss.

What have I lost deep, deep
In the realm where but shadows meet?
The blessed power to sometimes weep,
The faith that was once so sweet.
—Lurana W. Sheldon, in N. Y. Herald.

Days.

Daughters of time, the hypocritic days,
Muffled and dumb, like barefoot dervishes,
And marching single in an endless file,
Bring diadems and fagots in their hands.
To each they offer gifts after his will,
Bread, kingdoms, stars and sky that holds them all.
I, in my pletched garden, watched the pomp,
Forgot my morning wishes hastily,
Took a few herbs and apples, and the day
Turned and departed silent. I, too late,
Under her solemn fillet saw the scorn.
—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

RUSSIAN SAYINGS.

He who is on horseback no longer knows his own father.

When the ass bears too light a load, he wants to lie down.

Man carries his superiority inside, animals their's outside.

Where there are no fish even a crayfish calls himself a fish.

The nobleman is always in the right when the peasant sues.

If the thunder is not loud the peasant forgets to cross himself.

When the scabbards are broken we can no longer hide our sabers.

That which is taken in with the milk only goes out with the soul.

One whip is enough for a good horse, for a bad one not a thousand.

When the priest visits you do not be overjoyed; he will soon begin to beg.

No matter how much you feed a wolf he will always return to the forest.

He is a fool who avoids the place where he has aforetime broken his nose.

When you go to law against the emperor God himself should be the judge.

GEMS.

No one is defeated until he gives up.

Hard times has a good many relatives. It is the twin brother of the blues.

That man has failed who has not been able to keep a good opinion of himself.

Self-control will succeed with one talent, where self-indulgence will fail with ten.

What the superior man seeks is in himself; what the small man seeks is in others.

Poverty itself is not so bad as the poverty thought. It is the conviction that we are poor and must remain so that is fatal.

Confidence is the Napoleon in the mental army. It doubles and trebles the power of all the other faculties. The whole mental army waits until confidence leads the way.—Success Magazine.

PASTE JEWELS.

Fortune loves to turn him down who waits for something to turn up.

Money talks—but only to those who have silver ear trumpets.

A truly discreet person knows when not to know anything.

But a rolling stone doesn't often get catalogued with the mossbacks.

The cream of Christianity can only rise from the milk of human kindness.

She that lets her heart go for a song soon realizeth the world's scorn of bargains.

He that looks backward too much gradually gets out of the habit of moving forward.

You don't catch the woman with the new baby wasting any time on the how-to-be-beautiful stunts in the Sunday supplement.—N. O. Picayune.

PUCKERINGS.

Why is it that humorists and monkeys always look so serious?

It is difficult at times to believe that the doctrine of the survival of the fittest applies to politics.

Considering how many millions of microbes there are, the competition among them must be tremendous.

Some people have sense, but more haven't. This is not more true in polite society than elsewhere. The peculiarity of polite society is that there the people who haven't sense set the pace.

The way people keep on marrying and giving in marriage, in the face of all the statistics, shows only too clearly that this matter of a sucker being born every minute is quite in accordance with the laws of heredity.—Puck.

MEMS FOR MOTHERS.

Don't hang heavy curtains at the windows; let the sunshine pour in.

Don't comb a child's hair too much. Brush it carefully with a soft brush.

Don't expect children to be beautiful unless they are healthy, happy and contented.

Don't have any carpets on the bedroom floors; use rugs instead. Have few hangings and fewer ornaments.

Don't think a child can have brightness of eyes, clearness, softness and smoothness of skin without good food, though it should be only of a plain kind.—Chicago American.

TO LOOK TALL.

Keep Your Figure Slim and Follow These Suggestions.

First—To look tall make your waist as long as you can.

Second—To look tall don't lace tightly, but make your line sloping rather than sharp. Don't accentuate your hips.

Third—To look taller than you really are make your skirts long. Don't wear any skirt shorter than ankle length. A little longer than the ankles is better.

Fourth—To look tall dress your hair high. Trim it with flowers and make a coiffure. This really lifts you o couple of inches and makes you seem taller than you actually are. Of course don't exaggerate, but lift your coiffure all you can, taking care than you keep it fluffy and youthful.

Fifth—To make yourself look tall be sure to build your shoulders broad, but do not make them too wide. The extreme Gibson shoulder is bad for any woman, et the shoulders be only moderately built out.

Sixth—to look tall let your neck be bare, which makes the throat seem longer and so lifts your height quite a little. Don't "chuck" up the throat or you will certainly do so at the expense of your height. And don't forget that you must keep your figure slim if you are going to look really tall.

BUYING A CLOCK.

Select One That Will Harmonize With Its Surroundings.

When you've a clock to buy choose it with an eye to its playing a part, no matter how small that part may be, in the furnishing of the particular room it is for.

Crystal clocks in one form or another come to suit almost every sort of room—stunning circular ones, with their tiny flors paved with colored enamels in mosaic patterns, for parlor or drawing room; plain as a pipestem kinds, with a world of dignity in their very plainness, for library or music room, and dainty little forms for bedroom or boudoir.

For sitting rooms the colonial clocks—mahogany cases, left almost plain to show off the beauty of the wood—are particularly good.

Attractive bronze clocks and pretty ones of china, usually Dresden, and a thousand and one others more elaborate in style, indulging profusely, some of them, even in ornament, may seem to suit the particular corner. Only be sure that the one you pick does suit it so well that it is hard to imagine any other clock in its place.

A well chosen clock is as great a relief and pleasure to the eye as a vase or a bit of bric-a-brac.—Exchange.

BEAUTY SPOTS.

The hair needs to be washed only once in two or three weeks. Too frequent bathing exhausts the nutrient elements of the glands.

Don't polish the nails too highly. They should have only a natural gloss. Don't cut the nails in points, but carefully arch.

By resting for half an hour in a dark room and placing over the eyes a bit of old linen which has been saturated with rose water the eyes will be rested and will brighten considerably.

Thin arms should be washed twice a day with a fine lather of soap, rinsed well, dried thoroughly and then rubbed vigorously. This treatment will bring the pores into action and induce a healthy condition of the skin.

Keep a fresh lemon with a hole cut in one end on the washstand. Every time your fingers are stained turn them around in the lemon and the stains will disappear and the skin around the nails will be softened and pressed back.

CULINARY CONCEITS.

Leftovers of cold chicken make delicious fritters when mixed with an ordinary fritter batter and fried in deep fat.

Melted butter used for basting is used in the proportion of one tablespoonful of butter melted to one cupful of hot water. Keep hot while using.

Celery salt is nice with fried apples, and so is a bit of onion. Use this dish as a vegetable, relish or appetizer with cold meat and bread and butter. It can be quickly made.

An excellent way to bake codfish, which breaks into flakes so readily, is to butter a sheet of white paper, lay the steak on it, butter it, sprinkle it with lemon and onion juices, salt and papper, wrap securely and bake on the rack of the fish pan for half an hour.

Daubed Statue of Africa.

New York, Jan. 11.—What is either a manifestation of race hatred or a piece of vandalism was discovered yesterday in front of the Custom House, where the white marble statue of a woman representing "Africa" had been splashed with red paint. This statue is one of a group of four placed at the main entrance of the Custom House. The other statues, representing America, Europe and Asia, were not molested. The figure symbolical of the "Dark Continent" is that of a woman lightly clad, and the features, strongly suggesting the negro, represent the woman as sleeping. Paint had been smeared over the leg, and there are spots of red on the body and breast which will be very difficult to remove.

The Kinsman Block Signal System, A Valuable Industrial Investment.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co, own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

Fatal Steel Mill Explosion.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 11.—One of the worst explosions in the history of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Works occurred about seven o'clock last night at the Eliza furnace, when a large quantity of gas which had accumulated at the base of the furnace became ignited and exploded, and tons of molten metal were showered around the furnace for a radius of forty feet. Out of a force of thirty-five men employed at the furnace when the explosion occurred, three—John Cramer, Andrew Featherka and Gustave Kessler—have been taken to the Morgue, their bodies horribly mutilated. Seven men are in hospitals, fatally injured, and twenty-four others have not been accounted for. While the mill officials are not inclined to believe all of the missing men were cremated in the molten metal, nothing definite is known as to their present whereabouts. Only one man, George Knox, has appeared since the explosion, and he says everything happened so quickly that he doubts whether the men escaped.

Dreamer Woke Household.

New Providence, Jan. 11.—The members of the family of Charles Kaemmerer were awakened the other night by a hammering and shouting. It came from the direction of the room of their twelve-year-old son Leo. Thinking that some one was trying to kidnap their son, Mr. and Mrs. Kaemmerer rushed into the room. There to their surprise they found their son hammering wildly at a corner of the room with a stick. "He went in their hole; I'll get him out yet!" he shouted as they entered the door. "He got away from me," said the little fellow as they awoke him, for he was dreaming and acting out his dream. His brother had taken him muskrat hunting the day previous for the first time, and the lad imagined that he was hunting muskrats and that one had just run into a hole in the corner of the room.

Tammany For Recount.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 11.—Before he left for New York city last night Charles F. Murphy put Tammany Hall flatfooted on record for the enactment of legislation for a recount of the Mayoralty vote in New York city and got in another verbal slap at Mayor McClellan. "Is Tammany Hall in favor of legislation for a recount of the Mayoralty vote?" was asked of Mr. Murphy. "It is," replied Mr. Murphy. "How is it that Tammany, which was much opposed to the recount legislation last year, is favoring it this year?" was asked. "Last year Mayor McClellan as an organization man asked the organization to oppose it. This year he has made no such request," said Mr. Murphy, with a smile.

Gen. Pavloff Killed.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—Lieutenant General Vladimir Pavloff, Procurator General of the military tribunals, was assassinated yesterday morning. He had gone about 10 o'clock for his usual walk in the garden of his house on the Moika Quay, when he was attacked by a young man wearing the uniform of the Commissariat Department of the army. The assassin fired six shots from a revolver, killing General Pavloff on the spot. The murderer offered desperate resistance, firing fourteen or fifteen shots end killing a policeman and a child before he was captured. The police have not yet established the identity of the murderer. This series of assassinations has produced an indescribable sensation.

Art Connoisseur Kills Self.

New York, Jan. 11.—Escaping gas, the fumes of which filled the entire building, led to the discovery yesterday afternoon that Albert Chittenden, said to be a member of a well known family, a dilletante in art and literature, had three days before committed suicide in his apartments at No. 15 West Twenty-ninth street. After closing up the crevices of the doors and windows Mr. Chittenden had stretched himself upon a mattress in his bathroom, placed a tube fastened to a gas jet in his mouth and turned on the gas. Every indication so far points to mental aberration as the cause of the deed.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 11.—Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 10.—Whether or not William Spaugh, Jr., will be hanged today at Centerville, Mo., for the murder of Sheriff Polk, depends upon the ability of a blooded horse to force its way through twenty-five miles of mud and slush before the h our set for the drop to fall. J. B. Daniel, Spaugh's attorney, last night rode toward the nearest railway station, twenty-five miles away from the town, bearing a reprieve for one week granted by the Governor. Telephone communication has been destroyed by recent storms and only a wild night ride could save the man.

$11,050 for Automobile Wreck.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 11.—For the death of two members of Walter G. Cowles' family and injuries to Mrs. L. A. Keagy, of Hartford, a verdict of $11,050 was given yesterday against the New Haven Railroad. Mr. Cowles, his wife, his young son, Richard, and Mrs. Keagy, were passing through Cobalt in Mr. Cowles' automobile in October, when a train struck the automobile, killing Mrs. Cowles and her son and injuring Mrs. Keagy. Testimony was given that no warning was sounded of the approach of the train.

Burnett, Mrs. Frances Hodgson.—Dawn of a tomorrow.

"Through the companionship of a child of the slums, an Englishman of wealth and title who has planned to take his own life is brought to saner decision and an interest in his fellows."

"The little story is tenderly told, leaving the reader with a softened heart and broader sympathies." N. Y. Times.

Capes, Bernard.—Bembo, a tale of Italy.

"In its essence as a work of art, the tale is purely imaginative, for its central figure is a creature of the author's own fancy, projected upon the background of renaissance splendor and corruption. . . . . Mr. Capes has produced in this moving and opulent work something that comes near to being a masterpiece. He has entered into the inmost spirit of the age." Dial, Sept. 1, 1906.

Chambers, Robert. — Fighting chance.

"While the novel may be at heart no more pessimistic, socially speaking than Mrs. Wharton's 'The House of mirth,' it lacks the delicate perception and fine literary shading of that searching analysis." Outlook.

Cholmondeley, Mary. — Prisoners.

"In more ways than one, we are continually reminded of George Eliot; not that there is the faintest trace of imitation, but that Miss Cholmondeley has an equal insight into character and motive, a like power of analysis, a similar gift for pregnant sentences of humor and of wisdom." M. Gordon Pryor Rice in N. Y. Times.

Cutting, Mrs. Mary Stuart.—More stories of married life.

"Wholesome stories, concerning the problems and calamities of every day domesticity and the way in which love instructs how to cope with them."

Doyle, Sir Conan.—Sir Nigel.

"As a narrative pure and simple, Sir Nigel deserves unstined praise." Bookman.

"As a picture of the times, the book is successful, though the story does not seem as gripping as 'The white company' of which it is a sequel." N. Y. Times.

Frenssen, Gustav.—Holyland.

"The scenes and characters are drawn from among the humble seafaring folk who live on the borders of the German ocean. Their life, love, and sufferings are wonderfully shown and described. . . . Religious thought has a large place in the work, and the conception of divinity worked out is bold, startling, original yet inspiring in the highest degree. This phase of the book does not interrupt the flow of the narrative, but justifies it, and is its triumph and crown. The story is full of masterly descriptions, is full of pathos, poety, joy and sorrow, love and passion; its character painting is true to life; the personages, although all of them are peasants and sailors, live and excite the liveliest interest."

Gissing, George.—House of cobwebs.

"The fifteen stories themselves, slight as is their texture, are 'admirable specimens of Gissing's own ganre.' They manifest the delicate tenderness of his feeling, not for, but with, those to whom life has not been kind; his sense, constant and sore, of the wincing of a refined nature under the yoke of poverty; his knowledge, born of experience." N. Y. Times.

Greene, Serah P. McL.—Power lot.

"There is comedy of the choicest kind in it. The characters are vividly sketched . . . . takes hold of the heart and wins sympathy." Philadelphia Record.

"A pleasing return to the humor and breezy optimism of 'Cape God folks.' One of the best things she has written, full of the freshness and buoyancy of youth." Chicago Record-Herald.

Harker, Mrs. Lizzie Allen.—Concerning Paul and Fiammetta.

"A charming picture of English home life with a group of lively, natural, well-bred children in the foreground."

Howells, William Dean, and Alden, Henry Mills, eds.—Their husbands' woes (Harper's novelettes).

"Six short stories of married life, humorous, emotional, psychological, and entertaining. Appeared in Harper's magazine."

Kipling, Rudyard.—Puck of Peck's Hill.

"Each of the stories is full of life and movement. Taken together however, they have a unity and interest which are marred by separate publication in the magazines. They convey an uncommonly vivid sense of that past which to most of us is hazier than a dream." Nation.

London, Jack.—White fang.

"It is a big story—big in idea and treatment—Superficially it is perhaps the most thrilling and dramatic story of adventure that Mr. London has yet written; in its deeper intention, its application of a rational psychology to the animal mind embodies a daring symbolism."

Richardson, Samuel.—Sir Charles Grandison, selected and arranged with introduction and notes by George Saintsbury.

"This generation should thank Prof. Saintsbury for providing this excellent way of testing the genius of Richardson." Times, London.

Warner, Anne.—Susan Clegg and her neighbors' affairs.

"The inimitable Miss Clegg and her neighbors, including Mrs. Larthrop, are even more irresistible in these new stories than in the first series, which gave the author a reputation of the highest rank among American writers and humorists." Critic.

Waterloo, Stanley. Story of Ab, a tale of the time of the caveman.

CHILD LABOR IN STORES

Laws Governing Employment of Children to Cover Those in the Shops.

COMMISSION IS ACTIVE

To Keep Up Fight To Prevent Anyone Under Sixteen Working at Night.

The New Jersey Child Labor Commission, at a session in the home of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, of Elizabeth, decided to continue the work begun by it last year in introducing a bill into the Legislature prohibiting the employment of children under sixteen years of age at night, and also adopted resolutions authorizing the executive committee to introduce measures making the legislation in regard to factory labor apply also to mercantile establishments, and providing for the registry and supervision by the child labor committee of children sent to New Jersey homes and factories from organizations or societies outside the State.

Last year the bill to regulate child labor in factories who favorably reported by the Committee on Labor and Industry, but when brought before the House was vigorously opposed by Assemblymen from the glass-blowing factory districts. The bill was returned to the committee, and eventually squashed. These facts were presented early in the meeting by Owen J. Lovejoy, of the National Child Labor Commission, who told of the child labor campaigns of other States and spoke particularly of the employment of child labor by various glass-blowing concerns.

"The conditions are becoming better in many States," Mr. Lovejoy said, "and the time is very ripe now for decided improvement in the child labor laws. The law up before your Legislature last year for the restriction of child labor met with favor on the part of nearly all the members. The glass-blowers, however, offered a strong opposition. This has been so in many other States, yet now public sentiment has become so strong that the glass-blowers are of their own accord in Ohio and Illinois giving up child labor at night.

"By the installation of machines for the saving of labor, many factories are bettering the situation. These devices in glassblowers' establishments are capable of doing the work of thirty-two children. In this particular great improvement is being made, as these machines are being installed extensively. In relation to the question of applying the same restrictive laws to street trades, the national commission has found that it is better that such provisions should be made by municipal, rather than State laws."

Following the discussion concerning the danger from the conditions existing when children are sent to this State from outside States, Mrs. Williamson offered a resolution that the executive committee be authorized to introduce measures providing that the children sent to New Jersey homes and factories by outside institutions, societies or organizations shall be registered with the committee, and subject to its control and supervision, and that the societies sending the children be required to give security that they be not unlawfully employed. It is in this way intended to make societies sending children in this State responsible for their care. This bill is to be urged independent of the child labor bill.

It was brought out in the discussion relative to this measure that the greatest danger of child labor infringements exists to this State, and in cases where the children so sent may wander away from the control of either home or factory barracks. In the matter of taking action to secure legislation in the prohibition of child labor (under sixteen years of age) in mercantile establishments, a bill which will conform to the one referring to factories, it was decided to support the Consumers' eague, which has already taken steps toward the introduction of such a bill. This latter bill provides that children under sixteen years of age shall not be employed between the hours of 6 at night and 7 in the morning, with the exception of one night a week, when they may be employed until 9 o'clock, and during the Christmas holidays, beginning with December 15, when they may be employed until 10 o'clock.

Mrs. G. W. B. Cushing, of the Consumers' eague, who was present at the meeting, spoke of this measure, referring to the fact that it had the support of Governor Stokes, though the latter was in favor of setting the age limit at fourteen years. The committee also indorsed the Beveridge national child labor bill.

Chairman Hugh F. Fox, of Plainfield, who presided at the meeting, brought up the matter of the chairmanship of the committee for the

CHAMBER MUSIC CONCERT ATTRACTS CULTURED THRONG

Brilliant Musical Event at the Casino Under Mr. McIntyre's Direction.

The third of the McIntyre chamber music concerts last night at the Casino caused another high mark of excellence in this delightful series and was greeted by a large audience of Plainfield's cultured and fashionable people. The three members of the trio show the fine qualities that go to make a beautiful ensemble and have the artistic enthusiasm and temperament which are its basis. Their performance in the ever fresh and noble trio of Beethovens was marked by that fine sense of tonal balance and euphony which is the chief essential of chamber music.

Mr. McIntyre's playing of the piano part in the work was marked by brilliance, vigor and delicacy.

Mr. Dubinsky, who has been accepted as an especial favorite with these audiences, was compelled to respond to an encore to his solo numbers and gave the Traumerei by Schumann. His playing is a never failing delight

The assisting artist, Julian Walker, New York's great basso, met with a reception that must have been most gratifying even to him who knows enthusiastic success so well. His voice is of great power and of beautiful quality. The qualities which render him so great an artist are not only his natural endowments of voice and temperament but he stands among the few who possess the intellectual acumen that makes his interpretation and general production a beautiful satisfaction. He established himself at once in the hearts of the audience.

HOPING FOR GOOD WEATHER.

Y. M. C. A. Unfortunate In Meteorological Conditions on Sundays.

If the weather is anything like it should be tomorrow, the Y. M. C. A. theatre meeting will be largely attended. Dr. S. Parks Cadman, of Brooklyn, who is to speak, is an unusually winning pulpit orator, and a "man's man."

The weather prospects are what worry the Y. M. C. A. officials the day before theatre meetings. Not one theatre Sunday since the meetings have started has been fair or even halfway decent under foot. Rain has either been coming down in torrents when the meeting started, or a downpour has just stopped with indications of more in the heavens. The attendance, of course, has been unsatisfactory. The Y. M. C. A. men hope for better conditions tomorrow, but they have not much in the way of atmospheric conditions to buoy them up.

Elmer D. Cutting, soloist of the First Presbyterian church, will sing at tomorrow's meeting. F. H. Andrews will preside.

MEMORIAL TO SON.

Mrs. Robert Patterson Gives Font Stand to Hope Chapel.

In memory of her son, Harvey Patterson, who was killed in the Westfield wreck, Mrs. Robert Patterson has presented a white marble stand for the baptismal font of Hope chapel. The new stand takes the place of one given by Mrs. Patterson three years ago.

At the morning service tomorrow, Rev. L. R. Howard, the chapel pastor, will make reference to the gift. His sermon subject will be "The Meaning of Baptism."

In the evening, Mr. Howard will speak on "The Attractive Power of Christ Crucified." The service will be evangelistic.

To Be Taken to State Hospital.

Because of his violent actions, Martin Patschinska, of Duer street, was removed from the hospital this morning to his home. He was examined again by Dr. Dundon and arrangements are being made to have him taken to the State Hospital at Trenton. Before his removal from Muhlenberg, it was necessary to place him in a straight jacket to prevent his doing harm to himself.

Thought House Was In Danger.

A still alarm was received at headquarters yesterday afternoon for a grass fire on Grant avenue, opposite Fifth street. It was directtly back of a residence and a woman occupant thought the place was in danger. Chief Doane sent a hose wagon out to put an end to the trouble.

Rapid Progress at "Truell Hall."

The open winter weather permits the large gang of men employed at the Netherwood Hotel to make rapid progress in the extensive improvements underway and it now looks as though the place will be opened in May as arranged. The place will be then known as "Truell Hall."

INDEPENDENCE ALARMING

Utterances of Ackerman, Hillery and Minch Cause Anxety Among the Bosses.

HEARKEN TO PEOPLE

Plainfielder "Wears No Boss's Collar" and Neither Do Hillery and Minch For That Matter.

Even the utterances of State Senator Everett Colby, when he broke away from the Carl Lentz machine, in Essex county, a few years ago, did not cause the bosses throughout the State so much alarm, it is said, as do the recent statements of other prominent Senators who are within the pale of the organization today and so far as can be learned had no intention of casting their lot elsewhere.

Among those who are particularly causing the bosses to worry, it is declared, are such strong leaders in the upper house as Senator Ackerman, of Union county; Senator Minch, of Mercer county, and Senator Hillery, of Morris county, all of whom have shown a decided spirit of independence of late.

Ernest R. Ackerman especially has been pronounced in his avowals of independence in thought and action in his official duties. He is a strict party man and always has associated with the regular leaders in Union county, having been their choice in the first campaign he made for the Senate when Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, was practically forced to withdraw his candidacy in favor of the man picked by the bosses. But the men who shape the party destiny did not know their man, it is said, for from the first he has consistently represented his constituents and not the coterie which sets itself up as the master of political affairs.

The only time Senator Ackerman ever made a political pledge, it is alleged, was when he promised during his own campaign not to wear any boss' collar.

"If I am elected," he declared at a mass meeting in Elizabeth, "to represent you in the upper branch of the Legislature I will use my best endeavors to represent the people of this county in all fairness, and having no pledges to redeem, without mental reservation, I shall, without wearing the collar of any boss, without being any one's automation, or puppet, endeavor to be a man in all that the name implies, and thus unfettered be in a position to render the best service of which I am capable in the interests of the people of Union county."

When all seemed to forecast smooth sailing for John F. Dryden's re-election by the present Legislature Senator Ackerman caused a big surprise in political circles by announcing that he favored Governor E. C. Stokes for the much coveted position. That was soon after the November election. Within a day or two others followed his example, notably Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, the leader of the House.

The Plainfield man stated that his opposition to Dryden was due to the pronounced sentiment of his constituents against the insurance company president. Stokes, he pointed out, was from South Jersey and was therefore "the logical candidate for the office." The Governor's withdrawal did not effect the position he had taken against Dryden, and only a few days ago he and the Union county Assemblyman came out in a written statement requesting the Newark man to withdraw from the race that he and other Republican legislators might enter the party caucus and abide by its decision. "Representing the people of Union county, it is our duty to respect their wishes" —so ran the open letter to Mr. Dryden.

The same spirit of independence shown by Union county's Senator is found in the case of Senator Thomas Hillery, of Morris, who is likewise opposed to Mr. Dryden. In nominating Senator Minch for president of the Senate, on Tuesday, Mr. Hillery, gave expression to these words:

"Parties we will always have with us, but offensive partisanship is disappearing. There is now no excuse for a legislator not doing his duty. The public looks to the individual, not to the party, and the legislators cannot hide behind party. Senatorial courtesy has throttled legislation in the past. All bills in the future should be disposed of in the Senate."

Equally surprising, it is considered, were the words of Senator Minch an assuming the chair. The Mercer man in the course of his speech said:

"The spirit of independence is dominating the public mind. It prevails everywhere and nowhere more than in this State. Partisanship in public affairs is frowned upon, and the only partisanship that will appeal

EXPLORER R. E. PEARY COMING TO PLAINFIELD

WILL LECTURE ON HIS "FARTHEST NORTH" TRIP AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Lieutenant Robert E. Peary, the daring and intrepid explorer, is coming to Plainfield on Saturday evening, January 26. Through the efforts of several members, he will appear at the First M. E. church under the auspices of the Young Men's Brotherhood and lecture on his recent dash through the Arctic region on what is now called the "Farthest North" trip. It will be the first time he has been in New Jersey since returning home six weeks ago and will be the fifth time he has related his experiences before an audience.

The lecture will be illustrated by sixty colored stereopticon views from the explorer's own photographs, taken where human foot and human eye never reached before. The voyage was made in the "Roosevelt," a ship constructed especially for buffeting ice floes and the fact that it came back with the hull crushed in a dozen places shows the peril to which Peary and his crew were subjected. The vessel is now undergoing repairs and when first put on the stocks experts declared it was a mystery how she staid afloat.

On two previous occasions, the lieutenant attempted to reach the pole but the last trip took him farther north than anyone had ever gotten before. He was out fourteen months and only gave up when he became convinced that his supplies and general conditions prohibited pushing on.

MAJORITY OF CHILDREN IN N. Y. SCHOOLS ABNORMAL.

So Says Dr. Groszmann In Lecture Before Mothers' Association.

Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, of the Groszmann School, addressed the Plainfield mothers' meeting in the local High School lecture room yesterday on the subject of "Atypical Children." He said the people who think that the pupils in his school are insane, criminal and imbecile, labor under a delusion. They are atypical, said he; that is, children who differ from the average child. He declared there are far more atypical children than people realize, and in the schools of New York two-thirds of the children vary in some respects from the normal, healthy child.

The atypical child is not always backwards, according to Dr. Groszmann; it is usually a matter of self congratulation to parents when their children are remarkably bright and enter the high school at about twelve. This, he said, is a mistaken idea, for the child is abnormal or will break down physically, and if any have such children they should not be allowed to go on without an examination.

After the meeting Dr. Groszmann met the members informally to answer questions.

P.P.A. AFTER THE P.S.C.

Voluminous Report on Electric Light and Gas Considered by Committee.

QUIET INVESTIGATION

Discussion On the Fingings Made by Those Who Have Been Employed In Examining Service Here.

An exhaustive and lengthy report which will tend to show, it is alleged, that neither the city nor private consumers of gas and electric light are getting what they pay for, was considered at a private meeting of the executive committee of the Plainfield Protective Association, at the Casino, last night. The entire evening was devoted to a consideration of the report and it was decided to make it known in a few days. The report will be printed for free circulation.

The association has had in its employ for some time an expert who has been quietly engaged in making an extensive investigation into the matter of gas and electricity as furnished here by the Public Service Corporation. This has embraced an examination of the electric light and gas plants, methods and cost of operation, meters, voltage, etc., and the report covers all of these points in detail.

This investigation has been known to the officials of the Public Service Corporation and it is said they have not attempted in any way to prevent the expert from obtaining all the information he desired. The information has been secured at various times and was not intended to cover any special days or nights when the electric or gas light was particularly good or bad. The intention has been to present a report which would represent the average service given.

It is said to be the purpose of the association to have the report published in the Plainfield newspapers and then printed in pamphlet form for the purpose of distribution among the people of the city and borough. This report is the result of action taken at an executive committee of the association several months ago, when it was voted to employ an expert for the purpose named.

ELIZABETH OFFICIAL SUED BY PROPERTY OWNER.

Street Commissioner Caused the Arrest of Woman Who Protest Against Walk Cutting.

The suit for $25,000 damages brought by Mrs. Mary W. Brown, of Elizabeth, against Street Commissioner N. Thompson and other officials of Elizabeth, which was begun in the Supreme Court on Thursday, was adjourned at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon until Monday, when the lawyers will sum up and the case be given to the jury.

The action is one of more than ordinary interest. On July 30, 1904, the city began cutting away a portion of the sidewalk in front of Mrs. Brown's residence, where it extended over the gutter. Mrs. Brown protested and as a result Street Commissioner Thompson had her arrested and locked up. No charge was preferred against and later she was released. She then began action against the officials to recover damages. She is represented by Samuel Kalisch, of Newark, and Stephen Schleimer, of Elizabeth.

LECTURED ON MUSIC.

C. B. Chilton Addresses High School Pupils.

A lecture and recital on "The Appreciation of Music" was delivered to the pupils of the Plainfield High School yesterday by Carroll Brent Chilton, of New York, editor-in-chief of the "New Musical Education."

He referred to music as the most interesting and yet the least understood. He quoted Ruskin as saying that it is the fourth essential to human life.

"It is a language of feeling," continued Mr. Chilton, "a descriptive of the emotions, and the most indefinite form of expression. The vague and inttangible charm created by music," said he, "is a bodily pleasure and a nerve stimulent. In this, it is untrue that 'familiarity breeds contempt,' for 'repetition is the mother of study.'"

Mr. Chilton said that conditions today demand that people have an intelligent familiarity of music, and know something of the best compositions. He illustrated his lecture with selections.

Will Benefit the Hospital.

The illustrated lecture to be given at the Casino tonight by J. Dunbar Wright on the subject of "From Egypt to Japan," will be for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. The views will be especially fine and well worth seeing.

WATER COMMISSION EFFECTS ORGANIZATION AND AGREES UPON THE SCOPE OF ITS WORK

Exceptionally Good Committees Announced by Chairman Fisk; and the Work Begins.

TO ENGAGE EXPERTS

Counsel, Secretary and Stenographer Chosen—A Preliminary Discussion.

Substantial progress was made at the first meeting of the water investigation commission held at Mayor Fisk's office, last night, an organization being effected with a chairman, vice chairman, secretary, stenographer and three committees—engineering, legal and executive. Ten of the fifteen members of the committee were in attendance, and in addition, Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow, who was made secretary, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett, who were invited to attend the meetings. The others present were Mayor Charles J. Fisk, W. A. Coddington, William Newcorn, William L. Saunders, George H. Frost, John B. Dumont, William S. Tyler, Henry L. Hall, Dr. Justus H. Cooley, Joseph O. Osgood, A. J. Gavett, Leon R. Thurlow and representatives of the press.

Considerable time was saved by the action of Mayor Fisk in having the plan of organization and the objects of the committee all prepared for presentation. They were read by Mr. Fisk and adopted without a dissenting vote. He said at the beginning that while he did not want to take unto himself any more power or authority than rightfully belonged to him, yet the would like to head the committee and direct the investigation. This met with the hearty approval of the members. The organization was then effected as follows:

Chairman, Charles J. Fisk; vice chairman, John B. Dumont; secretary, Leon R. Thurlow; stenographer and copyist, George B. Wean. Then followed the appointment of the three committees as follows:

Engineering—Joseph O. Osgood, George H. Frost, William L. Saunders, Harry G. Runkle, Henry L. Hall. Legal—William S. Tyler, William Newcorn, William A. Coddington, Williar R. Craig, Dr. Justus H. Cooley. Executive—Charles J. Fisk, John B. Dumont, George P. Mellick, K. I. Tolles and Mayor Newton B. Smalley, the latter of the borough. Upon the recommendation of Mr. Fisk, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh was appointed counsel to the general committee. It was decided that the committee meet on the second Friday in each month, and special meetings may be held at the option of the members.

Mr. Tyler raised the question of expense and remarked that as yet the committee has no money with which to conduct the investigation. In reply Mr. Fisk stated that he had explicit faith in the Common Council in providing funds for the investigation, but if it did not see fit to make such an appropriation, he would furnish the funds himself, adding that the investigation must go on until completed and the citizens have an opportunity to decide the important question of water-supply. Mr. Fisk also said that not a stone would be left unturned in the investigation; that it would be as thorough as possible.

In the appointment of the committees, Mr. Fisk said that he would give the members the broadest powers and that they would not be limited in any way in their efforts to obtain all the important facts necessary to reach a conclusion.

William Newcorn made a suggestion, which was afterward incorporated in a motion and adopted, to the effect that the committee make an investigation in the various cities throughout the country having municipal water works, especially where the conditions are similar to those tc be found here.

In accordance with a resolution adopted at the last meeting of the Common Council, all of the papers, maps, etc., relating to the contract between the city and the Plainfield-Union Water Company and otherwise, were turned over to the committee for their help and guidance. Some of these papers cover the history of the water supply from its installation to the present time. Street

WITHDREW CHARGE AGAINST SERVANT.

S. W. Rushmore's Case Ends Abruptly; Other Side May Now Take Action.

The case of S. W. Rushmore against Mary Connors, the servant he had arrested two weeks ago on a charge of disorderly conduct after a row at the house, came to an abrupt ending this morning in the city court. Mr. Rushmore withdrew the complaint.

W. S. Angleman, counsel for the defendant, was in court with a number of witnesses, prepared to combat the charge with all vigor. The complaint was withdrawn last night, but under legal procedure, Mr. Angleman and his client were compelled to appear in court this morning to hear the formal words of dismissal from the bench.

Mr. Angleman said no settlement of the case had been effected. His client asserts things against Mr. Rushmore, and there is said to be a likelihood of action against the complainant. Mr. Angleman would say nothing as to that. It is said the complaint was withdrawn mainly because Mrs. Rushmore, whose testimony is understood to be necessary to a prosecution of the charge, was averse to appearing in court.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Mr. Lincoln J. Carter, the noted producer and playwright, has written a thrilling and interesting play, cleverly depicting frontier life, which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night, showing the American aborigine as he lives in his wigwam, his habits, mode of living, his character and temperament. The name of this play is "The Flaming Arrow" and comes to this city with a company of sterling worth, including a band of sixteen full-blooded Indians, together with cow-boys, scouts, ex-United States soldiers and four bronchos. An Indian band is with the attraction.

John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, "The Free Lance," with Joseph Cawthorn as the star of the same big organization of singers and comedians which originally presented the opera at the New Amsterdam theatre, New York, last season, with the same lavish production which Klaw & Erlanger gave it at that time, will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. "The Free Lance" is heralded as a genuine comic opera and a truly magnificent and colorful production written in the "March King's" vigorous and melodious style with book and lyrics by Harry B. Smith, of "Robin Hood" fame, telling a consistent story in a bright, sparkling manner and constantly brimming over with brisk, humorous dialogue, laughable situations and genuine mirthful quips and jests.

During the season 1901-1902 "The Volunteer Organist" was presented throughout the United States and Canada by three distinct companies, each carrying its own special scenery and mechanical effects. It appears that in some cities an impression prevailed that those who saw company number three or number two were not so well treated as the playgoers who witnessed the production by company number one. Nothing could be farther from the truth. As a matter of fact, the companies were of equal merit, while the three sets of scenery were exactly alike. The companies sent out this season are made up principally from the players who were most successful last season, so that the present production of "The Volunteer Organist," at least in a histrionic sense, will be far in advance of that of all previous ones, phenomenally great as the triumph of last year was. The organization which presents "The Volunteer Organist" in this city at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night is company number one, and will present as fine a cast and as perfect an equipment as any attraction offered this year to the public.

Billy S. Clifford in his new version of the merry musical fantasy, "A Jolly Baron," will be the offering at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday and Friday nights. It is a three act play by J. Harry Kingdom and it is said to afford Mr. Clifford excellent opportunities for the display of his quaint style and methods, besides permitting the introduction of his new songs and dances. The supporting company is a very capable one and a singing chorus handsomely gowned is featured.

Japs Flood Hawaii.

Honolulu, Hawaii, Jan. 12.—The number of Japanese who have come to the Hawaiian Islands within the last six months is astounding. No idea of the wholesale influx of Japanese is entertained on the mainland, except in official circles. Figures of Japanese arriving at Honolulu from Japanese ports for the last six months show the enormous total of 11,000 in round numbers. September and November were the heaviest months. The immigration to this port by months was, July, 1,325; August, 1,233; September, 2,237; October, 1,049; November, 3,098, and December, about 2,200.

S. S. Ponce Safe.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 12.—Having been seven days adrift with a broken shaft, the steamship Ponce was yesterday towed into this port by the Elizabeth Riekmers, a German steamship, which was on her way from Philadelphia for Nagasaki, Japan. Despite the fact that the vessel had been adrift for so long a time, all on board the Ponce were well, and it appears that there were plenty of provisions on board and that the passengers had been well cared for. The cargo is intact.

The Kinsman Block Signal System, A Valuable Industrial Investment.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 500 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

The cheapness and excellency of the modern watch are due to American invention and skill. American skyscrapers, from nine to ten stories high, are to be erected near the pyramids of Ghisen in Egypt. Permission for the erection of homes and hotels in the great plain extending from Eskebich to the Nile, and covered with ancient sphinxes and structures, has been granted by the Egyptian Government. Several associations have been formed for the building of large hotels in this district.

The fashionable quarter of London is now being largely deserted. This is attributed to the introduction of automobiles. Those who have country houses come to town in their automobiles, stop at a hotel and return to their own mansion, so the town house is no longer so necessary as it used to be. Another reason is that London rents and taxes have risen to such a height that people with large houses and moderate means cannot afford to remain in town during the season. The servant question is another source of trouble; and, taking it altogether, the aristocratic classes have moved to their country mansions and left town altogether.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

At the Manhattan theatre Wilton Lackaye, in "The Law and the Man," continues the run of his own dramatization of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables." Students of literature find Mr. Lackaye's conception of Jean Valjean an interesting one admirably supported by a strong cast. The production of this powerful drama is one of Mr. Lackaye's greatest achievements and the dramatization of the French classic one of the most difficult ever atempted with success.

The great success of "The Man of the Hour," which enters its seventh week at the Savoy theatre, demonstrates the deep interest of the public in any subject that tends to expose conditions of municipal graft and official corruption. The author, George Broadhurst, has dealt broadly with known conditions of machine politics and boss rule and is generally believed to have daringly used present incumbents of office and political leadership as studies for his stage characters.

Garrick theatre—William Collier and his new farce, "Caught in the Rain," are tremendously popular at the Garrick theatre where the comedian has scored a laughing knockout with this delightful play. It is a jolly whirl of fun through thhee happy acts and there is not a moment when the laugh, and a good big hearty one, at that, is not there. "Caught in the Rain" is the greatest farce hit, the town has known since the merry reign of "Charley's Aunt."

Wallack's theatre—Sam Bernard is rounding out his third month of triumph in "The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer" at Wallack's theatre. There never was a better Bernard role than that of the present Piggy Hoggenheimer. It is extremely funny in its every phase. The spectacular features of the show are numerous and there is an abundance of pretty girls, and nearly a score of good catchy songs add to the diversity of the entertainment. The most popular of these songs are "Don't You Want a Paper, Dearie," "Poker Love," "The Bagpipe Serenade," "Little Old America for Me."

Hudson theatre—"The Hypocrites" entered the New Year as popular and as vigorous an attraction as when it began its career at the Hudson theatre last August. During its six months stay it has drawn crowded houses and that is what it is still doing. There is quite unanimous agreement among the people who see "The Hypocrites" that it is one of the most powerful modern dramas presented here in the last ten or twenty years. Henry Arthur Jones has not written a more powerful or more attractive drama. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Mr. Belasco has gicen William Furst, the composer, a wider latitude in "The Rose of the Rancho," at the Belsco theatre, for the introduction of incidental music than in any production since "The Darling of the Gods" The music composed for the latter play by Mr. Furst is regarded among the best examples of incidental music in America. In the new play of Spanish California the composer has embodied the spirit of the Castilian dance and song in beautiful form, by drawing freely upon the peculiarly enchanting rhythms of the Mexican and South American dances. Among the musical numbers introduced is a song, "El Corazon des di Chado," or "The Carless Heart;" another bears the ittle, "Los Palometas," called in English "Little Dove," a love song with guitar accompaniment. A musical feature of interest is the kissing dance in the second act, "Los Canostra des Flores," which, translated, means "The Little Basket of Flowers," and a solo dance by Miss Starr, "El Jarabe," a graceful measure, on the order of an old Mexican dance.

Mrs. John Driscoll, of 217 Grant avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I made a statement for publication regarding the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, and said statement still holds good in every particular. If I were to make a single change in it, it would only be to make it stronger, for during the past few years I have known many people to use Doan's Kidney Pills, and have yet to hear of a case in which the remedy failed to do the work it is claimed to do. My own case was a dull aching pain in the small of the back and in the sides. It clung to me incessantly and hard work seemed to increase it. I was subject also to hard backaches, and spells of dizziness when stooping. I was generally weak and depressed. I tried plasters and used many different remedies without finding relief, and being finally led to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, began using the remedy, finding, at length, the relief I have described in the estimonial I gave for publication in 1898."

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Billy Clifford, who is familiar to vaudeville patrons and who appeared in this city many times in other days, is now starring in "A Jolly Baron" and will be seen in this city next Thursday and Friday nights. Clifford is one of the cleverest singers and dancers on the stage and has had a big following for the past decade.

William B. Gray's four act sentimental play, "The Volunteer Organist," a beautiful drama of New England life, has been secured by Manager Counihan for next Wednesday night. The scenic and electrical effects are startling and realistic, and the company is made up of distinguished players. In the last act of the drama two beautiful St. Bernard dogs are introduced, whose business it is to rescue a child from a blinding snowstorm.

Nella Bergen in private life is Mrs. DeWolf Hopper. Jeanette Lowrie is Mrs. Thomas Seabrooke. Both are prominent factors in "The Free Lance," managed by Klaw & Erlanger. De Wolf Hopper and Seabrooke are managed by the opposition. It is evident that matrimonial affairs do not enter into the syndicate and independent business arrangements.

The date of the local Elks show has been changed from February 7 to February 6 because of confliction with the "Chimes of Normandy," which is to be presented by the Plainfield Operatic Association on the former night.

According to a report submitted at the stockholders' annual meeting held this week, the Barnum & Bailey show cleared but $88,000 last season, next to the smallest amount since the circus began business. The profits have been good up to an engagement at Louisville last fall and from then on until the route was completed, bad weather caused a loss of $100,000. There were six days straight when no performances could be given though the outfit moved from city to city with a daily expense of $6,500. As a result of the low receipts there was no division because of extensive plans for next season, one of which is to renew every bit of the rolling stock. In contrast, it was stated at the meeting that in 1883, the year that the elephant "Jumbo" was brought over, the profits were $850,000 and the first tour of Europe netted $600,000.

The Confederate's Lost Opportunity.

Just why the Confederates never followed up their victory after Bull Run has been a question in military circles. Gen. E. P. Alexander in the January Scribner, writing on the subject says: "Jackson's offer to take Washington City the next morning with 5,000 men, had been made to the President as he arrived upon the field, probably about 5 o'clock. It was not sunset until 7:15 and there was a nearly full moon. But the President himself and both generals spent these precious hours in riding over the field where the conflict had taken place.

The long, undulating folds in which the Appalachians were produced when first thrown up are characteristic of mountain ranges the world over. INDEPENDENCE ALARMING to the people is the adherance to the rights demanded by men in every walk of life."

Mr. Ackerman, upon whom the eyes of the "bosses" throughout the State are centured, is a native of New York. Soon after being graduated from the Plainfield Public High School in 1880, at the age of seventeen, he got a job as shipping clerk in the Lawerence Cement Company. Today he is president of that concern, which is said to be one of the largest of its kind in the country. He has spent a good part of his time in recent years in travel and there is hardly a part of the globe upon which he has not trod.

Entering Plainfield politics in 1891, he was elected to the Common Council, and became the leader in the fight against the "Bix six," which dominated that city's affairs. Largely through his efforts the ring was driven from power. At that time he became a deadly foe of perpetual franchises, and it is said by his friends that Mr. Ackerman is the father of limited franchise agitation in New Jersey.

He was a Republican Presidential elector in 1896 and was secretary of the New Jersey Electrical College in 1897. He has been chairman of the Republican City Committee and has frequently presided at county conventions, as well as at other important councils of his party.

Mr. Ackerman is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, a fellow of the American Geographical Society, a member of the New Jersey Geological Survey, and of the Union League Club, Lawyers' Club and Chamber of Commerce in New York; vice-president of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital and an officer of the Plainfield Country Club, the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Association and the Y. Marvelous Music.

New York, Jan. 12.—Musicians and scientists made up the larger part of the audience at the first public exhibition yesterday of Thaddeus Cahill's invention, the telharmonium, through which music is produced from electrical vibrations. The exhibition was given in Telharmonic Hall and was pronounced a decided success. From banks of dynamos in the basement came music similar but in some respects superior to the tones of the pipe organ, the French horn, the clarinet, but this music was produced without reeds, pipes, strings or any of the elements hitherto employed in the formation of musical sound. Eliminating all technical consideration of the invention, it consists simply of producing by electrical current the exact number of vibrations required for each tone in the major and minor scales and then building up the harmonics or overtones which belong with each basic tone. With all the novelty and wonder of the thing there was just a touch of magic in this first performance of the electric music machine yesterday. Strains of Chopin's Second Nocturne, reproducing the tone of a French horn, would come first from a chandelier, then from a large vase of roses, then from the floor beneath one's feet. In each of the places from which the music came was a diaphone, and the electrical vibrations of the dynamos were merely switched from one place to another where the telephones were concealed.

Commissioner Gavett also turned over a number of valuable papers.

Mr. Saunders wanted to know if it is to be the purpose of the committee to find an independent source of water supply and ascertain the cost. Mr. Fisk said that was exactly his idea. That the investigation is to be continued just as though Plainfield had no water supply and was endeavoring to secure one. This, of course, will be one line of action.

Mr. Frost stated that the Plainfield-Union Water Company occupies a unique position in this city, obtaining its rights to sell water here under a grant given previous to the incorporation of the city. It was his opinion that the company has no special rights as to the use of the streets.

At the suggestion of Mr. Tyler, a motion was adopted requesting Corporation Counsel Marsh to turn over to the committee such papers relating to the subject under discussion, as may be convenient. Mr. Tyler was instructed to see Mr. Marsh concerning this.

The rights of the Plainfield-Union Water Company will be thoroughly investigated, especially those as to supplying other towns outside of this city with water. It was conceded that the city has the right to condemn the water pipes in the streets of Plainfield, although it is a question as to whether the city can disturb mains running to other towns.

Mr. Fisk further explained that he expected that North Plainfield being interested in this matter with Plainfield would be willing to stand its share of the expense of the investigation, if the borough desires to take it up. There was also a discussion regarding the relationship of the Plainfield Water Supply Company to the Union Water Company, which formerly operated between this city and Elizabeth and which is now merged with the Plainfield-Union Water Company, the new corporation.

Dr. Cooley spoke of a gravity system of water supply which he secures from Washington Valley. He said that there are many months in the year when he is not obliged to pump water at all, and the supply is the best, an advantage being that the water is very soft.

Mr. Osgood made a suggestion that probably Mr. Frost could furnish the committee with valuable statistics on water supply throughout the country, showing the advantage and disadvantage, if any in the municipal and private ownership systems. He said that in the New England States a majority of the supplies are controlled by the municipalities, while in the southwest private ownership is more general.

Mr. Frost said that in 1887 he began the collection of data concerning water works and continued it until 1900. It was found to be an expensive thing. He said that such statistics as he has are at the disposal of the committee. Mr. Frost said that the tendency nowadays is towards municipal control of water supplies.

Mr. Fisk stated that he had received a letter from Mr. Runkle, in which the latter stated that he expected to be away a great deal of the time and did not think he would be able to serve on the committee. Mr. Fisk regretted the action and said that he hoped to prevail upon Mr. Runkle to continue on the committee.

It was understood that the engineering committee has the power to secure a competent engineer upon whom shall devolve the duties of making surveys and doing much of the outside work under the direction of the committee.

This committee is to be known as "The Water Investigation Committee," and the objects as set forth in the statement prepared by Mr. Fisk and unanimously adopted, are as follows:

"The subject of this committee shall be to make a full and thorough investigation into the question of Municipal Ownership of the Water Supply of the City of Plainfield and determine whether Plainfield should own water supply or continue to purchase such supply from the PlainfieldUnion Water Company.

"The committee shall make a full and complete report to the Common Council of the results of their investigation.

"Special attention shall be paid to the following questions: the costs of installing and the costs of operating, in each case shall be thoroughly investigated.

"(A) To investigate and determine the question of providing the City of Plainfield, independent of the Plainfield-Union Water Company, such quantity of pure and wholesome water as may be required for domestic or other purposes by the inhabitants. The supply of water to be obtained from such source or sources as may be possible, either within the city limits or outside, as may be determined by competent engineers.

"(B) In case the city should decide to install its own water works, to consider the matter of the construction of its own distributing system, or of taking or acquiring, either by purchase or condemnation, the property of the Plainfield-Union Water company, that is to say, the water mains, pipes, house hydrant and other connections, valves or gates, or special castings of every description now owned by the Plainfield-Union Water Company and laid in the streets, allays, and other public places in the City of Plainfield, being the entire system in use by the Plainfield-Union Water Company, for conveying water through the City of Plainfield for the use of the inhabitants of said city, but not including the main line of pipes for conveying water through the City of Plainfield for other municipalities.

"(C) To consider the question of acquiring the wells, stand pipe, machinery, real estate, buildings, in fact the entire plant and all property, including pipe lines, etc., now owned by the Plainfield-Union Water Company, also all rights and franchises now owned by the Plainfield-Union Water Company and within the limits of said City of Plainfield, either by purchase or condemnation.

"(D) Also to examine into the rights of the Plainfield-Union Water Company under its charter or other legislative acts, to take water from within the limits of the City of Plainfield and to sell the same to any party or parties, except to townships or municipalities immediately adjoining the City of Plainfield, either directly or indirectly through another company formed for that purpose.

"(E) To take up, with the authorities of North Plainfield the question of securing for the borough of North Plainfield like advantages and acting jointly with them on this question.

"Committees—The chairman shall appoint three sub-committees as follows: Engineering Committee, Legal Committee, Executive and Finance Committee.

"Each of these sub-committees is to be composed of five members.

"Engineering Committee—The Engineering committee shall take full charge of all engineering problems which may come before the water investigation committee.

"They shall have power to engage such competent engineers as in their judgment may be necessary.

"Legal Committee—The legal committee shall have full charge of all legal matters which may come before the water investigation committee.

"They shall investigate all laws and statutes of the State of New Jersey relating to this subject, particular attention being paid to the examination into all questions that may arise between the City of Plainfield and the Plainfield Water Supply Company.

They shall have full power to obtain such legal advice as in their judgment may be necessary.

"Craig A. Marsh, Corporation Counsel of the City of Plainfield, shall be designated as counsel for the water investigation committee and invited to be present at all meetings.

"Executive and Finance Committee—This committee shall have general direction of the investigation and shall outline and decide all questions of general policy and shall have power to act upon all questions during the intervals between the meetings of the general committee.

"They shall have charge of all financial questions and pass on all the bills incurred by the committee."

To Protect Office Women.

New York, Jan. 12.—Unprincipled employers and clerks whose conduct is a menace to young girls with whom they come in contact in business life were denounced yesterday by the Rev. Dr. William Montague Geer, who proposed that a guild hall be established in the lower city as a noon refuge for women stenographers. His plan was announced at a midday service from the pulpit of St. Paul's chapel, of which he is vicar, to a congregation composed largely of the class which he wishes to protect and benefit. His philippic wmas inspired, he says, by stories told to him by girls who had come to hom for religious counsel and from stories told by other clergymen, by various philanthropic societies, by citizens and by janitors of office buildings. The structure he would see erected would not only be a haven but the headquarters of a corps of lawyers, who would prosecute or sue those against whom complaints are made. It would also contain an employment bureau to furnish employes only to employers known to be considerate in their treatment of women.

$4,500 Clock Carried Off.

New York, Jan. 12.—How in a moment when the front room of their art and wood working establishment in No. 382 Fifth avenue was left unguarded a thief could enter and steal an ormulu alarm clock valued at $4,500, together with an ancient Italian cope worth $900, and get safely away with both is puzzling the firm of H. G. Huber & Co. Made by Fervez, in Paris, a hundred years ago, the clock was of solid brass overlaid with gold and weighed at least a hundred pounds. Figures of the Louis XVI. period supported the ornamented dial, and on the top was another figure. The cope was of lavender damask, beautifully embroidered with gold threads, and similar to that trecently returned to the Italian government by J. Pierpont Morgan. A few days before the cope and clock disappeared two silver cups, eighteen inches tall, covered with leather on which was emblazoned the arms of the Lord Mayor of London, in 1780, were missed.

AN ELUCIDATION.

"Ah!" sighed the poet, "she comes and goes, uncertain, evanescent; now appearing, now vanishing; now charming us with her wiles and ways, and casting over our hearts the spell of her presence, luring us and leading us on to believe that she is ours forever; again hastening from us just when our clasp grows warm, just when we have come to know the dulcet sweetness of her voice; as fickle as a shadow, as—"

"What in the world is he talking about?" asked the large lady with the purple beads, in the rear seat.

"A cook, I think," offered the other large lady with the turquoise rings and the new lorgnette.—Judge.

Around.

"How is the arm you injured the other evening, Mr. Swift?"

"Oh, it is able to be around."

"Now, Mr. Swift, if you don't stop squeezing me I'll call mamma."—Houston Post.

Natural.

Did I not love my neighbor
As myself I'd be a churl;
Because you see my neighbor
Is a very pretty girl.

A QUESTION OF DOLLARS.

Jinks—Is Scribbler's new book out?

Winks—Yes, but I don't know now much.—Topeka Journal.

Look Ahead.

There's a sob and a sigh
And a doubt for to-morrow,
A cloud in the sky
And a cup filled with sorrow,
For the man who looks back
On the hopes that are dead,
Forgetting the ones
That are lying ahead.
—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Papa's Wisdom.

"What do you suppose your father would say if we were to elope?" asked the poor but proud young man.

"Oh," replied the pretty girl in the hammock, "he wouldn't say a word."

"Are you sure he wouldn't?" queried the y. m. anxiously.

"Yes," answered the p. g. "He'd simply move away and forget to leave his address."—Chicago Daily News.

Inexpensive, But—

Oldun—I just paid $50 for a new set of teeth. How do you like them?

Youngun—Oh, they look all right. But why didn't you call on Jones and get a full set inserted free?

Oldun—Why, I didn't know Jones was a dentist.

Youngun—He isn't, but he keeps a savage dog.—Chicago Daily News.

Those Dear Girls.

"I am not anxious to marry," said the girl who was beginning to be not so young. "I am fully able to fight life's battles alone."

"But how do you know that when you have never had an engagement?" asked the young widow.—Chicago Daily News.

In Explanation.

"Aren't you sometimes remorseful over the way you have crushed out your rivals in business?"

"My dear sir," answered the billionaire, "I did nothing to my rivals that they would not have done to me if they had thought of it first."—Washington Star.

Extremes Meet.

First Prisoner—What are you here for?

Second Prisoner—Fast riding. What are you here for?

"Slow riding."

"How's that?"

"I ran off with a bicycle."—Cassell's Journal.

Eccentric.

"What an eccentric person old man Wappleton is."

"Eccentric? I have never noticed anything queer about him."

"Haven't you? Why, he's always saying something good about somebody."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Place for Everything.

Patience—So you don't like frogs' legs?

Patrice—Oh, I think they're all right in their place.

"And where is their place, pray?"

"On the frogs!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Probably.

"The San Francisco Bulletin says that the average woman would rather have her husband pat her cheek than give her $1,000."

"Well, I guess the average husband would rather do it."—Houston Post.

Not Committed.

Subbubs—I thought you said the cottage was half a mile from the station.

Agent—Yis, but Oi niver said how far the station wor from the cottage.—N. Y. Sun.

TRUE COURAGE.

"The best hearts are ever the bravest," said Sterne.

"Courage is adversity's lamp," Vauvenargues wisely stated.

"Cowards have no luck!" These are Elizabeth Kulmann's brave words.

J. Brisben Walker believes that "No man can be truly a gentleman if a coward."

"Fortune never helps the man whose courage fails." This is a bit of the wisdom of Sophocles.

Says George Horace Lorimer: "No man is a failure until he's dead or loses courage—and that's the same thing."

Sydney Smith long ago remarked that "A great deal of talent is lost to the world for the want of a little courage."

"When moral courage feels that it is in the right there is no personal daring of which it is incapable," was Leigh Hunt's conviction.

Said Rochefoucauld: "True bravery is shown by performing without witness what one might be capable of doing before all the world."

"Fear, which only is another name for ignorance, is all that ails us. Understanding alone conquers fear." This is the successful creed of Helen Williams Post.

CONFESSIONS OF DODD GASTON.

I have noticed that about the only place "silver threads among the gold" are really popular is in a song.

I feel reasonably sure of one thing: When I die nobody is going to claim that it was the result of overwork.

I do not much mind playing against a visiting man, but I do hate to be booked in competition with a baby.

Nothing would so completely reconcile me to death as the appearance, at my bedside, of some of my relatives.

I would really like to be fatter, but realize that I cannot afford it. Being fatter would mean a new dress suit.

I find that every young girl has a wild desire to wear her hair "up" and every old girl has the same desire to appear with "down."

I have noticed that the only time the banana does much business is at a season of the year when it has no competition.

I find that one of the hardest duties of the dramatic critic is to reconcile the average society play with the average stage furniture.

About all the ambition I have left is to grow rich enough to have a hack waiting for me while I lounge around inside smoking and "gassing."—Topeka Capital.

JUST JOTTINGS.

In gaining a poor grocer the world has often lost a good poet.

Good luck is like a faultless wife. Somebody else always has it.

No man has ever been able to find out why he should be expected to make party calls.

It is pretty hard to get people to think much of a man whose wife insists that she made him what he is.

After a woman has been carried in her night clothes down a fire escape she always regards herself as a heroine.

Adam and Eve were lucky. They had no fool friends who wanted to be funny when they started away on their honeymoon.

After a woman has failed in every other way to create a senastion she can put on a heavy black veil and go to the funeral of some other woman's husband.

Divorce statistics indicate that in about three cases out of ten it would have been better to have loved and lost, and still better never to have loved at all.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, Author of THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1903 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

"Yes, yes, I know it. It was right that you should be the one to come and take her away. The Lord's vengeance was well thought out. Oh, how much more He can make us suffer than you could with your clumsy killings! She must go, but wait—not yet—not yet. Oh, my God! I couldn't stand it to see her go. It would cut into my heart and leave me to bleed to death. No, no, no—don't! Please don't! Don't pile it all on me at the last. The end has come anyway. Don't do that—don't, don't!"

There, there, be still now." There was a rough sort of soothing in Follett's voice, and they were both silent a moment. Then the young man went on:

"But what do you expect? Suppose everything was left to you, Mister. Come now, you're trying to talk fair. Suppose I leave it to you—only you know you can't keep her."

"Yes, it can't be, but let her stay a little while; let me se her a few times more; let me know she doesn't think I'm bad; and promise never to tell her all of it. Let her always think I was a good man. Do you promise me that. I'd do it for you, Follett. It won't hurt you. Let her think I was a good man."

"How long do you want her to stay here?—a week, ten days?"

"It will kill me when she goes!"

"Oh, well, two weeks?"

"That's good of you; you're kinder at your age than I was—I shall die when she goes."

"Well, I wouldn't want to live if I were you."

"Just a little longer, knowing that she cares for me. I've never been free to have the love of a woman the way you will some day, though I've hungered and sickened for it—for a woman who would understand and be close. But this girl has been the soul of it some way. See here, Follett, let her stay this summer, or until I'm dead. That can's be a long time. I've felt the end coming for a year now. Let her stay, believing in me. Let me know to the last that I'm the only man who has been in her heart, who has won her confidence and her love. Oh, I mean fair. You stay with us yourself and watch. Come—but look there, look, man!"

"Well,—what?"

"That candle is going out,—we'll be in the dark"—he grasped the other's arm—"in the dark, and now-I'm afraid again. Don't leave me here! It would be an awful death to die. Here's that thing now on the bed behind me. It's trying to get around in front where I'll have to see it—get another candle. No—don't leave me,—this one will go out while you're gone." All his strength went into the grip on Follett's arm. The candle was sputtering in its pool of grease.

"There, it's gone—now don't, don't leave me. It's trying to crawl over me—I smell the blood—"

"Well—lie down there—it serves you right. There—stop it—I'll stay with you."

Until dawn Follett sat by the bunk, submitting his arm to the other's frenzied grip. From time to time he somewhat awkwardly uttered little words that were meant to be soothing, as he would have done to a frightened child.

When morning brought the gray light into the little room, the haunted man fell into a doze, and Follett, gently unclasping the hands from his arm, arose and went softly out. He was cramped from sitting still so long, and chilled, and his arm hurt where the other had gripped it. He pulled back the blue woollen sleeve and saw above his wrist livid marks where the nails had sunk into his flesh.

Then out of the room back of him came a sharp cry, as from one who had awakened from a dream of terror. He stepped to the door again and looked in.

"There now—don't be scared any more. The daylight has come; it's all right—all right—go to sleep now—"

He stood listening until the man he had come to kill was again quiet. Then he went outside and over to the creek back of the willows to bathe in the fresh running water.

CHAPTER XXX.

Ruel Follett's Way of Business.

By the time the women were stirring that morning, Follett galloped up on his horse. Prudence saw him from the doorway as he turned in from the main road, sitting his saddle with apparent carelessness, his arms loose from the shoulders, shifting lightly with the horse's motion, as one who had made the center of gravity his slave. It was a style of riding that would have made a scandal in any riding school; but it seemed to be well calculated for the quick halts, sudden swerves, and acute angles affected by the yearling steer in his moments of excitement.

He dismounted, glowing from his bath in the icy water of the creek and from the headlong gallop up from Bell Wardle's corral.

"Good morning, Miss Prudence."

"Good morning, Mr. Follett. Will you take breakfast with us directly?"

"Yes, and it can't be too directly for me. I'm wolfish. Miss Prudence, your pa and me had some talk last night, and I'm going to bunk in with you all for awhile, till I get some business fixed up."

She smiled with unaffected gladness, and he noticed that her fresh morning color was like that of the little wild roses he had lately brushed the dew from along the creek.

"We shall be glad to have you."

"It's right kind of you; I'm proud to hear you say so." He had taken off the saddle with its gay colored Navajo blanket, and the bridle of plaited rawhide with its conchos and its silver bit. Now he rubbed the back of his horse where the saddle had been, ending with a slap that sent the beast off with head down and glad heels in the air.

He carried the saddle and bridle into the house, and she followed him.

Whatever the nature of Mr. Follett's business, his confidence in the soundness of his attitude toward it was perfect. He showed no sign of abstraction or anxiety; no sign of aught but a desire to live agreeably in the present,—a present that included Prudence. When the early breakfast was over they went out about the place, through the peach orchard and the vineyard still dewy, lingering in the shade of a plum tree, finding all matters to be of interest. For a time they watched and laughed at the two calves through the bars of the corral, cavorting feebly on stiffened legs while the bereaved mothers cast languishing glances at them from outside, conscious that their milk was being basely diverted from the rightful heirs. They picked many blossoms and talked of many things. There was no idle moment from early morning until high noon; and yet, though they were very busy, they achieved absolutely nothing.

In the afternoon Prudence donned her own sombrero, and they went to the canyon to fish. From a clump of the yellowish green willows that fringed the stream, Follett cut a slender wand. To this he fixed a line and a tiny hook that he had carried in his hat, and for the rest of the distance to the canyon's mouth he collected such grasshoppers as lingered too long in his shadow. Entering the canyon they followed up the stream, clambering over broken rocks, skirting huge boulders, and turning aside to go around a gorge that narrowed the torrent and flung it down in a little cascade.

Here and there Follett would flicker his hook over the surface of a shaded pool, poise it at the foot of a ripple, skim it across an eddy, cast it under a shelf of rock or dangle it in some promising nook by the willow roots, shielding himself meanwhile as best he could; here behind a boulder, there bending a willow in front of him, again lying flat on the bank, taking care to keep even his shadow off the stream and to go silently.

From where she followed, Prudence would see the surface of the water break with a curling gleam of gold, which would give way to a bubbling splash; then she would see the willow rod bend, see it vibrate and thrill and tremble, the point working slowly over the bank. Then perhaps the rod would suddenly straighten out for a few seconds only to bend again, slowly, gently, but mercilessly. Or perhaps the point continued to come in until it was well over the bank and the end of the line close by. Then after a frantic splashing on the margin of the stream the conquered trout would be gasping on the bank, a thing of shivering gleams of blended brown and gold and pink. At first she pitied the fish and regretted the cruelty of man, but Follett had other views.

"Why," he said, "a trout is the cruelest beast there is. Look at it trying to swallow this poor little hopper that it thought tumbled into the water by accident. It just loves to eat its stuff alive. And it isn't particular. It would just as lief eat its own children. Now you take that one there, and say he was ten thousand times as big as he is, and you were coming along here and your foot slipped and Mr. Trout was lying behind this rock here—hungry. Say! What a mouthful you'd make, pink dress and all—he'd have you swallowed in a second, and then he'd sneak back behind the rock there, wiping his mouth, and hoping your little sister or somebody would be along in a minute and fall in too."

"Ugh!—Why, what horrible little monsters! Let me catch one."

And so she fished under his direction. They lurked together in the shadows of rocks, while he showed her how to flicker the bait in the current, here holding her hand on the rod, again supporting her while she leaned out to cast around a boulder, each feeling the other's breathless caution and looking deep into each other's eyes through seconds of tense silence.

Such as they were, these were the only results of the lesson; results that left them in easy friendliness toward each other. For the fish were not deceived by her. He would point out some pool where very probably a hungry trout was lying in wait with his head to the current, and she would try to skim the lure over it. More than once she saw the fish dart toward it, but never did she quite convince them. Oftener she saw them flit up-stream in fright, like flashes of gray lightning. Yet at length she felt she had learned all that could be taught of the art, and that further failure would mean merely a lack of appetite or spirit in the fish. So she went on alone, while Follett stopped to clean the dozen trout he had caught.

While she was in sight he watched her, the figure bending lithe as the rod she held, moving lightly, now a long, now a short step, half kneeling to throw the bait into an eddy; then off again with determined strides to the next likely pool. When he could no longer see her, he fell to work on his fish, scouring their slime off in the dry sand.

When she returned, she found him on his back, his hat off, his arms flung out above his head, fast asleep. She sat near by on a smooth rock at the water's edge and waited—without impatience, for this was the first time she had been free to look at him quite as she wished to. She studied him closely now. He seemed to her like some young power of that far strange eastern land. She thought of something she had heard him say about Dandy: "He's game and fearless and almighty prompt,—but he's kind and gentle, too." She was pleased to think it described the master as well as the horse. And she was glad they had been such fine playmates the whole day long. When the shadow moved off his face and left it in the slanting rays of the sun, she broke off a spruce bough and propped it against the rock to shield him.

And then she sighed, for they could be playmates only in forgetfulness. He was a Gentile, and by that token wicked and lost; unless—and in that moment she flushed, feeling the warmth of a high purpose.

She would save him. He was worth saving, from his crown of yellow hair to the high heels of his Mexican boots. Strong, clean, gentle, and—she hesitated for a word—interesting—he must be brought into the Kingdom, and she would do it. She looked up again and met his wide-open eyes.

They both laughed. "I sat up with your pa last night," he said, ashamed of having slept. "We had some business to palaver about."

He had tied the fish into a bundle with aspen leaves and damp moss around them, and now they went back down the stream. In the flush of her new role as missionary she allowed herself to feel a secret motherly tenderness for his immortal soul, letting him help her by hand or arm over places where she knew she could have gone much better alone.

Back at the house they were met by the little bent man, who had tossed upon his bed all day in the fires of his hell. He looked searchingly at them to be sure that Follett had kept his secret. Then, relieved by the frank glance of Prudence, he fell to musing on the two, so young, so fresh, so joyous in the world and in each other, seeing them side by side with those little half-felt, timidly implied, or unconsciously expressed confidences of boy and girl; sensing the memory of his own lost youth's aroma, his youth that had slipped off unrecked in the haze of his dreams of glory. For this he felt very tenderly toward them, wishing that they were brother and sister and his own.

That evening, while they sat out of doors, she said, very resolutely:

"I'm going to teach Mr. Follett some truth to-morrow from the Book of Mormon. He says he has never been bantized in any church."

"Insure in a sound, standard Company for as much as you can reasonably carry while you are young, and as your earning power increases, add to your policy holdings. REVILLE AND FELVER NOW SECOND IN TOURNEY

PASSED OVER KIELY AND RUNYON BY TAKING THREE STRAIGHT.

By taking three straight games from Sheelen and Alberts, last night, Patsy Reville and Sam Felver jumped into second place in McLaughlin's bowling tourney. They passed over Judge Runyon and Chief Kiely, who have ten wins and five defeats and who are looked upon as the most aggressive team toward the leaders, Dilks and Gaddis. Reville and Felver bowled in steady fashion, last night, and the only poor score they turned in was a 144 made by Felver. Reville went over the 200 mark twice.

Mullen and Conklin, the "pony" team, were again in the field last night and took two from Leland and Thompson. "Willie" Mullen was off-color but was held up by Conklin, who did some pretty shooting and had an average of 171 1-3. It was Thompson's first appearance as a tourney man, having taken Dodge's place with Leland, and his scores looked as if he had stage fright.

The last series for the night was played between Willett tand Britton and Woolston and Cunningham. The "candy kids" might have taken all three but for Willett getting scared in the first game and ending up with 133. Woolston and Cunningham won out but lost the next two. Patsy Reville's score of 235 was high water mark for the night.

DIAMOND DUST.

Instead of permanently blacklisting contract jumpers who deserted the major leagues for the Tri-State, the National Commission has dealt with these players in a novel and effective way. They have been sentenced to play with the former outlaw organization for life. This means that when the Tri-State League clubs get tired of paying fancy salaries, the contract jumpers will be compelled to accept whatever the clubs decide to pay them. If they kick over the traces the only course left to them is to get out of baseball. This predicament, in which many former high salaried stars now find themselves, should be a warning to other players who might think some time of violating their signed agreements. The present situation is but a repetition of baseball history.

When the brotherhood was organized by National League players in 1889 for the purpose of securing increased salaries from a new set of employers who formed the Players' League the following year, it looked for a time as if the old magnates were up against it. But when the new magnates saw the handwriting on the wall after a disastrous season financially, a consolidation of interests was effected which resulted in a drop in players' salaries to a rock bottom basis in 1891.

It was the same thing over again when the American League was launched. Ball players made their own terms for a while and some of them actually secured salaries ranging from $5,000 to $10,000 for a season. But the peace agreement between the two big leagues ended those days of luxury and salaries in most cases took a drop.

FOOTBALL.

Should the delegates to the United States Golf Association annual meeting, on Friday, January 18, remain over Saturday they will be entertained at luncheon in the South Shore Country Club and at dinner in the Chicago A. A. W. C. Thorne, Silas H. Straun and Edward F. Cary have been appointed to arrange for the entertainment on Saturday. Besides applications from the Calumet and Homewood clubs for associate membership the executive committee will have to act on the application of the Glen Echo Country Club, of St. Louis, for reinstatement on the associate list. Counting the two clubs at Pittsburg as Western, the West will have thirteen associate clubs. The entertainment of the Eastern delegates will begin at the Chicago club on January 17.

St. Andrews, Scotland, has made application for the British women's golf championship of 1908. Two years ago the request of the women for the course met with a rejection, but the agitation stirred up by the hotel and storekeepers has forced a change of mind. The royal and ancient committee is still opposed to having the women use the famous course.

The annual meeting of the Glen Ridge Golf Club will be held next Tuesday night. At this time officers and an executive committee will be elected.

LOCAL FIGHT FANS SEE O'BRIEN-BURNS BATTLE.

Recent Hot Mill Shown By Pictures at the New Plainfield Theatre.

Plainfield fight fans had an opportunity last night of witnessing the moving pictures of the fight between Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Tommy Burns, which took place at Los Angeles, Cal., Thanksgiving eve. The pictures were shown at the New Plainfield theatre, and the entire twenty rounds of the combat were on view. The views were clear, showing the details of the combat in minute particulars to the spectators.

The decision of Referee Jim Jeffries calling the fight a draw was concurred in by most of the audience, but it was evident that O'Brien was the man who was doing most of the fighting during the last few rounds, and Burns was apparently slowing up. There was a wide difference in the style of the men. Burns, the more rugged of the two, was constantly boring in and following O'Brien continuously, while the foxy Quaker adopted the "hit-and-run" method. The affair was a lengthy series of clinches, O'Brien leading and clinching to avoid punishment, compelling Referee Jeffries to work continually to break them apart.

Most of O'Brien's work was done at long range, while Burns showed the advantage at infighting. During the clinches he kept pegging away at O'Brien's kidneys. The fifth round showed Burns bleeding and groggy. Here the latter's great ring generalship saved him from defeat, and by the time the eighth round rolled by he was all right again. From the tenth to the fifteenth round it was an even battle, and after that O'Brien seemed to have his man measured, and landed at will, but without damaging effect. The final round was the hottest of the mill.

P. H. S. DEFEATED.

Hasbrouck Rubs It In On the Local Five.

The Plainfield High School basketball team was defeated in Jersey City by Hasbrouck Institute, by the score of 47 to 22. Fouls were numerous on both sides and P. H. S. displayed a decided lack of team work. As expressed by one who is interested in the team, knows its material and what it is capable of, it needs most of all, practice, and unless the team does practice they stand in a good way to lose the city league championship. The game last night verifies this contention.

The local line-up: Line, Caldwell, Leggett, forwards; J. Gavett, center; Snyder, Bogardus, Morris, guards.

One of our missionaries, Mrs. Campbell, of St. Lawrence Islands, Alaska, had a sewing machine sent her from the States. When unpacked it was found that the shuttle spring was broken—a small but indispensable part. The revenue cutter "The Bear" had gone. A whole year had to elapse before the order for a new spring could be sent, and then the missionary must wait a year before the part could be brought to her. A useless machine for two years waiting for a twenty-five cent shuttle spring. That surely is isolation.—Crescent Avenue Church Messenger.

Chinese Use Grass As Food.

Shanghai, Jan. 12.—Captain Kirton, the foreign relief commissioner in the famine camp at Tsing-Kiang-Fu, describes the refuge camps as consisting of matsheds arranged in rectangular groups in street formation two miles long and a mile wide. In the other camps in the vicinity of Tsing-Kiang-Fu, of nearly half a million refuges thirty per cent. show signs of distress and among ten per cent. the suffering is acute. The roads are thronged with rice pedlers. Women tear up the roots of grass for food and are cooking leaves and twigs. The efforts of the officials are confined to attempts to persuade the people to return to their home. Some of them comply, but more arrive than depart. One hundred thousand men are absolutely idle. Though it would not be difficult to organize relief works none has yet been started. If the inaction continues there will be a gigantic problem to face. The end cannot be foreseen. The worst pinch has not yet been felt.

Tortured With Knives.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 12.—With sharp knives four robbers tortured Frank Baewari, of Willoughby, for an hour in the woods east of the city limits before daylight Friday. They wanted him to sign a check. Baewari, a brickyard employe, had drawn a check for his wages and was on his way home when he was attacked. One of the men struck him from behind with a sandbag. Then he was dragged unconscious into the woods and revived with water. "Sign here," the leader ordered Baewari, handing him a pencil and pointing to the check. Baewari refused. Then he was bound to a tree. They drew knives and began pricking him. Baewari still refused. After an hour Baewari says the men left him.

SMOTHERING LEGISLATION

Mr. Swackhamer Explains Why Committees Should Report Proposed Laws.

AN ABUSE OF POWER

Former Assemblyman Declares House Rule Permits Will of People to Be Frustrated.

One of the greatest abuses practised by the "machine" followers in the Legislature is to kill bills by keeping them in committee until they die a natural death. Time and again this has been done to the detriment of the people's interests, but at last, it is said; the rule permitting such rank injustice will be abolished. It is realiably reported that the Assembly will discuss a substitute rule at their session tonight. This proposed rule will make it mandatory on any committee to report any particular bill when twenty-five per cent. of the members of the Assembly desire it to be done.

Former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, who knows the ropes at Trenton and had some bitter experience by reason of failure of the committees to promptly report bills, discussed the subject this morning.

"I think the proposed rule would be of the highest value to the State as it would deprive corrupt political manipulators of one-third of their power by a single stroke," said Mr. Swackhamer. "Heretofore a committee of five members, ensconced under the panoply of so-called senatorial courtesy have been enabled to take the most perfect product of a legislator's brain, fill its eyes with the dust from the poppy of oblivion and reduce it into that sleep which knows no awakening. In that silent sepulchre there are legislative children not a span long. If the committee is pliant or corruptible, the powers that be will foreordain the fate of a bill at the instant of its introduction; and when the decree has once gone forth, though the pulpit may thunder and the press denounce, there is no power that can change it.

"If a bill is introduced in the interest of the people, which is obnoxious to a railroad corporation, it is immediately referred to the committee on railroads and canals; and if that committee is under the domination of the corporation it neglects to report the bill; and the sheer inertia of the committee smiles at the active forces directed against it.

"The people have elected sixty members to the general assembly to introduce, discuss and approve or reject legislative measures; but the five committeemen, indifferent and secure, practically dictate the laws. The chairman of such a committee has more power than the speaker of the House and many well exclaim in the language of Louis XIV., "I am the State.' It is apparent that it is easier for a political boss or ring to control five members than it is to control sixty; and such a dangerous power should be promptly removed."

Helping a Worthy Charity.

The Day Nursery has received $12 as the contribution of the First Baptist church Sunday-school to the charity work. It costs on an average $150 a month to maintain the nursery and the King's Daughters, under whose auspices it is conducted are obliged to depend on their own efforts and the help of their friends to continue it. The receipts from the care of the children will meet the milk and coal bill whichever it is decided to pay with the money.

She promised to move swiftly. Julia was banished from North Plainfield several years ago.

MT. ZION CONGREGATION BURNS CHURCH MORTGAGE

AUSPICIOUS EVENT OBSERVED WITH AN ALL-DAY PROGRAMME.

After thirteen years of effort, the Mount Zion A. M. E. church congregation recently succeeded in freeing its house of worship from debt and yesterday was observed as the day on which to burn the mortgage. Special services were held at intervals through the day that were attended by gatherings that filled the edifice to the doors.

In the morning at 10 o'clock, a love feast was conducted by Rev. H. C. Christmas, of Freehold, and at 11 o'clock he delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock there was a meeting of great interest and in which several preachers took part. Rev. A. V. Henry, of Bound Brook, who laid the corner stone of the church in 1894 and who acted as its first pastor, spoke from the text, "Let Mount Zion rejoice and the daughters of Zion be glad." Rev. Mr. Christmas sang, "Stranger, Cut the Rope," and Rev. John W. Cooper, of Rahway, gave a detailed history of the church and the members of the congregation who had worked so hard to place it on a solid foundation.

The day's programme was concluded at night by another interesting service led by Mr. Christmas, who delivered the sermon. Previous to his speaking, communion was observed and seventy-two persons received it. The event of the entire observance was the burning of the mortgage and this came when the sermon was concluded. The match was struck by Theodore Hooper, one of the founders of the church, who handed it to Mrs. Sarah Marsh, a deasoness and original member. She applied it to the mortgage and as the paper began to burn, the entire gathering waved handkerchiefs and sang "Free at Last." The offering for the day reached $85.86.

The church building is on West Fourth street and is a very comfortable and commodious structure. Since its organization, the congregation has grown steadily and it is now one of the most flourishing in the city. Edward B. Maynard, who has been one of its most tireless workers, was an interested spectator at yesterday's meetings, but did not take any part in the programme.

THIEVES AT THE 'PLAINS.

Robbed Joseph Perretta's Shop and Then Smashed the Fixtures.

Thieves broke into the barber shop of Joseph Perretta at Scotch Plains, early Saturday morning, and after taking all the cigars and tobacco at hand, demolished the fixtures. The cases were taken outside and smashed and green paint was daubed over the front doors and windows.

The b uilding is owned by John Cook and he has asked the aid of the township authorities in running down the gang. Peretta has been bothered in this way on several occasions and a number of young men in the village have been under suspicion. Citizens of the place who have interested themselves in the matter have demanded that steps be taken to afford Perretta and every other resident proper protection and it is possible the township committee will take some decided action.

J. DUNBAR WRIGHT CHARMS AUDIENCE

HIS STORY OF TRAVELS IN THE EAST FASTINATES A SOCIETY THRONG.

"From Egypt to Japan" was the subject of an intensely interesting illustrated lecture given at the Casino Saturday night for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital, by J. Dunbar Wright. The large auditorium was filled with society people who are interested in the hospital.

The views, all taken by Mr. Wright on his extensive trip, were among the best ever seen here, and a delightful part of the affair was the way in which he held the attention of everyone. In describing the trip from Egypt to Japan he did not omit anything of special importance. The views and the talk gave a comprehensive idea of the various countries, the life and customs of the peope. Mr. Wright visited all classes of people from the poorest to the best and he was especially well fitted to tell of the curious habits and customs of each.

It was not so much a lecture as a friendly personal talk. The uniformly kind reception he received in every land from all classes was undoubtedly due to his cheerfulness and friendliness with everyone he met, especially the children. Mr. Wright's pictures were nearly all perfect as photographs, but they were much more, they were works of art. Not snap shots of excursion tourists, but results of hours and even days of study, giving enough history and general information about the lands and cities he visited to make the lecture instructive as well as delightful.

UNIVERSITY SMOKER NOW AN ASSURED SUCCESS.

Thus Far 179 College Men Have Signified Their Intention of Attending the Affair.

It is now certain that the university smoker will be an assured success and will outshine in every particular last year's enthusiastic gathering. It is positively necessary, however, that every man who has not answered his invitation as yet, do so immediately. The smoker is only a little over a week off and if adequate provision is to be made for everyone it is imperative that the names of those college men who expect to be present be sent to Owen H. Fleming, 1012 Park avenue, at once.

Every day the attention of the committee is called to the names of college men who have not received invitations and also names of college men who have recently moved to Plainfield. The committee appreciates the efforts of its friends in co-operating with it in this way. The hour of the smoker has been changed from 9 to 8:30 o'clock in order that the speeches may begin promptly at 9 o'clock. This change is made at the request of several men and believes it will be generally approved of, and it is requested that everyone be present promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

The figures regarding attendance to date stand as follows: The committee has sent out 471 invitations and 179 men have signified their intention of being present; 118 men have sent regrets, principally on account of being out of town or previous engagements, making a total of 287 men who have answered invitations and 174 yet to be heard from. Hence, it is necessary that those who have not responded do so without delay. The different details of the smoker have all been worked out and it now remains for the college men of Plainfield to make "alma mater" night on January 24, the enthusiastic affair that now seems assured.

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS

Fifteen-year-Old Charles Jaeger Pinned Fast When Freights Buckled.

HAD ONLY JUST GOT ON

At Risk of His Life, Charles Arnold Pulled Him Clear As Pressure Was Relieved.

By an unmistakable preordination of fate, Charles Jaeger, a fifteen-year-old boy who lives with his widowed mother on Spooner avenue, met with severe injuries in a peculiar accident on the New Jersey Central shortly after 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon.

A long freight train was passing east near Liberty street when Jaeger and several companions noticed it and thought to have some fun by stealing a ride. They climbed up the embankment and Jaeger was the firs to catch hold of a car and swing to the step. He had barely reached the bunkers when the engineer of the train discovered a signal net against him and applied the air brakes with full force.

The sudden stoppage caused two of the cars in the middle of the string of forty-six to buckle and they happened to be the two the young Jaeger was between. Not another one in the entire train was affected in any way. The forward car of the two was driven into the other one so that it was smashed to pieces for nearly half its length and the wheels left the track. It was loaded with bags of cement and many of these were ripped open, sending up a cloud of dust.

Charles Arnold, the Liberty street butcher, was sitting at a rear window at his home over the store and was attracted by the crash. He looked out to see what caused it and as the cement cloud settled he saw Jaeger pinned between the wreckage, held fast by one arm and a leg but making frantic efforts to get loose. Arnold ran to the scene but it needed only a glance to show him that it was impossible to extricate the boy until the forward part of the train was pulled away. A brakeman was secured and after loosening the couplings, gave the engineer instructions as to how to proceed.

At the risk of personal injury, Arnold crept under the mass of broken timbers and cement bags and held the prisoner up until the cars ahead of him began to move. The minute the pressure was released from the boy's limbs he pulled him clear, just as a lot of debris tumbled down. There were timbers in it big enough to have crushed the heads of both.

While the work of rescue was going on, Walter Arnold, Mr. Arnold's son, had been busy with the telephone and had summoned physicians and the ambulance. Dr. Dundon was in waiting when Jaeger was gotten out and removed to Arnold's store. He was given temporary treatment and then removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a compound fracture of the right arm and a badly lacerated leg. It was thought at first that both might have to be amputated but after a close examination was conducted the physicians saw that they could be saved.

The boy remained conscious through the entire ordeal and when first taken out of the wreckage begged everyone about him to be sure and not let his mother know of his plight. He has been employed in the blue print room at the Potter Press Works and has been a great help to her in supporting the family. He was resting easily today and his chances of complete recovery are very good. The boy is a son of the late Albert Jaeger, who conducted a barber shop in the West End for many years.

The wreckage blocked both east bound tracks and traffic on them was held up for about two hours. The steam crane had to be called to get the demolished car out of the way.

Piano and Violin Recital.

The second in the series of violin and piano recitals will be given by Miss Beebe and Mons. Dethier Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Miss Hubbell, on Central avenue. BEQUEST FOR TRINITY MADE BY MRS. CRANE

SHE LEFT $500 TO CHURCH AND LIKE SUM TO MISSION BOARD.

By the terms of the will of Mrs. Sarah A. Crane, for many years a resident of this city, who died in Jersey City on December 3, 1906, Trinity Reformed church, of which she was a member, is one of the beneficiaries. A bequest of $500 is to that church. The sum of $500 is also bequeathed to the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed church in America. Mrs. Crane was quite wealthy and in drawing her will she made a great many bequests of this nature.

By another provision of the will Mrs. Crane bequeathed to Mrs. Josephine Crane, wife of Henry A. Crane, the house and lot on East Fourth street, formerly occupied by her. In a codicil she revoked the bequest, substituting the provision that Mrs. Josephine Crane have the use of the property during her life time and upon her death it is to revert to her three children, John, Mary and Alonzo Crane, for use during their life time.

The will was recently filed for probate in the office of Surrogate John T. Egan, in Jersey City, and John H. VanWinkle, Esq., of Duer street, the borough, and William J. Dodd, of Jersey City, are named as the executors.

Mrs. Crane was greatly interested in Trinity Reformed church during her residence here and maintained the same interest after moving to Jersey City. She was a faithfu attendant at the services.

MORE OPPOSITION TO MR. DRYDEN IN UNION.

Only Two Republican County Committeemen Said to Favor His Re-election.

At the meeting of the Republican city committee of Elizabeth in the party headquarters in the Dix building, Chairman James White called attention to the disaster that befell the party at the last election and urged the necessity of zealous effort in repairing he damage done in this county if victory was to be looked for in the future. His remarks started a discussion upon the United States Senatorial question in this State after the meeting.

A leading member of the "regular" Republican organization positively announced that he did not believe there were two members of the county committee who were in favor of Senator Dryden's re-election. No one questioned the accuracy of his statement, and as the members of the city committee are also members of the county committee the outlook, locally, is not cheering for Mr. Dryden. The general opinion expressed was that the re-election of Senator Dryden meant Republican defeat in Union county.

MAINE EPISCOPALIANS PRAY FOR FRENCH CATHOLICS.

Special Prayer Authorized by Rt. Rev. Robert Codman.

Portland, Me., Jan. 14.—Right Rev. Robert Codman, Episcopal bishop of Maine, has authorized the churches in his diocese to offer a special prayer in behalf of the Catholic church in France. The prayer is as follows:

O Heavenly Father, behold in mercy our sister, the Catholic Church in France, and if it be Thy will that she meet with persecution, poverty or humiliation, let it be for her good and for Thy glory. Grant that she may seek her victory, not in fame and glorious deeds; not in new wealth and luxury; not in the humiliation of her enemies, nor in the triumph of her ambitious, but in the power of the sacramental life in the priest and people, in the family and in the home. We ask this in the name of our common Lord and Bishop of our souls, to whom be all the glory. Amen.

DR. CADMAN ON THE PEACE OF RELIGION

SPEAKS ELOQUENTLY AT BIG Y. M. C. A THEATRE MEETING.

Weather conditions partly agreeable for the first time since the series began, the Y. M. C. A. had a good-sized crowd at its theatre meeting yesterday. Rev. Dr. S. Parks Cadman, of Brooklyn, spoke. The audience filled all the seats in the orchestra.

Dr. Cadman delivered a forceful talk on the peace born of religion. His eloquence was marked, and its effect made itself evident in the number of responses to his appeal for upraised hands, as a sign of a desire for intercessory prayer. His diction is simple, and his address that of a finisher pulpit orator.

Peace, Dr. Cadman said, was the greatest thing on earth. Love, with its ever-attendant suffering for the mortal heart, was not so great among the sons of men. It was the greatest thing in the universe, but for men on earth peace was the m ost precious thing. Peace was the quest of all men in all ages, and among all orders. Men sought peace with God, peace with themselves and peace with their fellow-men.

Christ gave the great and abiding peace, the speaker continued. Not only by His divine life but by His human practise. Christ was everywhere; in the factory, in the shops, the stores. But to win peace men must not seek for it for self alone. They can only come to peace in helping others. There was no peace in feeding the desires of self; only in ministering to other men; peace came from service.

Peace with God was the only true peace. Other peace there was none, but all others were part of that. Peace between capital and labor, between people and politicians, were trivial searches. When peace with God through righteousness of living obtained, all other forms of peace became facts.

In speaking of capital and labor, Dr. Cadman sharply rebuked the workingmen who sneered at church-going unless the sermons were of higher wages and shorter hours. Their concern should be of the higher purer things, through which and by which all other advancement was gained.

The meeting was opened by F. H. Andrews, for the Y. M. C. A. E. D. Cutting, sang, accompanied by Clifford A. Braider.

Mr. Owens Statement.

John P. Owens has made a statement concerning the accident he was in on Wednesday last, in which he was severely injured. Mr. Owens says that Mr. Love was engaged to drive him to Metcuhen in the afternoon as he himself not being accustomed to horses, would not attempt to drive, and after contracting his business there returned to Plainfield, through Park avenue, and as they reached the corner of Fifth street, Mr. Owens claims that his carriage was on the right side of the road, they turned out to pass a carriage ahead of them, at the same time Mr. Green's carriage attempted to pass one ahead of it, and the collisions was unavoidable. Mr. Owens says he was thrown out and a heavy wagon which was in the mix-up passed over his ankle. Not realizing the extent of his injury Mr. Owens says he got up and walked for a half a block, when he became so faint that he fell, and called to a man passing to call him a carriage in which he was removed to his home. When the doctors found how seriously he was injured he was removed to the hospital where an operation was performed.

PLAINFIELD UPHOLDS SENATOR ACKERMAN

Men of Prominence in Various Walks of Life Endorse His Position on the Senatorial Fight.

NO DRYDEN SENTIMENT

Clergymen, Lawyers, Bankers, Brokers and Merchants Show the Real Sentiment In Union.

In order to ascertain just what the average sentiment in Plainfield is regarding the candidacy of John F. Dryden for re-election to the United States Senate, a reporter for the Daily Press yesterday interviewed a number of citizens, chosen at random without regard to any possible factional affiliation. Only two declined to discuss the matter, and of those who consented to speak not one opposed the position taken by Mr. Ackerman not to be bound by a caucus action.

Those interviewed were E. T. Barrows, a member of the New York Produce Exchange; John B. Dumont, formerly a member of the New York Stock Exchange; Rev. Father Bogan, rector of St. Mary's church, the largest congregation in this city; William S. Tyler, a lawyer; Mayor Charles J. Fisk, a banker; Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, the largest Protestant congregation in Plainfield and the largest of that denomination in the State; R. Henry Depew, an insurance broker, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder and the leading man in the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination; Col. Mason W. Tyler, a prominent lawyer, and F. T. Woodhull, who, until he retired, was about the most prominent merchant in the city.

This is what they say:

J. B. Dumont—"I hope Senator Ackerman and his associates will succeed in making the Legislature elect somebody besides Dryden. Somebody free from corporation and unsavory influences; a man strong and level-headed. I believe that if Dryden is re-elected, the Republican party can make up its mind to wait some years for a renewal of its lease of power."

William S. Tyler—"I have recently written Mr. Ackerman congratulating him on his independent and courageous stand in refusing to surrender his own identity and the widely expressed will of the people of the whole State, to so silly an appeal to party gag-rule, as that which would seek to bind him beforehand to the result of a party caucus, when that result is already known and admitted to be cut-and-dried in advance, in exactly the way which the people have so overwhelmingly appealed to him and his colleagues to oppose.

"This is my view, and it is a pleasure to find our representative the chief strength of this right principle in the State Senate."

R. Henry Depew—"I heartily approve of the stand taken by Senator Ackerman and our assemblymen, and I earnestly hope they will continue the fight until a senator other than Mr. Dryden is elected. I think that the election of the county ticket should not be construed in any way as an endorsement of Senator Dryden's candidacy, as I believe there were hundreds who voted to ticket who are opposed to him. I think that the proper thing for him to do would be to withdraw, and to stop the efforts which are being made to force him back into the Senate against the wishes of, I believe, a majority of the people of New Jersey, and those who are working for him should join with those who are working to elect a Senator who would be considered as more fully representing the whole people."

E. T. Barrows—"I have been begging the Union county legislators from the start to take the firmest possible stand against Dryden. I want to see them hold out to the last; going so far, if necessary, as to bolt the caucus. They should make just the stand as the Plainfield delegates made at the county convention in 1903, which was followed by the election of the Democratic Assembly nominees."

Rev. Father Bogan—"I am not abreast of the subject, and really cannot say as to the merits of Senator Dryden, but I have an earnest conviction that whatever Senator Ackerman does is for the best inter-

The Kinsman Block Signal System, A Valuable Industrial Investment.

The Kinsman Block System Co. offers for sale 375 shares of its Preferred Stock, par value 100 per share.

The Company own all the patents of F. E. Kinsman for the control of steam and Electric Railway trains, including those under which the Automatic Stop in the New York Subway is licensed.

The extraordinary value of this stop is shown by the now more than two years perfect operation on the Express tracks of the New York Subway and on the Boston Elevated Railway, where there has never been a collision, or the loss of a dollar's worth of property by the failure of the device, and further by the admitted fact that it has practically doubled the safe capacity of the roads thus equipped. The prospective use of this system in the additional subways and tunnels now under construction or already authorized, to say nothing of its probable ultimate adoption on the elevated railroads in New York, Brooklyn and elsewhere, justifies the Company's claim that the stock of the Company is cheap at par. In addition to this the Kinsman Block System Co. own many valuable patents on practical apparatus for similar control of trains on the surface electric and steam railroads of the country, some of which they are now equipping.

The collision on the "Southern R. R." in which President Samuel Spencer and his associates lost their lives is evidence of the need of such an apparatus. The only difference between that collision and others which occur almost daily is the prominence of the individual victims. The Kinsman Block System Company's apparatus is to the engineer what the air brakes are to the brakeman with the difference that the engineer is a far more important factor to the traveling public than the brakeman. His failure to observe signals or tendency to misunderstand train orders results in destruction of life and property, on the other hand, with the brakeman delays or inconveniences are generally the most serious consequences following negligence. It is only by substituting mechanical precision for human falibility that security can ever be secured.

Engineers do and will continue to run past visual signals set at danger. "Surprise checking" and other disciplinary methods have been in use for many years but still the Inter-state commerce commission's annual reports continue to startle the public and alarm the traveler. The Kinsman Automatic Recorder also owned by the Company meets this difficulty by furnishing the Railroad Management with an irrefutable record of train operation while running over the road, by automatically registering the conditions of all signals each time a train passes, thus correcting the present inspection methods and causing increased diligence and closer obedience on the part of the engineer. Signals either visual, audible or telephonic in the engine cab are no improvement on outside visual signals, in fact they give an engineer or motorman an excuse for neglecting to observe the outside conditions affecting the progress of his train, such as obstructions on the track at grade crossings or elsewhere, or to see the flagman whose duty it is to signal an oncoming train with a red flag or lanterns. In short, the present automatic visual signals as used by many of the principal roads are about the limit of human ingenuity in signalling, the only remaining improvement is in the direction of automatic control now so well covered by the pioneer patents owned or controlled by this Company.

Authorized by Shakespeare.

Shakespeare has "sixt" for "sixth." Doubtless he so prouounced it, for he was credited with having written the three parts of "Henry the Sixt," and he certainly wrote "The Life of Henry the Fift," as the old edition has it. And it is worthy of notice that "fifta" and "siexta" are the Anglo-Saxon forms.—Professor Skeat in National Review.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Manager Counihan has secured a dramatic treat for Wednesday night, January 23, when Lawrence D'Orsay, the likeable English actor, will be presented by Charles Frohman at the New Plainfield in his most recent success, "The Embassy Ball." Mr. D'Orsay is one of the most popular light comedians of the day and two years ago remained in New York for an entire season in "The Earl of Pawtucket." The latter play, as well as "The Embassy Ball," were written by Augustus Thomas, author of "The Education of Mr. Pipp," "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," and others which have been seen in this city. The role of "Captain Harwarden-Kellie," which Mr. D'Orsay plays in "The Embassy Ball," is a delightful exaggeration of a certain type of Englishman with an extraordinary accent and drawl, who makes the most absurd blunders with a refreshing air of unconsciousness, has ludicrous lapses of memory as to names and places, and yet withal, is honest and brave, and is by no means such a fool as he appears to be on the surface.

Thomas F. Brown, known as "Whistling Tom Brown," died in St. John's Hospital in Yonkers on Wednesday, January 2, and was buried in Holyoke, Mass., last week. He early developed a decided talent for whistling, but had no intention of joining the theatrical profession until urged to do so by managers, who recognized the entertaining worth of his gift. He made his stage debut with the Byrne Brothers in "Eight Bells," and later appeared as the whistling waiter in Hoyt's "A Trip to Chinatown," and was with the company when it appeared in this city. During the past few years he toured the vaudeville houses in Europe and this country.

"The Girl Patsy," which had its premier in Plainfield last March, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, January 26, matinee and night. The pretty little comedy is from the pen of J. Mauldin Feigl, author of "Texas," "A Paris Model" and other popular plays. The critics of Plainfield pronounced the play a success when it was presented here, and how well this judgment was pronounced can be seen by the public patronage of the play. Since "The Girl Patsy" was seen in Plainfield, it has enjoyed a successful run at the Savoy theatre, New York. It is playing a return engagement in Philadelphia this week. It has played to thousands of people throughout the South, in Texas and back through the Western territory. Those who missed the performance last season can thank Manager Counihan for booking "The Girl Patsy" for a return date.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The New Plainfield theatre will have for its attraction tonight Lincoln J. Carter's sensational drama, "The Flaming Arrow." As the title would indicate, the play deals with events that occur on the Western Plains and the Rocky Mountains. It is not as bloodthirsty as the title would indicate, but is full of pathos, deep heart interest, adventure and side-splitting bursts of laughter which relieve the more serious plot of the story.

That John Philip Sousa has not lost his knack of writing stirring, martial tunes, as well as popular melodies; that Harry B. Smith's humor has not lessened since he wrote "Robin Hood;" and that there still remains a virtue in the older ideals of genuine comic opera; are three things, among others, that are said to be demonstrated thoroughly in the forthcoming presentation of "The Free Lance" at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. The principals of the cast are Joseph Cawthorn, Nella Bergen, Jeanette Lowrie, George Tallman, Albert Hart, George Schiller and Stanley Murphy. A chorus of 50 voices is used in the ensemble numbers. The cast is the original one intact which first presented "The Free Lance" at the New Amsterdam theatre, New York.

One play which can really boast as being the best of its kind is "The Volunteer Organist," which is to be produced at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. It is absorbing from the rise to the drop of the curtain and is certain to live longer than the clap-trap productions which have surfeited our theatres of late. It is pastoral in atmosphere, yet it tells a human, engrossing story. A cast of prominent actors are cast for this beautiful play, and the chief character, a Methodist minister, is well drawn and natural, and portrays the minister in an entire new and novel manner to the stage.

Billy S. Clifford in "A Jolly Baron," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday and Friday nights. While new to some of the theatre-goers Mr. Clifford is a comedian too well known to need any criticism on his ability, and the most appropriate appellation would be "A comedian in whom the audience is never disappointed." In his entire new version of "A Joly Baron" this season, he depicts the character of Tom Baron, Jr., the "Dude" son of a rich New York stock broker. It is a combination of drama, farce, vaudeville and musical comedy. Tuneful airs, ludicrous situations, elegant costumes and a beauty chorus of singing and dancing girls are among the features promised. In addition to all this Mr. Clifford will introduce his famous vaudeville specialty with new songs and dances.

Richard Carle's funniest piece, "The Mayor of Tokio," which will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, is said to have more tuneful, catchy music than any comic opera ever written. The company that Manager Joseph M. Gaites has organized for the exploitation of "The Mayor of Tokio" this season is one of the largest and most capable ever seen outside of New York, and is practically the same that made the long runs in Chicago and New York last year. The piece has been equipped with an entire new dress of scenery and costumes and the production in every way is said to be a delight to the eye as well as to the ear.

Stole Old Gravestones.

New York, Jan. 14.—Genoz De Sappio and Antonio Ferrell were held Friday in $500 bail in the Manhattan Avenue Court on a charge of stealing tombstones from a graveyard in rear of the Old Bushwick Reformed Dutch church, Conselyea and Humboldt streets. The graveyard is more than two hundred and fifty years old and contains the bodies of some of the first settlers of Williamsburg. The tomb of the Conselyea family has been entered several times and many gravestones have been taken. Word was sent to the Herbert street station Tuesday night that the Conselyea vault had been entered again and that two men were seen carrying a headstone away. Detectives traced the stone to a new building at No. 422 Humboldt street. It had been broken into several pieces and was to be used for building purposes. When arrested the men said that they did not know that they were doing wrong when they took the stone.

Flexible Stone.

The stone looked like a piece of dark gray granite. It was a foot long and several inches thick. Lifted, it bent this way and that, like rubber. "It is itaculumite or flexible sandstone," said the owner. "It is found in California, Georgia and several other States. Besides bending, it will stretch. Look at it closely and you will see that it is formed of a number of small pieces of stone of various tints all dovetailed together loosely, so as to allow of a slight movement. This movement is what causes the stone to bend. See how it bends! Like rubber precisely, eh? But if I bend it too far it will break."

Pliny Fisk Elected.

At the election in New York last week of officers for the Union League, Pliny Fisk was chosen one of the vice presidents.

UPHOLDS ACKERMAN

ests of the State."

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss—"I have not followed Senator Dryden's career and do not feel free to express any estimate of his worth. I have no hesitancy in saying, however, that Senator Ackerman and the assemblymen should be controlled by the voice of the people of this county."

Mason W. Tyler—"The stand made by Senator Ackerman and a few Republicans of similar views against the re-election of John F. Dryden to the United States Senate is deserving of encouragement from every thoughtful citizen. Senator Dryden is a discredited condidate. He failed to carry his own county at the last November election. Union county is overwhelmingly against him. He represents money bags, not brains or statesmanship. He is identified with the Public Service Corporation, with bad gas, with child insurance at extortionate rates.

"Why should a self-respecting citizen submit to the tyranny of the caucus in favor of such a candidate? The State of New Jersey and the dignity of the Senatorial office are entitled to some consideration."

Charles S. Sminck—"It is evident that the people are aroused, and that no one has a mortgage on the Senatorship. The vital thing to consider is the effect on the people of the election of a particular candidate. Patriotic legislators should aim to select a Senator who will be close to the people, unite the Republican party, create confidence and help to continue the prosperity of the country. I am opposed to Mr. Dryden's re-election."

Floyd T. Woodhull—"I uphold Senator Ackerman and the assemblymen in their stand. I am perfectly in sympathy with the position they take. I hope they will not be ousted from it."

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis—"While I am not making a special study of the situation, I have always taken the ground that a representative should not go into the Legislature bound by promises. I am in strong sympathy with Mr. Ackerman in his stand not to be bound by any party caucus, which is a degrading thing in politics, and by his expressed intention to follow his own conscience in this matter."

Charles J. Fisk—"We have sent good men to the Legislature and I have no doubt that they will do what they consider right to the best of their ability.

Death of Peter A. Runyon.

He was born at Stelton and for many years was an active and prominent member of the Stelton Baptist church, holding the positions of trustee and clerk. He was an exemplary Christian. He is survived by three children, N. D. Runyon, of Stelton; Mrs. D. D. L. Farson, of Philadelphia, and J. F. Runyon, of this city. DRYDEN IS WITHOUT SUPPORT IN ESSEX

IN NO EVENT WILL COLBY VOTE FOR HIM.

With the selection of a United States Senator to succeed John F. Dryden only a week off considerable interest attaches to the plans of State Senator Everett Colby, of Essex, who is leading the fight against Senator Dryden's re-election. When seen at his home in Llewellyn Park, West Orange, yesterday, Senator Colby would say but little.

"You have not changed your mind about voting against Senator Dryden's re-election?" Senator Colby was asked.

"No," was his quick reply.

"For whom will you vote?"

"I will probably vote for Judge Pitney."

"Should the Republican caucus decide upon Senator Dryden as the nominee against the Democratic candidate will you vote for the Senator?"

"No," Mr. Colby answered.

"Will you vote for the Democratic nominee?"

"I don't think I will vote for a Democrat. I will have my own candidate."

Senator Colby said there had been no formal meeting of the Republicans opposed to Senator Dryden. He said he had talked with Senator Ackerman and others, but no plan of action against Senator Dryden was made. His statement tht he would have a candidate before the joint meeting of the Senate and House means he will not vote for Senator Dryden in any circumstances. This will result in Senator Dryden being without a vote from his home county of Essex, as the Assembly contingent is Democratic.

Frank Briggs, chairman of the State Republican Committee, has been mentioned by Democrats at Trenton as having been talked about as a Republican possibility.

Held for Grand Jury.

Charged by a seventeen-year-old youth with an unprintable crime, George Cook, until recently in the grocery business on East Front street, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, sitting as a State magistrate, this morning. His accuser, Paul Richter, who is employed in a Front street hardware store, told a detailed story of the alleged offense that the defendant was unable to shake to the satisfaction of the magistrate, and Cook was held for the Grand Jury. He was released under $300 bail, giving a certified check for that amount. Bail was given at once. V. W. Nash, Jr., appeared for Cook.

QUIET STREAM OF ANTIETAM

Pretty Little Brook on Whose Banks Was Fought Most Terrific Battle in American Annals.

But for the most terrific battle in the annals of American wars a pretty little stream that flows through the heart of Maryland would be unknown beyond its immediate locality. Winding sluggishly down from the Pennsylvania hills, it bends romantically in its course, now past the ancient mill, under its quaint bridges, stone-arched, singing on its way through sun and shadow and, like Tennyson's brook, going on forever.

There is no more picturesque part of our country than that through which the Antietam flows. It skirts the most beautiful farms of Maryland, laves the rounded limbs of the kine while they drink, in the shadows of the trees that line its banks, and finally loses itself in the broad Potomac.

Time was, and not very long ago, when the farmers of the Antietam, fording its shallows, dreamed not of the great drama to be enacted there. No tourists from afar sought this entrancing region and the barefooted fisher-boy, also oblivious of its beauties, angled for eel with the patience of the renowned Izaak Walton.—From "Where the Antietam Flows," by Thomas C. Harbaugh, in Four-Track News.

HIS REMARK QUITE UNKIND

Caddy's Comment Failed to Give Satisfaction to Golfer Already Disconsolate.

Walter J. Travis, the golfer, set up his ball, and then made a half dozen swishes at the short grass with the driver.

"I am not in good form," he said. "I am playing like a broker we had here last week.

"This broker played once around, making a dreadful exhibition of himself. Of this, though, he was not aware. He was doing pretty well for him.

"The man's caddy was an unusually quiet, stolid lad, a boy with a freckled face quite devoid of expression.

"And since the caddy never once laughed or sneered at his bad play the broker took a fancy to him. And he said at the end of the round, in the hope of getting a compliment:

"'I have been traveling for the last six months. I am quite out of practice. That is why I am in such bad form to-day.'

"The caddy replied calmly:

"'Then ye've played before, have ye, sir?'"

Kindling Wood as Diet.

John Maginn, a well-educated Londoner, has gone Americans one better. Among our list of raw foods and health foods are messes that closely resemble excelsior in taste and food value, but it was left to the above-named crank to discover that wood, ordinary kindling wood, is an excellent food and medicine. Maginn chews bits of wood as any ordinary sane being would chew a delicious bit of tenderloin, and he hypnotizes himself into believing that it is superior to the best brown bread in flavor.

Unfortunately, the doctors stopped the fool, as it was evident that he was slowly committing suicide. It would have been better if he had been allowed to go on, so that his ultimate death might serve as a warning.—Health.

The Scientific Method.

"George Bernard Shaw," said an editor, "likes to poke fun at scientists. He ridicules the high regard in which scientists are held. He says if a clergyman dares to make a startling assertion, he is disbelieved and reviled, whereas the rashest, the most unfounded claims of scientists are accepted reverently by the world as so much gospel. Mr. Shaw once declared to me that the utility of scientists was overrated. He said that was a typical scientist to whom a young man took a superb cigarette holder of clouded amber. 'Some one claims,' said the young man, 'that this amber is imitation, sir. Will you tell me how I may prove conclusively its genuineness?' 'Just soak it,' said the scientist, 'for 24 hours in alcohol. If it is genuine, it will disappear.'"

The Goose That Lays the Pay Check.

The railroad men of this country are good and patriotic citizens; they are representative members of the communities in which they reside; they stand for a class of workingmen who generally think before they act, who weigh both sides of a question before deciding. They are as anxious to cleanse corporate life from graft and favoritism as the most radical modern reformer, but they will resent, and that most strenuously, any course of policy outlined by those who have the destinies of the nation in hand that will tend to "kill the goose that lays the pay check."—Railroad Employee.

Just Possible.

Clara—Why, he says he loves me, yet he has only known me two days.

Maude—Well, perhaps that's the reason.

One Great Advantage.

"Of what benefit to society will the discovery of the north pole be?"

"Well," answered the scientist, "for one thing, it may put a stop to the loss of life and property among the explorers who want to be the first there."

Mrs. Eddy's Reply to January McClure Article

Concord, N. H., Jan. 5, 1907.

The January issue of McClure's Magazine, which undertakes to publish the history of the early life of the Reverend Mary Baker Eddy, Leader of the Christian Scientists, and her family, has been brought to the attention of Mrs. Eddy. She has taken the pains to correct the matter, and has sent out the following statement over her own signature:

It is calumny on Christian Science to say that man is aroused to thought or action only by ease, pleasure, or recompense. Something higher, nobler, more imperative, impels the impulses of Soul.

It becomes my duty to be just to the departed and to tread not ruthlessly on their ashes. The attack on me and my late father and his family in McClure's Magazine, January, 1907, compels me as a dutiful child and the Leader of Christian Science, to speak.

McClure's Magazine refers to my father's "tall, gaunt frame," and pictures the "old man tramping doggedly along the highway regularly beating the ground with a huge walking stick."

My father's person was erect and robust. He never used a walking stick. To illustrate: One time when my father was visiting Governor Pierce, President Franklin Pierce's father, the Governor handed my father a gold-headed walking stick as they were about to start for church. My father thanked the Governor, but declined to accept the stick, saying, "I never use a cane."

Although McClure's Magazine attributes to my father language unseemly, his household law, constantly enforced, was no profanity and no slang phrases. McClure's Magazine also declares that the Bible was the only book in his house. On the contrary, my father was a great reader.

The man, whom McClure's Magazine characterizes as "ignorant, dominating, passionate, fearless," was uniformly dignified—a well-informed, intellectual man, cultivated in mind and manners. He was called upon to do much business for his town, making out deeds, settling quarrels, and even acting as counsel in a law-suit involving a question of pauperism between the towns of Loudon and Bow, N. H. Franklin Pierce, afterward President of the United States, was the counsel for Loudon and Mark Baker for Bow. Both entered their pleas, and my father won the suit. After it was decided, Mr. Pierce bowed to my father and congratulated him. For several years, father was chaplain of the New Hampshire State Militia, and as I recollect it, he was Justice of the Peace at one time. My father was a strong believer in State's Rights, but slavery he regarded as a great sin.

Mark Baker was the youngest of his father's family, and inherited his father's real estate, an extensive farm situated in Bow and Concord, N. H. It is on record that Mark Baker's father paid the largest tax in the colony.

McClure's Magazine says, describing the Baker homestead at Bow: "The house itself was a small, square box structure of rudimentary architecture." My father's house had a sloping roof after the prevailing style of architecture at that date.

McClure's Magazine states: "Alone of the Bakers, he (Albert) received a liberal education. Mary Baker passed her first fifteen years at the ancestral home at Bow. It was a lonely and unstimulating existence. The church supplied the only social diversion, the district school practically all the intellectual life."

Let us see what were the fruits of this "lonely and unstimulating existence." All my father's daughters were given an academic education, sufficiently advanced so that they all taught school acceptably at various time and places.

My brother Albert was a distinguished lawyer. In addition to my academic training, I was privately tutored by him. He was a member of the New Hampshire Legislature, and was nominated for Congress, but died before the election.

McClure's Magazine calls my youngest brother, George Sullivan Baker, "a workman in a Tilton woolen mill." As a matter of fact, he was joint partner with Alexander Tilton, and together they owned a large manufacturing establishment in Tilton, N. H. His military title of Colonel came from appointment on the staff of the Governor of New Hampshire.

My oldest brother, Samuel D. Baker, carried on a large business in Boston, Mass.

Regarding the allegation by McClure's Magazine that all the family, "excepting Albert, died of cancer," I will say that there was never a death in my father's family reported by physician or post mortem examination as caused by cancer.

McClure's Magazine says that "the quarrels between Mary, a child ten years old, and her father, a gray-haired man of fifty, frequently set the house in an uproar," and adds that these "fits" were diagnosed by Dr. Ladd as "hysteria mingled with bad temper."

My mother often presented my disposition as exemplary for her other children to imitate, saying, "When did you ever see Mary angry?"

When the first edition of Science and Health was published, Dr. Ladd said to Alexander Tilton: "Read it, for it will do you good. It does not surprise me, it so resembles the author."

I will relate the following incident which occurred later in life, as illustrative of my disposition:

While I was living with Dr. Patterson at his country home in Rumney, N. H., a girl, totally blind, knocked at the door and was admitted. She begged to be allowed to remain with me, and my tenderness and sympathy were such that I could not refuse her. Shortly after, however, my good housekeeper said to me:

"If this blind girl stays with you, I shall have to leave; she troubles me so much." It was not in my heart to turn the blind girl out, and so I lost by housekeeper.

My reply to the statement that the clerk's book shows that I joined the Tilton Congregational church at the age of seventeen is that my religious experience seemed to culminate at twelve years of age. Hence a mistake may have occurred as to the exact date of my first church membership. The facts regarding the McNeil coat-of-arms are as follows:

Fannie McNeil, President Pierce's niece, afterward Mrs. Judge Potter, presented to me my coat-of-arms, saying that it was taken in connection with her own family coat-of-arms. I never doubted the veracity of her gift. I have another coat-of-arms, which is of my mother's ancestry. When I was last in Washington, D. C., Mrs. Judge Potter and myself knelt in silent prayer on the mound of her late father, General John McNeil, the hero of Lundy Lane.

Notwithstanding that McClure's Magazine says, "Mary Baker completed her education when she finished Smith's grammar and reached long division in arithmetic," I was called by the Rev. R. S. Rust, D. D., Principal of the Methodist Conference Seminary at Sanbornton Bridge, to supply the place of his leading teacher during her temporary absence.

Regarding my first marriage and the tragic death of my husband, McClure's Magazine says: "He (George Washington Glover) took his bride at Wilmington, South Carolina, and in June, 1844, six months after his marriage, he died of yellow fever. He left his young bride in a miserable plight. She was far from home and entirely without money or friends. Glover, however, was a Free Mason, and thus received a decent burial. The Masons also paid Mrs. Glover's fare to New York city, where she was met and taken to her father's home by her brother George.  Her position was an embarrassing one. She was a grown woman, with a child, but entirely without means of support.  Mrs. Glover made only one effort at self-support. For a brief season she taught school."

My first husband, Major George W. Glover, resided in Charleston, South Carolina. While on a business trip to Wilmington, North Carolina, he was suddenly seized with yellow fever and died in about nine days. I was with him on this trip. He took with him the usual amount of money he would need on such an excursion. At his decease, I was surrounded by friends, and their provisions in my behalf were most tender. The Governor of the State and his staff, with a long procession, followed the remains of my beloved one to the cemetery.

The Free Masons selected my escort, who took me to my father's home in Tilton, N. H. My salary for writing gave me ample support. I did open an infant school, but it was simply for the purpose of starting that educational system in New Hampshire. The rhyme attributed to me by McClure's Magazine is not mine, but is, I understand, a paraphrase of a silly song of years ago. Correctly quoted it is as follows, so I have been told:

Go to Jane Glover,
Tell her I love her;
By the light of the moon
I will go to her.

The various stories told by McClure's Magazine about my father spreading the road in front of his house with tan-bark and straw, and about persons being hired to rock and swing me, I am ignorant of. Nor do I remember any such stuff as Dr. Patterson driving into Franklin, N. H., with a couch or cradle for me in his wagon. I only know that my father and mother did everything they could think of to help me when I was ill.

I was never "given to long and lonely wanderings, especially at night," as stated by McClure's Magazine. I was always accompanied by some responsible individual when I took an evening walk, but I seldom took one. I have always consistently declared that I was not a medium for spirits. I never was especially interested in the Shakers, never "dabbled in mesmerism," never was "an amateur clairvoyant," nor did the "superstitious country folk frequently seek my advice." I never went into a trance nor described scenes far away, as McClure's Magazine says.

My oldest sister dearly loved me, but I wounded her pride when I adopted Christian Science, and to a Baker that was a sorry offence.

McClure's Magazine calls Dr. Daniel Patterson, my second husband, "an itinerant dentist." It says that after my marriage we "lived for a short time at Tilton, then moved to Franklin.  During the following nine years the Pattersons led a roving existence. The doctor practiced in several towns, from Tilton to North Groton and Rumney."

When I was married to him, Dr. Daniel Patterson was located in Franklin, N. H. He had the degree D. D. S., was a popular man, and considered a rarely skilful dentist. He bought a place in Rumney, which he fancied, for a summer resort. At that time he owned a house in Franklin, N. H. Although as McClure's Magazine claims, the court record may state that my divorce from Dr. Patterson was granted on the ground of desertion, the cause nevertheless was adultery. Individuals are here today who were present in court when the decision was given by the judge and who know the following facts. After the evidence had been submitted that a husband was about to have Dr. Patterson arrested for eloping with his wife, the court instructed the clerk to record the divorce in my favor.

When prevented Dr. Patterson's arrest was a letter from me to this selfsame husband, imploring him not to do it. When this husband recovered his wife, he kept her a prisoner in her home, and I was also the means of reconciling the couple. A Christian Scientist has told me that with tears of gratitude the wife of this husband related these facts to her just as I have stated them. I lived with Dr. Patterson peaceably, and he was kind to me up to the time of the divorce.

The following affidavit by R. D. Rounsevel, of Littleton, N. H., proprietor of the White Mountain House, Fabyans, N. H., the original of which is in my possession, is of interest in this connection:

"About the year 1874, Dr. Patterson, a dentist, boarded with me in Littleton, New Hampshire. During his stay, at different times I had conversation with him about his wife, from whom he was separated. He spoke of her being a pure and Christian woman, and the cause of the separation being wholly on his part, that if he had done as he ought he might have had as pleasant and happy a home as one could wish for.

"At that time I had no knowledge of who his wife was. Later on I learned that Mary Baker G. Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, was the above mentioned woman.

"(Signed) R. D. Rounsevel.
"Grafton S. S., January 18th, 1902."

"Then personally appeared R. D. Rounsevel and made oath that the within statement by him signed is true.

"Before me,
"H. M. WOOD,
"Justice of the Peace."

I was obliged to be parted from my son, because after my father's second marriage my little boy was not welcome in my father's house. Who or what is the McClure "history" so-called presenting? It is myself, the veritable Mrs. Eddy, whom the New York World declared dying of cancer, or is it her alleged double or dummy heretofore described?

If indeed it be I, allow me to thank the enterprising historians for the testimony they have thereby given of which they admit has snatched me from the cradle and the grave, and made me the beloved Leader of millions of the men and women in our own and in other countries,—and all this because the truth I have promulgated has separated the tares from the wheat, uniting in one body those who love Truth; because Truth divides between sect and Science and renews the heavenward impulse; because I still hear the harvest song of the Redeemer awakening the nations, causing man to love his enemies; because "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake."

Mary Baker G. Eddy.

THE LIONS OF THE LORD

A TALE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, AUTHOR OF THE SPENDERS

COPYRIGHT 1903 BY LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY

Follett looked interested and cordial, but her father failed to display the enthusiasm she had expected, and seemed even a little embarrassed.

"You mean well, daughter, but don't be discouraged if he is slow to take our truth. Perhaps he has a kind of his own as good as ours. A woman I knew once said to me: 'Going to heaven is like going to mill; if your wheat is good the miller will never ask how you came.'"

"But, father, suppose you get to mill and have only chaff?"

"That is the same answer I made, dear. I wish I hadn't."

Later, when Prudence had gone, the two men made their beds by the fire in the big room. Follett was awakened twice by the other putting wood on the fire; and twice more by his pitiful pleading with something at his back not to come in front of him.

CHAPTER XXXI.

The Gentile Issues an Ultimatum.

June went; July came and went. It was a hot summer below, where the valley widens to let in Amalon; but up in the little-sunned aisle of Box canyon it was always cool. There the pines are straight and reach their heads far into the sky, each a many-wired harp to the winds that come down from the high divide. Their music is never still; now a low, ominous rush, soft but mighty, swelling as it nears, the rush of a winged host, rising swiftly to one fearsome crescendo until the listener cowers instinctively as if under the tread of many feet; then dying away to mutter threats in the distance, and to come again more fiercely; or, it may be, to come with a gentler sweep, as if pacified, even yearning, for the moment. Or, again, the same wind will play quieter airs through the green boughs, a chamber-music of silken rustlings, of feathered fans just stirring, of whisperings, and the sighs of a woman.

It is cool beneath these pines, and pleasant on the couches of brown needles that have fallen through all the years. Here, in the softened light, amid the resinous pungence of the cones and the green boughs, where the wind above played an endless, solemn accompaniment to the careless song of the stream below, the maiden Saint tried to save into the Kingdom a youthful Gentile of whom she discovered almost daily some fresh reason why he should not be lost. The reasons had become so many that they never been able to get clearly into his mind the nature and precise office of the Holy Ghost; nor had he ever become certain how he could bring this wonderful young woman in closer relationship with himself. He felt that to put out his hand toward her—except at certain great moments when he could help her oyer rough places and feel her golden weight upon his arm—would be to startle her, and then all at once he would awaken from a dream to find her gone. He thought he would feel very badly then, for probably he would never be able to get back into the same dream again. So he was cautious, resolving to make the thing last until it came true of itself.

Once when they followed the stream down, in the late afternoon, he had mused himself so full of the wonder of her that he almost forgot his caution in an amiable impulse to let her share in his feelings.

"You know," he began, "you're like as if I had been trying to think of a word I wanted to say—some fine, big word, a fancy one—but I couldn't think of it. You know how you can't think of the one you want sometimes, only nothing else will do in place of it, and then all at once, when you quit trying to think, it flashes over you. You're like that. I never could think of you, but I just had to because I couldn't get along without it, and then when I didn't expect it you just happened along—the word came along and said itself."

Without speaking she had run ahead to pick the white and blue columbines and pink roses. And he, alarmed at his boldness, fearing she would now be afraid of him, went forward with the deep purpose of showing her a light, careless mood, to convince her that he had meant nothing much.

"Say! What a Mouthful You'd Make, Pink Dress and All. He'd Have You Swallowed in a Second."

were now heavy upon her. And yet, while the youth submitted meekly to her ministry, appearing even to crave it, he was undeniably either dense or stubborn—in either case of defective spirituality.

She was grieved by the number of times he fell asleep when she read from the Book of Mormon. The times were many because, though she knew it not, he had come to be, in effect, a night-nurse to the little bent man below, who was now living out his days in quiet desperation, and his nights in a fear of something behind him. Some nights Follett would have unbroken rest; but oftener he was awakened by the other's grip on his arm. Then he would get up, put fresh logs on the fire or light a candle and talk with the haunted man until he became quiet again.

He knew a few things definitely: that Moroni, last of the Nephites, had hidden up unto the Lord the golden plates in the hill of Cumorah; and that the girl who taught him was in some mysterious way the embodiment of all the wonderful things he had ever thought he wanted, of all the strange beauties he had crudely pictured in lonely days along the trail. Here was something he had supposed could come true only in a different world, the kind of world there was in the first book he had ever read, where there had seemed to be no one but good fairies and children that were uncommonly deserving. Yet he had

Y. M. C. A. FIVE LEFT THE FLOOR AT RAHWAY

RAHWEGIANS SAID TO HAVE DONE THINGS THEY SHOULDN'T HAVE DONE.

Indignant over unsportsmanlike behavior on the part of the home team and convinced that to continue the contest would only lead to greater unpleasantness, Physical Director G. L. Listman called the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. basketball team from the floor of the Rahway Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday night, in the early part of the second half of the league game. The action followed a series of disputes and clashes that began almost with the first play.

The largest share of blame for the trouble is laid by the Plainfield players on Orr, captain of the Rahway five, and Mr. Listman says they are right. Richard Hess, physical director of Rahway, who was an official at the game, appears to have seconded Orr in his questionable tactics.

Rahway started to slug early in the game, and Orr was the chief offender. Mr. Listman, who umpied in the first half, called a foul on him, and he protested. Against the rules of the game and the league, he argued with Mr. Listman, and another foul was called on him. He kept on arguing, and it was not until another foul was called that he decided to go on. Rahway is said to have thrown all the courtesies of the game aside after that. Orr slugged savagely, and was warned by Mr. Listman. He put Loizeaux out of the game for a few minutes, but that did not deter him from slugging Schoonmaker also a short time afterwards. Mr. Listman instructed his players to make no attempt at reprisals, and the Plainfielders followed orders.

In the second half, Orr introduced a new defiance of the rules in his campaign. He kept shifting from center to forward, regardless of regulations, in order to confuse the Plainfielders. About four minutes after play was resumed, he slugged Schoonmaker again. Mr. Listman, referee in that half and supreme authority, decided that warnings enough had been given. He ordered Orr out of the game. There was a haul from Rahway that cracked the roof. Mr. Hess, who was umpire in that half and really had nothing to do with governing the contest, declared that if Orr went out Schoonmaker would go too. Mr. Listman couldn't see it. Schoonmaker had held Orr's hands down while Orr slugged, and made no effort to return the jolt. When Mr. Hess made his extraordinary demand, Mr. Listman decided that friendly feelings and the spirit of the game would not be helped by a continuance of the contest. He told his men quietly to withdraw.

A protest against the game, which now stands forfeited to Rahway, was mailed to the league protest committee this morning. The Plainfield five is confident the committee will award the game to them.

Plainfield lined up as follows in the game: Gilmore, Loizeaux, forwards; Collier, center; Schoonmaker, Jacot, guardsmen. The score was 15 to 13 in Rahway's favor at the end of the first half; no points were scored after that. Most of the scoring was done on fouls.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

Owing to the fall of snow and rain on Saturday, the game between Brooklyn and Plainfield was postponed. Both teams were in fine form and a great game would have been seen with dry weather. Next Saturday, Plainfield will have the New Jersey Military Academy for its opponents. The soldiers have a strong team and a great game is looked for.

A meeting of the Plainfield Athletic Football Club will be held Wednesday, at the temporary headquarters, Clinton avenue and West Front street. Business of great importance is on the tapis. All members are requested to attend.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a mock trial at its meeting tonight. G. W. V. Moy will act as judge, and Lawyers W. S. Angleman and H. C. Runyon will be the opposing lawyers. The case to be tried has not yet been determined upon yet.

Housing Stock in Winter.

Horses that are roughing it in winter can take care of themselves if they have a shed to go in when they desire shelter. The work horse should be provided a warm barn or else blanketed. A sweaty horse will not remain sound if put in a cold barn without blanketing.

Poultry, like sheep, can stand a great deal of cold if it is only dry cold. Hens that are given plenty of exercise in a sunny scratching shed that may be entirely open on good days and curtained with cloth on stormy days will be healthy and lay in the coldest weather if fed properly.

The keynote of shelter for stock is a dry place with plenty of sunshine. Give all the liberty possible, and they will seek shelter when they feel the need of it.—Successful Farming.

Later Particulars.

Delilah had cut off Samson's long hair.

"Its a trifle coarse," she said, "but I can use it for a switch."

When it was too late, however, she reflected that she could have utilized Sampson to much better advantage by exhibiting him in a State street shop window as an advertisement of a hair tonic.—Chicago Tribune.

Anti-Race Betting Law.

New York, Jan. 14.—With bills by which he hopes to obtain an amendment of the so-called Percy-Gray law, which leagalizes the making of wagers on horse races at tracks, although in all other places this is a felony, District Attorney Jerome will go today from his country home, in Lakeville, Conn., to Albany to attend the evening session of the Legislature. He is aware he has taken on himself the hardest fight of his career, and he has not decided whom he will ask to introduce these bills and others in the Senate and Assembly. When the bills are referred to the proper committee he will ask a hearing, so he may give his reasons for proposing the changes which he advocates.

Slow Eater Dies at 104.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 14.—After living 104 years, working hard, eating and drinking heartily for more than four score years, John Joseph Kelly died here yesterday at the home of his daughter ,Mrs. D. H. Driscoll. He gave up active work at ninety-seven, his eyesight failing. Mr. Kelley liked whiskey, but drank it only after meals. He never gulped down his food, eating three times a day and spending an hour at each meal. This custom he learned from relatives who lived to ripe old age, his grandmother and an aunt dying at 104 like himself and his wife living to be ninety-nine.

First Stenographer Dead.

He learned stenography in England personally from Isaac Pitman, and was the first stenographer of the United States Senate. His protege, Murphy, formerly his office boy, became the fatest stenographer in the world.

Two Still Alarms.

An oil stove in the apartments of Mrs. Ball in the Sebring building, North avenue, flared up Saturday afternoon and threatened trouble. Fire headquarters was notified and some apparatus was hurried around to take care of it. The danger was over when the men arrived. The department went out on a still alarm yesterday afternoon for a chimney blaze at the home of C. A. Merwin, East Sixth street. It was a bad one of its kind.

Lively Times at Park Club.

The informal dance at the Park Club Saturday was largely attended as usual and greatly enjoyed by the members of the club and their friends. While many devoted to the evening to dancing there was a large number who spent the time on the bowling alleys, playing pool and billiards and in a social way. The club was exceedingly lively and thronged with the men and their families throughout the whole evening.

HORSES STAMPEDE AT SEA.

Million-Dollar Herd Raises a Ruction Coming from Europe.

If any vessel ever arrived at Hoboken with a more remarkable series of adventures than those accredited to the St. Andrew, after that sober plodder of the Phoenix line had reached her Hoboken pier, residents of Hoboken want to know. And such of the marine reporters as come from Missouri want to be shown.

The St. Andrew brought to port an important shipment of horses consigned to western stock farms. There is no doubt as to that. The horses were there, many of them, and many, too, heard of the value of the shipment—$1,000,000 in all, was it? Amid the thunder of waves this herd was stampeded, and a reckless, daring cowboy crew roped and flung the terrified Percherons and brought them back to their stalls. This, runs the account, came about on the night of August 3. It was a terrifying struggle, and when the casualties were counted it was found that one deckhand had a sprained wrist.

It was just before this fearsome experience that there was enacted on shipboard the most amazing feat that has ever taken place since the days of Munchausen. This is a verbatim account:

"One of the officers of the St. Andrew, on a wager, climbed to the hind truck of the mainmast on July 30 and lowered the iron ball 150 feet to the deck, and then hoisted it again, set it in place and climbed down to the deck."

It would puzzle sailormen to tell what a "hind truck of a main mast" is, but there must be something of the kind. And there must also be sea serpents, for it was related on a typewriter that on August 3 Capt. Spici and Third Officer Cummings were on the bridge of the St. Andrew when they sighted one and saw about 16 or 18 feet of its head.

Neither the captain nor his third officer was on board when an investigator called, but another officer volunteered the information that spar buoys, when they go adrift, do sometimes look queer.

WEST POINT CADET A HERO.

Endures Two Months of Remarkable Suffering to Return to Academy.

West Point.—Cadet J. Walter Wilde, of Hazleton, has returned to West Point, which he never expected to enter again. He returns with the reputation of a hero, for he has proved that he has been able to bear the most excruciating suffering with fortitude, and all for love of the service of Uncle Sam.

Cadet Wilde was appointed in the spring of 1905 by President Roosevelt. Last fall while at home on a visit his horse fell, rolled on him and broke his leg. After it was set and healed it had shrunk several inches. The deformity prevented his reentering to the academy.

Broken hearted, he went to see eminent physicians. They told him there was only one way in which the leg could be restored to the normal length, and they did not believe it possible any man could stand the pain of the operation. It would last for weeks and weeks.

Wilde declared he would stand anything in order to get back to West

J. WALTER WILDE.
(West Point Cadet Who Went Through Tortures to Be a Soldier.)

Point, so last March he went to the Polyclinic hospital in Philadelphia. Dr. John B. Roberts rebroke the leg, put it in a plaster-of-paris cast, hoisted at right angles with the boy's recumbent body, and to it by means of pulleys was fastened 300 pounds. Wilde's body was strapped to the bed so that the weight would not lift him up.
